Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

This week's issue of The Times is only half as large as a normal issue, but it contains as much local news as normally. Reason for the cut down size is that most merchants were busy with inventory and were in no mood to be worrying about getting together material for an ad.

The Alfred Jurgemeyers just returned from a very enjoyable mid-winter trip. They left home on December 21st and returned on January 1st after having driven some 3800 miles. Their trip took them through much of the south, including the Ozarks, Louisiana, Vicksburg, Mississippi, and several days in Florida.

They visited Ringling Bros. headquarters at Sarasota, Daytonna Beach, and St Augustine, a historic city. They drove up the east coast for some distanct on their return trip, visited with relatives in Columbus, Indiana, and visited with a friend at Great Lakes Naval Training Station at Chicago.

Alfred says is was an enjoyable trip and that he liked Daytonna Beach the best of all the places in the south that they visited. Also says that he believes the best place for a farmer is right here in the neighborhood of good old Klemme.

Speaking of trips, our ex-devil, Merlyn Olson, who is stationed with the army in Germany, had quite a trip. He took a thirty day furlough and flew home for the holidays by commercial airlines.

The plane left Germany at 6:15 on a Sunday evening, made stops in Shannon, Ireland, Nova Scotia, Detroit, before completing its flight in Chicago. Merlyn hopped a train in Chicago and was in Ames at 10:00 p. m. Monday night. Just a little less than 28 hours.

Of course the difference in time between here and Germany means that his trip took only 21 hours. No wonder they say the world is getting smaller all the time.

Anyway, Merlyn got home for Christmas and does not have to start his return trip until the 12th of this monh. As soon as he made the rounds and seen all his friends, he was down here wanting to get ink on his fingers again, so he has been helping us out quite a bit the past couple of weeks. We'll miss him when he goes back to his duty station.

"Some people are so anxious to make a living that they've forgotten how to live!"

PONY TRIP

Farm Commodity Prices Increase One Percent

Prices received by Iowa farmers for farm products increased about one percent during the month ending December 15, based on the all commodity index, according to the Iowa Cooperative Crop Reporting Service. The mid-December index, at 225 per cent of the 1910-14 base average, may be compared with the mid-November index of 222 and with the December 15, 1955 index of 194 percent.

The livestock and livestock product index gained 4 points from November 15 to December 15, due to a 7 point increase in the meat animal index. The dairy product and poultry and egg indexes were 3 points and 1 point lower, respectively. The increase in the livestock and livestock product index was due to an advance of $2.30 per cwt in hog prices during the month. Beef cattle declined $1.90 and calves $1.00 per cwt in price during the month, while sheep and lambs each lost 20c per cwt. Wool prices moved up 3c per pound and chickens 0.6c per pound, while eggs lost 1c per dozen and butter fat 1c per pound.

At 220 percent of the base period, the crop index was one point lower than on November 15. Hay prices advanced $1.50 per ton and oats gained 3c per bushel. Price losses of 4c per bushel for wheat, 3c for rye, and 1c for corn were registered, while barley, soybeans, and flaxseed were unchanged in price during the month ending December 15.

Plans Going Ahead On School Addition

Although, there has been little publicity given to the actions of the school board and the citizens building committee during the past few weeks, they have none the less been busy. They have been talking over various ways in which their plans for a building addition could be made better and have been doing their utmost to expedite completion of details so that the matter of whether or not to build can be brought before the public in a special election.

They are to meet on Thursday night of this week with members of the architectural firm from Des Moines which is designing the addition and if everything the architects have done meets with their approval, then they will start the ball rolling for the special election.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

THE 1957 OUTLOOK

The U S Department of Agriculture makes three big predictions for 1957: (1) the Soil Bank program will be large and reasonably successful, (2) the high level of business activity will continue rising in 1957, and (3) the present world situation won't become worse during 1957.

Looking at matters a little closer to home, the USDA predicts that farm incomes will rise about five percent, but will be somewhat offset by small increases in marketing costs and in prices paid by farmers. If a modified soil bank program for corn is developed, of course, the outlook will not be as good for the corn farmer, according to Francis Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

Hog producers should make a little more in 1957, the USDA says. The 1956 spring pig crop was down eight percent from 1955, and hog slaughter declined during 1956. Slaughter should be quite a bit smaller than in 1956 during the first six to eight months of 1957, and maybe for the rest of the year. This indicates higher hog prices for 1957.

Cattle production continues much the same, and the USDA says slaughter numbers in 1957 will probably be much the same as in 1956. However, lighter weight cattle will reduce beef output, and prices may average a little higher. The average for the last half of 1957 will be below that of a year earlier, Kutish says, due to the large number of light cattle now held for the fall market.

Milk and dairy incomes are predicted to be a little higher in 1957 if price supports for the 1957-58 season are the same as in 1956. Price ratios are favorable, and the trend toward more milk per cow will probably continue. There is no significant rise expected in poultry and egg prices. Production of these commodities was high in 1956, and is expected to be at least as high again in 1957.

Wheat exports during 1957 will top the 400-million bushel mark by quite a bit. This is at least 70 million bushels more than we exported during 1956, and will reduce our wheat carry-over for the first time since 1952. If about 13 million wheat acres go into the Soil Bank, and average yields are realized, the carry-over could be further reduced during 1957-58. However, the corn carry-over will be increased during 1957 as a result of near-record production in 1956.

A sharp rise in cotton exports will reduce the carry-over of this product during the 1957 season. This will be the first such reduction since the outbreak of the Korean War. Cigaret and cigar manufacturers should produce more of their products during 1957, but they won't use any more tobacco, and tobacco exports are expected to be down somewhat from 1956.

Soybean production set a new record in 1956, but production of butter and lard was down causing the over-all production of food fats and oils to be about the same as in 1955. Fats and oils exports during 1957 should be close to the 1956 mark.

The over-all picture, says the USDA, shows higher cash receipts from livestock products, and somewhat lower receipts from crops during 1957. The drop in crop receipts will be offset to a great extent by Soil Bank payments, however.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

We here in America are among the more fortunate people in the World. We have the opportunity to obtain plenty of good warm clothing for ourselves, the shelves in our stores and markets abound with good things to eat at prices we can pay, we are free to do as we please, and not since the 1860's has there been any war on the soil of our country.

All these things we take pretty much for granted, and we hope that as future world events shape up, the situation here will remain at least as bright as it is now. In fact, we hope that future generations will have it even better than is our lot.

In the midst of all this plenty, the American people have always proved themselves to be unselfish and thoughtful of the needs of others who are less fortunate . . . and right now the people in this community have a chance to again be of service to people who are in dire need . . . and the beneficiaries will in the main be children.

We have all followed the story of the Hungarians, and we know that they are normally a freedom loving and gay people. But they have had the will of their Red masters imposed upon them until the oppression was so great that they rose in revolt. Although their efforts caused severe damage to the Red military and to the Red World cause, still their resources of material were not enough to win their fight and many thousands of them have had to flee their home land or be killed.

Thinking always of the children, which we here in America prize so dearly, the local unit of the American Legion Auxiliary is sponsoring a drive to obtain warm clothing for the children of those Hungarians who hove been forced to leave their belongings behind and flee to safety. The members of the Auxiliary know that you are all in sympathy with these refugees and know that you are all in favor of helping them, so they hope that you won't forget to bundle up the warm clothing that your children no longer need and take it to Marvin Lemke's garage this Saturday.

Warm adult clothing is acceptable, too, so thank the good Lord that you and yours live in this land of plenty, dig into those closets and trunks, take the clothing you can to Marvin Lemke's garage on Saturday, January 12th, and have the good feeling that goes with having been of help to fellow human beings.

Whoever it was that said, "If you don't like the weather in Iowa, just wait a minute", wasn't too far from the truth.

Sunday dawned a bright and beautiful day, so we decided to give the editorial jalopy a mid-winter workout and go for one of those rides where you have no particular destination in mind . . . just ride and enjoy seeing the different sights that unfold before your eyes as you cruise through the countryside.

Building Program Gets Under Way

Proposal Calls for Elementary Unit

Would Also Include Shop, Music Rooms

The Board of Education of the Klemme Community School District and its fifteen member building committee met January 3rd at the high school building.

Mr Harold Bullington, representing Karl Keffer Associates, presented to the group a perspective and floor plan of the proposed addition to the Klemme Community School.

The perspective or artists conception of the addition and the floor plan are shown in this issue of The Times.

Plans submitted by Mr Bullington were approved by the board and committee. They are subject to revisions, however, until the time that construction begins.

Plans now call for the erection of a complete elementary school of ten rooms and kindergarten plus facilities for vocational agriculture and music. The elementary school will contain a multi-purpose room with in-wall tables for the hot lunch program.

The size of the classrooms will be 30' by 30' and the kindergarten 30' by 40' Plans call for plastered walls, glazed tile wainscoting in corridors and multi-purpose room, terrazo floors in corridors and rest rooms, wood floor in multi-purpose room and asphalt tile floors in classrooms.

Alternate bids will be taken on some features with the final decision coming a the time that the contract is let.

The board and committee has set the bond issue figure at $375,000. It is estimated that the addition will cost $330,000. Repair to the present high school building will cost $25,000 and architects fees will be approximately $20,000.

In event that the bond issue is successful a special election will be necessary in order that the voters may approve spending $25,000 to repair the present high school building. This election would take place after the contract for the addition had been let, and would be necessary to fulfill certain requirements of the law.

The board and committee also decided that in the event that repair to the present high school is made that the present stucco and brick veneer will be completely replaced with four inch brick. It was felt that the thin brick veneer that had been considered earlier, would not be satisfactory. Petitions hav been circulated for a $375,00 bond issue and have been returned to Herman Schmidt, president of the board. President Schmidt has issued a call to all members of the board for a special meeting to set the date for the bond election. Date of the bond election will appear in next weeks issue of The Times.

Superintendent Shafer has informed The Times office that a descriptive brochure is being prepared and will be made available to every voter in the district. This brochure will describe the building program in detail including estimates as to what the program will cost individual taxpayers.

Bill Westberg's Mother Injured in Car Accident

Coach Bill Westberg's mother was seriously injured Sunday afternoon when her car left the road while enroute from Iowa City to her home at Boone. The car went down a steep embankment and hit a driveway. Mrs Westberg was thrown through the windshield and then struck by the car.

She was taken to the Marshalltown Hospital and then transferred to the hospital at Iowa City where her condition is serious.

Sheffield Too Much For Shamrocks in Second Meeting

When the Klemme Shamrocks went to Sheffield last Friday night they had hopes of coming home leading the North Star Conference, since the two teams were tied for first place. Each had three wins and no defeats and the Shamrmocks had downed the Clay Diggers earlier in the season in a non-conference game by one point.

However, Sheffield had some ideas of their own. They coupled their ideas with 52% shooting from the field and poured it in the Shamrocks by a score of 88-48. There was no doubt but what they were the superior team that night, with the 29 point effort of Crawford and the 25 points by Rawson leading the way.

Martin Brinkman banged home 29 points for the Shamrocks and Gordie Johnson got 13, but that was just about the exent of the Shamrock scoring, and it was no where near equaling the point explosion hit by the Clay Diggers.

The Shamrocks just weren't in it against such hot shooting. They trailed 21-8 at the end of the first period, 47-31 at the half, and 69-45 at the end of the third quarter. Their hopes for the conference lead went up the spout, but they are still in second place, tied with Franklin Cosolidated.

The Little Shamrocks came home on the short end, too. They lost a 42-34 decision to the Sheffield reserves after trailing 20-16 at the half. Huenemann and Bacon each banged in 10 points for the local reserves, but Webber's 23 for the opposition was high for the game.

Next action for the Shamrocks will be Friday night, January 11th, when they journey to Rockwell for another conference game.

Farm Income Dip Blamed on Costs

Improved farm prices can be expected in years ahead if farmers "continue to move away from dependence on government for determination of price in agriculture," Charles B Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said Monday night.

In an address to a Farm Bureau membership meeting at Garner, Shuman said one of the main causes of shrinking farm income and recurring surpluses has been "an oversupply of legislative attempts to solve economic troubles by political action."

He said 81 percent of the decline in net farm income during recent years was due to increased costs of farm operation, and that national legislation can do little to reduce these costs.

Sale of Rural School Buildings Brings $2,149

The seven rural school buildings which were recently advertised for bids by the Klemme Community School District brought a total of $2,149.50. In addition to the amount received from bidders for the buildings, additional money was obtained just prior to advertising for bids on the buildings, the district sold the bells from the schools to W H Nicholas of Mason City for $25 each.

Following are the successful bidders on the various buildings and the amounts which they paid:

Harold Fatka of Corwith bought Liberty No. 6 for $233 and Liberty No. 8 for $177. Liberty No. 7 went to W R Wagner of Mason City for $250. Liberty No. 9 brought $478.50 from Donald R Lange of Highland, Texas.

Avery No. 3 (Riverside) went to Quentin Stille for $351, Avery No. 4 to Henry Brede for $350 and Avery No. 5 (Center' to Marvin Dorenkamp of Meservey for $310.

● RANDOM THOUGHTS

We started south and stopped at Belmond for a cup of coffee and a brief visit with the in-laws, and they proposed that since it was such a nice day, we should all go to Des Moines to see the Ice Follies.

Since neither the "better half" or ourselves had ever had an opportunity to see such a spectacle we agreed. We came back home, parked the young 'un with an aunt and uncle, "duded up" a bit, and high tailed back to Belmond.

By the time we went through Goodell, it was snowing, and in about two miles, we were all weathered in. Visibility was poor, snow was beginning to stick to the pavement, and we were beginning to have a very low opinion of any trip to Des Moines.

When we arrived in Belmond, we found that the wife's folks had the same idea that we did, so we canceled the whole deal. We beat it back to Klemme, picked up the young 'un in "Heathen Valley", and had our own "Ice Follies" the rest of the way home. The highway was getting mighty slick.

If we had continued with the plan to go to Des Moines, it would have been "ice folly" for sure. Didn't snow too much, but it certainly messed up the highway.

Anyway, it's a good example of what Iowa weather can do in the space of an hour or so . . . and it served to remind us of what we have known for some time. Planning a trip in this country in winter time is not the best thing to do. You may leave home in perfect weather, and be snowed in or iced in before you can get back.

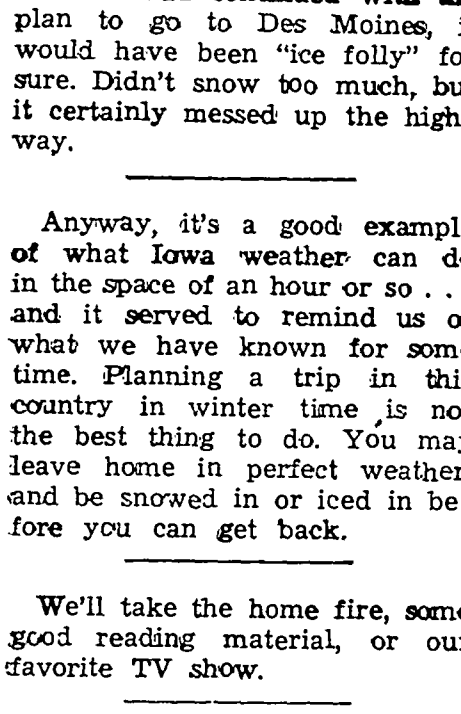
Temperatures down around the zero mark and snow were the order of business weather-wise in this part of the state today (Wednesday). Tuesday was nice and warm until mid-afternoon when the wind shifted around to the north. Then the bottom began to drop out of the thermometer. Guess we'll have to get out the "long handles" and shine up the snow shovel again.

My Neighbors



"How can I strain my back? I'm not having to bend over!"

Some time in February voters of the local school district are going to have a chance to decide whether or not our school takes a forward step by adding an elementary school, shop, music room, etc. to the preesnt high school building. The alternative is to continue trying to conduct school properly in the scattered existing facilities.

"Doing nothing is the most tiresome job in the world, because you can't quit and rest!"

Then there was the fellow who said, "Obstacles are those frightful things you see when you take your eyes off the goal."

And we suppose it was the same fellow who said, "The man who is always looking down his nose gets the wrong slant."

We cant help but feel a little envious of Don Thiemann. He is going to be stationed at the air base at Rapid City, South Dakota. We like the Black Hills so well and have always had a desire to see them in the winter when they are covered with snow. Don will be stationed just a few short miles from the Hills and should be able to enjoy them, not only this winter, but next spring as well.

When we were in the service, we spent 39 months in Texas. Not that we didn't like Texas, but there was nothing there to compare with the Black Hills. Have fun, Don.

NEW TENANTS

The Iowa Governor's Mansion in Des Moines will have new tenants next week as the new chief executive and his family move in, probably right after the inauguration Jan 17.

Gov-elect and Mrs Herschel Loveless and their son and daughter will be the third official family to occupy the house.

The late Gov and Mrs William Beardsley, and their son Dan, were the first occupants of the mansion. Gov. Leo A Hoegh and Mrs Hoegh and their two daughters were the next family to occupy the home which was purchased and is operated and maintained by the state.

TAX BILLS

Legislative leaders expect the house and senate to begin work almost immediately on tax bills proposed by the Iowa Taxation Study Committee and made public last month.

Earlier in the year there had been discussions of a special session to deliberate the committee proposals. Now early study is expected on the recommendations.

NIELSEN WINS

Niels J Nielson of Ringsted, a Democrat, has been declared elected state representative from Emmet county by an election contest board.

The week-long recount showed that Neilsen had won by a 70-vote margin, over Harold Clayton of Estherville, a Republican.

Clayton had appeared to have won the race by 133 votes in the unofficial election tabulations. An official canvass showed Nielsen the winner by 11 votes. The contest recount settled the race.

ANTI-LIQUOR DRIVE

Iowa Methodists have been asked to "lend every effort" against attempts to legalize the sale of liquor-by-the-drink in Iowa.

The plea was made by Methodist Bishop Gerald Ensley who said there are signs efforts will be made to do away with the state's long-standing ban against liquor across the bar.

"I think," he said, "if we can arouse the sentiment of our citizens we may be able to hold the line."

Iowa's outgoing Gov Leo A Hoegh, a Methodist, said he is personally against liquor-by-the drink but also reported he would have signed a good bill had it been voted by the last legislature. Gov-elect Herschel Loveless a Democrat and a Methodist, has taken the same position by reporting he will sign a bill if it passes the legslature.

IOWA TOPS VOTE

Iowa farmers cast more votes in the recent national corn referendum than any other state. Some 87,180 Iowans voted. About 59 percent of them favored the soil bank base acreage plan and about 41 percent favored the old acreage allotment program.

The soil bank, needing 66 percent majority in Iowa and the nation, failed and hence the allotment plan will go into effect.

EMPLOYERS ALERTED

The federal tax department has reminded Iowa employers that recent amendents have changed tax rates under the federal insurance contributions act (social security) and filing requirements under the federal unemployment tax act. More employers will not be affected under the unemployment tax act in Iowa.

MAY TRAIN HERE

Iowa army reservists may soon be training at the Fort Des Moines army post in the near future The army is soon expected to make a final decision on whether to use the 621-acre area for reserve training purposes,

The U S General Services Administration (GSA) has approved the use of the one-time fort for army reserve training programs under the Fifth Army. The GSA acts as landlord and purchasing agent for the U S government. The plan also has the approval of the Fifth Army Headquarters in Chicago.

Iowa is one of 13 states in the Fifth Army area.

PAST AND FUTURE

Former Gov Robert Blue of Eagle Grove and Gov-elect Herschel Loveless got together in Des Moines the other day. Blue is a Republican, Loveless a Democrat.

Blue is chairman of a statewide committee to study the problems of the aging in Iowa. He was conferring with Loveless to acquaint him with the program.

NEW SUI BUILDING

Bids have been received for the construction of a new laundry at the University of Iowa. The contracts must await approval of the Iowa state board of regents, governing body of the university and other institutions.

A new Iowa State Historical Society will be built on the site of the present university laundry.

DRINKING DRIVERS

A statewide survey conducted by a committee for research on alcoholism has found that six of every 10 adult drivers in Iowa drink alcoholic beverages to some extent.

About 44,000 of the estimated 1,126,564 Iowa drinkers were classed in the study as alcoholics or abnormal drinkers.

The study was made at the request of the Iowa legislature which appropriated $15,000 for it.

To deal with the problem, the report suggests a state program for rehabilitation, treatment, education and continued research concerning alcoholism and the problems created by it.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

Iowa's new attorney general will leave liquor law enforcement up to the state commissioner of public safety.

Know Your Town

As we walked into one of the oldest stores in Hancock County, the Wellemeyer Store, we saw the owner, Donald LeRoy Bacon standing behind the counter. We asked him for an interview and this is his life story.

Donald LeRoy Bacon, better known to the people of Klemme as Don, was born at Iowa Falls, Iowa in Hardin County in the year 1909. After attending the Iowa Falls school and graduating in 1928, he attended Waterloo Business College for one year.

In 1935 he was united in marriage with Miss Ethel Wellemeyer. Don ran a dairy and farmed on the edge of Thompson for four years. He then moved to Lake Mills, Iowa due to poor health. There he belonged to the Winnebago Farm Bureau, and was Field Director for three years. Later, he worked with the Iowa Farm Mutual Insurance Co. until he moved to Klemme in 1951.

You would probably see Don doing hunting of all kinds and fishing for that is his hobby and pastime. He also enjoys watching basketball, baseball and other sports.

We asked Don what his pet peeve was. He just laughed then and in a little while he explained, "People who always complain about something. His favorite orchestra is Guy Lombardo. We asked him what he expected his two children Jo Ann and Charles to get out of high school and he replied "Very thorough and basic education." Jo Ann is a teacher at Lake Mills, and Chuck is a junior in Klemme High School.

We asked Don what vast improvement was made since he has come here. and he explained, the elevator, and the Lion's Club of which he is a charter member.

EDITORIAL

While visiting relatives in Dayton, Ohio, during Christmas vacation, I went through part of the National Cash Register (NCR) plant there. Some of the things I learned were quite interesting and I thought I would pass them on to you.

NCR was founded in 1884 by Mr John H Patterson, the first cash register having been made in 1878. When it was started, the company employed only 13 people. Now there are 15,000 employees in the Dayton plant and 44,000 employees throughout the world.

To take a complete tour of NCR would take about 2½ weeks if you spent 24 hours a day. Besides the manufacturing part of the plant, NCR also provides almost unlimited recreation facilities for its employees. The company recently bult a park complete with a swimming pool big enough to accomodate 4,000 people at a time. There is also a camp for training of NCR's salemen. Young men come to this camp and learn the problems of selling also learn the value of one of NCR's machines in any kind of business. Thus these salemen are esuipped to "talk turkey" with propective buyers. The NCR plant, recreation facilities, for its employees, salemen's training center, and other parts of NCR cover 283 acres.

Eight different types of machines are made at NCR although each type has a great many variations. To make the average department store cash register machine at NCR takes about 3 months. During this time, an average of 5 mistakes are made on it. All assembly is done by hand. The mistakes are uncovered in the final inspection and other periodic checks which are made on the machines. Every day about 3% of the machines on the assembly line are taken off and put in the testing room. Here the machines are put through almost any torture imaginable. This is to try to find any bugs in the machine. If any are found, the machine is sent back to the assembly line. The mistake is traced to where it was made and then all other machines made that day in that department are tested for the same mistake. Also, the person or machine that was responsible for the mistake is set in the right so the mistake doesn't hap pen again. It is quite natural for a machine to have a few mistakes since it may contain up to 20,000 parts, and all assembly is done by hand.

The cheapest machine manufactured at NCR sells for $190 and the most expensive for about $12,000. An ordinary department store cash register costs about $5,000.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

This week we are interviewing the quiet type of a person who is always smiling when seen.

You may find him eating either shrimp or vegetable hamburgers. Then you go to a movie starring Jane Russell and Frank Sinatra. Of all the movies he has seen, his favorite is "Tribute to a Bad Man". He enjoys listening to Pat Boone sing and likes the song "You'll Never Know". Most of his spare time is spent watching television and sleeping. When watching television he is either tuned in to Playhouse 90 or the Lawrence Welk program.

His future plans are to enter the service after graduation.

Now that we have all the favorites down, we had better give his name which some of you already have guessed. He is Jimmy M Karsjens who was born January 11, 1938 in Klemme

Bookkeeping Class

As Roger and I stroll down the hall to our bookkeeping class, we see several of our classmates scurrying to their lockers to retrieve pen, ink, rulers and red pencils.

As we enter the library, where our bookkeeping class is situated, we make a mental note of what we see. At a couple of tables we see several happy and triumphant individuals (which is very unusual for a first period class), who are nearing the completion of their "Hunter Practice Sets." The rest of the class is composed of a group of exasperated looking souls, who aren't progressing too rapidly, and are overloaded with errors in their work sets.

Mr Johnson then encourages them by telling them we are going to work on our practice sets until the end of the semester. Until then you will be able to distinguish the senior bookkeeping students from the rest of the students of K H S by their bleary-eyed stare and confused expressions, also by the ink stains on their hands and clothes.

Summary of Boys 4-H Club Work for 1956

During the 1956 club year there were 16 4-H Agricultural Project Clubs with an enrolled membership of 306. 249 of these members completed projects. Baby beef was by far the most popular project with 155 members competing with 268 baby beeves. 45 members completed swine projects. 35 members had 59 dairy heifers and cows. 33 horses and ponies were carried as projects by 22 members. This ranked the county third in the state. The county was also third in electric project enrollment wih 11 members competing Other members completed projects such as rabbits, crops, etc.

To help carry on the farm project clubs. help was received from 31 local 4-H club leaders. the 4-H committee headed by Chairman Bob Schneider and the County Boy's Officers who were: Ronnie Brozik, president; Harvey Johnson vice president; Gary Lenz, secretary treasurer; Larry Krull, reporter and Vernon Greimann, recreation chairman. A large number of other local people assisted in the 4-H program in various ways. took part in many activities during the year, some of which were joint activities with girl club members. Probably the outstanding single activity was the KGLO trip award to Chicago. Award night was held after these members returned. Many 4-H members received awards for their outstanding work in 4-H. Twenty-five boys spent an enjoyable time at the district 4-H camp held at Clear Lake. Fun night was in April and this was perhaps the biggest gathering of 4-H club members except at the County Fair. Nine of the boys 4-H clubs were represented at the Boy's State 4-H Short Course in Ame.. The county had representatives at The county 4-H officers attended an officers training school, and in turn gave an officers training school for local club officers in the county.

The boys 4-H club members the State Leadership and Health Camps,

Various county teams competed with teams fro other counties. The livestock judging team competed at the North Iowa Fair and at the State Fair. Theh dairy judging team competed at the Dairy Cattle Congress in Waterloo. Two demonsration teams received red ribbons at the State Fair. Two members also exhibited at the Sate Fair and both ranked high.

During the meantime other 4-H members were completing their special activity, holding tours and preparing for the fair. The specal activity for the year was tractor maintenanc. This activity involved many of the dads as well as the members. Each club had a tour of the members projects. Many of the parents went along on these tours and in many cases ended up with a picnic.

The county fair was held Aug. 14-17. This was the big event of the year for many. It was a place to show off their projects and accomplishments for the year. Some members put to work the information they received in the fitting and showing demonstrations held earlier in the summer. 4-H members weren't the only ones who had to prepare for the fair, but the Fair Board was also busy. A pole type building was put up to hold the over-flow of livestock. Bleachers were purchased to increase and improve the seating. The lighting on the grounds was improved. For the first time in the history of the fair, professional entertainment was included by having the Minnie Pearl Show.

No sooner was the fair over than everyone was busy planning for the next club year. The enrollment campaign started. Members began looking for baby beeves. The fair board discussed plans for additional building. Many other things indicate that the coming year will be as full of 4-H activities as the past year has been.

With supplies of milk pressing on available outlets for the forseeable future, it is not likely there will be any general upward trend in dairy prices, according to a report from the Agricultural Marketing Service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

While the stock phase of the "dairy problem" has been largely eased, the report indicates the surplus of production over current commercial use at present prices promises to be with us for a while longer.

For other reasons also, the government report states, we are observing adjustments in the direction of fewer but larger economic units in all lines of production and distribution. In the dairy industry we are observing mergers of processing and distributing firms and enlargement of milking herds. But with the drop in number of herds, we are about maintaining the total number of milk cows. For the most part, the inducement for these developments is "economy of scale", though for the nonfarm units we must recognize that there are gains taxwise in some merger situations.

Sales of milk by farmers have been increasing more rapidly than production, as less is being used in farm households for making farm butter.

Farm sales of milk in all forms were a record 113 billion pounds in 1956 and a further increase of more than 2 billion pounds in likely in 1957.

As a result of continued shift from sale of farm-separated cream to sale of whole milk, sales of the solids-non-fat component of milk have been increasing even more rapidly than sales of milk fat.

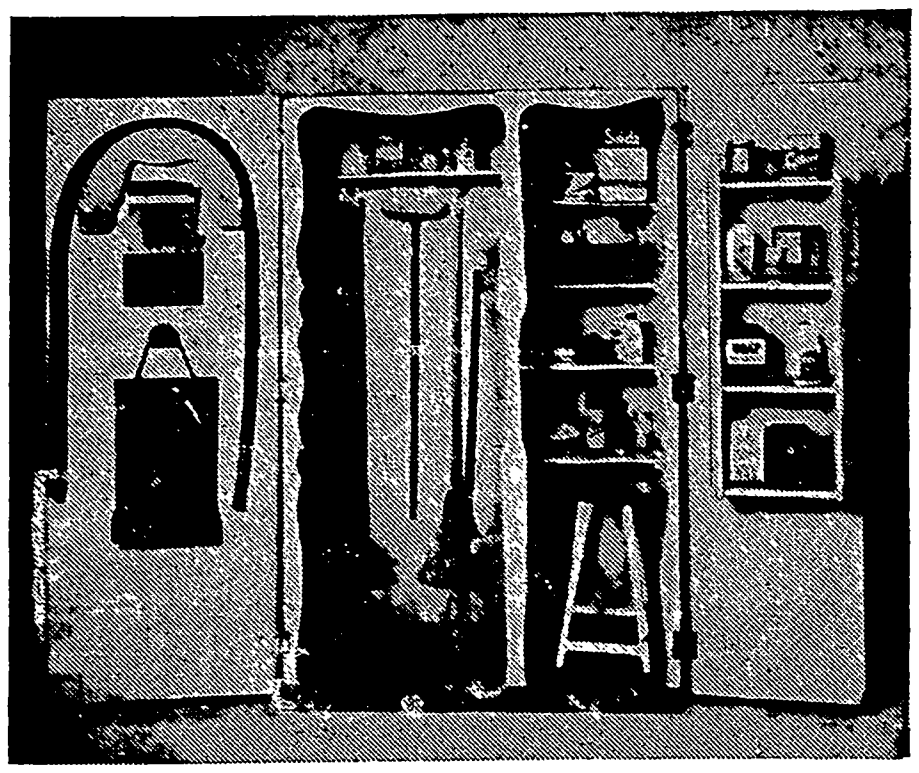
Stay on Top of House Cleaning—

Make Your Vacuum "Work" For You



Store your vacuum cleaner complete with attachments in a centrally located place. Loop cord keepers or two hooks on the closet wall. Keep cord and attachments off the floor so they won't be damaged by sharp objects or heavy weights.

Take it from a bride who has a husband, home and full-time job—it's not always easy to get the cleaning done. Finding time to do the weekly or semi-weekly cleaning takes some real strategy.

Maybe you're and old hand at this homemaking business. Even so, it's very likely you find your self involved in a million-and-one things—homemaking activities, youngsters, community affairs or perhaps an outside job—and find it hard to fit cleaning into the scheme of things.

Though you may never find cleaning an easy job, it can be made easier or harder, depending on how you go about it. Here are some cleaning tips the bride learned from Iowa State College home management specialist Naomi Shank and cleaning equipment manufacturers.

PLAN CLEANING

First, plan the job. In each room, decide whether it's easier to clean the rug or carpet as a complete task or to combine cleaning a section of the carpet with the floor and above-the-floor cleaning in that area; then going on to another part of the room.

Before you sweep, pick up pins, hairpins, nails, coins and string. Sharp metal objects may damage the suction, nick the belt and puncture the bag of your sweeper.

Here's an easy way to do a thorough rug vacuuming job, using a minimum of motions. Begin at the left-hand corner of a cleared space, moving the cleaner twice over each strip, about 30 inches back and forth. Move to the right so that each strip overlaps the previous one. When you get to the end of the cleared space take a step back and clean another 30-inch strip, moving to the left this time.

If you're using a rug nozzle of a straight suction tank or canister-type cleaner use more strokes on each strip. If the cleaner doesn't move on wheels, move the wand and nozzle vigorously back and forth over the carpet with short, quick strokes. Keep the lips of the nozzle as flat as possible against the pile surface.

Make good use of the various attachments. Use the dusting brush on frames lamp shades, venetian blinds, furniture, books and so on. The upholstery nozzle cleans stuffed furniture and cushions, draperies, mattresses—even heavy clothing. Use the crevice tool on radiators, the crevice along the seat of an upholstered chair, along the edge of a wall-to-wall carpet and the mechanism of large electrical appliances.

KEEP VACUUM "GOING"

Here are some things you can do to keep your cleaner going. Empty the dust bag after each major cleaning. You can get disposable bags for most types. Change cloth bags often. Beat to clean.

Cut away threads and hairs wound around the revolving brushes. Adjust the height of the brush whenever the tips of the bristles are no longer level with a card laid across the nozzle. Get a new brush when you can't adjust it anymore. If your cleaner has a belt check it from time to time to see that it's not stretched, nicked or cut. (Remember to disconnect the cleaner first.) Follow the manufacturer's instructions on oiling to the very drop.

Don't run the cleaner over the cord, and try to keep the youngsters from rolling toys over it. Your vacuum cleaner needs an occasional mechanical check-up by a trained serviceman to keep it in top running condition.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Last week the family celebrated New Year's Eve in the downstairs bedroom. They sat around the bed where the 21-year-old boy lay strangely motionless. He has been in the bed for almost three years now. There is no prospect that he ever will get out of it.

For a while they all looked at television, watching the riotous sweep of the New Year across the time zones of the nation. Then they talked quietly and had coffee, lifting the head of the boy in the bed to give him his.

As midnight approached, one of the brothers sitting around the bed brought out a paper hat and horn and pretended to be a drunken reveler. Everyone laughed as he made his way around the bed shouting "Happy New Year!"

Then he put the paper hat on the head of the youth in the bed. The laughter continued for a moment more. But the comic hat on the paralyzed youth ended all pretense. They fell silent and sat unable to look away from the helpless figure on the bed. The brother snatched away the hat and left the room.

They were still hoping for words when the whistles and bells sounded from the town. They were able then to wish one another a Happy New Year.

They left the room as quickly as possible after that. Each one had glimpsed the endless months and years ahead for the boy in bed. Each one had been torn again by the needlessness of the traffic accident that had put him there—paralyzed for life.

December Was Warmer And Dryer Than Normal

December 1956 went into the record as a warm and dry month according to Earl Henschen, Custodian at the Hancock County Courthouse. The average temperature for the month was a balmy 23.29 degrees as compared to a frigid 14.28 for the same month in 1955. The average maximum temperature for the month was 31.45 and the minimum average for the month was 15.13. Below zero temperatures were recorded on only three mornings of the past month while in 1955 the mercury dipped to zero or below on 15 of the 31 days.

The lowest temperature recorded in 1956 was 18 below zero on the morning of December 13 and the high mark was recorded on December 3, when the mercury rose to 52 above.

Precipitation for the month was .39 of an inch which fell in five inches of snow. In 1955 .42 of an inch was recorded which also fell in the form of snow to a five inch depth. While the precipitation was relatively low during the month, humidity was comparatively high and much foggy weather and cloudiness was the rule during the month. Sixteen of the thirty-one days of the month were listed as cloudy.

The total precipitation recorded in 1956 was 26.51 inches which is approximately 3.49 inches below the normal for this vicinity. While 1956 was relatively dry the total precipitation did exceed the dry year of 1955 by 4.50 inches. In 1955 only 22.02 inches were recorded for the entire year. Rainfall in 1956 was ample in most localities in the county to produce an excellent crop. The exception was an area in the Southeast quarter of Hancock County where local rains failed to connect.

general, that he feels law enforcement under state law is the primary duty of the safety commissioner.

"So far as the code is concerned in connection with the duties of the attorney general," Erbe declared, "I don't find the word law enforcement. I don't mean to indicate that there will be no law enforcement. It will be handled by the properly appointed and elected officials."

Dayton Countryman, Erbe's predecessor, had been at sword's point with Clinton Moyer, Iowa safety commissioner, over the law enforcement responsibility matter. Countryman, who frequently borrowed state agents for liquor raids, contended such matters came under his jurisdiction, Moyer didn't agree.

FILE EARLY

Federal tax officials report those Iowans who have federal income tax refunds coming on taxes payable this year will get those refunds earlier if they complete their returns early.

The federal income taxes can be paid now.

During the early filing weeks, officials report, revenue employees are not as "bogged down" with returns as they are later on in the three-month filing period and hence refund payments can be made quickly.

SECONDARY FUNDS

The Iowa highway commission, at its meeting, is expected to change the formula for use of some of the need money allocated to counties under the secondary road program.

The proposal would mean that 10 percent or $584,000 of the need money could be used at the discretion of the commission for what it deems to be "emergency cases."

These funds, under the new proposal, could be used "to put certain roads to higher type surfaces" or for needed bridge work or other construction, reports Chairman Robert Beck of Centerville.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

The only good thing that we can see about these past several days of below zero weather is that there is not a great amount of snow. If there was and it was whipped into drifts, things would certainly be a mess.

Some time this month, Klemme residents will have their chance to remember those who have been or may in the future be stricken with polio. Plans are going ahead for a local "March of Dimes" drive for funds, and although the Saulk vaccine has in a large measure cut down on the numbers of polio sufferers, still the battle is not yet won.

Some confusion seems to have arisen over the relationship of the Community Chest and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Many seem to think that funds for the National Foundation are included in what they give to the Community Chest. This is not the case. The charter of the National Foundation forbids their taking part in Communiy Chest drives. All of their funds have to raised by their own campaigns.

As a result, we hope that you will cooperate with the drive workers when they call on you and give what you can for the fight against polio.

DOES THE KLEMME SCHOOL NEED A BUILDING PROGRAM?

This question will be answered by the voters on February 18. Some people may feel that the present Grade School building facilities are adequate. However, A B Grimes, Supervisor of Plant Facilities for the State Department of Public Instruction stated in February 1955:

"This grade building was not built for educational purposes and is located on a site which is less than ½ of a block. The building is combustible is not equipped for an adequate amount of natural lighting and is not at all constructed for school pupils. adequate and the children must The playground is entirely incross the street to get to the railroad right-of-way of they wish to do much playing.

The school board is to be commended for trying to furnish facilities for the elementary pupils but it just is not wise to plan on this building for educational purposes. The ceiling in the building are composition, there are good wood floors, and theh window blinds are of the double pull type which is good. All the partitions are temporary. The flourescent lights are louvered and are of the four tube type. All the toilets are in very inadequate spaces in the basement. The natural lighting in most or the rooms is very lighting is not too bad. In the bad althought the artificial 3rd grade for example, there are 15 footcandles. In most of the other rooms the lighting is for 20 to 50 foot candles. Some of these rooms are equipped with new seating, the chalkboards are green, and there is good tack-

Nell Greiman Married To William L. Flagler

The First Presbyterian church in Fort Dodge was the setting for the wedding of Miss Nell Greiman of Fort Dodge, daughter of Mr and Mrs Ben F Greiman of Garner, and William Lewis Flagler of Davenport, son of Dr and Mrs W S Flagler of Chickasha, Oklohoma. The Rev Chester Ploeger, pastor of the Peace Reformed church at Garner, performed the 2:30 ceremony. He was assisted by Dr A Howard Lindquist, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Fort Dodge.

The wedding march was played by Mary Vorgeson and John Macek sang the "Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a cathedral length gown of white velvet, fashioned with an empire waist, scalloped portrait neckline and long pointed sleeves. Her finger tip veil of illusion net was held in place by a pearl beaded velvet disc. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a cascade bouquet of large red roses and baby white roses.

Miss Pauline Biondahl, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a red faille gown styled with an empire waistline, scoop neckline, short sleeves, and a bouffant chapel length skirt. She carried a matching red muff with white carnations and holly leaf corsage. Her head-piece was a red sweetheart shaped hat.

The candlelighters were the Misses Virginia Anderson and Barbara Wilson, both nieces of the bride. They were attired in gowns styled identical to that of the maid of honor and wore headpieces made of white velvet leaves.

Mary Jonelle Brighi was flower girl, wearing a long red faille dress with an empire waist and puff sleeves. She wore a white velvet leaf headband and carried a white basket of rose petals. Mark Kaufman, as ring bearer, carried the rings on a white velvet pillow.

A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony. Mrs Louis Brighi was in charge of the guest book and Mrs Walter Greiman was dining room hostess.

Mrs Dale Anderson and Mrs George Wilson, sister of the bride, poured. Mrs Harold Simonsen, Jr., and Mrs Joyce Denig cut and served the bridal cake and Miss Marlene Peterson presided at the punch bowl. Mrs Floyd Greiman, Mrs Ardise Greiman and Miss Jeanetta Greiman were in charge of the gifts.

The bride is a graduate of the Klemme High School and Hamilton School of Commerce in Mason City. She was previously employed by the International Harvester Co. at Fort Dodge. Mr Flagler graduated from the Chickasha high school. He attended the University of Oklahoma and served two years in the army. He is presently attending the Palmer School of Chiropractic in Davenport.

TOWER

High winds toppled a television tower near Independence recently. The WMT tower was to have been 1,250 feet high, the third tallest in the world. The last 30 foot section hod been placed on the top but had not been moored with guy wires. As a result, when the winds came up the upper portion began to shake and in falling, knocked down the guy wires holding other sections in place.

Trucker Killed South Of Town; Local Youth Escapes Without Injury

In an accident which occurred early this morning (Wednesday), John Harkema, 52, of Dows, was killed when the truck he was driving rammed the rear of a truck which was stalled on highway 69 near the Herman Nannenga farm, 2½ miles south of here.

Larry Hansen, of Klemme, driver of the stalled truck, was unhurt in the accident. An airline had broken causing the brakes to lock on Hansen's truck, and Harkema, who was following another truck failed to see the stalled vehicle in time to turn out and go around.

Hansen was going to Nebraska with a load of shelled corn when the accident happened and Harkema was on his way to Dows after having taken a load of hogs to Albert Lea.

Klemme Downs Rockwell; Loses to Fertile 59-57 In Conference Tourney

A North Star Conference game last Friday night saw the Klemme Shamrocks defeat Rockwell 80-52 to hang on to the second place standing in the conference. The outcome of the game was never in doubt after a few minutes of play, and the locals held a 39-20 advantage at the half.

Mart Brinkman led the scoring for the locals with 36 points, while Keith Nuehring contributed 22. Conway was the leading scorer for Rockwell with 12.

The Little Shamrocks had a tougher time turning back the Rockwell reserves but managed to win out 33-28. Roger Beier led the scoring for the local reserves with 9 points, while Bacon and Langlitz each connected for 8.

Tuesday night, the Shamrocks were eliminated from the North Star Conference tournament at Franklin when they were dumped by Fertile 59-57 in the first round.

Trailing by 7 points with two minutes to play, Fertile came on strong to gain their two point victory margin. A bucket at the gun by Mart Brinkman came just an instant too late to count and send the game into overtime.

Brinkman again led the scoring for the Shamrocks with 30 points, while Hall was high for Fertile with 16.

Next action for the Shamrocks will be Tuesday, January 22nd at Kanawha in a game which does not count toward the conference standings.

Honored at Shower

A pre-nuptial shower was given for Miss Lois Young in the Evangelical and Reformed Church, Friday evening with the following ladies as hostesses: Mrs Ann Christians, Mrs Menno Albers, Mrs Walter Lauster, Mrs Edgar Buss and Mrs Fred Pringnitz.

The guests, forty-three in number, enjoyed playing a variety of games after which Miss Young opened her many gifts.

A lunch of red and white heart-shaped sandwiches and angel food cake decorated with red cherries was served at a table attractively arranged with red roses and candelabra as centerpieces.

Mrs Bruce Young of Rudd, mother of the bride-to-be, was an out of town guest.

School Bond Election Set for February 18th

The Board of Education of the Klemme Community School District met in special session on January 9 and set February 18 as the date of the school bond election.

Voters of the school district will at that time be asked to approve a bond issue of $375,000 to erect and equip an addition to the present grade and high school building. The legal notice of the bond proposition appears for the first time in this weeks issue of The Times. The Iowa statutes require a legal publication notice be printed for four consecutive weeks in an approved county newspaper. The election then must be held not less than five days or more than twenty days after the last publication. The date of February 18 meets this requirement.

Ballots for the election are now being printed and will state the bond proposition as follows:

"Shall the Klemme Community School District, in the County of Hancock, State of Iowa, issue bonds in the sum of not to exceed Three Hundred Seventy-Five Thousand Dollars ($375,000) for the purpose of constructing and equipping an addition to the present grade and high school building and purchasing land to add to the present site already owned?"

The bond election would require an affirmative vote of sixty per cent of those actually voting. At the time of the reorganization proceedings in February 1956 there 946 eligible voters in the Community School District.

board space and good open shelves. All in all. you have don a good job on this building but it is a fire trap and the sooner you get out of it the better. The toilets on the lower floor are small and very poorly ventilated. The odors from these rooms drift into the lunch room which is adjacent. The ventilation in the girl's toilet is exceptionally bad.

The boiler is in the basement in a small room which has a fire proof door to the basement room but would still be very combustible. The play room has a low ceiling which is of a composition type and in bad condition. Here about 250 pupils, on the average, are fed daily. The kitchen is heated by overhead radiators.

Plans should be made now for new quarters for the grades and the elimination of these facilities as soon as possible."

This quotation is from a report made by Mr Grimes dated February 1, 1955 following an inspection of facilities on January 25, 1955.

The State Department of Public Instruction recommends that elementary classrooms contain at least 900 square feet of space. Kindergartens should have 1200 squre feet of space. The area of rooms in the present Grade School building are as follows:

Kindergarten - 836 square feet
1st grade, Mrs Wessels, - 600 square feet
1st grade, Miss Dunahoo - 496 square feet.
2nd grade, 456 square feet
3rd grade, 525 square feet
Remedial - 234 square feet

Present plans call for elementary classrooms to be 30' by 30' and contain 900 square feet of space. The Kindergarten will be 30' by 40' and con tain 1200 square feet space.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

LOVELESS INAUGURATED

The 33rd governor of the state of Iowa, Herschel Loveless, a Democrat is being inaugurated Thursday. He is only the sixth Democrat ever to serve as the state's chief executive since the first governor of Iowa was inaugurated Dec 3, 1846. He was Ansel Briggs.

Loveless will be the first Democrat inaugurated since Jan 14, 1937 when Nelson Kraschel of Harlan was inaugurated.

Other Democrats who served as governor, include: Stephen Hemstead, 1850-54; Horace Boies, 1890-1894; Clyde L Herring, 1933-1937.

Prior to Brigg's inauguration, three men had served as territorial governors of Iowa, before the territory became a state. They were: Robert Lucas, John Chambers. James Clarke.

TOP LEGISLATORS

As of this writing the Democrats had not selected their minority leaders in the two houses.

IN JOB 50 YEARS

A C Gustafson Des Moines, chief clerk of the Iowa house of representatives rounded out 50 years of service when the 57th General Assembly convened Monday.

Gustafson began his long tour of duty as a committee clerk in the house back in 1907. He was first named chief clerk in 1913.

"Gus" has served in every session except two. He served one period as secretary to Gov George Clarke, and missed another session when the Democrats had control and did not reelect his chief clerk.

FIRST GIRL PAGE

The first girl to serve as a page in the Iowa senate has been appointed this year by Lt Gov W H Nicholas and the senate patronage committee. She is Linda Nye of Cedar Rapids.

Another young high school girl from Cedar Rapids, Clary Lou Illian, a schoolmate of Miss Nye's, is serving as a house page in this session. The house chief clerk reports, however, that two or three girls have served as house pages in past sessions.

RESEARCH ASSISTANT

Atty Gen Norman Erbe has named a young attorney, James H Gritton of Des Moines as a research assistant on his staff. The appointment gives Erbe 10 assistants and rounds out his staff at one more member than had been used by Erbe's predecessor, Dayton Countryman.

Erbe has reported that his office will concentrate its work on the legal affairs of the state and will attempt to do all the work required without the need for hiring special assistants from time to time.

In recent years the Iowa executive council, from time to time, has hired special assistants to help with the work in the attorney general's office. This procedure has resulted in some criticism because of the practice.

EARLY BID

Republican legislators in the house and senate, before the start of the present session, issued a "statement of Republican principles" which, they hoped, would serve as a guide and goal in the present session.

The statement was an effort to take the edge and the leadership away from any that might have been assumed by the Democrat governor of the state, Herschel Lovless who made his inaugural address today and issued his statement of recommendations. The GOP policy statement came out a week ahead of the Loveless inaugural address.

The Republicans also attempted to take some of the tax "play" away from the Democrats who had campaigned on the issue of state taxes in the fall elections.

The GOP said that property taxes are high and recommended keeping the exemptions of homestead credits, veterans exemptions and agricultural land tax credits. They also recommended other uses for the so-called "rainy day" fund and recommended that state appropriations be "consistent with funds available from current revenue for such purposes."

They also suggested early action on water resources problems, the tax study committee report and reorganization of state government, among other things.

BUDGET UNIT REPORTS

The Iowa legislative budget committee has recommended to the legislature that the state commissioner of public safety "serve at the pleasure of the governor."

The recommendation, one of several made by the 10-member interim group, is aimed at the present commissioner, Clinton H Moyer,

Moyer, an appointee of Gov Leo A Hoegh, is serving a term that does not expire until 1959. Under the present law the commissioner serves six-year terms.

Much of the criticism of Moyer sprouted a year ago when he recommended that the Iowa highway patrol start arresting all motorists driving in excess of 65 miles an hour at night. Iowa has not set speed limits but Moyer's office brought out evidence, based on safety research and study, which attempted to show autos being driven in excess of that speed at night were not under proper control as required by state law.

It is also known that many Democrats, and some Republicans, are interested in seeing a change made in the office of the chief of the bureau of criminal investigation. R W "Doc" Nebergall, who serves as chief under Moyer, has been the subject of criticism from some Iowa sheriffs in the last year or two.

INTERSTATE ROADS

Final location for the interstate federal highway network through Iowa will be speeded up by a change designed to streamline the operations of the U S Bureau of Public Roads. The change gives the U S district roads engineer in Iowa, W S "Bill" Reed, the authority to approve the final locations for the highway system through the state.

Reed reports that 86 percent of the interstate network in Iowa has been already pinpointed as to final location. He said the national average of final locations is 55 percent.

Reed said Iowa is ahead in its public hearings program required for location of the four-lane modernized network. He said 11 interstate project hearings have been held in Iowa and 50 other hearings on other projects where federal funds are involved.

ALUMINUM BRIDGE

Iowa may be the first state to have an aluminum highway bridge.

The commission has authorized its engineer to "go ahead" on research and design projects for an aluminum bridge on an experimental basis. The commission has become interested in aluminum for bridge construction since it has been notifed steel for bridges will take 18 to 24 months for delivery and that the situation might remain tight for some time.

John Butter, chief engineer for the commission, said the experimental projects would probably include the highway commission, aluminum companies and the state highway research committee.

It is estimated that as of now, aluminum may be 50 to 60 percent more expensive in bridge work than steel because such work is not being done.

TALENTED IOWAN IS RECORD SOAPMAKER

More than 2500 pounds of homemade soap in 25 years is the record of Mrs. Albert Priebe, 44-year-old Klemme, Iowa homemaker and grandmother of four, who has never purchased a bar of laundry soap or soap powder. While raising a family of three and helping to run a 220-acre farm, she has made all her own soap, using lye and waste fats from farm and household operations.

The versatile farm wife is a prize-winning photographer and includes textile painting among her hobbies. Soapmaking is a rewarding do-it-yourself homecraft, says Mrs. Priebe, who enjoys experimenting with various recipes. Homemade soap can be varied from creamy-textured tinted and scented toilet soaps to heavy duty abrasive soap pastes. Fifteen different recipes included in her collection are available free on request from Pennsalt Chemicals, Lye Dept., 3 Penn Center Plaza, Philadelphia 2, Pa.

A water hydrant near the home of Mrs August Lau was found to be frozen up when Marshal Lietzinger coupled a hose to it Tuesday to use in flushing the sewer. Mr Lietzinger attempted to thaw it out by loosening the caps, building a fire under it and putting salt down the case. The process was slow so Harold went home to supper while he waited for the hydrant to thaw. During his absence, the ice broke loose and the hydrant spouted water like a high pressure fountain. The city water was then turned off while repairs were made. This explains why the city water was shut off on Tuesday night.

Television

Television is a great American institution. It is a great advertising medium and provides entertainment for countless thousands of people throughout the land. However, telvision is important for another reason. Let me tell you a little about it.

It seems that the enemies of education and culture in the good old U S A got together one day before the advent of television and decided that something must be done to cut down on the growing rate of literacy in this country. (It is rumored that this move was master-minded by the communists, but this belief is as yet unfounded pending further investigation.) One of the more brilliant of the group said that if there were some way to distract the pupils of America and cause them to let their studies go that they would soon be flunking in school and would become discouraged and drop out. This plan was generally agreed upon and the group put their heads together and invented television.

Well, fortunately the young people of the country have more sense than this group of anti-educationists anticipated. Although the T-V set now occupies a relatively important place in the American home, students are studying just as hard as ever.

Of course this does not explain the bloodshot eyes, frayed nerves, quick tempers, and sleeping pupils in math, history, English, and science classes across the nation. Perhaps some brainy individual will come up with an answer to this problem in the near future. But, as for now, we can be sure that it is not caused by television.

No Dull Moments In Grandad's Day

"There's nothing else to do, let's go to thes how." That's today. We can always rely on a movie if in need of something for recreation.

But what did Grandad do? Why, he'd snap on his high-button shoes, don hi- derby, hop a mule car and take off for Concord Park! There was always something doing there. If it wasn't baseball or teddybounce, it was a carnival or a race at the track.

Sometimes folks in grandad's day had apron parties. A pretty young miss in long cotton stockings, ankle length dress and high button shoes, would don an apron and the boys would have a race sewing a hem in it!

Or the girls would make molasses candy and invite the boys over for a candy pull. This usually ended in a sticky mess. The boys had to be home by 10, but that gave them plenty of time to get the candy all over themselves, the girls, and everything else.

No. grandad didn't have such a dull time!—Ruth Brown in the Trumpet, Catheral High, Natchez, Miss.

Each and everyone of us wants to be part of the crowd, doing what's new and modern. It's no fun to be a square.

Most of us have made so many plans for this winter. Golly! There's so much we can do. Ice skating, skiing, tobogganing, sledding and the like. It's so much fun to get together with the gang and do things.

But suppose something prevents you from having this fun. Something big and monstrous, something horrible and painful. Not something you can shake off in a week or so, or something your parents can control or straighten out. Suppose you had POLIO!

Is that true? No. Polio can, and does, strike anywhere. It can strike you, and you and even you. No one is an exception, we are all candidates for this painful and crippling disease.

Think a little about the suffering, the expense, the endless living on your back, not being able to move for pain, while the crowd is out having a real gone time.

It looks hopeless, but it is not! We can remove ourselves from the threat of this horror. You, Mr or Miss Teenager, can be protected if you care to take the trouble.

See your doctor and get your three Salk vaccine shots! Compared to the medical costs, should you get the disease, the cost of the shots is a drop in the bucket. It's like having an extra guardian angel. But no one will make you do this.

So come on, you crazy cats, get HEP and fall in step with the march of medicine. Build a stronger nation by protecting yourself. And pass the word around to all your pals—you'll be doing them the biggest favor of their lives.—Kris Leberl, Chatterbox, Cadott, Wis., High.

Jeanne B - I'd eat it!

Dorothy K - I'd give it to Jeanne to play with!

Rosalea R - I would give it to Joyce L for breakfast some cool morning.

Sandra M - I would give it to Mrs Oberg for her husband.

Marcella N - I'd let Mr Whitney use it in physics class.

Lavonne W - I would send it back to wherever it came from.

Ronald H - I'd turn it out in the sub-zero weather and let it freeze to death.

Judy S - I believe I'd store it in the closet. Maybe I would get it out someday and try to use it.

Winola Z - Present it to Mr Neary to uses in place of his meter stick. Don't hit anybody!

June M - I'd put it in a box and then give it to Mr Neary!

Marvalyn C - I would probably hang it in the closet and let it age awhile before using it.

Bob A - I would give it to Roger Johnson to play with in history so he wouldn't be hiting everyone.

Colleen G - I'd give it to LaVohn J's dog to chew it up.

Driver Education to Be Offered Second Semester

Warren Sawtelle, Garner, Iowa who owns and operates the Ford Agency in Garner, has delivered a 1957 Ford Station Wagon to the Klemme School District for Driver Education purposes.

Driver Education was not offered during the first semester because it was felt that many of the students who would normally have taken the course were too young. Driver Education should be taught during the semester that a student turns sixteen in order that he may apply for a driving permit upon completion of the course. Only three members of the sophomore class reached their sixteenth birthday during the first semester.

Driver Education will be offered to the oldest half of the sophomore class during the second semester of the 1956-57 school year. The other half of the class may take the course during the first semester of the 1957-58 school year.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

It was one of those days when winter slumps into mud, slush, and damp dragging winds. It was a day that made Fred Holt think he might be in the wrong business.

All morning he had been fighting mushy roads around the suburban edges of an Iowa city. The worst of it was he had to jump out of his car every five minutes and slop through the muck to knock on someone's door.

When his likable manner and good product got him inside a house, he usually gave his sales talk on papers spread out by the housewife.

A couple of times that morning, when invited to sit in a living room, he had to slip off his shoes and try to look business-like in his stocking feet.

Early in the afternoon, he gave it up and headed back into the paved portion of the town. Gobs of mud plastered his shoes. He had quit trying to scrape it off each time he got in the car.

So, the mud of the morning followed him as he drove across town. It wasn't done with him yet.

Fred drove up to an intersection and prepared to make a housing stop. He jammed his muddy foot on the brake pedal that was worn through to the metal.

His foot slipped off the brake and the car popped out into the traffic flow. Fred was finally out of the mud. He spent the next two weeks in a hospital.

Children Feel Parents Aren't So Bad—

How Do Your Youngsters Rate You?

Children want to be a real part of the family. Most expect to do some jobs around home, and most think they have too many home jobs to do. Just like anyone else, they like to get praise for a job well done.

What kind of parent are you? Not from your point of view, or that of the next door neighbors or family friends. What do your youngsters think of you as a mother or dad?

Do they think you give them too many household jobs? Do they feel "left out" of family decisions? Do they think you don't stick to your promises? Though many-a-time you have to move pretty fast to stay one jump ahead of the youngsters, you probably have a least some inkling as to how they feel about you and these situations.

Here are some clues that may help you make further discoveries about yourself as a parent. Parents really aren't so bad, according to the results of a study of the attitudes of 730 boys and girls toward their parents. The youngsters were in the fifth grade of rural and small-town schools in Iowa, Ohio, Kansas and Wisconsin. The children responded to a number of questions about their relations with their parents

HARDER ON BOYS?

In brief, here are some of the answers the youngsters gave to these questions. The boys seemed to believe their parents were "stricter with" or "harder on" them than did the girls. Boys talked over their plans with their mothers less than girls did but there weren't any important differences between boys' and girls' answers for the same question applied to fathers. As a group, the youngsters reported they talked over their plans more with their mothers than their fathers.

The same is true of the answers to questions dealing with parents discussing the reasons for punishment. Boys thought their mothers didn't talk over reasons for punishmest with them as much as girls did. For the same question dealing with father, there were no important differences between boys' and girls answers. And, as a group, the children said their mothers were more likely to talk over reasons for punishment than their fathers.

Mothers were "easier to get along with" than their fathers, according to their youngsters. But there were no important differences in the answers as to the amount of punishment meted out by mothers or fathers for disobeying. Likewise, there were no important differences reported by the children in the degree to which fathers or mothers kept their promises with them.

Children's answers to other questions indicated that most of the children felt that they were "a part of the family", had a voice in helping to decide certain family matters, weren't burdened by too many jobs at home and felt their parents recognized their work efforts.

These findings, reported by Lee Burchinal of the Child Development Department at Iowa State College, seemed to indicate in the eyes of their children, most parents are probably doing a pretty good job of raising their children. Maybe as parents, however, we need to do more to understand the problems and interests of boys. And perhaps fathers in particular need to do more to understand the problems and interests of their children.

LOOK AT SELF

So take a good look at your relationships with your youngsters. You many find yourself a good parent or one that needs to brush up before you win that coveted top rating from your children.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Three things have caused the recent low egg prices, says Steve Hiemstra, Iowa State College farm economist.

In the first place, last spring's early pullet hatch has meant more pullets were laying early this fall than a year ago. And the rate of lay has been relatively high recently. These two things plus the fact that on December 1, storage stocks of shell and frozen eggs were the greatest they've been in 9 years, have pushed egg prices down.

Egg prices, like other prices, are largely determined by supply and demand. Demand for eggs vary according to consumer wishes and according to the way the market traders view supplies and prices.

Supply depends on current production and storage stocks. And production is further determined by the number of active layers and the rate of lay—number of eggs laid by each hen.

Although these factors fluctuate throughout the year, fluctuations tend to follow a normal pattern, allowing predictions to be made.

For instance, there are somewhat fewer pullets not of laying age on farms now than last year. But with the laying rate higher than a year ago, Hiemstra predicts that egg prices this January will stay well below those of January, 1956. Prices should climb steadily throughout 1957, though by spring they will probably be about equal to last year.

The one consolation that can be seen in lower winter egg prices is that the chick hatch the following spring is usually cut, allowing prices to improve the following year.

Some Random Thoughts

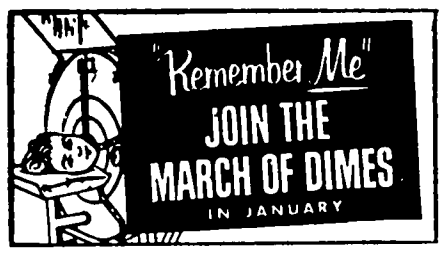
BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Even though we quite often think that high schoolers are a bit on the dare devil side when they get behind the wheel of an automobile, we'll have to admit that they show some signs of being safety minded.

This week's question of the week column in The Shamrock deals with the opinions of various members of the local high school in regard to a speed limit for Iowa, as does the editorial in The Shamrock. Both the column and the editorial are interesting and show that the teen-agers aren't all speed demons.

And some times we wonder how our high school driving record would have stacked up compared to the kids nowadays if we had been driving these high powered cars that are available today.

Anyway, we're glad to see the kids giving some serious thought to a problem that hasn't yet been whipped by adults, and we hope that they will not let their zest for living and desire for thrills keep them from remembering that safe driving is good insurance whether there is a speed limit or not.



We doubt very seriously that a "March of Dimes" campaign for polio will be necessary for many more years now that there is a vaccine available to combat the dread crippler. However, the need for funds for the fight is still with us, and we hope that those mothers who help in Monday night's drive will be treated with courtesy, and will gather in a goodly sum of money for the cause.

DOES THE KLEMME SCHOOL NEED A BUILDING PROGRAM?

Last week The Times quoted from a report of Mr A B Grimes, Supervisor of Plant Facilities, State Department of Public Instruction, in regard to the condition of the present grade school building. This week excerpts from the same report are printed in regard to the present band and shop facilities. The shop which was formerly housed in the high school building has now been moved to a rural school. The shop area has been increased by less than 100 square feet however. The report dated February 1, 1955, states:

"The band is housed in a rural school building that was moved in east of the present high school. This is one large room that is heated with an oil heater. The room includes storage racks for music, cabinets, piano, a small chalk board and tack board. This room contains but 759 square feet. At the present time I understand that you have a 46 piece band and for this number there should be at least 20 square feet per pupil allowed without any equipment in the room."

Riehm Reports Activities In Iowa Legislature

Two years ago I started the practice of giving you reports on the Iowa legislature in session. I received many expressions of approval and requests to continue the reports this session. With the kind cooperation of your local newspaper, you may again read of the 57th General Assembly. And, if you do like to read the reports, please tell your newspaper editor as he is publishing these reports as a public service to the community.

The legislature of the State of Iowa meets every two years. We convened the 57th General Assembly on Monday, January 14th, which was a day spent in organization. After the House of Representatives was opened with a prayer, temporary officers were elected; the committee on Credentials accepted the list of accredited elected representatives and the House members took their oaths of office. The next item of business was the election of Bill Mooty as Speaker of the House, Elmer Vermeer as Speaker Pro Tem. The rules of the 46th General Assembly were adopted until the Rules Committee submitted their report. The Governor and Senate were then notified that the House was duly organized and ready to receive any communications. Officers and employees of the House were appointed. A few committees were then appointed, however, the main committees to handle legislative bills will not be appointed until the last of this week.

On Tuesday the main item of importance was Gov. Hoegh's report to a joint session of the House and Senate, wherein he reported Iowa must continue its sound fiscal policies on (1) no state property tax (2) no state debt (3) no deficit spending (4) a balanced budget and (5) an adequate reserve. He further talked about Iowa agriculture, industry, education, roads and traffic safety. Gov. Hoegh recommended that the ½ cent sales tax be repealed. However, since the legislature doesn't know how much money must be raised for schools, homestead credit, agricultural land tax credit, roads and state institutions, it seemed to a majority of the members of the legislature that serious consideration must be given before any hasty action can be taken.

Wednesday worked all day on some bills I want to prepare for introduction, also checked some proposed bills by other members to determine whether they were good for the State of Iowa and Hancock County. Had a conference with the three State Tax Commissioners and objected loud and long against the ruling that both husband and wife must sign state reurns whether made as joint returns or not, then proceeding to the Attorney General's office wih a wirtten request for an opinion as to the legality of the Tax Commission ruling. Next week I shall have the answer.

Thursday was the inauguration of the Governor

And now in closing my first weekly report, I wish to quote our great President Abraham Lincoln when he commented on the objectives of government: he said, "The legitimate object of government is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done, but cannot do, at all, or cannot so well do for themselves . . . in their separate and individual capacities."

Shamrocks Win Over Kanawha 72-61 Tuesday

The Klemme Shamrocks journeyed to Kanawha, Tuesday evening for a non-conference game with the Bulldogs, and took their second win from that team, finishing out in front 72-61.

The Klemme team jumped into a first quarter 21-10 lead and increased it to 35-21 by the end of the first half. The Bulldogs closed in on them considerably in the third quarter though and narrowed the margin to six points, 49-43. The Shamrocks pulled alway slightly in the last period and finished 11 points to the good.

Martin Brinkman had his biggest evening of the year when rang up 40 points on twelve field goals and 16 free throws. Samuelson led the Kanawha scoring with 23 points.

Thirty-nine fouls were called in the game and three Kanawha players and one from Klemme had to leave the game via the foul route.

The Little Shamrocks lost a six pointer to the Bullpups, 37-31. They trailed in the game right from the start and couldn't seem to find the scoring punch to get ahead.

Bacon and Huenemann led the scoring for the local reserves with 11 and 9 points respectively.

Next action for the Shamrocks comes this Friday night, January 25th, when Dows comes here for a conference game. Then on Tuesday, January 29th, Ventura will be here for a return game which does not count in the conference standings. The Shamrocks downed the Ventura five earlier in the season on the Ventura floor 61-53.

Tuesday night's win over Kanawha leaves the Shamrocks with a seven and four record for the season's regular schedule with six games yet to play. They lost one other game, a 59-57 heart breaker to Fertile in the North Star Conference Tournament.

Retarded Children's Group Raises $4,000

The Council for Retarded Children of Hancock and Winnebago Counties has received final results from its 1956 fund raising campaign which took place in November. $4,222.34 was collected in the two counties which will enable the Council to continue its program of aid to the mentally handicapped of the area.

In addition to the two classrooms for retarded children currently supported by the Council, the group has authorized establishment of a class for above-school-age retardates in Hancock County and is investigating the possibility of other classes in the two counties. The Council is also sponsoring two children of the county at Woodward, and other projects there.

The group sincerely appreciates the cooperation which has been given by the Hancock County Community Chests this year and in the past, and thanks all who assisted Mrs John Fox in the four townships not included in the community chest drives. The support shown by all who contributed so generously of time and money is most encouraging. Only by continued public support can the problems of mental retardation be met and conquered.

Mothers Drive for "March of Dimes"

Local mothers will be out Monday evening, January 28th, to canvass the town for contributions to the "March of Dimes" fund raising campaign for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The ladies will begin their drive at 6:30 Monday evening and will go from house to house trying to raise money to help in the fight against polio.

Former Resident Dies

Mrs Edith Brouwer, 80, wife of the late Lou Brouwer, passed away at Newport, Oregon on January 15th. She was buried beside her huband in Eureka Cemetery at Newport.

Mrs Brouwer, the former Edith Fell, was born on a farm south of Klemme, and taught school in Liberty Township before her marriage.

Board Plans To Use Old Chalk Boards

In the event that the bond issue for a new elementary school is approved, the board of education is making plans for using the old slate from rural schools for chalk boards. The slate was removed from seven rural school buildings prior to their sale a short time ago. Two other rural schools currently being used in the district ore also equipped with slate.

The W R Neal Slate Company of Minneapolis, Minn. is a concern that specializes in the refinishing of old slate. The boards are completely resurfaced by a sanding process and recut to specifications. According to the Neal Company this type of chalk board is superior and considerably more economical than any other type of board on the market. Green chalk boards which have been quite common in recent years are generally of a composition material covered with several coats of paint.

Mr Waldo Dean, senior partner in the Karl Keffer Associates, Architects, recommends that the old slate be used. He states, "I have always preferred slate in a classroom although we have used other materials in recent years." He continues to state that it has been his experience that teachers prefer slate boards and that they are much more durable than other types and will last indefinitely.

It is being planned to use the Neal Company proposal as a base bid in the contract if and when it is let. There will be an alternate specifying composition board however, so that prices of the two may be compared.

Voters in the Klemme Comuntiy School District will be asked to approve a $375,000 bond issue on February 18th for the purpose of constructing an addition to the present grade and high school building.

Makes Trip from Texas With Broken Leg Bone

Mr and Mrs Clarence Bachman returned last Thursday from a vacation in McAllen, Texas.

Just before leaving Texas, Mrs Bachman suffered a slight fall and thought she sprained her ankle. She made the trip home in no great pain, but a visit to the doctor. after arriving home, showed that her supposedly sprained ankle was a broken bone in her leg .

Mrs Bachman will be sporting a cast on that "sprained ankle" for the next eight weeks.

The representatives from the various boards of trustees and the Board of Supervisors will convene and organize as a county board of approval.

RANDOM THOUGHTS

A good band room should contain at least 1,000 to 1,200 square feet, depending upon the size of the groups. There should be a couple of practice rooms adjoining and there should be a small office and storage space for music and instruments.

This building also should be discarded for band purposes in any long term plannnig . . . . . .

The shop is entirely too small and it is very noisy. There is a small finishing room adjacent to the shop area. Here two classes in industrial arts are held every day. The room is very crowded. No doubt this room was originally meant for an elementary classroom inasmuch as it has an asphalt tile floor. This room contains only 704 square feet. Shops are supposed to have a minimum of 1,500 square feet and if there is much of a program carried on there should be 2,000 square feet or more."

Next week The Times will carry Mr Grimes' recommendations as to the high school building.

Hancock County Supervisors Monday rehired County Engineer Charles K Paulson and his office personnel for the ensuing year. A substantial increase in salaries was reported.

EDITORIAL

As you can see, this week the question of the week deals with the subject of whether or not we should have a speed limit in Iowa. Some students think that we should have no speed limit at all while others think a limit of 75 miles per hour would be fine.

I can see no difference in the two. Anyone who drives 75 is crazy to begin with. My personal opinion is that we should have a 60 mile speed limit by day and 50 at night. However, I suppose that this will never go through so I would settle for 65 day time and 55 night.

This is fast enough for anyone in his right mind to drive. If he wants to get somewhere in a hurry he can start a little earlier and drive a little slower and get there. Otherwise he may be a couple of weeks late due to a stay in the hospital or he may never get there at all!

"Slow down and live!" Speed limit or no. It is sensible to drive sensibly.

BOYS' SPORTS NEWS

On Tuesday, January 15, the Klemme Shamrocks traveled to Franklin to play the Fertile Indians in the North Star Conference Tournament. Klemme came back on the short end of the rope, 59-57, due to the last minute spurt put on by the Fertile Indians.

With five minutes left to play, Klemme was leading by a margin of seven points. But due to the poor ball handling and poor shooting we went behind two points. At the sound of the gun Klemme was defeated by two points.

'One Liner' Addict Mouse Trapped

I am a hopeless addict. I read (and heaven forbid, remember) "one liners".

A "one liner" is one sentence giving some interesting (and perfectly useless) fact. They are used in newspapers to fill in extra space.

My eyes have an uncanny knack of spotting these; they are more blazing than headlines.

Here are some one liners which I read recently: Tokyo is now getting parking meters, an elephant can run 100 yards in 12 seconds, there are 2½ radios in each American home. (You may wonder about the one-half radio. Let me elucidate. We have one so I know. Recently some relatives visited us. They brought along their three-year-old monster, whom they should have caged and left home. He had to have something to play with—our radio. We now have half a radio.)

While it is perfectly harmless to read or remember these one liners, I go even farther, I repeat them.

One night while all were peacefully eating supper, I came forth with a bit of news I thought would have the effect of an atomic bomb. "Did you know," I asked, "that all dogs are color blind and can see only black and white?"

Before they could recover from that, I hit them with, "The human eye can perceive over a million different colors."

I was sharply disappointed. The steady slurp-slurp of my brother eating soup continued without pause. My mother and father didn't seem to notice that I had spoken.

Not easily discouraged, I continued in fast succession with, "Most cats are left-handed (or pawed). The capacity of a sea-gull's stomach is 3½ gallons. It takes over 100 million atoms to cover the point of a pin."

These world-shaking facts were met with an "Eh, so what?"

Mother said, "You ought to get a piece of cheese and bait a mouse trap to put in the laundry room."

I couldn't let this remark go unchallenged for I had read somewhere that cheese was not the best bait for a mouse trap. Bread is better, or anything white. Even white thread will do! The mice use it for building their nests.

When I told them this, my startling bit of information was met with laughter.

No matter how much I tried, I couldn't convince dad that white thread was better than cheese to bait mouse traps. I offered to prove it. I outlined my plan to make the experiment as scientific as possible.

I would use two identical traps, one baited with cheese and one with white thread. The traps would be placed only a few inches apart, only in a corner so there would be only one way to get to them.

I quickly gathered the material and set the scene, confident that my experiment would absolutely prove my earlier statement.

A few hours later my brother told me that he had heard the trap go off. I rushed to what I thought might well be the scene of an experiment to go down in history.

I later reluctantly trudged into the living room to break the news. The experiment had failed. the mouse was caught in the trap baited with cheese. I feebly objected that the mouse was an imbecile and didn't know how mice shoul l behave, but I was ridiculed.

You may think this caused me to give up reading one liners, but just the other day I read that mice have a sweet tooth. Because of this sugar makes a good bait for them. I can hardly wait to try it out—in secret!

SENIOR INTERVIEW

Today our roving reporters are present at a Senior Class meeting.

Roger was born in Klemme on April 26, 1940. He attended country school until the second semester of the third grade when he entered Klemme Public School.

As the class meeting progresses we learn that they are planning a party. Roger rattles off many of his favorites while conducting the meeting. He says his favorite food would be a California hamburger with a chocolate malt on the side. His favorite television program is "Playhouse 90". He says that at the party we should have music by Lawrence Welk and his orchestra which would suit Roger very much. Dancing and many other assorted things should also be included as they are his favorite pastimes.

After the meeting we talked to Roger and found that his future plans, at the moment, are to see GIANT at Mason City, which has his favorite actor and actress in it, James Dean and Elizabeth Taylor.

His plans after graduating may include attending college.

Test Tells Phone Etiquette Rating

There's more to good telephoning than dialing and gabbing. Test your "phone etiquette" with the four questions below:

1. Whoops! You thought you dialed Prunello's number, but you have a stranger on the line. You ask:
   (a) "What number is this?"
   (b) "Is this 72380?"
   (c) "who art thou?"
2. The best way to answer a home phone is to say:
   (a) "Jones residence. Fulgencia Jones speaking."
   (b) "Go ahead . . . it's your money."
   (c) "Hello."
3. If someone asks, "Ta whom am I speaking, please?" you reply:
   (a) "What's it to ya?"
   (b) "Me."
   (c) "Fortune Gomez."
4. Do you know how to end your calls gracefully? When you're ready to hang up, it's best to say:
   (a) "Hasta luego, alligator."
   (b) "Goodbye."
   (c) "Nice talking with you."

Answers—1. (b)
2. (a)
3. (c)
4. (b)

Short Story

A tiny knight came in out of a storm one night in the Medevial Age. This knight was so small that he had been given a dog to ride instead of a horse. A kindly old lady remarked as she eyed the motley dog, "I wouldn't send a knight out on a dog like this!"

—Kissette, The Faulkner School, Chicago, Ill.

Question of the Week

Do you think there should be a speed limit in Iowa? If so, what do you think the speed limit should be? Also give your reason for it.

Sharleen: Yes, I think there should be . . . 55 at night and 65 in the day. I don't believe people can have complete control of their car going much faster than this.

Bob Larson: Yes, I think that it should be 70 mph, but that there should also be a minimum speed limit of 50 mph, because the slow driver causes more accidents than the fast ones. (That's your opinion, Bob.)

Mrs Oberg: Yes. The road conditions make a difference, but I think 65-70 is fast enough for anyone to drive. "Slow down and live."

Fred Danger: Yes, 75 miles per hour would be fast enough and the ones that drive slower could drive under it if they want to. Reason for it is the ones who drive slower or the faster ones would be satisfied.

Lynn: It shouldn't be necessary, but if they make one it shouldn't be less than 65 because it has been proven that you average a faster speed at 63½ mph than at any other speed.

David Malley: Yes, 70 day and 65 night.

Daryl B.: Yes, I believe a good speed limit would be 65. If people traveled at 65 they would get where they're going fast enough and it would decrease the amount of deaths in Iowa.

Marvin Josten: Yes. I think it should be 55 at night and 65 in the day time . . . and it should also be enforced.

Paul Gilpin: Yes, I think there should be a speed limit on Iowa highways because people drive too fast and they can't keep their car under control. It should be 65 in the day time and 60 at night.

Keith N.: Yes, at night it should be 65 mph because your lights only show so far ahead. No speed limit in the day time.

Dorothy K.: Yes, I think there should be a speed limit in Iowa. During the day, the speed limit should be 65 and at night 55. I think that accidents are mostly caused by pokey drivers or drivers that drive too fast.

Mr Johnson: Yes . . . 60 day . . . 50 night. The accident rate is too high at present and we must try to cut it by some manner or means.

Mart: Yes, 65 at day and 60 at night. The death rate must be cut down.

Elmer Howard: I think it would be a very good idea because it would cut down a lot of accidents. It also would cut down a lot of people speeding. I think that it should be approximately 60 to 70 miles an hour in the day time and 50 to 60 at night.

Marvin S.: Yes, there should be a slow limit of 50 and a fast limit of 70.

A New Song

"I walk the line because I love my baby of the mutual admiration society on blueberry hill so you can't run away from it you jealous lover because tonight you belong to me my true love so don't be cruel you hound dog because the train runs through the middle of the house by the blue moon so lay down your arms and love me tender by the green door Cindy oh Cindy teenage goodnight."

—Rubberneck, Meservey, Ia.

By Bob Hullihan

When you're in church this Sunday, take a moment to look around. Isn't someone missing?

And some night this week when you are sitting in the restaurant, or in the crowd at the basketball game, or while you're having coffee and doughnuts after the meeting, look around. Someone is missing.

And drop in sometime soon where the teen-agers are dancing or roller skating. Look at them. Look closely, too, at the children playing in the schoolyard the next time you pass by. Someone is missing.

After more than 50 years of the automobile in Iowa, always, everywhere some one is missing. A crowd cannot gather but that someone could name a man or woman or child who is missing from the group because they died needlessly in a traffic accident.

The 18-year-old boy who was killed in a traffic accident in 1937 is pretty well forgotten now. But he could have been the solid citizen beside you in church this Sunday; the civic leader making his contribution at the meeting this week. His children could have been playing in the schoolyard.

All this is obvious enough. Anyone can understand that we have suffered a stupendous loss in people and in the things they could have contributed.

But who can understand why we fail to organize to stop this loss? Always, everywhere, some one is missing.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

A card from Mayor V A Cook, who is sojourning in the sunny South, makes us green with envy. Here we are, stuck with a thermometer that seems to have trouble getting above the zero mark, and Mayor and Mrs Cook are basking in the sun and warm breezes at Gulfport, Mississippi

Must be they're planning on staying there a spell, too, for they have asked that we send their Times there until further notice. Much more of this cold weather and we'll be tempted to make personal delivery.

The "March of Dimes" polio fund raising drive which was put on by local mothers Monday night, proved to be very successful. $400.75 was collected by the mothiens as they made the rounds of the town, an amount which is consideraby larger than that which was collected in Klemme last year.

Those mothers, who participated in the drive, said that many people had their checks ready for them when they knocked at the doors, and they are grateful for the kind cooperation.

A good job for a good cause.

"When you keep in step with yourself, you don't have to worry about the rest of the parade."

DOES THE KLEMME SCHOOL NEED A BUILDING PROGRAM?

In the past two issues of The Times excerpts from a report by A B Grimes, Supervisor of Plant Facilities for the State Depar ment of Public Insruction have been printed. This week portions of his report relative to .he main building are printed:

This building is covered with stucco and is located on a site of approximately 4 to 5 acres with a very narrow frontage. The east wall of the building is badly checked above the lower windows and might break off and fall at any time. The southeast corner of the building has a crack about half way up from the ground. The water may get behind this stucco and cause a great deal of trouble in the future.

In the interior of the building all the lighting is of the incandescent type. The chalkboards are green, there is a fair amount of tackboard in each room, the floors of the halls, toilets, and classrooms are of asphalt tile, there are venetian blinds in all of the rooms, and the rooms are equipped with a good amount of open shelving. All of the grade rooms have built_in steel lockers. In the high school the lockers are in the hall. There is a fan system ventilation but it is not used.

The board is not on an annual budget for painting, seating, or any other improvements and I would sugges' that they adopt

MR. AND MRS. GENE ALBERS

Miss Lois Young of Mason City, daughter of Mr and Mrs Bruce Young of Nora Springs, became the bride of Gene Albers, son of Mr and Mrs John Albers, at the Immanuel Evangecial and Reformed Church on Sunday, Jan 20. Rev Oelfke, pastor of the Methodist Church at Rudd, performed the ceremony.

The maid of honor was Mrs LeRoy Young, sister_in_law of the bride, and Miss Janice Johnson, cousin of the bride and Miss Marjorie Pilquist were bridesmaids. The flower girl was Julie Albers, niece of the bridegroom.

Carroll Albers served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Wavel Schaefer, Dean Burgess, Darwin Wille, and LeRoy Young. Ronald Clay, cousin of the bride served as ringbearer.

The bride is a graduate of the Rudd high school and has been employed as bookkeeper at the Des Moines Transportation, Mason City.

The bridegroom graduated from the Klemme high school, served two years in the armed forces, and is now engaged in raising turkeys with his father and brother.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will be at home in Klemme.

Shamrocks Post Two Wins In Past Week

Friday night, the Klemme Shamrocks were hosts to the basketball team from Dows, and treated them very unkindly. Leading by a 38_25 score at the end of the half, the Shamrocks dumped in 28 points in the third quarter while holding Dows to only 6. Each team made 16 points in the final period, but that third quarter Klemme splurge was too much for Dows and the Shamrocks won 79_47

Martin Brinkman tallied 41 points in the game on sixteen field goals and nine free throws to lead the Klemme attack. Gordie Johnson and Bob Larson aided the cause with 13 and 11 points, respectively.

The Little Shamrocks were equally impolite to the Dows reserves. They defeated them 39_25 with Langlitz and Brager leading the way with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Tuesday night, the Shamrocks played Ventura on the local floor and came out with a 76_50 win. Ventura gave them a rough time for the first quarter and trailed by only three points, 19_16 at the end of the period, but from there on, the Shamrocks took over.

Keith Nuehring led the attack for the Shamrocks with 28 points on 11 field goals and six free throws, while Gordie Johnson again came through with 13 Larry Thiemann led the Ventura scoring with 17 points.

The game was rough and saw five players leave the game via the foul route, four from Ventura and one from Klemme. A total of 50 fouls were called.

In the preliminary game, the Ventura junior high defeated the local junior high 36_31. Scheli was high scorer for Klemme with 17 points while Park led the Ventura junior team with 14.

Next action for the Shamrocks will be Friday night, February 1st, when they play Fertile here in the last conference game and last home game of the year. If they beat Fertile they are a cinch for second place in the conference.

The game which was to have been played at Hayfield, Tuesday night, February 4th, has been postponed until February 21st.

Barber Succeeds Daniels On Welfare Board

Hancock County Supervisor Sam A Barber of Kanawha was appointed as member of the Hancock County Welfare Board to succeed Clinton D Daniels, who was unable to serve. The Board met at the courthouse Monday and organized for the year by naming Barber chairman and Lucille Roe, secretary. Other members of the Board are Mrs Roe and Hancock County Supervisor C. A. Bird. Office personnel of the department are Elwyn Hodges, Director Vera Grau. caseworker; and Maxine Panosh, stenographer..

School Will Mail Absentee Ballots For Bond, Election

Superintendent of Schools Harlan G Shafer has announced that absentee ballots for the special bond election February 18th will be mailed to all Klemme residents who request them.

Several people, who are on extended vacation trips have requested that absentee ballots be sent to them. The Code of Iowa states that a person may vote by absentee ballot for the following reasons: business, necessary travel, illness or physical disability.

In order to be eligible to vote in the special bond election on February 18th, a person must be a qualified voter, have been a resident of the State of Iowa for six months, Hancock County for sixty days, and the Community School District for ten days.

The special bond election referred to is a $375,000 bond issue to construct an addition to the present grade and high school building and to purchase land to add to the already existing site. Plans for the proposed addition have been on display for some time at the First National Bank and Gerardi's Cafe.

A descriptive brochure of plans and information for the school addition has been prepared and will be mailed to every family in the Community School District during the week of February 4 to 8. This brochure will be very detailed and will give information relative to the cost to individual taxpayers of the proposed school addition.

'57 Soil Bank Plans Announced; $48 Per Acre for Corn Reserve

Plans to open the 1957 soil bank corn and spring wheat acreage reserve program in Hancock County the week of February 4th have been announced by the Hancock County ASC committee.

They stated that the county ASC office in Garner will be fully prepared by that time to give detailed information on this year's soil bank requirements and to fill out agreements and contracts for those wishing to sign up.

Farmers will have through March 8 to sign corn and spring wheat acreage reserve agreements, the county ASC committee said, but the rules provide for possible advantages for those who sign early. Acreage reserve agreements are for one year only.

Conservation reserve contracts for three, five and 10_year periods beginning in 1957 will be available through March 15.

A total of 217½ million dollars of government funds is available for corn acreage reserve payments in the commercial producing area of the nation this year. Of this amount, Iowa has been apportioned $44,287,000 of the greatest amount set aside for any state.

The county ASC committee emphasized that Iowa's share is within five million dollars of the total acreage reserve payments made in this state for 1956. The state's share for corn will be apportioned among the individual counties in proportion to their corn allotment for 1957, they said.

Ample funds for the 1957 wheat acreage reserve in Iowa were announced last fall when the winter wheat acreage reserve sign_up was conducted.

For the state as a whole, the corn acreage reserve payment for 1957 will average $47 per acre, or more than for 1956. In Hancock county, the average will be $48 per acre. The average wheat acreage reserve payment for 1957 will be around $24 per acre in Iowa.

Farmers of Hancock county will receive a new notice of their 1957 individual corn acreage allotments. This new notice also tells the individual the per_acre payment rate fixed for his farm for corn acrage reserve participation this year.

Applications for acreage reserve agreements will be accepted on a "first come, first served" basis to the extent county funds will permit. Farmers wishing to participate above the maximum limits must indicate such a desire in their original agreements. After the sign_up has closed and if funds are left over in the county or can be transferred to the county from another county or state, additional acres requested in original agreements will be accepted in_so_far as available funds will permit.

Another inducement for early signing is that all corn and spring wheat acreage reserve agreements for 1957 may be amended or terminated up to and including March 8. This provision is regarded as especially important to corn producers.

Corn—The maximum will be 20 acres or 30 percent of the such a plan whereby there would be a certain amount of painting and new seating every year. At the present time I understand that the Pittsburgh Paint plan was used in the decoration of the rooms. Most of the rooms at the present time are painted and in fairly good condition. There are new seats in the 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 7th and 8th grade rooms. In the high school all the arm chairs are new. There is a good amount of natural light in most of the rooms. All of the windows are of steel and are on brick seating.

The home economics room is made up of two unit kitchens. There is very good natural light and lovely cabinet work. There is an exhaust fan in this room. The room is well painted and there are individual drawers for the girls taking home economics work. There are no blinds in this room. There are two classes held here daily, one of 10 pupils and the other of 12 pupils.

The present gymnasium seats approximately 500. The floor is of maple and the walls of glazed tile, about 12 feet up. There are traces of leaks on the wall back of the stage. The locker rooms are below the stage—they are small but not too bad. Each locker room has a stool, a lavatory, and three shower heads.

There is no vocal music or instrumental music room in the building, the band is housed in a separate building and the vocal music classes are held in the auditorium-gymnasium.

The boiler room has a fire proof door to the corridor and the room itself is fire resistant. It is equipped with a Campbell boiler and fan system. The old coal room is very damp and is leaky, otherwise it might be used for storage. This boiler room is quite orderly but it would look better if it were painted.

UPPER FLOOR

There should also be space large enough for board meetings. There should be space for storage and the keeping of records. Your present superintendent's office is too small and inadequate. The science room contains 672 square feet. It is equipped with a demonstration table with sink and gas. There is a small amount of tackboard and not enough storage for equipment. There are some open shelves in this room. This is not a bad sized room but it needs more storage space. A science room should contain 1,200 square feet in order to be effective.

The study hall is equipped with ten tables and chairs, it has a small amount of tackboard, a composition ceiling, and it probably serves very well except that the library is housed in a separate room with tables, chairs, magazine racks, and book shelves around the walls of the room. It is much better if the library and study hall can be one room where pupils can have access to the books and the books and magazines when they are in the study hall.

The whole building is very clean and very well maintained and most of the rooms are fairly well equipped with chalkboards, tackboards and open shelves. Perhaps the poorest feature of the whole building is the size of the rooms.

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

Last week we had the inaugural ceremonies. The new governor and Lt. Governor were sworn in Thursday, the 17th of January and the State House, built many years ago, was the scene of these ceremonies. People from all over the state of Iowa came to Des Moines on this day, but due to the lack of facilities and the poor arrangement of rooms, I am sure that very few were satisfied with ceremonies which are entitled to all the dignity and honor that can be given them. In talking to the Adjutant General of the State of Iowa and to other legislators I decided to submit a bill which would allow the inaugural ceremonies to be held in the Veteran's Memorial Auditorium here in Des Moines where, I am sure, the Governor and Lt Governor, whether Democrat or Republican, could have ceremonies fitting for the occasion.

On Tuesday, January 22nd, the committee assignments were announced. I was honored by being given the chairmanship of the very importnat Conservation, Drainage and Flood Control Committee which will have much to do with the water rights, drainage and irrigation problems of the state. I was also assigned membership to the following committees: Agriculture I; Judiciary I; Military and Veterans Affairs; Motor Vehicles, Commerce and Trade; Public Utlities, Telephone, Telegraph and Express; and, Ways and Means.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday I worked on many bills, checking the law pertaining thereto, and drafting same for submission to the House of Representatives for consideration. One bill which I introduced should be of particular interest to Hancock County; namely a bill authorizing the dredging of Crystal Lake, one of the few beautiful natural lakes in Iowa which should be preserved by removing the silt deposited in it through the centuries.

Considerable time was also spent on rewriting the egg law. It was decided, after looking over the egg laws of Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska and Illinois, that Iowa could benefit by revising its laws similar to those of the surrounding states by taking the mandatory grading of eggs out of the Iowa law and allowing the sale and purchase of candled "current receipt" eggs as well as candled graded eggs. It was our opinion that the farmers will receive a higher price for his eggs and the consumer will pay less for just as good eggs.

Another bill which I introduced would allow people in townships who have acquired an old school house for a town hall to levy a tax up to ½ mill to maintain it.

A bill was also submitted by Rep Nelson of Forest City and myself to correct the classification of drainage assessments in an instance such as this—forty acres of land, let us say, was assessed at $800.00 when the drainage district was established. It was then subdivided into lots, or sold to, say, four individuals or more. This bill would allow the original assessment to be apportioned among the new owners of the forty acres of land. This is just an example of what this law could do. This would also mean that roads and new highways going through the land would take a proportionate share of the drainage assessments. This should be of particular interest, also, to the people of Hancock County since we have a new proposed super highway going north through the eastern part of the county. This bill should also benefit those people between Britt and Garner who will be affected by the relocation and reconstruction of highway 18.

I am not going into detail on the very heavy schedule of work I tried to get out this week, however, another bill of interest to you is one on the sale of fertilizer which will attempt to make sure the farmer gets what he pays for since we have received complaints as to the chemical analysis of some fertilizers sold in Iowa.

In addition to looking over and checking many other bills on various subjects, I am now arranging for a public hearing which will be joint with the Senate on conservation, drainage and flood control. We will have this hearing on Wednesday, February 6th in the House Chambers, and a full discussion of our important water rights problems, I hope, will be had. Senator Carl Anderson, chairman of the Senate Committee, and I, as chairman of the House Committee, will preside at this public hearing. Anyone in Hancock County or in the state of Iowa interested in our water problems in invited to attend.

See you next week.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

TREADING CAUTIOUSLY

Governor Loveless, in his first three weeks in office, treaded cautiously as he labored with a Republican-dominated legislature. In his daily press conferences, and in discussions of pending legislation with public officals, the Democratic chief executive made every effort to get along amicably.

Loveless said he would ask the legislature to select a liaison committee with which he could counsel during the remaining weeks of the session. He said he woud like the lawmakers to name their own committee.

In his inaugural address he asked for a joint committee to study the problem of liquor control. His request was ignored by the lieutenant-governor and speaker of the house in naming their committees. The governor would not say he was disappointed but said he had thought his suggestion a reasonable way of approaching the problem.

The governor is careful not to make demands of the lawmakers, and isn't telling them what to do. He apparently is stating his case through his inaugural and budget messages, will let the legislature speak for itself.

TOP POSTS

Top legislative appointments have been made by the presiding officers of the two houses. The committee now active in both senate and house hove been named by Lieut Gov W H Nicholas and speaker H L Mooty. Committee chairmanships are important because bills filed in both houses must go through these committees.

Some top senate committees will be headed by Harry Watson, Sanborn, appropriations; X T Prentis, Mt Ayr, ways and means; W C Stuart, Chariton, judiciary I; Wilbur Mollson, Grinnell, schools; Frank D Elwood, Cresco, tax revision.

INAUGURAL MESSAGES

Governor Loveless' inaugural message took 40 minutes to deliver. That compares with 34 for Governor Hoegh's inaugural talk and 39 for the late Governor Beardsley's message in 1953.

BIG CITY BILL

First bill to go to the floor of the Iowa senate in the 1957 session was one aimed at the city government of Des Moines. It got a big push from a small town businessman, Sen Jacob Grimstead, Lake Mills Republican.

The measure, if approved, would permit recall elections of members of the Des Moines city council. Grimstead is chairman of the senate election reform committee which reported the bill out under a suspension of rules.

Once it got to the senate calendar there was conjecture as to how fast action would come. The measure could involve other city governments too.

BOTH SIDES

Republican and Democratic floor leaders are included as sponsors of a bill designed to settle the conflict between Iowa physicians and hospitals. The measure has been filed in the house of representatives.

This controversy has been waging in the state for more than two years, has been through the courts. A settlement was reached by both sides a few weeks ago and the pending legislation if written into law would settle he issue for both sides.

MORE DISCIPLINE

Some Iowa senators want parents to watch their children more closely.

A bill in the state senate would make parents responsible for damage done by their children.

At present cases of vandalism come under the old English common law rule that the parent is not responsible for the wrongs of his child.

SOLDIERS' HOME

A $2-million addition to the Iowa Soldiers' home at Marshalltown is being sought, by proposed law now on file in the Iowa house.

The money would erect a new building for physically infirm war veterans and would have not less than 250 beds.

Under the proposal the money would come from tax funds.

ELECTION LAWS

A two-year study of Iowa election laws has been recommended for the 21 local leagues of the Iowa League of Women voters. Final vote on the proposed study will come in May.

TRADING STAMP

The issue of trading stamps may again be debated in the Iowa legislature.

Under a measure this year, trading stamp companies operating in Iowa would be required to pay 10 percent of their gross receipts to the state.

The bill, on file in the senate, is similar to a senate bill including house amendments which was before the legislature two years ago but died without final action.

The bill this year was introduced by Sen W H Tate, Mason City Republican, and others. In addition to the 10 percent tax, companies would also be required to obtain state license for a $100 fee and to post $20,000 bond. Retailers would be required to obtain a $10 license fee.

WANT TAX PROBE

State Sen George O'Malley and State Rep Howard Reppert, Des Moines Democrats, want an investigation of the income tax division of the Iowa tax commission. They said companion measures asking an investigation will be filed in the house and senate.

Reppert said the Democrats "want to find out why special privilege has been allowed to some taxpayers and not to others."

Before leaving office, Gov Leo A Hoegh said that an investigation into leaks of confidential information from the commission during the last state elections failed to turn up sufficient evidence for filing of any action. Hoegh, day after election, had ordered the state bureau of investigation to look into the leaks of supposedly confidential information from taxpayers files.

NO SCHOOL PERMITS

A measure on file in the legislature would eliminate school driving permits now issued to youthful drivers to operate autos between homes and the school they attend. Features of the bill would prohibit any driving permits going to persons under 16, except that learner's permits could go to youths 16 to 18 if they drive only when accompanied by a parent. Probationary licenses would go to youths 16 to 18 years.

Willard Freed, Gowrie Democrat, one of the sponsors, said the measure has support from several Junior Chamber of Commerce groups. The proposal points out that while only three percent of the drivers are between the ages of 16 to 18 they are involved in 25 percent of the accidents.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Clarence had the idea that no one was checking up. When he caused a couple of traffic accidents, he didn't worry. After all, he had insurance and no one was killed. Every now and then he'd get tagged for a traffic violation, but that didn't bother him either. He could afford to pay fines.

But there are people in the Iowa Department of Public Safety who annually check the records of some 48,000 Iowa drivers, looking for people just like Clarence. One day, one of these researchers got to Clarence's card and took a look at his record of accidents and violations. At that moment, Clarence became a "prospect" for a new program of the department's safety education division.

It came as a tremendous surprise to Clarence when he got a polite request to drop in and talk things over with an Iowa highway patrolman. Clarence went, protesting that he was as good a driver or better than most people.

The patrolman showed Clarence the record and told him he had two choices: he could accept license suspension for 30 days or attend a 9 hour course at the nearest driver improvement center.

That was the second surprise for Clarence: He learned that the safety education division, co-operating with other state and local agencies, has set up driver improvement schools in Dubuque, Davenport, Ottumwa, Sioux City, Mason City and Waterloo; that schools soon will open in Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Council Bluffs, Fort Dodge, Creston, Burlington and Marshalltown; that schools also are tentatively planned for Carroll, Spencer and Decorah.

Clarence is in school now learning a lot of things he never knew about safe driving, but mostly he's learned that someone is watching, and constantly checking up. How's your record?

HARD TO GET

A span of 6,000 feet of number four bare copper wire was stolen from a line of the Iowa Power and Light Co. near the Pottawattamie-Harrison County line recently. The persons taking the wire had to climb approximately 23 poles in order to remove it.

Little Things

On one occasion an orchestra of some hundred members was holding rehearsal for a concert. In this group was a man who played the smallest of all instruments, the piccolo.

He said to himself, "In all this din, it doesn't matter what I do," so he stopped playing.

But almost at once the conductor's hand was raised silencing the orchestra, and with an irritated voice he shouted, "Where is the piccolo?"

We all have a part to play in the symphony of life. Sometimes we feel that our part is unimportant, that our small efforts are of little avail, as so, like the piccolo player, we do nothing. But there is one who listens, and we are missed.

So, play your part no matter how small and insignificant it many seem to you. We all dream of great deeds and high position away from the humdrum of little tasks. Yet character and worth do not lie in doing conspicuous work; they lie in doing our work well, whatever it may be.—Ball Chat. Ball Chatham High, Glenarm, Ill.

Where is Life, is Hope

"Why won't you marry me, Esmeralda?" the country boy pleaded. "There ain't nobody else, is there?"

She looked at his scraggly hair, his ears that stuck out, his crossed eyes.

"Oh, Elmer," she sighed, "there must be."—Eagle Eye Eye, Prioeton, Calif., High.

Know Your Town

Today Ron and I are to go up town to interview Ernest Gerardi. As we enter Ernie's establishment, we are greeted by the usual friendly atmosphere which is always present.

Ernest Gerardi was born November 23, 1914 at Marble Colorado. When he was two years old he moved to Chicago, where he attended both grade and high school. While in high school he concentrated on musical training and he and several friends, one of whom is Johnny Mince, who is now with the Arthur Godfrey orchestra, formed a dance band.

Ernie came to Klemme in 1939 but he left in 1942 for Wichita where he became a production engineer at Boeing Aircraft While at Wichita, he entertained at USO and various other oranizations. He also was in the musical group that accompanied Gene Autry in the Tenth Annual Ice Festival at Wichita.

In 1949, Ernie returned to Klemme and bought Quandt's restaurant. He then began to teach accordion and guitar lessons. He now has a studio at Clarion and he also teaches accordion lessons at the Garner school.

Ernie has been a judge at the Hawkeye Music Festival and the Chicagoland Music Festival for the past four years. A large music school in this area is one out of many of Ernie's ambitions.

Ernie said his favorite pastime is meeting and talking to people. Steak, spaghetti, and meatballs are among his favorites in food but just food will do.

Daffynitions

Petty Larceny: That form of robbery most commonly practiced by accompanists when they engage in that game called "stealing the show".

Song leaders: Those individuals who stand on the platform waving their arms while the people do as they please.

Inconsistency: Is that attribute possessed by car owners, whose vehicle bear banners for Christ, but who drive as though they belong to the devil.

Tune: What most pianos are not in.

Gracias: Spanish for "Thank you", a term seldom used.

Compliments: Those inflationary remarks that, when given in profusion make you burst, but in moderation, lift.

Red: The facial color of the person who has just been the target of one of those clever facetious toastmasters at a banquet.

Guest Speakers: Those victims who arrive, unmet, uncertain where to go, and for whom no plans have been made as to board and room.

Unconscious: That state of mind in which church members tote song books home.

Substantial: The degree of reduction we make on other people's ideas.

Frustration: The emotion experienced by the teacher standing before a class (any age) trying to teach the lesson, while they carry on lengthy, whispered conversations.

Thin: The thickness of some people's skins which makes them overly sensitive to casual remarks.

Breath: That about which people talk, when it is bad.

Second-handed: The condition in which onions are highly obnoxious.

Question of the Week

What is your suggestion for raising money for Senior Skip Day?

Barbara A: I think they should be able to use the money from their class play. To raise more money, they could try dances, car washing, or other activities.

Karen C: I agree with Barb.

Dorothy K: Last year they used money they made on their class play and whatever else they did to earn money and I think they should be able to this year.

Elaine J: I agree with Dorothy.

Marcella N: I agree with Dorothy.

Lavonne W: I agree with Dorothy, too.

Joyce L: I agree with Dorothy.

Sandra M: I agree with Sharleen.

Bob A: Have a bake sale or find some kind of job.

Gary L: I don't have any suggestion.

Jim K: Have a car wash day or something like that.

Arthur C: I think it would be swell if all seniors could get a "job" some Saturday and donate the proceeds to the class to pay our transportation expenses.

Elmer H: Have a slave sale and have the businessmen hide us for a day.

JuneM: I think it would be nice if seniors had bake sales on Saturdays to help raise money.

Janice S: In other towns, seniors will spend Saturdays washing cars and windows and I can't see why we can't do some thing like that to earn money. It isn't to late to earn money for skip day if we start right away.

Time Waits, For No One

Wednesday was the "dread" day when students beheld the strain, stress 'n' struggle of 9 weeks packed on to one little piece of paper—the quarterly report card. Insignificant as that document may appear, it holds the key to the present, past and future

The past: How hard did you work during the quarter?
A - Advantageously
B - Beneficially
C - Casually
D - Deficiently
F - Ficticiously

The present: What is the automatic exclamation when your gaze meets your grade?
A - "Alleluia!"
B - "Bingo!--
C - "Crazy!"
D - Devastating"
F - "For Heaven's Sake!"

The future: What will be the consequences when parents, pupils, and report meet?
A - Activities unlimited!
B - Bigger bonus!
C - Caution, or no car!
F - Father will be angry!

BOYS' SPORTS NEWS

Each day after school, other than night games, we diligently practice basketball. We run a few laps, run through a few drills, practice up our shooting eyes, and then scrimmage for awhile. We end the practice by making ten free throws in a row.

We are working up to the sectional tournament. It will be held at Corwith during the week of February 25th. We play Wesley for our first game and we are fairly optimistic about the outcome of the sectional.

Friday, February 1st, we play our last home game with Fertile. We hope you will all come and see the Shamrocks in action.

Senior Skip Day

The senior class met on January 22, 1957, and discussed plans for their senior skip day.

It was decided to go to Minneapolis on April 19th. A bus will be chartered and the class will see the Ice Follies, Cinerama, and visit the Ford plant.

Timely Tips For Teenage Girls

TO LOSE YOUR GUY

Meet your date with a dirty neck;
"Yakkity-yak" till he's a wreck.
Wear a petticoat that drags,
Flirt with all the sideline stags,
Slap on make-up far too thick,
Use poor taste in clothes you pick.
Stuff yourself till you're not so thin;
Mend torn straps with a safety pin.
Order food he can't afford,
Rave of others till he's bored.
Talk too shrill and far too loud,
Be possessive in a crowd.
And you'll be known both far and wide
As: Always the bridesmaid,
Never the bride!

TO WIN YOUR GUY

The kind of date that HE likes best
Is a tubbed and scrubbed one—neatly dressed.
Learn to talk both soft and low,
Don't be reckless with his dough.
Be on time—he hates to wait;
Build him up till he thinks he's great.
Snooty ways can cost you friends,
(Sweetness pays off dividends)
A doll with a smile upon her face
And a charming manner gets someplace.
So set your goal and sight your stag
And tally ho! He's in the bag!
—Needle, Atlantic, Iowa High

Teenage Trends

The latest in food—Thickly sliced onions and orange sandwiches. "Pink Ladies" (consisting of milk and cherry syrup).

Slanguage—He's "quaint" if he's so square he's got corners. "Smarts" is a synonym for brains. If you're shiftless you have a hydramatic personality. "Don't pull the switch" means if you don't watch out, you'll get in plenty of trouble. Out West, chaperones don't chaperon, they "ride gun". "Robber bubble" denotes approval. If you're not going steady, you're on drey dock."

Notice for Girls—A fad in the East is making pincushions that resemble former boy friends. Ouch! It is "the thing" to knit your initials in the toe of those argyles you're kniting for him—lest he forget.

Notice for Boys—If your car is stripped of chrome, decorations, etc. it's been "shaved".

Modern Day Songs Called Senseless

One of the most popular sayings of today is the well worn cliche, "They just ain't writin' songs like they used to." The main contention of those who claim this, is that today's songs are sensless, with meaningless lyrics. On the other hand, they say the songs of yesterday were sensible with a point to bring out.

Our editor, constantly on the lookout for information which will enlighten the reader, (and while holding a parasol and smoking a cigar, pers), decided to investigate the matter. He discovered a multitude of old hit songs and offers the following as the "sensible" hit parade:

For a starter, how about the ever popular "Barney Google With His Goo Goo Googledly Eyes." Certainly we must include, "A Tisket, A Tasket." Of course no "sensible" hit parade is complete without the immortal "Jumbo Mumbo Kickapoo Jay O'Shea," or "Jada, Jada, Jing, Jing, Jing".

But the song which our editor considers number one on his list is the ditty which goes "Mairsy Doats and Doesy Doats and Little Lambsy Divey." Kiddly divey too, wouldn't you? So there you have it. Sensible? Er, I mean sensible.

This story was written for a purpose, that of increasing the reader's appreciation for finer music. So readed, heed the advice of the editor. The next time you start to drop a dime in a jukebox and play a rock and roll tune-reconsider. Instead look for one of those old "sensible" songs. If there are none on the jukebox, lock around the premises. There may be a player piano in the place.—Pinevillian, Pineville, W. VA., High.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

On November 17, 1939, Garold Clarence Lenz became a full-fledged member of Klemme, Iowa. At the age of two, Garold, better known as Gary, started riding horses. This paid off because Gary is now Hancock County Horseshowman and has been for the last five years.

"Rebel Without a Cause" and "Battle Cry" are his favorite shows. Tab Hunter, Jane Wyman, Lawrence Welk, and Pat Boone gain number one in Gary's popularity poll.

If you ever hear him say, "You bet", you'll know this is his favorite saying.

We wish Gary the best of luck in the future.

Don'ts For Students

Don't make an effort to be present every day of school, absence makes the heart grow fonder.

Don't fail to come late occasionally; use up the tardy slips. That's what they are printed for.

Don't ever bring teacher an apple; she'll flunk you anyway.

Don't fail to leave your initials on the desks, they will be so valuable for a museum when you become famous.

Don't fail, boys, to "light up" the moment you're out of the building; it makes you look so manly.

Popularity Of Home Sewing Prompts TV Sewing Lessons

Eight out of every ten women in the nation do some type of home sewing. This has prompted a series of television sewing lessons direct from Iowa State College, according to Elsie Mae Van Wert, County Extension Home Economist.

The series known as "Sew Easy", will first be televised over the homemaking program, "At Home" from KGLO-TV at 1:30 p. m. starting Monday, February 4.

Subject matter to be covered will include everything from how to take your measurements and buy the correct type and size pattern to how to put in a zipper, make belts and buckles and work with plaids.

The Hancock County Extension Office has secured a supply of the lesson leaflets, known as "Improve Your Sewing Skills," which have been prepared at the College for use in connection with the series. Homemakers of the county, who wish to follow the series, may write or call the County Extension office at Garner for a kit of the leaflets.

The schedule for the months of February and March will be Monday, February 4, "Taking Your Measurements"; February 11, "Choosing the Right Pattern Type"; February 18, "Buying Your Pattern and Fabric"; February 25, "Getting Ready to Sew"; March 4, "How to Alter Your Skirt Pattern"; March 11, "How to Alter Your Waist Pattern," March 18, "How to Cut Out Your Dress, and March 25, "How to Get Ready to Sew."

farm's corn allotment, whichever is larger but not more that the farm's corn allotment. The minimum will be one acre.

Wheat—The maximum is 50 acres or 50 percent of the farm's wheat allotment, whichever is larger, but not more than the farm's wheat allotment. The minimum for wheat acreage reserve is three acres or the allotment, whichever is smaller.

The rule permitting farmers to amend or terminate corn and spring wheat agreements up to March 8 does not apply to winter wheat agreements signed last fall. Farmers who have winter wheat agreements cannot amend them but they may terminate them providing they do so within 15 days after receipt of their combination notice of their 1957 corn allotment and corn acreage reserve payment rate.

The maximum which may be placed in the conservation reserve at the full payment rate is the farm's soil bank base but additional eligible land may be reserved at a lower rate. The minimum is five acres for grassland and two acres for land going into forest trees. The full conservation reserve payment ranges in Iowa, by counties, from $10 to $13 per acre per year. In addition, as much as 80 percent of the cost of establishing certain conservation reserve practices will be paid with government funds.

Farmers who wish complete information on 1957 changes and additions to the soil bank rules should visit their county ASC office.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

DOES THE KLEMME SCHOOL NEED A BUILDING PROGRAM?

During the past three weeks we have printed portions of a report by A. B. Grimes, Supervisor of Plant Facilities, Department of Public Instruction. This report was dated February 1, 1955 following an inspection tour on January 25, 1955. The following is the suggestions and recommendations made by Mr Grimes in his report:

"No matter what plan is adopted, I would suggest that the land to the north to the road, the house, and the junk pile to the south should be purchased. There should be at least 10 acres in the site and you should get as near this amount as possible, and then the walks, drives, and parking area should be correctly laid out.

The present main building does not lend itself to converting to grades as the span is narrow - from 20 to 21 feet. Therefore, through all of these plans I am recommending that the present building be used for high school purposes. You should plan now to discard the present elementary building. It is combustible, poorly arranged. the rooms are too small, and the site is entirely inadequate. This will mean then that there will eventually be need for 10 elementary classrooms to house the kindergarten through the 6th grade and 6 interchangeable high school classrooms to take care of the children from the 7th through the 12th grade.

At the present time you have six regular classrooms in your present building. You will eventually need all of these for the grades 7 through 12 besides home economics, typing, shop, library-study hall, band room, and a lunch room.

Plon I: Use the present building to house the children from the 7th through the 12th grade. Building an elementary building of 10 rooms and a lunch room and a band room and leave the other high school facilities as they now are.

Plan II: Use the present building for the 5th through the 12th grade by using the manual training room. Shift the library books to the senior study hall and use the library room for typing and the typing room for a grade room. Build elementary rooms (8) plus a shop room, lunch room, and a band room.

Plan III: Build 7 elementary rooms for the lower grades plus a shop, lunch room, music room and home economics room. Use the present home economics room for elementary grades. It seems that with only two classes of home economics that present facilities are adequate. It is probobly better to have three or four home economics classes in the present facilities rather than build larger rooms and only have two classes in the home economics room. This plan is not too good because, no doubt, the home economics room can well be used where it is at the present time.

Plan IV: This should be the same as Plan I except to convert the present library to a superintendent's office and include the library with the study hall and make the shop into a vocal music room. Then include in a new building of 10 classrooms facilities for a shop, lunch, and band.

Plan V: Convert the present high school building into a grade building and build a new high

January Wos Cold And Dry Month

January 1957 went into the record as one of the coldest in the past ten years with an average temperature of 10.32. The minimum average for the month was a minus .01 degrees and the maximum average was 20.65. In 1956 the average temperature for the month was 13.73. The highest temperature recorded during the month was 41 on January 21 and the lowest mark recorded was a minus 14 on January 14. On January 29 the temperature reached an even zero for the maximum. On seventeen days of the thirty one in January, the mercury dipped to zero or below.

Precipitation during the month was below normal with a total of .36 of an inch which came in frequent light snowfalls measuring a total of seven and a half inches during the month. The heaviest amount fell in the 24-hour period ending at 7 a m on January 25, when .11 of an inch fell in three inches of snow Precipitation for the same month in 1956 was .86 of an inch. The month just ended was comparatively pleasant in spite of low temperatures because of an abundance of sunny days. Only five days were listed as cloudy or partly cloudy and the month ended without the usual January blizzard.

While January 1957 was a cold month, a glance at the weather record for January and February 1936 brings back memories of much more severe weather. In 1936 the mercury dipped below the zero mark on January 18 and dipped below zero in all but four days from January 18 to February 22. Readings of minus 20 were frequent and the coldest reported was a minus 36. The cold weather in 1936 was much more severe because of the frequent blizzards and heavy snows.

Plans Call for Super Highway 2 Miles East

Tentative plans call for the location of the new Interstate Super Highway in an area within two miles east of the towns of Goodell, Klemme and Garner.

The new super highway running south and north will enter the south line of the county some where in sections 32 and 33 in Avery Township and run north leaving the county some where in sections 4 and 5, Ellington township, west of Pilot Knob. This tentative location is according to present tentative plans of the Iowa State Highway Commission as released by Hancock County Engineer Charles Paulson.

The new highway will consist of two 24 foot hardsurfaced lanes with a 50 foot dividing lane. Interchanges will be located about four miles apart on the average and parallel roads will route traffic from county highways to interchanges.

Work on valuations in the area preparatory to the actual purchase of right-of-way is under way.

The present tentative plans have the highway running due north and south through Hancock County. A slight curve is indicated near Belmond.

The proposed highway will evade most of the existing highways and cut through sections Just when actual construction will get under way is not certain but contracts have been let on sections of the highway in other areas and more are expected to be let soon.

Shamrocks Down Fertile To Secure Second Spot In Conference Standings

In a game that saw 176 points poured through the hoop by both teams, the Klemme Shamrocks, Friday night outscored the Fertile Indians 93-83. The victory was revenge for the Shamrocks and evened things up for the 59-57 decision they lost to Fertile in the conference tournament at Franklin. It also nailed down the second place spot in the conference for the locals.

All conference games for the season have now been played and the Shamrocks are second only to Sheffield, who finished out their undefeated conference season with a 75-18 win over Ventura.

In addition to the high scoring in the game Friday night, there were more than the usual number of fouls called; 33 against Fertile and 25 against Klemme. Five Fertile men had to leave the game on fouls and four from Klemme via the same route.

Klemme led 47-39 at the half and 74-60 at the end of the third period before finishing out their 10 point victory margin.

Martin Brinkman led the scoring for the locals with 42 points, while Bob Larson had 23 and Gordie Johnson, 16. Daniels was the big gun for Fertile with 25.

The Little Shamrocks did not fare as well as did the varsity, and took it on the chin from the Fertile reserves 50-45. Bacon led the attack for the local reserves with 16 points.

Next action for the Shamrocks will be at Thompson on Friday night, February 8th. Then on Tuesday, they will travel to Crystal Lake.

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

I forgot to mention in last week's report the results obtained from my request for ruling from the Attorney General as to the Tax Commission ruling on the filing of Iowa income tax returns. The Tax Commission had made a ruling that both the husband and the wife must sign the Iowa return whether or not one of the members made any income or not. The Attorney General ruled, which was my opinion and the reason why I requested the Attorney General's opinion, that if the wife does not make any income the husband may file his return and claim her as an exemption and the wife does not have to sign the return.

Governor Loveless, in his inaugural address to the joint session of the Senate and House, asked for reorganization of the various departments of the state of Iowa. He suggested that we abolish the Commerce Commission and establish a Department of Labor, a Department of Public Welfare, and a Department of Conservation and Natural Resources. He also suggested that our labor laws be changed to permit union shop in the state of Iowa. Although he stated that he would allow the ½ cent sales tax to expire, he did recommend that salaries at the universities be raised and that capital improvements be made at these institutions, and this all takes money. On highway safety. he said we should promote highway safety and have a reasonable speed law. He suggested a change in the alcohol beverage control and also that a committee be appointed to make the recommendations thereon. The speech was very interesting.

Many bills are being prepared and submitted which then find their ways to the various committees which will study them and report them out to the House either to be passed or not passed, which means that all the bills will be given a very thorough going over before they are given to any of the representatives to be voted on for passage. It has been said that a legislator's duty is not only to pass bills, but to keep poor bills from being passed. This is very well taken.

On Wednesday, January 30th, the House of Representatives passed its first bill, which was a bill to specifically charge the various individuals responsible with the responsibility of keeping funds of the state properly invested whenever possible. Two representatives who are bankers in their home towns presented the bill for consideration. It will now go to the Senate where it will go into the committee on banking. This banking committee will consider it and then must recommend it out for passage before the senate can consider it on the senate floor.

In order to satisfy the desire of many of the citizens of the state of Iowa, regardless of his party affiliations, and in order to have some organization to allow the inauguration of the governor and lieutenant governor and the functions attendant thereto to be put on so that everyone who is desirous of attending can enjoy them. I submitted a resolution which would, in effect, allow a committee to be appointed by the presiding officers of the Senate and House to take over and have complete authority to arrange the inauguration and to set forth that the inauguration could be held in a place other than the State Capitol building. Since we now have a beautiful Memorial Auditorium with facilities to handle interested crowds of people who like to attend. It was believed that this would take care of this particular phase, and, if the committee functions as it should, I am sure that in the future, those attending the inauguration will be much more satisfied than they have been in the past. This resolution was passed Thursday with only one no vote. however, before final passage, I offered an amendment to my own bill to have the executive council, which includes the Governor, Secretaries of State, Agriculture, and other department heads. and the Adjutant General as the committee in charge of the inaugural ceremonies.

CAPITOL LETTER

LEGISLATURE MOVES

Activity in the Iowa legislature picked up momentum this week, the fourth week of the 1957 biennial session.

Impetus came from the budget message prepared and delivered Tuesday by Gov Herschel Loveless. The governor's proposals drew pro and con comment, depending upon whether one talked to a Republican or a Democrat.

The Republicans in the assembly already placed themselves on record through a policy report prepared and made public in the first week of the session, a move aimed at taking some of the wind out of the Democratic governor's taxation and revenue report.

Appropriations sub-committees, following the budget report, started immediately to work on the big task of deciding what money is needed to operate the state in the next two years, and from whence the funds will come. Final decisions won't come until late March or early April.

EGG GRADING

A group of legislators will make effort to have the mandatory grading of eggs removed from the Iowa law. Among those sponsoring the proposal are Representatives, Halling, Luken, Riehm, Nelson, Vermeer, and Ballhagen, and Senator Harbor.

Their proposal would permit the buying and selling of candled "current receipt" eggs in order to allow the producer to sell to the best available market.

"No egg law will solve production," representative Riehm points out. "But even in overproduction, this amendment will give the farmer a higher price by providing another market for his eggs, to the breaking and drying processing plants in Iowa."

START AND STOP?

Rex Weddle, a Knoxville realtor, has made a start in his new job as state personnel director, but he faces a shaky future.

His is the first appointment made by Democratic Gov Herschel C Loveless outside of the governor's office staff. But while Weddle is already at work, the Iowa legislature is pondering legislation which would abolish the job.

State GOP Chairman Don Pierson started the personnel fireworks by suggesting the job be placed under the GOP—controlled state executive council rather than the Democratic governor. Then Republican party leaders in the house and senate decided it might be easier to abolish the job than transfer it.

TAX APPOINTMENT

The Iowa tax commission named a Democrat to the vacant job of executive secretary. He is Louis Lint of Des Moines, an unsuccessful primary election candidate for commerce commissioner last June.

Lint, in the general election campaign, had been an aide to Herschel Loveless.

ENGLE RESIGNS

Frank Engle, Davenport, a member of the Iowa employment security commission, has left his state position. His resignation, effective Feb 1, was a surprise. A Democrat, named by Governor Hoegh, he wanted to devote more time to his drug store at Davenport, he said.

FLAYS COMMISSION

State Rep. Dewey Goode (R) of Bloomfield has charged the Iowa highway commission, despite an attorney general's opinion to the contrary, does not properly distribute equalization money to certain counties in the farm-to-market road program.

Goode charged that despite the intent of the law, and the legal opinion, "the commmission will not let the counties add to their systems and still give them equalization money".

The highway commission contends equalization funds go to farm-to-market systems when county board's are improving these former mud roads. The funds are available to a county until all such roads are improved. When that point is then reached such need funds are then used in other counties still improving farm-market roads.

Counties, the commission feels may not add to these roads and still obtain equalization money, when the entire farm-market system is not improved in other counties.

MAY PASS NOW

A pre-audit bill, passed by the Iowa legislature in 1951, may be abolished this year. The bill. now law, has been under attack since its inception. The Iowa State Board of Regents and the State Fair Board have been fighting the law for six years.

The Regents, who govern the University of Iowa, Iowa State and Iowa State Teachers, contend that it gives the state comptroller veto powers over the state institutions.

House and senate leaders of both parties are sponsoring legislation to abolish the program.

UTILITIES COMMISSION

A proposal to establish an Iowa Utilities Commission is again on file in the legislature. Such proposals have been proposed in the last several sessions.

This year, however, the bill may draw more weight since it has the support of private power companies.

But the measure may find a turbulent road from opposition from REA, municipal light plants, the Bell Telephone company and independent telephone companies.

SAFETY BELTS

The death of a friend in an auto crash has prompted a legislator to seek an Iowa law requiring safety belts in autos. The bill has been filed in the Iowa senate by William H Harbor (R) of Henderson.

Under Harbor's proposal safety belts would be required standard equipment in all automobiles.

PENSIONS

More than 500 Iowa school teachers with an average age of more than 80 would receive increased pensions under a bill proposed in the legislature.

Backers, who hadn't filed the measure at this writing, said the bill would give 543 school teachers who retired before July 4, 1953, pensions of $75 a month. Most of the teachers who have at least 25 years' experience, now get between $25 and $37.50, one spokesman said.

ANIMAL TOLL

The state would be authorized to pay $50 per purebred animal and $25 for others, for animals slaughtered because of tuberculosis infection under a bill filed in the Iowa house. The payments would be the same as the federal government now pays.

FAIRS AID

State Rep. Russell Eldred (R) of Anamosa has filed a measure to increase state aid to county fairs. His plan is to give each of the 100 fairs an annual appropriation of $2,250, instead of $2,000 now received. The money is used primarily for 4-H prizes.

KEEPS SEAT

The election contest was settled by a house committee.

LICENSE PLATES

State Sen. Jack Miller (R) of Sioux City would like to see the state of Iowa issue a better quality plate in the future but would cut down the number to one per auto. He thinks the state would effect a savings on the reduction in number issued. In past years Iowa has issued one plate as an economy measure but the reaction generally wasn't good. Peace officers found it hampered their enforcement work, they said.

A bill on file in the legislature would also remove the delinquent penalty provisions tacked onto license purchased late by auto owner if the plates were not available in the county treasurers' offices on time.

It Pays To Increase Your Word Power

(not by)
Wilfred Funk

Do you know what a somnambulist is, You don't? Shame on you! I'll tell you. It's a person who practices somnambulism. There! That should hold you and keep you from asking silly questions for a while. What? You don't know what somnambulism is either? Goodness sakes! Don't you own a dictionary? Not close by? Oh! Well in that case, I'll tell you.

The dictionary defines somnambulism as "a sleep-like state in which a person may walk about or do other things as if awake". In other words, a somnambulist is a sleepwalker. Surprised? So was I.

While I'm on the subject, have you ever heard of a smutch? Well a smutch is what you get when you smirch something. Thoroughly confused? O. K. Here it is. A smutch is a "dark stain; a smudge" which you get by smirching something which means "to smear with something that stains, or make dirty." You learn something everyday.

Here's another one: mannequin. Give up? A mannequin is a model as in a dress shop. Isn't the English language wonderful?

Here's an interesting little monstrosity: moot. A moot is "any assembly meant to administer justice for administrative purposes." Doesn't that just thrill you no end? I was simply amazed to find it out. In fact, I don't see how I ever got through life this far without knowing it.

Do you believe in antidisestablishmentarianism? Chances are you do. But before I tell you what it means, here is a little bit about the word. It happens to be the longest non-technical word in the English language and it has a grand total of 28 letters. I have never found the word in any dictionary. However, in Webster's Twentieth Century Dictionary, you'll find "establishmentarian" which means "one who supports the doctrine of establishment in a religion, or belongs to an established church." So by putting the double negative prefix "antidis" on establshmentarian and by adding "ism" on the end, you get a word which means a belief which is against the unbelief in an established church. Aren't you glad you found out that precious little bit of information?

If you are challenged by this article to delve into the world of vocabulary, then I have succeeded in my intention. If you are really sincere, here are some words that you can look up on your own. Morraine, okapi, oligarch, and aleaginous. Have fun.

Question of the Week

Do you think Iowa drivers should be required to have reached the age of 18 years before obtaining a drivers license? Why or why not?

Marvin Josten - No, I think through drivers training, the teenagers will learn the safe way of driving. and if they don't know the difference between right and wrong at 16, most likely they never will.

Jo Ann H - No, I think you should be able to get a drivers license at the age of 16, because then you may want to go somewhere and you wouldn't have to rely on someone else to take you. You should be able to drive like a responsibe person at the age of 16.

Jane Renner - Heavens no! Sixteen is long enough to wait before getting a license. I think most teenagers are responsible enough to be driving a car although there are a few who wouldn't be responsible enough if they waited until they were 20.

Donald Anderson - No, because I don't want to wait until I'm 18 to get my drivers license.

Daryl B - No, I think the drivers are capable of driving at 15.

Mr Westberg - Yes, because a student will realize his responsibility to society more readily. At that age he has graduated and is looking forward to his vacation plus his privilege of driving.

Gordon Johnson - No, I think a person who reaches sixteen is capable of handling a car, but I think every person should take a drivers training course before he gets his drivers license.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

Guess who this senior is.

She was born at Crystal Lake on June 9, 1939. She started school at Britt, and from there continued to Woden, Titonka, and finally came to Liberty No 8 at Klemme. As a freshman she was welcomed to Klemme High.

Here are some clues about her personality: Her favorite TV program is "West Point". Her favorite show is "The Burning Hills" which starred her favorite actress and actor, Natalie Wood and Tab Hunter. She also likes to hear Tab Hunter sing "Young Love." This person's favorite dance band is Lawrence Welk. She is a member of the First Lutheran Church of Britt and also a member of Luther League. Her pet peeve is school, but oddly enough her favorite subject is typing. Her favorite foods include ham, potatoes and gravy. "White Tower" seems to be her favorite book. This senior's activities in high school have been sextette, girls' glee club and mixed chorus.

If you haven't guessed by now who this senior is, then here is the answer: it is June M Mayland.

Know Your Town

As we strolled into Klemme's only beauty shop, we saw a 5 foot blonde with blue eyes. This is the operator, Sharon Lois Ward, born in the year 1935. She told us she attended Riverside school until fourth grade. She then came to Klemme where she graduated in 1953.

In the years of 1953-54 she attended the La James Beauty College at Mason City. She now runs a shop of her own called Sharee's Beauty Shop.

If Sharon were watching television, she would probably be watching Lawrence Welk with Pat Boone as the singer, because they are her favorites. If Sharon were attending a movie, it would be "War and Peace" for it is also her favorite. Jeff Chandler and June Allyson are her favorite movie stars.

We asked Sharon what her pet peeve was. She laughed and said, "People who always chew their fingernails." If Sharon were going to prepare a meal, it would have swiss steak in it, because that is her favorite food. Her hobby is knitting, and her favorite pastime is horse-back riding.

We wish Sharon the best of luck in her newly opened business. ("Well, it's not too new.")

Sweetheart Dance

A Sweetheart Dance, sponsored by the junior class, will be held on February 15, at 7:30 in the gymnasium. The King and Queen of the dance will be announced and crowned during the evening. Admission will be fifty cents per person.

The king and queen will be chosen by the high school students by voting. The voting will take place during the two weeks preceding the dance, starting on February 4. There will be individual boxes for each king and queen candidate. Each penny dropped in the box will equal one vote. The more money in the box, the more votes your candidate gets. Students will be able to vote every morning from 8:30 to 9:00 and at noon from 12:00 to 12:45. Candidates do not have to be voted for in pairs. Separate votes may be cast.

Cast your ballot now for your favorite king or queen and be sure to come to the Sweetheart Dance on Friday, February 15.

Seniors Working On Term Papers

If you see any seniors walking around with bruises on their heads, it's because they've been beating them against the wall while working on term papers in English class. Even though they may be beneficial, we are very dissatisfied with the idea. As one of our classmates said, "They're TOO MUCH work."

Encyclopedias, periodicals, and books are required for our reference work. This means our subject must be one that can be found in these three books. It should be a topic that we are well acquainted with and are interested in knowing more about.

The footnotes and biography entries seem to be causing quite a bit of trouble. Footnotes are found at the bottom of the page, while the biography is a list of books used in the paper.

Obituary of Mrs. Clara Stille

Mrs. Clara Stille, age 73, passed away suddenly on Wednesday, January 30, at the Belmond Community Hospital, following a brief illness.

Mrs. Stille was born in Liberty Township, on December 29, 1883, the daughter of the late Wilhelm and Marie Gast, and grew up on the farm known as the Gast Homestead.

On November 15, 1899, she was united in marriage to Mr. J. J. Stille. For a few years they farmed as renters, but later purchased their own farm in Liberty Township, where they lived and worked for thirty-three years.

Mr. Stille passed away on September 27, 1940. Three years later, Mrs. Stille moved to Klemme, where she resided until her death.

She leaves to mourn her passing, three daughters: Gertrude, Mrs. Elmer Schaefer of Garner; Fern, Mrs. Arthur Carlson of Clear Lake; and Lucille, Mrs. Cecil Bridges of Thornton. Four sons: Quentin of Klemme; Kermit of Thornton; George of Goodell; and Virgil of Garner. Nineteen grandchildren and nineteen great grandchildren. Also two brothers: George Gast of Beltrami, Minnesota; and Herman Gast of Klemme. One sister: Mrs. Martha Janssen of Iowa Falls.

She was preceded in death by her husband John, two brothers and two sisters.

Mrs. Stille was a life-long member of the Methodist Church, having been trained in early childhood in the ways of Christ. She was a devout member of the Women's Society of Christian Service, and in 1954, she had the honor of being named a Life Member of the Society, and of receiving a Life Membership Pin. She was never absent from a church service if it was possible for her to attend. She found great comfort in her Bible and in communion with her Lord.

● RANDOM THOUGHTS

school with 6 interchangable classrooms, typing room, shop, band room, lunch room, library-study hall, and a home economics room. This plan would be very expensive and besides it might separate the high school from the present auditorium-gymnasium, unless it were attached to this building at some angle. Also this leaves the small rooms for the grades and as I said before it is better to have your grades in larger rooms inasmuch as they have to be in their rooms almost the entire day.

Of all these plans I would prefer Plan I. It seems to me that you need new facilities for your smaller children and that your present building could be very well used for high school purposes.

Perhaps out of these plans I have suggested you can find one that is satisfactory or perhaps you can devise a plan of your own that is better than any that I have suggested. Either Plan I or Plan II might work well in taking care of your future needs.

Let me say that I enjoyed working in your school and discussing your problems with you. Before I close this letter I want to say that I have not been in any school where there has been better discipline. Everywhere I went the children and the teachers were courteous and everybody seemed to be minding his own business. Perhaps you do not understand just what this means but the best educational programs are carried on where there is law and order in the building and where there is courtesy and respect for each other among the children. For the sake of good educational results, do not lose the good discipline you now have in your school.

If I can be of any further use to you or if this department can serve you in any other way in the future, please feel free to call upon us.

Recommended Crop Variety Information

"Recommended Crop Varieties for 1957", an Iowa State College publication, is now available in the extension office in Garner, says Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director.

A mimeographed summary of sorghum tests for 1955 and 1956 may also be obtained at the extension office, he adds. The summary covers sorghum yields, field performances, and plant characteristics.

The "Crop Varieties" leaflet includes Iowa State College recommendations for corn (hybrids developed by Iowa State College and the U S Department of Agriculture), soybeans, oats, barley, wheat, flax, alfalfa, red clover, sweet clover, ladino clover, birdsfoot trefoil, lespedeza, bromegrass, and sudan grass. Recommended standard variety grain and forage sorghums are also listed.

Henderson says all crop varieties recommended by the college (with the exception of standard varieties of sorghum) are eligible for production as certified seed. It should be possible to obtain certified seed for most crops, and Henderson recommends that certified seed be used wherever possible.

A list of certified seed growers is kept in the county extension office in Garner, he says.

County Represented At State 4-H Leaders' Day

Five persons from Hancock County were among the more than 400 delegates from 92 Iowa counties who attended the 7th annual state 4-H Leaders' Recognition Day held at Iowa State College, Ames on January 28, Elsie Mae Van Wert, county extension home economist reports

Those who were selected to represent all of the county's leaders at this year's event were Mrs LeRoy Hansen of Forest City, Mrs Alfred Jurgemeyer, Klemme, and Milton Friedow of Kanawha.

Throughout the day one speaker after another recognized the contributions made by voluntary 4-H leaders, Miss Van Wert said. These same speakers then painted a vivid picture of the changing social structure in which we live and what it means in the lives of young people and to the 4-H program.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Increased steer marketings have dropped steer prices considrably from what they were in September, 1956, but they're still higher than they were a year ago, reports Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

More fed steers are reaching the market now than in both September, 1956 and a year ago. However, there are fewer prime steers being marketed now than a year ago, and also fewer than in September.

Early October saw the beginning of stricter grading, and according to reports, this is one reason for the decrease in numbers of prime cattle being sold. The big reason, though, is the fact that a year ago there were many long-fed, old-crop cattle than on the same date a year ago. The Corn Belt showed the biggest increase, 5 percent, with the western states showing only a slight rise.

The total number of steers on feed was about the same as a year ago. There were a few more heifers on feed January 1 than a year ago, but the 4 percent increase was due to increased calf feeding. There is a little difference in the length of time cattle have been on feed than at the same time last year, but the effects of the increased numbers of feeder calves show up in the time of intended marketings. Only 45 percent of the cattle now on feed are slated to go to market between January 1 and April 1. Last year, 50 percent of feeder cattle were marketed during this period.

Kutish looks for improvement in the winter beef market if feeders follow through with this plan of fewer marketings. Reduced pork supplies will help the beef market, too.

Total steer marketings during December, 1956, at Chicago, Omaha and Sioux City were 238,175 head, as contrasted with 175,385 head during September 1956. This caused average steer prices to drop $1.30 from September to December.

The comparison between December 1956, and December 1955 is a little different. December 1956, prices were somewhat higher than those in December 1955. The average steer price at Chicago was $1.30 higher than in 1955. By the first week in January 1957, it was only 82 cents higher than in 1955. Since then there has been some strengthening of the market, with most of the gain in prime carcasses.

DAIRY OUTLOOK

More from fewer cows has been the trend in the nation's dairy industry during the past 12 years, says Steve Hiemstra, Iowa State College farm economist.

Except for one year, the total number of milk cows has been decreasing since 1944. But better feeding, better management, artificial insemination, and other factors have caused a great increase in milk production per cow, says Hiemstra.

In fact, milk production per cow has increased enough to provide for the nation's increasing population. And the milk production increase is expected to continue. Hiemstra says about 130 billion pounds of milk should be produced during 1957. That would be an increase of 3 billion pounds over 1956.

Milk prices will continue at present levels, with seasonal variations, until April. After April 1, prices will depend on what support levels are set by the Secretary of Agriculture. However, little change is expected at that time, and if this is the case, dairy incomes should go up in proportion to the increase in milk production.

The United States Department of Agriculture bought more dairy products during 1956 than during 1955 in maintaining support prices. But stocks of dairy products are lower now because of a greater out-movement during 1956. There are no uncommitted butter stocks, and cheese stocks are 115 million pounds less than a year ago. But there are 32 million pounds of nonfat dry milk stocks—13 million pounds more than at the end of 1956.

PROTEIN FEEDS

Going from the dairy to the feed lot, we find tankage again the most economical source of protein concentrate. Soybean oil meal is a close second, and is currently much cheaper than either cottonseed meal or linseed meal. Hiemstra thinks soybean meal prices will stay below last year's levels because of the record soybean crop last fall.

Dehydrated alfalfa meal and bran are quite expensive protein sources. Hay prices are well above last year because of the small crop in drouth areas, but good hay is still a relatively cheap source of protein.

ARE THEY TALKING ABOUT YOU?

Not naming names, but someone they know is cooking with a new automatic NATURAL GAS RANGE. Could it be you? Are you enjoying the freedom provided by an oven that automatically cooks whole meals even while you're away? Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Mrs Albert Schmidt found out the hard way Sunday morning that ice can be mighty treacherous. She stepped out of the family car at the E and R Church, slipped on the ice and broke her glasses. It took several stitches to close the resulting cuts on her forehead and cheek.

It has been our experience that a slip on the ice usually brings us to rest on a portion of our anatomy other than where we wear our glasses.

Don't forget to vote Monday. Whether you are for or against the special school bond proposition, that's the only way you can have your say about the outcome of the election.

The past week has brought some spring-like weather to this part of the country. Even the town officials had spring fever. They were out with a grader today (Wednesday) stirring up the side streets in the hope of perhaps helping them to dry out sooner.

Chicken Pox has been an almost constant visitor in the local school of late. In fact, it has been responsible for a multitude of absences. One teacher had only half a class present one day last week because of the prevalence of the malady.

Supt Shafer has asked that we remind parents of the rule of long standing in the local school that calls for a certificate from a doctor in order to be re-admitted to school after an absence longer than a half day. Some have been disregarding this rule. The certificates cost nothing and are for the protection of all the children in school.

Wonder how many farms in this area will be sliced in half by the new interstate highway when it is built?

And we'll be glad when they get the blacktop on present highway 69. That new slab along the edge is nice for the added room it gives, but the seam where it joins the old pavement has a tendency to throw a car when it is necessary to cross it.

The Lions are making plans for their annual athletic banquet, and we understand it will be held the latter part of March. Better plan to go. There is always good food, good entertainment and good fellowship.

Special School Election Set for Monday, Feb. 18

The special school election for the proposed addition to the Klemme Community School will be held Monday, February 18. Polls will be open from 12:00 noon to 7:00 p. m. at the Klemme Fire Station.

Voters are being asked to approve a $375,000 bond issue for the purpose of building an addition to the present grade and high school building and to purchase land to add to the already existing site.

In the event that the bond issue is successful, the Karl Keffer Associates, Architects, will immediately proceed with the working drawings or blueprints. It is doubtful as to whether a contract could be let before the end of May. The architect estimates that it would take two months to prepare the working drawings and contractors are usually allowed four weeks to study the plan before submitting a bid.

Also in the event of a successful election G W Templeton, Garner and H N Rogers, Des Moines bonding attorney, would start preparing the bonds and advertising them for sale.

All eligible people in the Klemme Community School District are urged to vote on Monday. Supt. of Schools Harlan G Shafer is requesting that all voters visit the grade school and the high school before voting and examine the existing facilities first hand.

Voters are cautioned to use an X when voting. A check mark or a written yes or no may spoil your ballot.

Anyone wishing a ride to the polls, call 72140 and transportation will be provided.

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

After dictating last week's report, several other items of interest occured. You have all read the news stories of last Thursday's wild airplane ride. However, to have read about such an escapade is one thing—to have stood in the statehouse towers and watched while this little red and silver plane hurtled at you, swooping and diving without restraint over the entire city, is quite another. It was a day of activity, and what easily could have turned into a fateful day in the lives of Iowa's legislators (he came close to the capitol building many times) or the people on the streets and in the homes of Des Moines.

Then, on Friday, the Houses in joint convention with the Senate, heard an address by Dr Willim C Menninnger of Topeka, Kansas, nationally noted psychiatrist, who reminded us that Iowa needs a vastly improved mental program. Several bills incident to this subject had already been introduced into the House, and since the speech, several more have been drawn up for consideration.

On Monday, of this past week, I introduced a bill relating to gifts of securities to minors. In effect, this bill will allow a gift of securities to a minor without a guardianship to manage the securities, with a full accounting to the minor when he reaches the age of twenty-one, by the father or donor. I believe 13 other states have this regulation now.

During the floor discussion, also on Monday, the House members debated whether the County Supervisors should on November 1st of each year, prepare a county road program for the next year and submit it to the Highway Commission for approval and recommendations. As the bill was presented, I did not like it because it took away local control, but liked it otherwise because the taxpayer could see where his money was going to be spent; so I offered an amendment that would allow the supervisors to follow their county road program even if the highway commission disapproved it in whole or in part, providing the whole issue was aired in a county public hearing. Action on this bill was then deferred until Tues., at which time the bill, with my amendment, received a majority vote and was passed. Rep Dewey Goode, a man of twenty years legislative experince, stated "we now have a good bill—better than when it was originally introduced."

Also on Monday, the committee on Conservation, Drainage and Flood Control, of which I am chairman, had its regular weekly meeting. A total of 19 house bills pertinent to drainage and water rights was assigned to sub-committee for further study as to merit, after which we will hold further meetings to decide whether or not these bills should be sent to the House for passage. You may be assured that these bills which will affect so many of you people at home, will receive my thorough consideration.

At this same Conservation Committee meeting, a delegation of ten of my committeemen, whom I appointed as a subcommittee (myself included) accepted an invitation from Monona County to take a one day trip there to study their rather extensive irrigation and drainage projects on the Missouri river bottoms. This inspection trip, which we are taking at our own expense, will give us first hand information on the Monona County problems in particular, but, in general, they will be representative of problems to be found throughout the state of Iowa; and, I'm sure we will benefit from the trip, not only as individuals, but as legislators about to deal with water rights, irrigation problems and drainage.

In last week's report I told you about a bill which I introduced that would permit inaugural ceremonies for future Iowa governors to be moved from the statehouses in order to handle and satisfy larger crowd. This bill was passed by the House by a vote of 101 to 1 and sent to the Senate for passage there.

On Tuesday, a joint convention of the House and Senate, plus many vitally interested persons, received Governor Loveless' Budget Address. No doubt you have all read the text of his speech in your newspaper, and I would only comment here that while the Governor recommends an increase of some thirty-one million dollars over what ex-governor Hoegh spent, he made NO provisions to increase local school aid, nor did he provide for full agricultural land tax credit. It will be of interest to all counties, and county road programs, to see what would develop in the Governor's proposed shift of the 10% sales tax which now goes to the road fund, to general state use. This would mean 10% less to counties and towns for roads. In Hancock County we were expecting to receive about $460,000.00 for county roads from the State Road use tax in 1957. The state's 'rainy day' surplus, built up over many years, will be used to finance his state spending.

Another of the Governor's recommendations which bears considerable thought is the proposed and permanent continuance of a higher corporation tax. It is said that the Governor's budget will not hurt the "little man" and one of the Governor's Democratic supporters stated that this increased budget "shows that Iowa must move forward" . . . it would appear that 'moving forward' would involve new blood and new industry in our state, while his higher corporation tax seems to repudiate this very concepts. Along this same vein, then, while the proposed budget is not directly hurting the "Litte Man", as the governor chooses to call us, the possible moving out of big industry and the failure to attract new industry, most certainly will affect men "big" and "little".

As was to be expected, Governor Loveless' budget address was received with much interest, since he is the man who campaigned on a promise to cut taxes and cut spending. Loveless' proposed budget is the largest in the history of Iowa, thirty-one million more than "High-Tax" Hoegh.

On Wednesday afternoon, I co-chairmaned the Senate and House Public Hearing on Water Rights and Drainage which was held in the house chambers. This public hearing was very successful in that interested and informed persons from all over the state attended and actively participated; and, also in that many water problems and probable solutions were thoroughly aired, discussed and hung-out-to-dry. We feel that as a result of this public hearing; in conjunction with the special studies being made by committees, we will be able to produce some highly beneficial legislation on this vital subject of water rights, water development, water conservation and drainage.

On Wednesday, a school bill which provides that school directors be elected from districts was up for passage, but it had to be deferred to Thursday after I pointed out to the House that one of the amendments was incorrectly drawn and that no voting places in the districts were provided. On Thursday, this bill was passed after the corrections were made, with 100 votes for and 2 votes against.

On Tuesday I stopped a bill from being passed which would have really interferred with all school bond issues in the state by bringing the State Printing Board in on notices required in the bond elections, although it was not the intention of authors of the bill to do this.

Thursday afternoon in the House Chamber, with some people from Hancock County attending, saw a battle rage over whether Iowa should have a Public Utility Commission. The privately owned public utilities said we should have state regulation; independent telephone companies, R E A, and municipally owned utilities opposed any state regulation or utility commission. From the response of the audience of legislators and interested persons to the speeches, it was apparent that no utility bill will be passed this session unless a lot of changes are made in the bills to satisfy all utilities, whether privately owned, municipally owned, or cooperative.

The Wednesday edition of the Mason City Globe Gazette which I received on Thursday, had a news item about Boards of Supervisors from 16 counties in north Iowa, Hancock County included, objecting to House File 46, the bill requiring the counties to prepare a planned road program which I have mentioned above. I thought they may have received some erroneous information, so I have written the following letter to the Supervisors of the counties mentioned, and now you can make your own decision on whether this bill is good or not.

Gentlemen:

May I ask a few questions and at the same time, explain House File 46 relating to the adoption of a planned program of expenditures for county secondary roads?

1. On or before November 1st of each year the Board of Supervisors with the assistance of the County Engineer, shall plan and determine the program for maintenance and the construction of county secondary roads for the next calender year, based on the amount of money available from county taxes, state road use money and other sources.

Question:

a. Does not this make for efficiency and road planning?

b. Should the road program be planned a year in advance?

2. The law proposed would require the county plan of expenditures on county roads be submitted to the Highway Commission for approval, or disapproval, and recommendations.

Question:

a. Is it not good for a county to receive information and advice on their road program?

3. The proposed law would require the Board of Supervisors, if they elect to proceed on a road program disapproved in whole or in part by the Highway Commission, to hold a county public hearing on the recommendations of the commission, at which time the county taxpayers can appear to hear the arguments for or against the road program and to express their own views. After the public hearing, the Board of Supervisors can revise, amend or adopt the original program.

Question:

a. Is the taxpayer entitled to express his views on the proposed county road program?

b. Is the county taxpayer entitled to know how and for what his money is being spent?

c. Is not the planning required desirable and in the public interest?

d. Is it not true that this law keeps local control and promotes efficiency and economy?

It is disturbing to believe that county supervisors would object to adequate and efficiently planned road programs, as well as informing the public of their proposed actions.

The money to be spent on secondary county roads for 1957 will exceed sixty (60) million dollars in all counties, of which thirty (30) million dollars is returned by the state to the counties from state taxes, the remaining thirty million is from local county-wide taxes on property.

In the county where inadequate planning prevails, inefficiency, extravagance and waste exists. The provisions of this law would result in all counties maintaining the high standards of efficiency, with its resulting economy which now exist in a large majority of the counties.

The money for these programs comes from just one source—the taxpayers—and these taxpayers are entitled to know how and for what their money is being spent. THE LAW DOES JUST THAT.

It is to be hoped these explanations will clear up some erroneous views on this law.

Respectfully,
Curtis G. Riehm
State Representative from Hancock County
(and a taxpayer)

CAPITOL LETTER

TUSSLE STARTS

The big tussle is on in the Iowa legislature.

Question facing the Republican majority in both houses is how to obtain credit for providing improved state services without drawing ire of the voters for increased taxes for those services.

While both Democrats and Republicans want good government, neither side wants the election-year blame that falls on those who assume the leadership needed to vote added revenue for good government.

Since Governor Loveless delivered his 38-minute budget report, that is the ticklish question now faced by both sides.

Republican legislators are particularly sensitive to the "high tax boys have got to go" remarks of the last campaign because they lost the governorship, four GOP tax study committee members, some other key races. Democrats are now seeing the difficulties a governor faces—of providing progressive government without taxpayer retaliation at the polls.

LIQUOR PLANS

Just 15 minutes before the governor reiterated his request for a legislative committee to study the Iowa liquor situation, the Iowa senate voted down a proposal that would have established such a study.

The senate action came just ahead of the Loveless budget message in which he asked for the study unit. The governor had first advanced his plan in the inaugural message last month.

Meanwhile a proposed constitutional amendment designed to submit the liquor-by-the-drink question to the people for a vote has been filed in the Iowa house. Thirty-eight Republicans joined St Rep Clark McNeal (R) of Belmond in the bill.

A constitutional amendment must be approved by two consecutive sessions of the legislature and then by a vote of the people before it can go into effect.

"Drys" as well as "wets" were sponsors of the measure. A "dry" spokesman said: "I'm for this because I think if approved it will bring total prohibition back to Iowa. It's the first time the people have had a chance to voice their opinions on the liquor question since the days of prohibition."

PATROL SALARIES

The house must now act on the bill passed by the Iowa senate to increase salaries of Iowa highway patrolmen.

The senate voted to increase personnel in the patrol and also to hike salaries just four days ahead of the governor's budget message. The action was hurried through the senate to beat the governor to the punch. He had included such a recommendation in his budget message. The governor's plan apparently leaked out to Republican legislators.

One bill would increase the biennial fee for a driver's license from $1.50 to $3 and up the chauffeur's license from $2 to $4. The other bill would increase patrol strength by 50 men and would give raises from $50 to $110 a month. Patrol strength now is 225.

NO SCHOOL AID

Schoolmen in many areas are unhappy with the governor's approach to the state school aid problem. He asked no increase in school aid.

The Iowa taxation study committee has recommended increased school aid but did not set a definite amount. The delegate assembly of the Iowa State Education Association is supporting the tax study report, but has urged an appropriation of $30-million to finance the standard aid for schools plan.

NEW OFFICERS

Joe L Gettys, Oskaloosa superintendent of schools, is the new president of the Iowa State Education Association. Dr Oscar Thompson, associate professor of education at Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, is the new vice-president.

DEMO DINNER

Iowa Democrats will have their annual Jackson Day dinner April 13 in the Veterans Memorial Auditorium in Des Moines.

This will mark the first time the Democrats have held their $25-a-plate fund raising feast in the big auditorium.

Date for the dinner was set by the party's state central committee.

ATTACK BUDGET

It didn't take Republican legislators long to swing their big guns into action on Governor Loveless' budget message asking a $15-million hike in state appropriations.

St Rep Robert Carson, Independence, GOP floor leader in the house, had his statement prepared before the message was delivered. He'd had a tip on the Demo governor's askings. Carson declared:

"I trust that members of his (the governor's) own party will take the lead to seek passage of the governor's tax program. The responsibility to provide adequate financing now falls upon their shoulders.

"The Republican leadership in this house certainly cannot assume the roll of leading the fight for the enactment of Democratic tax measures."

TAX ON TIPS

Federal agents are cracking down on persons who receive tips for personal services and then forget to include them in income tax reports.

The crackdown is aimed especially at taxi drivers, waiters, and waitresses. All categories of employment will eventually be included in the survey by income tax men.

"Contrary to the belief of many, this income is taxable," said C D Weeter, chief of the audit office branch of internal revenue in Iowa.

EDITORIAL

Each year on the 14th day of February we observe St Valentine's Day.

Valentine's Day is believed to originate from the Roman festival of the Lupercalia. At this festival the names of young girls were put into a box and men drew out the names. Maids and bachelors also drew names. The names they drew were to be their "Valentine" for the coming year.

Now boys and girls, husbands and wives and parents and children exchange valentines on this day.

Question of the Week

What do you think of the plans for the school's new addition?

Martin B - I think it's alright because the grade school we now have is not fit for a school house.

Roger J - I think it is alright as it is definitely needed.

Jim K - It looks O K.

Keith N - It's O K.

Bob L - I think that it's a very good idea for the grades need a new school.

Miss Whitmire - I think the grade and music rooms are especially needed. The new addition will enable the high school to have more space.

Craig L - I think it would almost be the best thing Klemme has ever had here or will come, so everybody should vote.

Dorothy R - I think that it would be O K since they are needed.

Coleen G - I think it would be a good idea—so all the grade school kids could go to one school instead of being scattered all over.

June M - I think it is a very good idea. We really need more room for more classes, and the grade children won't be all scattered out.

Roger M - I think it is a very good idea because a new grade school building is needed. It also would be a better place for the kids to play.

Joyce T - I think they are alright.

Sharleen S - I think they're O K because it's plain to see we need the new addition.

Douglas Roul - It doesn't make any difference to me what they do, because I don't think I will be here.

Paul G - I think it's alright because we need a new addition.

Howard - I think it would be alright for we need the room.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The moment he bought the silver tray and carried it out of the shop a feeling of bleak uneasiness came over him. The hour or so he had spent shoping for a wedding present for his only daughter had been a happy one. There had been jokes with the clerks and congratulations passed. Everyone in the small town knew about the wedding and everyone seemed happy for him.

But now the silver tray under his arm reminded him that he had reached another milestone. It didn't seem possible that he had suddenly become old enough to have a daughter about to marry.

Soon he would be buying presents for his first grandchild—another milestone. He was depressed by a feeling as though he had left a train at the wrong station and was far from where he wanted to be.

As he drove home the silver tray beside him on the seat seemed to be a silly and inappropriate thing. Perhaps that was the trouble. The present wasn't right. He could imagine his daughter, years in the future, smiling over the abandoned silver tray as something "poor old dad thought was just the thing for a wedding present."

He turned sharply into a driveway and headed the car back toward town. He would exchange the tray, though he would feel silly doing it. This was his day of indecision.

And so it was. As he came to a stop street he couldn't decide to come to a full stop. He slowed and rolled on through. The broadside crash threw him out of the car. The silver tray crashed on the pavement with him. There would be no more milestones.

Cupid Sent to Trick Girl; Falls for Her

The story of Cupid is one of the most charming myths of the Romans and centers around a maiden named Psyche who was the youngest daughter of a king. Because she was so beautiful, Venus, the goddess of love and beauty, became very jealous and hoping to stir up trouble, sent her son, Cupid, to try to get the beautiful princess to fall in love with a common man.

Cupid himself, however, fell in love with Psyche and had her taken to his palace. There he visited her every night, but never let her see him and asked her not to try to find out who he was.

But her sisters kept urging her to find out secretly, while he was asleep. Finally Psyche lighted a lamp only to discover that he was the handsomest of all the gods. As she stood gazing at him, a drop of oil fell from her lamp to his shoulder and woke him.

Finding Psyche not to be trusted to respect his wishes, Cupid forsook her. Psyche, however, began looking for him everywhere, finally making her way to the palace of Venus.

There the jealous Venus seized her and gave her a most difficult task to perform. But Cupid, now realizing her great love for him, came to her rescue and married her,

Did they live happily ever after? We don't know, but we wouldn't tell you if they hadn't. We wouldn't want to ruin your Valentine's Day!—Hi-Lites, Harding High, Charlotte, N. C.

What is a Wink?

The dictionary meaning of the word, wink, is 'an act of blinking one eyelid as in conveying a hint or a sign." The dictionary however, fails to reveal the various effects of this action on human beings.

In my opinion, there are four definite results. A flutter of the eyelid from some one dear usually produces a flutter of the heart. A flirtatious wink from someone of the opposite sex creates outward annoyance but more than likely inner exhilaration.

Then, of course, there is the friendly wink, which is accepted as a salutation and finally, there is the wink which one female gives another. The slow, deliberate closing of the eyelid tells the recipient that their evil plan goes well, and the recipient is affected with a feeling of smugness. This latter, we repeat, is exchanged only between females!

Crazy Mixed Up Horses

Two cavalry rookies were each given a horse, and wondered how to tell them apart.

Joe cut the mane of his horse, but in time it grew back. Then Tom cut the tail off his horse, but it grew back.

Finally Joe said, "Maybe one horse is larger than the other. Let's measure them."

So they did, and sure enough, the black horse was three inches higher than the white one!

The Yellow Moon

The moon was yellow;
The autumn light;
The lane was bright;
She looked at me in
Her every gesture—
Her every glance
Gave me the impression
She craved romance.
I stammered, stuttered,
Time went by—
The moon was yellow
And so was I!

Two Scents Worth

Mamma Skunk was worried because she couldn't keep track of her two children. They were named In and Out, and whenever In was in Out was out and if Out was in, then In was out.

One day she called Out in to her and told him to go out and bring in In. So Out went out and in no time at all he brought in In.

"Wonderful," said mamma Skunk. "How, in all that forest could you find In in so short a time?"

"It was easy," said Out. "Instinct."

Some Cat Got Him

Once I had a little bird,
It's song was the sweetest ever heard.
He is gone. Some cat got him.
Once I had a white pet mouse,
He was a great, pretty, dancing little mouse.
He was ate. Some cat got him.
Once I had a lovely beau,
He was a dream.
Lots of cash to spend, you know.
I could scream! Some cat got him.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Farmers will raise more late spring and summer pigs this year than in 1956, predicts Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Kutish says the reason for the predicted boost goes back two years, when hogs were marketing for about 22 cents a pound. This high price caused farmers to glut the market with hogs during November, December and January of 1955-56, and prices dropped to around 10 cents.

This price prompted hog raisers to cut back their production. This cutback was so great that prices are now up to 19 to 20 cents, and interest in hog production is again running high. But Kutish warns farmers not to use the 19 or 20 cent price as a basis for planning late spring and summer farrowing. He points out that if too many pigs are produced during this period prices will again drop, and we will have prices next winter near the lows of November and December 1955. The March 1, U S Department of Agriculture pig crop report will indicate how much farmers are planning to increase their late spring and summer pig output. If this planned increase is great, there will still be time to cut down June and July litters.

The current high hog prices reflect the big decrease in production during the April through July period of 1956. April-May litters were down 18 percent in number, and June-July litters were off 13 percent from the same periods in 1955.

At the same time, slaughter was running equal to, or a little ahead of 1955. This continued until November, when the effect of the cut in pig production began to show up. November hog slaughter was 4½ percent below 1955, and December slaughter dropped 22 percent from 1955.

Kutish thinks the big difference in this year's hog slaughter, as compared with a year ago, will appear during the winter of 1957-58. He says the late spring slaughter of 1957 shouldn't differ much from 1956 because of the greater number of pigs saved per litter last fall. Late spring slaughter might run a little less than 1956, though, because the carryover of hogs isn't likely to be as great as in 1956. And, too, farmers are holding breeding gilts off the market.

Soaring prices have reflected the sharp cutback in December, 1956, slaughter. By the end of December, prices were about $6 higher than in December, 1955, for the week ending January 21, 1957, hog prices on the interior market were $6.50 higher than a year ago.

Credit Now Available For Farm Housing

A line of credit now available from the Farmers Home Administration should help a good many farm owners in this area improve or build farm buildings, including houses or provide water for household or farmstead use, for themselves or the tenants.

That is the belief of Stanley N Boman, LuVerne O Thompson, and Melvin L Thompson, members of the Farmers Home Administration committee in Hancock County.

The Hancock County committee reviews applications for all loans by the Farmers Home Administration and helps the county supervisor adapt the agency's program to local farmers' needs.

In addition to being a farm owner, other eligibility requirements as outlined by the committee provide that the applicant must have enough income from the farm or from the farm and other sources to meet family living and farm operating expenses to repay his loan and other debts on schedule.

Farm housing loans are repayable over periods up to 33 years at 4 percent interest, and are secured by a mortgage on the farm.

Applicants get building plans and specifications from whatever source they choose and make all arrangements for hiring the necessary labor and purchasing materials. The Farmers Home Administration representative will review the plans, inspect the construction as it progresses, and sees that it meets generally accepted standards of soundness.

The committee said farm owners may get further information at the Farmers Home Administration county office located in the Post Office Building in Mason City, Iowa where county Supervisor Irwin C Christiansen is in charge.

SCHOOL EMPLOYEES

Members of the Iowa house want the names and salaries of instructional and administrative staffs of all public schools and of employees of county boards of education published. They passed a bill which would provide such publication by a vote of 98-0. The bill is in the senate for action now.

Publication of the names and salaries would be in an annual educational directory produced by the state department of public instruction.

CHANGE PUNISHMENT

A house committee has voted favorably a bill that would change the penalty for a third conviction on a drunk driving charge. The house and senate must act on the bill.

Present penalty for a third offense for OMVI is three years in the penitentiary. The bill would change this to a penalty varying from 1 to 5 years.

MAIL CARRIERS

Under a proposal in the legislature, Iowa rural mail carriers would be permitted to install and use a white or amber flashing light on top of their cars while delivering mail. The plan has been recommended for passage by a house committee.

RAIL TOP CARS

A bill on file in the Iowa senate, but not yet out of committee would make it mandatory for all railroad handcars, or similar power driven cars, to be equipped with a top and windshield to protect the workers using same from the elements.

SPECIAL ELECTION

St Rep William Dillon, Columbus Junction Republican, has resigned as a member of the Iowa house of representatives.

Governor Loveless has set Feb 19 as the date for a special election in Louisa county to choose a successor.

Dillon, a quarry operator, has obtained a large contract in connection with a toll road project in Illinois and resigned because of business reasons.

$30,000 Improvement Underway at Klemme Co-op. Grain Company

Includes New Scales New Mill Equipment And Remodeled Office

According to Marvin G Lemke, manager of the Klemme Cooperative Grain Company, somewhere in the neighborhood of $30,000 is to be spent in an improvement program now underway on that firm's facilities. Included in the program is a new scale, new mixer and other equipment in the mill, and a remodeled office building.

Cost of remodeling the office should be in the neighborhood of $4,000 with the other $26,000 being divided about equally between the new scale and the improvements in the mill.

According to Mr Lemke, the new scale, which is a Fairbanks-Morse Printomatic, will increase weighing speed by about one-third, will remove the element of human error, and insure that there will be no weight disputes between seller and buyer. The scale automatically prints the weight and the date on a ticket as it weighs the load.

The scale purchase was made necessary by a change in the Iowa Law which will increase from 45 to 50 feet the maximum length of trucks, and a law which says that there will be no split weighing. The whole load must be weighed at once. The old scale was 30 feet long and would weigh loads up to 34 ton. The new scale will be 60 feet long and will weigh loads up to 50 ton.

Putting in the new scale also made necessary the remodeling of the office, so an 18 by 30 feet addition is being built on to the south end of the office. The addition will contain a manager's office, a bookkeeper's office and a grain testing laboratory. The old manager's office and grain testing lab are being taken out and that part of the building will be made into a customer's lounge.

A door has been installed in the north side of the office building and windows will be added as the work goes on. A long counter will divide the customer's lounge from the working area, and manager Lemke hopes that the new arrangement will help in speeding up the service in the office.

Improvements in the mill which are expected to eliminate much of the waiting that customers now find necessary, will include a new Strong-Scott triple action mixer, a steel feed leg, and a crimped corn conveyor. These additions are expected to double the mixing capacity and speed up both deliveries at the mill and bulk deliveries on the farm.

(Eds. note:)

The Klemme Cooperative Grain Company is one of the more progressive elevators in the state, and manager Lemke and the other employees of the firm are to be congratulated for the fine service that they offer to farmers in the area.

Construction Could Begin In May

The special school bond election which was held Monday found voters approving the $375,000 bond issue by an overwhelming margin. The final count showed that there were 536 "Yes" votes and 148 "No" votes, and two ballots were spoiled making a 78% favorable vote.

There are 956 eligible voters in the Klemme Community School District and 686 of them went to the polls, showing that there was a high degree of interest in the proposal to purchase land and build an addition to the existing school facilities.

Now that the proposal has been approved, steps will be taken to prepare the bonds and advertise them for sale so that work on the addition can get underway as soon as possible. The architects will want a couple of months to prepare the working plans for the building, and contractors need a month to study the plans and submit their bids, but it is possible that by sometime in May, construction could begin.

The addition, which will contain grade class rooms, a music room, shop, multi-purpose room and kitchen, will extend to the northeast of the present building, and will give Klemme a school plant of which to be proud.

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

At the close of business last Friday, a total of 491 bills (267 in the House and 224 in the Senate) had been introduced in the legislature. and the session is about one_fourth over. Two bills have cleared both houses and now await action by Gov. Loveless. Thirty_one bills have been passed by the House, seventeen by the Senate.

You have probably read of my stand on House File 46. I have received a letter from one county stating that three of their supervisors had reversed their position and agreed with the intent of the bill. I hear also that the county supervisors of the southeast district of Iowa are all in favor of the road bill with my amendment which called for a public hearing and a planned road program.

On Monday afternoon, we had our regular weekly meeting of the Conservation, Drainage and Flood Control Committee. It was a lengthy session, but a productive one and we recommended out to the House for passage a total of six bills pertinent to drainage. At the time these bills come to the floor of the House for discussion and debate, we can look further into the text of each one.

On Tuesday morning, upon completion of the business for the day, in joint convention with the members of the Senate, we received a Lincoln Day address by the Hon. Fred. Schwengel, the Iowa Representative in Washington. This was the 25th time in the last 50 years that the Iowa legislature has conducted special ceremonies in honor of Lincoln on February 12th. It was inspiring to take these few moments from the press of today's issues and to renew perspectives concerning the ideals on which all our present_day endeavor should be based, especially in this field of legislation which affects the lives of so many. Mr Schwengel reminded us that America must turn back to Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln if we want to continue to be great. He said that we, most of all, should turn to Lincoln because he, more that any other national leader, represented the soul and heart of our nation.

I find that I am again involved in fighting on school legislation. A bill, House File 158, which was up before the House of Representatives, was ready to be passed until I attacked it by amendment. This bill, without amendment, would have allowed any reorganized school district to be gobbled up by a larger school district, or any other efficient and good school district whether it was independent or consolidated. My amendent, which took considerable time on Wednesday from 11 until 12 o'clock, was defeated and we had to hold over until Thursday to complete the job. Between the time that we adjourned on Wednesday and Thursday morning, a sufficient number of representatives seemed to have seen the arguments which I had presented, and a motion was made and approved to reconsider my amendment; that is, to put it back on the bill. It now appears (we haven't yet completed the bill at the time I am dictating this) that, by request, my amendment to protect all the school reorganized districts from being gobbled up by bigger ones against the will of the people, is going to be accepted by the House. However, we have scheduled a conference for this afternoon, at which time we will attempt to compromise settlement. What it will be, I'm not sure.

It is my belief that any school district of 300 or more pupils has the right to determine its own destiny according to the wishes of the voters and taxpayers of the district being affected. My amendment will protect the voters, the parents and taxpayers of those reorganized districts with 300 pupils or more against any outside arbitrary action. I would like to comment here, that during this morning's debate, and prior to the time representatives from both sides of this controversy agreed to meet in conference this afternoon, the discussion became quite heated and many attempts were made to confuse the real issue at stake. My main argument in support of my amendment was based on the best interest of the majority of people directly involved; and it is interesting to note that the move to again defer action came in the wake of my charge that this bill was aimed also against big industry in Iowa. My statement that "if we pass this bill, we won't need an Industrial Commissioner" was presented in strong terms, but I felt that strong measures were called for in anticipating all aspects and far_reaching possibilities of this bill, if it should pass without the provision of my amendment which will leave reorganization in the hands of the majority 'of the people' involved. And to use once more the words of Lincoln, this government is 'of the people, by the people and for the people'. Mr Lincoln might not have specifically meant school district reorganization, but his ideals blanketed all legislation. We are capable of doing the right and fair thing. It is only when we forget the purpose of lawmaking that we pass inequitable laws.

Other items of interest this week . . . Members of the House introduced a resolution demanding a full_scale probe of all phases of nursing home activity in Iowa by a six_member legislative committee. Considering the disastrous nursing home fire Wednesday at Council Bluffs, the house waived its rules that such resolutions must "lay over" for at least 24 hours and it passed immediately, by unanimous voice vote.

Governor Loveless this week signed the first legislative bill which came before him since he took office last month. The measure would reduce the maximum work week of firemen in cities of more than 10,000 population from 72 to 68 hours.

A resolution urging that former President Hoover be invited to attend dedication ceremonies of the "Jesse Hoover Blacksmith Shop" at his birthplace at West Branch was also passed Thursday by the House of Representatives.

CAPITOL LETTER

REGENTS NAMED

A Democratic governor has succeeded in accomplishing what the last Republican governor failed to do—win senate confirmation on all of his appointments to the Iowa board of regents.

The board is the governing body of the institutions of higher education, and some other institutions.

The senate approved all six appointments made to the nine_member board by Governor Loveless. Two years ago, Gov Leo Hoegh failed to win senate approval on two of his board appointments, waited until the senate had gone home, and made two interim appointments. The appointees resigned Jan 1 this year.

The six appointments give the Democrats the majority on the board, although it is considered pretty much a non_political group.

The appointees, including Harry Hagemann of Waverly who is reappointed, are: Mrs Joseph Rosenfield of Des Moines, Mrs Kenneth A Evans of Emerson, Lester Gillette of Fostoria. Mrs Morris Berkness of Armstrong, and Arthur Barlow of Cedar Rapids. Hagemann, Mrs Rosenfield, Mrs Berkness and Gillette are Democrats. Hogemann is board chairman.

WIN APPOINTMENTS

Lee Chandler, Dike Democrat, has won senate confirmation on Gov. Loveless' appointment of the Dike banker as a state superintendent of banking.

It is the biggest paying state job over which the governor has authority for appointment. It pays $13,000 a year. Chandler will take over his new duties July 1. The term ends July 1, 1963.

The senate also confirmed the reappointment of Dr Edmund G. Zimmerer, Des Moines Republican, as state health commissioner. The position, generally considered non_political, pays $8,400 a year. It's a four_year term.

TO AMEND IT

State Sen. Jack Miller (R) of Sioux City has proposed in the Iowa senate that legislature make it possible to amend the constitution of the state to permit the people to initiate and enact the laws independently of the state constitution in two years instead of the four years now required.

LIQUOR REPORT

There's probably been more talk about liquor in this session than any other legislation and yet not a single liquor bill had been filed in either house in the first five weeks of the session.

One legislator said he has become incensed about a company advertising liquor_flavored tooth paste and he plans to file a bill prohibiting its sale in Iowa: There'll be no liquor_by_the_toothbrush if he has anything to say about it.

Another legislator reports on some figures he received from a lobbyist. He said the figures show that per capita liquor sales are higher in central Iowa than along the borders in the river counties.

This, he says, proves that a liquor_by_the_drink bill would prevent border cities from losing business now going outside the state.

LOVELESS' FIRST BILL

Iowa's new governor, Democrat Herschel Loveless, has signed his first bill into law. It was the first to reach his desk after winning approval from the Iowa house and senate.

The measure would reduce the maximum work week of firemen in cities of more than 10,000 population from 84 hours to 68 hours.

DEATH PENALTY

The Iowa house, in a 75 to 18 tally, voted to abolish the death penalty for murder and kidnaping if the person convicted was under 18 at the time of the crime. The bill is now in a senate committee awaiting action.

Meanwhile, in the senate, a bill under study would abolish capital punishment entirely. The bill is being prepared by Sen. Howard Buck (R) of Marshall becauses "I just don't believe in capital punishment."

PRISON OVERCROWDED

Because the Iowa Penitentiary at Fort Madison is overcrowed, 45 prisoners there are being. transferred to the Iowa Men's Refomatory at Anamosa. The pen's population has been 1,340 inmates with nearly every cell occupied. At Anamosa, the population now is 857, including 15 of the newly transferred prisoners. The reformatory can satisfactorily accomodate 1,000 inmates.

JAIL CELLS

Anyone arrested on any charge whatsoever would be permitted to call an attorney or friend immediately upon being placed in jail under a bill now on file in the Iowa house. Sponsor of the measure is State Rep John Duffy (D) of Dubuque.

NEW AUTO CRIME

The Iowa house, by its lawmaking powers, has taken action against a new crime negligent homicide by a motor vehicle.

By a 90_0 vote the state representatives passed a bill under which anyone who causes the death of another by "wilful or wanton disregard of the safety of others" on a highway or street will be liable to imprisonment for not more than one year, a fine of $100 to $1000, or both. In case of conviction, the driver's license would also be revoked for three years.

Sponsors said the bill is needed now to fill the gap between reckless driving and manslaughter. The senate still must act on the measure.

EARLIER FARM NOTICE

State legislators don't plan to do anything about the traditional March 1 moving day in rural Iowa except require earlier notice on such plans.

On the calender in the Iowa houses is a bill that would require landlords to give notice by Sept. 1 of termination of a farm tenancy planned for the following March 1. This moves up the notice date by two months inasmuch as present law asks a November 1 notification.

TALKS OF LINCOLN

A former member of the Iowa house, now a member of congress from the state's first district, visited in the Iowa legislature the other day. He addressed the joint assembly on Abraham Lincoln.

Cong. Fred Schwengel of Davenport, a student of Lincoln history, told the legislators that "Linclon, more than any other national leader, represented the soul and heart of our nation."

Schwengel said more people visit the Lincoln Memorial in Washington than any other shrine in the world.

Klemme Students Make Good Showing At Declam Contest at Titonka

On Monday, February 11th, Mrs Oberg with six of Klemme's more talkative students, namely Candace Carlson, Jo Anne Jacobs and Jane Renner, who are all freshman; Cozette Lau and Mardell Stadtlender, sophomores; and Arthur Carlson, a senior, left for Titonka bright and early in the morning. After a slight detour through Buffalo Center, due to misdirection, they arrived with butterflies and shaky knees, ready to go to the Titonka School.

Jane was the first Klemme cherub to perform Jane did very well with her dramatic reading "Daddy Doc" and received a II rating. Art was the next Klemme Representative. He somehow managed to pull a I rating by his performance of "It's in the Book." "Mrs Schnickelfritz and Her 4 o'clocks", given by Jo Anne Jacobs came next. Jo received a II rating. Then Mardell Stadtlander with her "At the Declam Contest" came along with another II rating. Our second and last I rating was received by Cozette Lau's dramatic reading, "Dance of the Cobra." Candace wound cp the proceedisgs with "The Tell Tale Heart," another dramatic reading. She also got a II rating.

Cozette and Art, and of course Mrs Oberg, will go to Rockwell City on March 28-29 to compete in the state declamatory contest. GOOD LUCK KIDS!

Fourth Grade News

In Social Studies we prepared a pretend radio program to help us review the farm regions of the world.

First, the class decided upon ten basic questions that should be answered about each of the eleven regions to be covered. Then the children divided into groups of three or four to decide on the answers for these questions about the certain country they chose.

"Facts About World Farms" was the name given to the program. Gary Hummel opened and closed the program with a bit of advertising of farm products. Larry Kluckhohn took the position of Master of Ceremonies and very capably interviewed the guests.

The fifth grade was invited to be our studio audience.

Seniors Thinking About Closs Ploy

Soon the seniors will be walking around with that dead look on their faces due to late play practice. Yes, the play books have arrived and casting is to take place the first week in March with the play to be given some time in early April. The play is entitled "Ever Since Eve" and is a comedy.

The main characters are:

Mrs Clover who is a brisk, competent woman in her forties; essentially domestic, but not at all old-fashioned She regards the world and her family with secret amusement.

Mr Clover who is a gently, absent-minded man in his late forties.

Spud Erwin, a jolly, round-faced chap who takes everything in his stride. He has a theory that he is absolutely irresistible where girls are concerned.

Susan Blake is only fifteen, but has caught up in school with young people two or three years older; at the same time, she is still a child in many ways.

Betsy Erwin: Spud's younger sister. The bubbling, talkative type of girl who knows all the gossip and makes herself a part of every situation.

Martha Wiilard: A crisp, humorous young woman in her early thirties. She has been on a newspaper, but has recently resigned to teach journalism

Officer Simons (Coppy): A small town police officer who has been on the school beat for years. He is, at most times, informal and friendly, but every now and then he remembers his official position and tries to live up to it.

Henry Quinn: The youngest high school principal in the state.

Angle of Stamp On Envelope Tells Message

Did you know that where and how a stamp is placed on an envelope has a language of its own? This code originated about 20 years after the Civil War.

A stamp placed upside down in the upper right corner of the envelope means, 'Stop writing." Placed on a angle in the same corner says, "Do you love me?"

When placed upside down on the upper left corner, it says, "I love you." On an angle, "I do not love you." If placed straight "Farewell."

In the center at the top and placed straight a stamp means. "In reply to your question, yes." If placed at the bottom and straight in the center it means, "In reply to your question, no."

On a line with the surname and placed straight the stamp signifies "Accept my love." Upside down beside the surname it means, "I am engaged," and on an angle it says, "I want to see you."

High School Annual Nearing Completion

The 1957 model of the Klemme Shamrock is near completion. Pictures of seniors under five years is a new addition. Here we can see how "cute" we really were.

The seniors have had their names printed on their individual books to make them complete. This blends with the exterior decoration of our annual.

As soon as the activity pictures are placed on the mats, the entire model will be well on the way to our subscribers.

Question of the Week

What would you do if you had a lapsus linguae?

Dorothy K - Give it to Jeanne for further use.

Mrs Oberg - I'm sure that Art and Mart have made good use of it.

John D - I'd have to know what it is first.

LaVohn J - I'd give it to Coleen to remember me by.

Sharleen S - I'd hang it on my bulletin board in my room.

Marvin J - I'd make a date with it and find out what it was first.

Joyce T - Give it to the teachers for Valentine's Day.

Carroll P - I'd take it with me wherever I went.

Karen C - I'd be embarassed.

Barbara A - I could put it in Bob's car, maybe it would be cute there.

Larry H - I'd kill it first and find what it was later.

Roger J - I'd bring it to the dance Friday night.

Ronald H - I'd get rid of it.

Mardell S - I'd call the doctor and ask him what ails me.

Val S - I wish I would know. Every time I am asked a question it happens.

Seniors Say Goodbye To Coleen Gifford

Thursday morning found the senior class with droopy eyelids and unfinished assignments. The grade school basement needed the floor swept and some of the teachers needed more sleep. The reason behind it is that Wednesday night found most of the seniors, Mr and Mrs Whitney, Mr Schafer and Mrs Oberg, giving Coleen Gifford her last memory of Klemme High School. The thing she'll probably recollect from Wednesday night is the fact we all ate too much, but games and dancing were enjoyed, too.

As most of you know, Coleen has moved to Belmond where she soon will attend Belmond High School. So with the memory of Wednesday night still fresh in our memory, we'd like to say, "Good luck and happiness, wherever you may be, Coleen, and try to remember the Klemme High School and all your former classmates and all the fun we had together."

Advanced Typing Class Takes Up Filing

We are now beginning to learn the fundamentals of business filing in advanced typing class.

Filing is the process of arranging and storing materials systematically so that they can be located easily when needed. The main purposes of the various systems of filing are as follows: 1. To make records readily available when they are needed, whether for reference or evidence. 2. To keep all related material together so that the history of the dealings with one firm or one individual will be available in one place. 3. To provide a permanent and safe place for records of business information and transactions during the time the records are not in use.

The difficulties and hardships of filing are now being added to the rough times we are already having with our typing jobs which consist of deeds, mortgages and payroll forms.

Well, the only thing left for us to do is tackle both the filing and typing jobs and hope for the best.

Liberty Busy Bees

The Liberty Busy Bees met at the home of JaNelle Johnson on January 19. Demonstrations were "Tie a Knot Without a Tail and Thread a Needle" by Kathy Gast; "Sew a Seam with a Thimble", by JaNelle Johnson; "Using a Seam Guide", by Marcia Erdman and "Using a Pattern," by Winola Zwald.

South Ell Tip Toppers

We held our meeting at the home of Sharleen and Judy Swanson on February 9th. We gave $6 to the Farm Youth Exchange. Jane Renner gave a talk on "Accessories Appropriate for the Individual and the Costume." Marlene Kothenbeutel gave a talk on "Points to consider When Planning a Sewing Box". Linda Jernigan and Joyce Bock gave a demonstration on "Making a Simple Apron."

SENIOR INTERVIEW

This week Ron and I are going to peer into our newly purchased crystal ball, to look into the present, past and future of Marvin Dennis Sandrey.

As the fog clears we see a picture coming into focus. It is Wednesday night and out on Highway 69 we see a cream-colored Plymouth hurtling on to Garner. It is Marvin on his way to an army reserve meeting of which he is a member. The crystal ball also tells us that Marvin plans on enlisting when he gets out of school.

While speeding on to Garner, Marvin thinks of how nice it would be to have his favorite make of car, a De Soto, to drive every week.

Marvin is not halfway to Garner and is now thinking of how humorous is his favorite television star, Red Skelton, who had a very good show the other night. He also thinks about David Niven, his favorite actor. Then Elvis Presley comes into the picture on the radio singing Marvin's favorite song "When My Blue Moon Turns to Gold". When that song is over, Marvin turns the dial until he hears his favorite band, Fats Domino, who thrills him no end.

When Marvin turns into Garner, he is reminded of his favorite subject, sociology and also of his favorite pastime, sleeping.

Marvin's secret ambition is to be gifted with one million tax free dollars, then to be able to spend it.

Marvin also wants to express his opinion on the Skip Day issue. He feels that the school should pay for the transportation.

Just as Marvin gets out of the car, the crystal ball goes out of focus, but it will be repaired and back in use again next week.

Spectators Classified

Since basketball has been in season, have you been watching the crowd at games? First you see BILL BOOER. He yells for the opposing team. "Boo coach, Boo Referee." Most of the time Bill is quiet and gentle-mannered until a game. There he cries the loudest. Boo, Bill Booer!

Next you see GLORIA GLAMOR. Why does she come. The game is just another place to comb her hair, adjust her clothes and file her nails. Yes, even shine her shoes. Maybe Gloria would take the vote as the best looking spectator, but who's going to notice her when the Shamrocks score?

The next little gal, Fannie Flutter, never found what basketball was about. But she finds pleasure in flirting at a game. She's the optomistic type—always finds something to cheer about. Too bad she couldn't find out why the crowd laughed when in a burst of fluttering she shouted, "Yea, another home run!"

Here's our couple, Sam and Sally Sweetheart. Who cares about public affection? Watch the game? Not as long as they have each other to watch. Let one of our boys catch a rebound, or even let the world go round, they still have each other. Disgusting? We wonder why they came?

MORE JOBS BOOST IOWA PAYROLLS

Regular employment for nearly 23,000 Iowans is provided by the brewing industry. These clerks, truck drivers, mechanics, wholesalers, retailers and warehousemen, draw their livelihood from this great industry. The steady payrolls of these workers reach into every section of the state and into every segment of Iowa's economy. This is truly a sizeable factor in Iowa's ever growing prosperity.

Iowa receives additional contributions from the brewing industry. More than $62,500,000 is invested in Iowa by the industry. The industry's annual payroll totals over $30,000,000. Millions of additional dollars are spent annually for insurance, transportation, taxes and farm products. All Iowa benefits from this spending.

Hancock County Farmers Can Join Central Iowa Ag. Improvement Group

A new agricultural association has been organized in central Iowa for the benefit of farmers in this area, according to Paul Henderson, County Extension Director. This organization, The Central Iowa Farm Business Association, will be open to those farmers in the county who are interested in farm management and record keeping as a method of aiding in increasing farm income.

Persons interested in cooperating with the Central Iowa Farm Business Association living in Hancock County, now have an opportunity to join the organization. Applications for membership may be made by contacting the county extension office.

The Central Iowa Farm Business Association is an association of farmers in this area, and organized for the purpose of providing farmers with a business management service. It is an out-growth of the farm business associations established over the years by the Agricultural Extension Service of Iowa State College, which was discontinued in 1956.

A cooperative, non-profit organization, the association will continue to provide the following services to all farmers interested in cooperating: 1. Advice on farm problems and information on outlook and markets. 2. Help with farm accounting procedure and income tax management. 3. A business analysis of the farming business.

The association will be under the management of a board of directors elected annually. The directors employ a fieldman, who is a specialist in the farm management field.

This fieldman visits the cooperator's farm, is ready to discuss any phase of the cooperator's business, and advise on his production and marketing problems. In addition, he will check the cooperator's farm accounts and production records, make a business analysis of them, and assist with income tax returns and tax management. At all times, records and discussions are treated and regarded as strictly confidential.

Further inquiry can be made and information obtained by contacting Paul Henderson, county extension director.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Don Kramer, son of Mr and Mrs Paul Kramer, was one of last year's Shamrock basketball stars . . . and he is continuing his exploits on the hardwood court again this year. He is playing for Eagle Grove Junior College, and has constantly been a high scorer for the team.

Saturday night, his team played Northwestern Junior College for the state junior college basketball championship, and although the Eagle Grove Quintet was defeated, Don still came through with 25 points to lead his team offensively for the game

Speaking of games, Mitchell Bock has a hen that must have been playing some kind of game Monday. When the eggs were gathered from the trap nests at the Bock farm Monday evening, one was found that measured 8⅝ inches the long way around, and 7⅝ the short way.

The old gal really produced on Monday, but we'll bet she took a well-earned vacation come Tuesday.

Lots of new things in Klemme this week.

Iowa Electric Light and Power Company took out the short street light poles a block east of the post office and installed some new ones much higher and capable of better lighting the intersection.

New boxes have been installed in the Klemme Post Office. The old boxes had been in for years and years . . . and then for quite some time before that, and the new boxes are quite an improvement.

Most of the old ones were open to anyone at any time . . . if they wanted into them. The locks didn't work . . . or if they did, people just set them so they wouldn't lock so that all that would be necessary to get their mail was a simple turn of a knob. As the saying goes, "them days are gone!"

All the new boxes are equipped with locks that work and in order to get them open you have to know the combination. Postmaster Franklin Kluckhohn, and his assistant, Garland Brinkman, have been busy since the installation showing patrons how their new boxes work.

The Times wasn't altogether left out on new things, either. We have a new font of straight matter type for our linotype. We didn't get it until Tuesday, so part of this week's paper is in the old type and part is in the new. The old type was 7½ point and the new is eight point. It is taller and just a bit more condensed than what we were using and should be easier to read.

Klemme Wins in First Round of Sectional

The Klemme Shamrocks were victorious Monday night in the first round of the sectional tournament at Corwith. They took an easy win from Wesley by a score of 70-36. They led 46-10 at the half, and only Coach "Bill" Westberg's generous use of substitutes in the second half kept the game from being more of a route than it was.

Brinkman dropped in 20 points to lead the locals and Larson had 15 points.

The Shamrocks are to play Corwith tonight (Wednesday) in the second round of the tournament. The Corwith team boasts considerable height and could give the Shamrocks some trouble.

Time Running Out for Signing Corn Agreements

Time is running out for farmers to sign corn acreage reserve agreements for 1957, it was emphasized this week by Hancock County ASC Committee.

The final date for signing corn agreements is March 8, he pointed out, and there has been no indication that the deadline will be extended.

As of February 21, a total of 29 corn agreements had been signed at the county ASC office in Garner. These agreements placed 503 acres of corn land in the acreage reserve for this crop year and provided for payments amounting to $23,682.

A number of signers have indicated a desire to place more than their allowed maximum corn acreage in the reserve, if funds are available to approve such requests after the sign-up period closes on March 8. Offered additional land totals 228.5 acres and would call for additional payments of $11,177.30.

Agreements are filed on a first-come, first-served basis and can be approved only as long as payment funds are available. For this reason, prompt signing is encouraged as a means of avoiding the possibility of disappointments. Another inducement for prompt signing is that farmers will retain the right to amend or terminate their agreements up to March 8.

Besides urging early signing of agreements, Hancock County ASC Committee called attention to a new provision of the acreage reserve program which will be of interest to farmers whose corn allotments exceed the maximun allowed in the regular sign-up and who wish to put all or none of their allotment acreage in the acreage reserve. Farmers desiring to participate on this basis should file applications at the ASC office and, if funds are available after the sign-up period closes, such applications will be considered in the order which they are filed.

Brinkman and Nuehring led the attack for Klemme with 20 points each, while Larson had 15. Lackore led the Hayfield scoring and was high for the evening with a 38 point performance.

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

On Friday of last week, a delegation from Crystal Lake met here with the Conservation Commission and learned that the Commission does have dredging of Crystal Lake on the docket and that the question now is one of appropriations. It would seem that there are more requests for money than there is money.

This same delegation visited the Statehouse on Friday morning and were present during the two-hour debate concerning a bill that would increase the maximum length allowed for truck-trailer combinations in the state from 45 to 50 feet. This bill, which finally passed the House with only fourteen dissenting votes, will permit the longer length for trucks but will not affect present maximum weight limits so that trucks will be able to carry more bulk but no more than the present maximum weight. There was some opposition to this bill, but in helping to carry the floor fight, I contended that this measure would be of benefit to the nearly 750 Iowa communities which are entirely dependent on trucks for all commodities they use, of benefit to the farmer in cutting down costs for shipping livestock and produce (90% of which is now moved out of Iowa via trucks), and of benefit to Iowa truckers

On Monday of this week, in a joint session with the Senate, we received an address by Mr Dan Daniel, the national commander of the American Legion. Mr Daniel charged that the federal government's "domination over our lives has gone far beyond the limitations prescribed by the constitution." He stated further that citizens can stop the federal government's "arrogation of power" by insisting that congress deny "the excessive legal authority and appropriations by which the federal government perpetuates and increases its domination over our lives and freedom."

Also, on Monday, the House passed three bills. The first relating to the powers of dock boards in cities and towns; the second legalizing certain issues of capital stocks of Iowa corporations; and the third relating to fees to be charged by the secretary of state.

At our weekly Conservation Committee meeting on Monday afternoon, we recommended out for passage a total of 7 bills on water rights and drainage plus one Committee Bill. At this meeting we also made final arrangements for a sub-committee trip to Monona County to study first-hand their problems and the entire state. I will be able to help us further leigslation on conservation to the benefit of the entire state. I wlil be able to give you a full account of this trip in my next report.

On Tuesday, the House amended slightly and passed a senate bill to license drugstores and drug wholesalers. Severe penalties are provided for non-authorized persons having possession of powerful non-narcotic prescription drugs and for individuals dispensing such drugs illegally.

The next bill which came up for consideration on Tuesday morning stirred up a heated debate which lasted well over an hour. This bill which legalizes the sale of cigarettes from vending machines, finally passed the houses by a 63 to 41 vote with amendment to be used only in places not frequented by minors and, now goes to the senate, where a similar bill was killed last week and then resurrected for reconsideration. The fact that many young Iowans under twenty-one now can purchase cigarettes was emphasized several times during this debate, and the present law governing the sale of cigarettes was termed "unrealistic."

Following the passage of this vending machine bill, two democratic members of the House introduced a bill that would lower the minimum age for purchasers of cigarettes from 21 to 18.

Other bills passed by the Houses on Tuesday include one relating to the superintendent of printing, one relating to the renewal of permits of foreign corporations, and one relating to vocational rehabilitation.

On Wednesday, the House killed its first bill of the current legislative session—a measure that would have required farm landlords to notify tenants of termination of tenancy on or before Sept. 1 instead of Nov. 1. Various house committees have indefinitely postponed action on bills introduced, but the farm tenancy measure was the first to be killed on the floor. I voted for the bill.

On this day, the House passed and sent to the senate five other bills, including one that would outlaw the sale of switchblade knives; one that would make it unlawful to give insurance free as an inducement to make a sale; and one to allow banks or trust companies to invest up to 10 percent of their assets in federal land banks or debentures.

Also on Wednesday morning, the House received an address by former Iowa Governor Robert D Blue. Blue, who is in Des Moines to confer with a special legislative committee investigating nursing homes in Iowa, declared that it doesn't do any good for medical experts to continue to extend our life span "if our citizens have to live out their last days in a sub-standard firetrap." He also stated that Iowa has a higher percentage—11.8% of persons over 65 than any other state in the nation, and urged that prompt action be taken in passing a workable nursing home law. Blue also reminded us that while 50 Iowa nursing homes have been ordered closed by the state health department, they are still operating because the present law is unenforceable.

On Wednesday, also, after having requested and received an opinion of Judge Tom Boynton of the 12th Judicial District, I introduced, or sponsored two bills. One bill, H F 345, relating to suspension of sentence and parole by the trial court of persons convicted of certain crimes, can be used to good advantage by the courts for juveniles in trouble for the first time, for instance, and will allow the court who gave the bench parole to grant such paroled person a final discharge from the sentence. The second bill, H F 352, relating to the control by the juvenile court of neglected, dependent or delinquent children, will give a juvenile clear power to terminate the juvenile proceedings and release a child from the court's control. This problem has confronted the courts in regard to boys seeking to enter the armed services and they would like clear power to do so.

You have probably all been closely following the action (and the delaying actions) relating to school reorganization. Two bills that would revise the law regarding inclusion of dissenting school districts in a school reorganization election were special order of business for today (Thursday) by unanimous action of the House on Wednesday. One provides that if 75% of the districts involved and an overall majority of voters approve reorganization, even dissenting districts would be included in the new consolidated district. The other bill, introduced on Tuesday, would provide that a district having 300 or more pupils and proposed for inclusion in a reorganized district against its will, could appeal directly to the state department of public instruction at the time of the filing of the original petition calling for the reorganized district.

The final outcome of today's discussion, again deferred action on these bills until next Monday; however, in cooperation with Rep. Freed of Webster County, we introduced an amendment which will require the signatures of ⅓ of the voters in each district to be included in a proposed district, with the right of appeal to the court (which we haven't had).

A standing vote was taken on whether we should have the right of appeal, and the house indicated their approval of appeal by a total of 88 members of the House. By next week's report, we will have settled this vital is ue. Everyone won't be satisfied, but they will be more satisfied with my amendment added.

This afternoon, we are having a public hearing on reapportionment. It is to early yet to tell how the thinking on this issue is /going to swing; however, we hpoe to get general agreement on an approach which will result is the passage of a resolution during this present session. Of course, this will not mean immediate reapportionment. A constitutional amendment must be approved by two successive sesssions of the legislature, and then first be voted on at a general election before it goes into effect. Therefore, it will be 1961 at the very earliest, before a 'reapportioned' legislature could meet.

See you next week.

CAPITOL LETTER

PAY LESS TAX

Fewer Iowa farmers filed income tax returns in the last fiscal year and the revenue paid in the state tax coffers by farmers was down more than $2,942,891.

The Iowa tax commission reports that in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1956, there were 35,230 fewer farmers who filed "full pay" income tax returns, and 7,190 less farmers filed "no pay" returns than in fiscal 1955.

Individual revenue to the state from farmers totaled $1,918,292 in fiscal 1956 while the amount paid in the same period before totaled $4,861,183.

The commission's 1955 report listed farmers paying more income tax than any other occupational group. This picture has changed. Laborers are top-paying group now, with professional folks next, and executives after them.

A loss in farm income and a change in the state income tax laws made by the 1955 legislature are reasons for the farmer's paying less state income tax, the commission reports.

FOUR GOVERNORS

Four midwest governors will meet at Ida Grove May 16 for a Beef Producer's Day.

Gov Herschel Loveless of Iowa has invited Governors Victor Anderson of Nebraska, Joe Foss of South Dakota and Orville Freeman of Minnesota to join him at the Ida Grove celebration. They have all accepted.

Foss and Anderson are Republicans Loveless and Freeman are Democrats.

KEY CLUBS

Cities and towns would have power to regulate drinking in key clubs under a bill prepared for the legislature by the attorney general's office.

The bills says cities and towns would have the power to regulate drinking or consumption of intoxicating liquor in or about the premises of key clubs.

It's an outgrowth of a Des Moines city attorney's ruling that under present ordinance, the city, and others, do not have authority to regulate key club activities.

CIGARET MACHINES

The Iowa house has passed a bill approving cigaret vending machines for the state. The action came a few days after the senate had defeated such a plan. The house vote for the bill was 63 to 41.

The senate defeated such a proposition by a one-vote margin but then later recalled it for further consideration.

Proponents say that Iowa is the only state in the union which does not permit vending machines for cigarets.

PATROL SIZE

State Rep. John Mowry (R) of Marshalltown, a former mayor there, doesn't want the Iowa highway patrol expanded to 300 members as recommended in bills now before the legislature. Mowry has filed an amendment to add but 25 men to the 225-member patrol.

Mowry also asks that the patrol concentrate its enforcement activities on the primary highway network in Iowa, and not on secondary routes.

MORE FOR PARKS

Iowa outdoorsmen want the state to appropriate more funds for the state park system.

This state now spends only nine-cents per park visitor on its state parks compared with the national average of 19 cents. Iowa now ranks eighth in park attendance despite its place as 22nd in population.

Park supporters want the appropriation for state parks increased from its present 550,000

NURSING HOMES

The dramatic tragedy which cost the lives of 15 persons in the nursing home fire at Council Bluffs will likely bring legislative action in this sesson.

A special committee of house and senate members is investigating nursing home regulations in the wake of the Council Bluffs fire.

State Fire Marshall Ed Herron has recommended that all nursing homes in non-fire-proof buildings should be required to have automatic sprinkler systems.

A bill, involving the same requirements, was killed in the legislature two years ago on the strength of an attorney general's recommendation that the cost of such a system would be excessive.

SPEED LIMITS

The hearing emphasized increased interest in fixed speed limits among the legislators although several in the senate are still opposed to them. However, there is more interest in speed limits now than there was two years ago when speed limits bills failed to receive action.

Safety Commissioner Clinton Moyer has reported to the legislators that he is in favor of fixed speed limits from an enforcement viewpoint.

The state's high traffic death toll of last year has focused interest on speed as a major cause of fatal accidents.

REAPPORTIONMENT

There is more interest in legislative reapportionment in this session than there has ever been. Some 11 bills to effect such action have now been filed in the house and senate.

The bills not only point up increased interest in the proposition, but also show there is interest in feating such a proposal. The number of bills filed might tend to "cloud the issue" some legislators report.

Many legislators, Republican and Democrat alike, feel that some sort of reapportionment may be voted in this session.

ACT ON ORPHANAGE

A district court order, issued at Ames, directs the Children's Christian Training Home at Boone to move out 9 children or get a state boarding home license.

The action comes after much maneuvering between the state department of social welfare, which requested the court injunction, and officials of the Boone Biblical College, operators of the training home.

State officials contended that the operators of the Biblical College, a fundamentalist religious organization were not separating the children from adults who are at the college and hence it wasn't strictly a children's boarding home.

The children now at the home, who range from 2 to 16 years of age, are to be returned to the parents or guardians, or the home must obtain a license.

KILL RECALL BILL

The Iowa senate, after lengthy debate, overwhelmingly voted down (38-9) a bill which would have permitted recall of elected city officials under any form of municipal government.

The bill was an outgrowth of city council member actions in Des Moines after the council had fired the city manager some weeks ago without reporting publicly the reason for the ouster.

NO LIQUOR STUDY

Apparently the Republican-dominated legislature will not act on the proposal by the Democratic governor, that a legislative committee should be named to study the liquor situation in Iowa. Gov Loveless had recommended such action in his inaugural message.

The Iowa senate has killed a proposal to set up a joint legislative liquor study committee. The senate tabled the resolution to form the 10-man committee by a voice vote.

This was the second time the senate pondered the matter. Earlier it had defeated the resolution but then voted to reconsider it to enable senators to make amendments.

"I can't do that. I'll get nervous. My knees shake. My tongue gets all tied up. I just can't say a word." Has this ever happened to you? No doubt it has. It has happened to me and probably every human being that ever lived. It's human nature.

But hold on a minute. Just because we all get nervous is no reason why we should be afraid to get up in front of a group. A friend of mine once told me before I went to my first music contest, "Just think how funny the judge must look in his underwear." Now, maybe that isn't being very nice or respectful, but it works! No doubt if anyone in the group before you were to take your place, he would have shaking knees and throbbing temples, too.

Just remember this the next time you are asked to do something in front of a group: Take a deep breath and hold it for three minutes. Then count to 6948 by threes and by the time you're ready, somebody else will already have taken over.

K H S Band News

Arthur Carlson, Virginia Kudje, Cozette Lau and Val Stromer have been selected to participate in the Eighth Dorian Festival, sponsored by Luther College at Decorah, on March 4 and 5.

Eighty schools from Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin will have students in the event.

Last year, three students went from Klemme, Fred Arnold, Art Carlson and Virginia Kudje. They reported that it was both fun and educational.

On February 11th, the Klemme High School Band was recorded for a series, called the Parade of Bands over radio station KSMN at Mason City. The Parade of Bands a half hour of recorded high school band music, will start during the first week of March. Klemme's band will be heard sometime during the second week of March at 4:30 in the afternoon.

Ode To A Locker

I am a locker, my name is fifty . . .

During the summer I really looked nifty.

My hooks were all shiny, my lock was replaced.

A new coat of paint lit up my face.

During the summer my life was sublime

But then came September

—Oh. what a crime!

They kicked me and slammed me and broke off my hooks,

They hurt my tummy when they threw in their books,

All students, teachers and lockers cheer,

When summer comes, the best time of the year.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

Let us introduce to you the youngest member of the senior class, Juda Jane Stahl. She was born sixteen year ago on the farm where she now lives, seven miles southeast of Klemme. When she entered fifth grade, she was transferred to Klemme school from Avery No. 5.

Judy's high school activities include junior class play, girl's chorus and annual and paper staff.

If anyone would be attending a movie starring Kim Novak and Robert Wagner, they would see Judy. On Thursday evening you may find her enjoying a tasty meal of fried chicken before Playhouses 90 comes on television.

Her future plans are to get a job and she would like to attend ISTC. When asked about her secret ambition, she said, "If I told, it wouldn't be a secret."

Take Time to Think Behind the Wheel

Hundreds of thousands of words have been written and the sentiments of as many people expressed on the subject of safe driving. However, an issue so vital to national welfare must certainly merit national attention. It is an inescapable fact that the automobile is one of man's greatest potential weapons against himself, but there is no logical reason that the potential danger need ever be realized.

Logical reading and safe driving go hand in hand at KHS just as they do everywhere else. It takes only a second to think of the risk of getting caught but the risk of endangering someone's life. It takes only a second to distinguish between right and wrong. It takes only a second to protect a life or to lose it.

Elementary school students have been told to cross streets at designated places. They have been told that the stop sign is their insurance of safety insurance is YOU!! A small boy of six can't read the bold black letters directing traffic to halt, but he can understand what they mean.

Stop, look and look again. That boy may hold the key to the future of the whole world; you hold the key to his future.

Teachers Teach

My teacher tries to teach me. But first my teacher's teacher teaches her and my teacher's teacher's teacher had to teach her.

But in order to have my teacher's teacher's teacher to teach her a teacher has to teach my teacher's teacher's teacher.

But first a teacher must teach my teacher's teacher's teacher's teacher, but a teacher must teach my teacher's teacher's teacher's teacher's teacher's teacher before my teacher can teach me.

So if teachers teach teachers, why do teachers teach me? I'm gonna be a farmer!

Strange Hairdo's

Walking down the street, you are in a position to observe several strange sights, to say the least. About the strangest of these, I find, are women's hair styles.

For instance, here comes a group of high school girls dressed in blue jeans and chewing gum. But what on earth are those things protruding from the backs of their heads? They are called, somewhat misleadingly, "pony tails". They range in size from one inch to one foot and from the looks of these I'd say the line of thoroughbreds is rapidly diminishing!

A quick twist of the head and into view comes another style. This, I find can be described in one short word—mess! To all appearances this girl has very strong_headed hair, for each one seems to go in a different direction. It is called an Italian cut and it is too bad it didn't stay in Italy.

Well, more observing—oops I almost missed this one—thought it was a boy. There's no difference: in fact it makes a crew cut look a little shaggy.

A h h h, here comes the sophisticate. She's just stepped out of the beauty parlor. Each hair is in its place. In fact it looks as if the hair doesn't have any choice in the matter—the plaster is hardening!

"You are charged both with being drunk and with smoking in bed," announced the judge, eyeing the prisoner sternly. "Don't you realize that you might have caused a serious fire? Can you give me any reason why I should go easy on you?"

"The whole thing is a misunderstanding, your honor," returned the prisoner with dignity. "In the first place, I was not drunk and in the second place, the bed was on fire when I got in."

PENCILS

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullhan

Despite the early date and a nearly 50 percent drop in the state's traffic death record this year, almost all the original vacancies in the highway fatality list already have been filled.

For example, you can no longer be first this year to be killed in a car_train crash, in a collision with a fixed object, in a pedestrian accident, or in a ran_off_the_roadway accident.

Victims have gone before you in all these types of accidents already this year. About the only major type accident in which there has not yet been a victim in 1957, at this writing, is the overturned_in_roadway variety.

Anyone interested in being first to fill this vacancy can go about it by driving so fast that he loses control of his car (and that isn't as fast as you think it has to be) and by letting his attention wander.

You can increase your chances considerably by being first to fill this vacancy by following the above directions on a gravel road at night.

About the only other unfilled position we have now is that of victim in an accident occuring at a speed faster than 80 miles an hour.

Of course, the requirements for filling this spot are obvious Just travel faster than 80 miles an hour and don't let adverse road or traffic conditions slow you down. Keep this up long enough and you'll make it. You may not be first, though. There are several keen competitors around the state.

Twin Lake Indians

Paul Henderson, Hancock county extension director, showed the Twin Lake Indians 4_H Club slides on parasites of animals, and then Edward Halfpop passed out special project record book sheets at the meeting held at the home of Gary Steenblock on February 11th The club planned for a trip to the Iowa State College Caravan at Northwood, on February 13th.

A bowling party is being planned for next month. After the meeting, Daryl Hansen gave an illustrated talk on "How to Construct DDT Burlap Applicator for Beef Cattle." Next meeting will be held March 11th at the home of Raymond Eliason.

Reporter, David Eliason.

A Frenchman, struggling with the English language, turned to an American friend for help.

"What is polar bear?" he inquired?"

"A polar bear? Oh, he lives way up north."

"Yes, but what does he do?" asked the puzzled Frenchman.

"Oh, nothing, just sits on a cake of ice and eats fish."

"Zat settled it. I won't accept."

"What do you mean, you won't accept?" It was the American's turn to be puzzled.

"Zut!" replied the Frenchman with heat. "They ask me to be polar bear at a funeral. Zat I shall not do."

Customs Guard: "What do you have in that bag, old lady?"

Guard: (uncorking bottle): "Well, it smells like Irish whiskey and it tastes like Irish whiskey!"

Old lady: "Saints be praised! A miracle".

• RANDOM THOUGHTS

Representative Riehm's report on page 2. It is set in the old type.

Linotype mats are so made that they will cast either light face or bold face, so in reality, there are two fonts of type in one. The bold face in our new type is like this paragraph. A comparison between this and the old can be made by looking at the RANDOM THOUGHTS continuation lines.

We like the new type and find that it runs much better in our machine than did the old, which was getting pretty badly "beat up" The only fault that we have to find is that we stayed up till 3 o'clock this morning (Wednesday) helping a linotype machinist to make some needed repairs and adjustments on our machine so that we wouldn't spoil our new mats.

Anyway, we hope that the time, effort and expense will make The Times neater looking and easier reading.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

The period of seasonal hog-price weakness is with us, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

February and March are months when runs of fall pigs pick up as peak numbers of August and September pigs come to market.

Last year, hog prices began to drop in late January, Kutish recalls, prices hit bottom in late February and then moved up all through March. This year's price drop began about a week earlier in January.

The sharp drop in December hog slaughter from figures of a year earlier apparently caught some packers unaware, says Kutish. December slaughter under federal inspection was down 22 percent from a year ago. The December increase in pork stocks was only 23 million pounds. This is a fifth as much as a year ago.

As a result, pork stocks in cold storage at the end of December were a third below a year ago. Stocks were the lowest on record for the end of December.

Hog marketing weights are running about the same as a year ago, says Kutish. Slaughter in January and early February has been from 14 to 20 percent under a year earlier. Cold storage holdings increased during January—but at a slower pace than a year ago. There will be less pork than a year ago coming out of cold storage this summer to compete with fresh pork.

This should help the spring and early summer hog market. But in the meantime, says Kutish, we have to pass through a period of price weakness. It will continue until runs of August and September farrowed pigs are worked off.

Commodity market prices have been weak during just about every February since World War II, observes Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Although this weakness has occurred as early as December, and sometimes in January, it has generally come in February, says Kutish.

This February is an example of such price weakness. The price fall-off exists practically across the board in commodity markets. With many of the traded markets, the weakness seems to be a delayed reaction of the Suez crisis. Another reason is the shortness of money for speculators due to rapidly approaching income-tax payments.

Hancock County Submits 108 Soil Samples For Tests

One hundred and eight soil samples were submitted by Hancock County farmers to the Iowa State College Soil Testing Laboratory at Ames during the month of January, according to County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner. In all, 4658 samples were received by the laboratory at Ames. This is somewhat above the number normally received during this period.

Results on samples already at the laboratory should be returned in time for oats seeding, Henderson points out. However, samples submitted now will probably not have results returned by oat seeding time. Sufficient time is still left for obtaining results on fields going into corn.

ACP Cost-Sharing Aids Farm Adoption Of Conservation Practices

Farmers in Hancock County may find this a good year to get major conservation practices under way, says Paul Henderson, county extension director.

With Agricultural Conservation cost-sharing boosted, he says, farmers may find it advantageous to start conservation projects that would not otherwise be immediately profitable to them.

Henderson says that E R Duncan, Iowa State College agronomist, lists four important practices that might be given serious consideration by Hancock county farm operators.

(1) Construction of terraces. The federal government will share up to 70 percent of the cost. It will not pay in excess of $3.50 per 100 linear feet, however.

(2) Construction of ponds for livestock. The government will pay up to 60 percent of the cost.

(3) Improvement of timber stands. Up to 70 percent of the average cost of such practices as thinning, pruning, and removing competitive vegetation will be paid under ACP.

(4) Initial establishment of trees and shrubs. The cost-sharing program will pay for not more than 70 percent of the average cost to trees, and planting. No payments will be made for land preparation.

These are major practices that a farmer can consider starting with the aid of cost-sharing payments. Other practices are included in the Agricultural Conservation Program, says Duncan, such as liming, contouring, and establishing seedings for conservation purposes.

He reminds farmers, too, that they can receive ACP cost-sharing payments without signing up for the Soil Bank At the same time, farmers in the Soil Bank are still eligible for ACP assistance. But they can't receive payment for the same practice from both the Soil Bank and the ACP

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

The time between the days that carry a hint of the coming of spring and the actual arrival of the season, is the longest part of the winter. About the time we begin to think of getting out the golf clubs, oiling up the fishing tackle, and heading for the outdoors, it always seems to us that winter backs off for a fresh start . . . and then just won't give up.

Last week, we had some comfortably balmy days and Monday morning, Mrs Roy Schaefer called to report that she saw a robin at 7:42 a. m. Makes spring fever set in, but we'd be willing to bet that there is still a good bit of cold and maybe nasty weather in store for us before the fulfillment of the promise implied by the arrival of that first red-breasted harbinger of spring.

We could be wrong, though, for Sunday's issue of "the newspaper Iowa depends on" carried the good news that the ice had gone out of the Mississippi at McGregor . . . and Sunday, we drove around Clear Lake, and saw several good-sized patches of open water. We'll keep our fingers crossed, and hope that the weather man will get the inspiration to bring us an early spring.

And speaking of inspiration, we were talking the other day with Fred Arnold about the writnig of this column. We told him that it seemed hard for us to get the time to properly go after the problem, and that often we were lacking inspiration as to what to write.

Fred said he believed the problem was more inspiration than time, for if the inspiration was there not much time would be required. Guess we'll have to agree, for when we know what we want to appear here, it doesn't take long to beat it out of our battered old Remington.

And, while we're talking about the column, last week we were responsible, without intending to be, for arousing the curiosity of a number of people. In order to show off our new type and dress up the column, we dispensed with the regular cutoff rules that we had been using between the paragraphs in the column and replaced them with slugs inscribed S-R-T. Several people asked what the letters meant and we told them that they were simply the initials of the column, "Some Random Thoughts".

We were at Larsen's the other day and Mrs Bob Hartzell asked us what the letters stood for. When we told her, she said, "Dang, and I read the whole column thinking that you would tell us at the end." Ruth Neuberger said, "Well that answers my question. I was wondering, too."

We have been wondering about something ourselves. Governor Loveless in his campaign last fall, made an issue of taxes. He called for lower taxes and more economy in government. When

February Much Warmer Than Same Month In '56

February, 1957, went into the record as a relatively warm and dry month according to Earl Henschen, custodian at the Hancock County Courthouse, who keeps a weather log with records taken from government approved instruments.

The average temperature for the month was 25.25 with a maximum average of 36.14 and a minimum average of 14.36. The low temperature recorded during the month was a minus three on the morning of February 22, and the high was 48 degrees on February 13.

The average for February, 1956, was 15.93. In 1956 the mercury dipped to zero or below on 10 days of the month, while the month just ended had but one below zero reading on the morning of the 22nd.

Precipitation during the month totaled .29 of an inch, most of it falling in the twenty-four hour period ending at 7:00 a.m., February 22, when three inches of snow was recorded. In 1956, also relatively dry, .37 of an inch of precipitation was recorded. In the past month, though moisture was scant, there was considerable fog and cloudiness, and on eight days a trace of precipitation was recorded. Thirteen days were listed as cloudy and fifteen as fair by observer Henschen.

The snow-cover which fell on February 21 disappeared under sunny skies and warmer weather later in the month and March came in like the proverbial lamb.

Shamrocks Lose to Corwith In Sectional

Corwith's height and balanced attack proved too much for the Klemme Shamrocks in the second round of the sectional tournament at Corwith last Wednesday night. The loss of the services of Martin Brinkman via the foul route shortly after the half hurt the Shamrocks' chances, too, and they went down by a score of 74-64.

Behind 19-17 at the end of the first period, the Shamrocks came on to take a 37-28 half-time lead. The end of the third quarter saw their lead cut to two points, 53-51, and in the last period, Corwith outscored them 23-11 to gain their final 10-point victory margin.

Keith Nuehring led the scoring for the locals with 21 points, while Brinkman had 19, and Gordie Johnson had 14.

The Corwith scoring was led by Tom Garman with 21 points, while three other men scored in double figures and a fourth had nine points.

In the next round of the tournament, Corwith lost a close one to Goldfield, and Goldfield went on to win the tournament, beating Crystal Lake in the finals.

Emil Pringnitz brought us a couple of clippings from the Drover's Journal, and this one we particularly like. The wisest and shrewdest man in town was being questioned by a youth who asked, "To what would you attribute the fact that you know so much?" The oldster replied, "Good judgement." "And where did you get the good judgement," asked the youth. "From experience," was the reply. And where did you get the experience," was the query. With no apparent thought, the town sage said, "From my bad judgement."

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

On Friday of last week, as you remember, I headed a sub-committee of ten men from the Conservation Committee taking a study-trip to Monona County. We left Des Moines at 7:00 am, Friday morning and drove to Onawa, Iowa, where we were met by a committee who conducted us on a supervised, and very comprehensive tour of this county's irrigation and drainage projects. The weather on Friday left much to be desired in the way of comfort, however, we feel that the over-all purpose of this trip was accomplished and that we left the hospitality of Monona County with much valuable information.

During our absence from the Statehouse on Friday, the following bills were passed and sent to the Senate: a bill setting out conditions of the operation of hospital laboratory and x-ray facilities; a bill to exempt certain farm items from the Iowa sales tax, such as gasoline on which a refund has been claimed; a bill to authorize the state employment security commission to use October 1st as a computation date for all three factors used by the commission in determining an employer's employment insurance tax rate; a bill to permit municipal councils to pass ordinances allowing minors to enter pool halls where beer is not sold; and, a bill authorizing the use of a "yield" as well as "stop" signs at highway intersections—the posting of a yield sign requiring a motorist to stop if necessary to avoid an accident.

On Monday, the House sped through the consideration of 15 bills, passing them without a dissenting vote, after first deferring action on two highly controversial school reorganization measures.

Included in this 15 bill total for Monday, the house passed a series of bills which had been recommended for passage by our Conservation Committee. Of these, one will increase the maximum interest rate, if necessary, on drainage district certificates to 5% instead of the current 4% (H.F. 99); another bill will allow the board of trustees of a drainage district the opportunity to appoint a person as clerk without requirement that said clerk be a taxpayer in the drainage district (H.F. 174); another bill will remove the liability of a trustee of a drainage district to personally pay damages for injuries occurring in consequence of the performance of his duties (H.F. 107); another bill will authorize the payment of the organizational expenses of subdistricts from the proceeds of the tax levied for such subdistricts (H.F. 109) and finally, a bill to provide for apportionments in a drainage district to new owners such as highways taking part of a farm (H.F. 75).

Of other bills, also passed on Monday, one (a bill I introduced) would prohibit the use of spoiled ballots in determining the percentage of a vote cast on a proposition for sale of public bonds and, another would require that all real estate salesmen, in addition to qualifications already in the law, be 21 years old and a United States citizen.

Also on Monday, at a public hearing before this legislature's nursing home investigation committee, we heard reports on conditions which, in general, were described as "appalling." Specific examples and irregularities were cited, and it was recommended that temporary legislation be provided, giving authority to close homes not able to provide adequate safeguards and that, for the long run, a thorough study of building and management be made.

Also, on Monday, we were asked to reconsider the bill we passed 93 to 1 last Friday that would cut sales taxes paid by farmers by about a million dollars annually. It was pointed out that the bill, as passed, would save farmers about one million dollars in taxes. However, this motion to reconsider failed to pass the house, and it would appear now that this measure might be vetoed by Governor Loveless.

The main bill which came before the house on Tuesday was the consideration of a major school bill which we debated four different times, mostly on my amendments. This reorganization measure, which finally passed the house Tuesday with a vote of 103 to 2, I can assure you, will make the law easier to swallow with my amendments than it would have been originally.

The main discussion Tuesday centered around the amendment introduced by myself (a Republican) and Representative Freed (a Democrat) which was designed to give smaller districts some rights and to protect reorganized districts from being swallowed up by larger districts. It also permits the aggrieved districts to appeal. After much discussion, this Riehm - Freed amendment was adopted by unanimous voice vote, and the bill passed, as amended.

Thursday was to have been the last day for introduction of bills by individual house members, but as a flood of proposals hit the hopper, the house acted to extend the deadline until 3:00 pm Friday. After that time only bills sponsored by Committees can be introduced.

Of the many bills introduced on Thursday, the most controversial will be the bill to legalize sale of liquor by the drink and "raise more than 12 million dollars a year" in new state revenue. Meanwhile, the house constitutional amendments committee approved a proposal to submit the entire liquor issue to the voters. The measure was introduced as a constitutional amendment requiring approval by two successive legislative sessions and then by the people. Thus, the earliest a referendum could be submitted would be in the 1962 general election.

On Thursday also, the appointment of a 24 member house steering committee was made. This committee, of which I have been appointed a member, will take jurisdiction over bills on the house calendar after the legislature reconvenes after its spring recess which lasts from March 1 to March 12.

I have been extremely busy since January 14th. If you find this difficult to believe, why not come to Des Moines for a visit? I believe each one of you owe it to yourself to visit the legislature to study first-hand your law-makers in action. Even though, at present, we are only in session from 10:00 am to 12 noon to pass and debate bills on the house floor, our official days extend far beyond this time. Our hours from 8 to 10am are filled with preparatory study and work and working on the details of various bills. The afternoon hours, right up to 5 o'clock, sometimes to 8 or 9 o'clock also, are spent in attending, and attending to, the very important functions of the Committee meetings.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Spring Recess

Iowa legislators are at home this week taking care of their hometown businesses, looking after personal problems, but mostly sounding out sentiment of their local constituents on the affairs of the legislature

Big problems facing most legislators are:

(1) What do the home folks think about the sales tax; should it return to 2 percent or go to 3?

(2) What about liquor-by-the-drink?

What about state appropriations? Should they hold the line on taxes?

(4) What about speed limits?

When the legislature reconvenes next Tuesday, March 12, the legislators hope to have the answers to those questions which have been bothering them throughout the first weeks of the 1957 session.

Doctor Shortage

The dean of the University of Iowa medical school told a state legislative group there never has been as many doctors per capita as there are now, and that people have better care now than ever before.

Dean Norman Nelson said the University medical school is taking about 120 students each year and is graduating about 100. He said a higher percentage are accepted at Iowa than in any other state in the country.

The doctor conceded, however, that the real problem rests in the fact that not enough young men go into psychiatry.

No Tax Ads

State Sen Jack Miller (R) of Sioux City has introduced a bill in the Iowa legislature that would prohibit advertisements in this state which suggest the fact that Iowans making purchases in other states can escape paying taxes on the items thus advertised.

Truck Bill

The legislature has approved a bill which would permit trucks 50-feet long to operate on Iowa's highways. The present limit for overall truck length is 45-feet.

The senate gave final approval to the house-originated measure. It went to the governor for signature.

Before he acted on the measure, however, Governor Loveless told newsmen he studied the bill from every angle, including the safety factor. It had support of the Democratic legislators as well as the Republicans especially in the house where Rep. Howard Reppert, Des Moines Democrat, and a trucker helped guide the bill through.

Senators Robert Rigler of Hampton and Frank Elwood of Cresco, both Republicans attacked the bill as a menace to highway safety, maintaining that on present narrow roads, added time to pass longer trucks creates added highway hazards.

Reapportionment

Top Republicans in the house would like to bring out a legislative reapportionment measure to be acted upon in this session. They are encountering opposition even within their own ranks.

They are moved by the recommendation in the GOP state party platform asking for reapportionment which would obtain fair representation. Gov. Leo A Hoegh, before he left office, strongly urged such action in this session.

Reapportionment backers were disappointed, however, at a public hearing held in the legislature the other day on the subject. Only 53 legislators heard the discussion, there were few citizens in the audience to hear the various reapportionment measures discussed, and no one asked a single question after legislators outlined their bills now pending on the matter.

Funds to Work

Several million dollars in idle state funds will be put to work drawing interest under a bill passed by the legislature.

The bill was an outgrowth of the tax study committee's recommendations. It requires the state treasurer to collect interest through investment of state funds that are idle and not needed for current operating expenses.

Investigation, prior to drafting of the measure, revealed that thousands of dollars of state funds had been on deposit in banks, without drawing interest for many years.

Liquor Vote

House Republicans favor a liquor referendum proposal at the present time. That's the report from Rep. Robert Carson, Independence, Republican floor leader in the house.

Carson, after a GOP caucus, said his colleagues in party ranks are "overwhelmingly" in favor of a proposal to submit the entire liquor question to a vote of the people.

Under the plan the legislature would have to amend the constitution and submit the matter to a vote of the public. Unless otherwise speeded up, the plan wouldn't come to a vote for at least five years.

The house hasn't had a chance to vote on the matter as of this writing.

Liquor Bill

First liquor-by-the-drink bill, a local option proposal, to be filed in the current session came just three days before the spring recess. It was filed by Rep. Tom Frey (R) of Neola. Frey long has been an advocate of liquor-by-the-drink. He says the state is losing revenue each day it avoids the liquor-by-the-drink issue.

Meanwhile, a representative from Frey's home county, Judson T Perkins (R) of Council Bluffs, was top sponsor of a measure in the house that would abolish the Class C beer permits. Such permits allow sale of beer only for consumption off the premises.

Perkins bill would mean that grocery stores, drug stores and others which now hold Class C permits would not be legally able to obtain them. If the plan is approved, beer would only be available at taverns.

More Appointments

Gov. Herschel Loveless has named three Iowans for appointment to the state conservation commission, including one Democrat and two Republicans. New appointees, who must have senate confirmation, are: Clyde M Frudden, Greene, Republican; Dr Albert N Humiston, Cedar Rapids, Republican, and George Meyer, Elkader, Democrat.

They would replace Joe Stanton, Des Moines; Floyd S Pearson, Decorah, and E G Trost, Fort Dodge, all Republicans.

The changes will give the Democrats a 4-3 control of the commission.

Sales Tax

There are Republicans who are insistent on hiking the state sales tax to 3 percent. There are Democrats who are just as insistent the sales tax should return to the normal 2 percent rate.

Rep. Elmer Vermeer (R) of Pella, speaker pro tem of the house, has proposed that the sales tax be hiked to 3 percent and that the third cent be earmarked especially for education.

Gov Herschel Loveless, a Democrat, said that if such a measure passes both houses he will veto it. There is considerable opinion in the state halls that the Republicans wouldn't be able to muster sufficient strength to override a veto of this bill. Too many border county GOP legislators are against a sales tax hike too, along with most all of the Democrats.

State sales tax rate now is 2½ percent, but it will drop back to 2 percent July 1 unless the legislature acts.

Tips On How To Be A Poor Student

Before you go to class you must remember to leave your book in the study hall or locker. When you enter the classroom and sit down, you think that maybe you will be noticed if you slam your notebook hard on your desk or slide your chair around.

When the teacher begins class, and asks you to open your books, this is the time that you raise your hand and ask if you may go get your book. When the teacher gives the assignment for the next day, you don't listen because you think then he will probably give you another day to do it in. But be sure you have an excuse, just in case.

You don't need to take part in the discussion because you think the teacher only takes grades on written work. When the teacher explains some thing, you don't need to pay attention because you can have some of the kids explain it to you later.

Even though you don't want to know the answers, maybe you had better ask one or two questions. So it looks as though you have been listening.

If you want to make matters worse, you can ask to sharpen your pencil during discussion time.

There goes the bell. You better grab your books, run, and shove through. Poor Teachers!

SENIOR INTERVIEW

As we entered the post office this morning who should we see but Janice Stokesbary! Chatting perpetually, as girls do, we found Janice's eighteenth birthday would soon be here, since it falls on March 14th. To celebrate her birthday, Jan, as she is commonly called, will most likely go roller skating or will see the show, "Battle Cry", again. Lunch would be a big basket of French fries or a Hershey bar pie.

Jan enjoys watching the "Bob Cumming's Show", listening to Pat Boone sing "I'll Be Home", and Tab Hunter singing "Young Love". Debra Paget and Robert Wagner are her favorite actress and actor.

Janice is kept busy with all her studying and a part time job at Gerardi's Cafe. Along with writing letters, (enroute to Germany) and collecting minature vases, Jan also works on the paper, annual, participates in GSCS and is a twirler for marching band.

People who spread wild rumors is Janice's pet peeve and she's constantly saying, "Oh, Golly!"

Future plans will be to attend a business college at Mason City, Iowa or Mankato, Minnesota.

Question of the Week

Question— What would you do with a jung frau?

Fonda B—I'd probably give it to Marvalyn to see her jump.

Marvin S—I'd give it to Bob so he could give it to Barbara for her birthday.

Beverly C—Take it to the next slumber party and put it on La Vohn's head.

Dorothy K—Give it to Mr Johnson. Maybe it will help his black eye.

Elaine J—I would send it to President Eisenhower, as a gift from Klemme High.

Karen C—I'd put it under my pillow and sleep on it.

Sharleen S—I'd give it to Bev and Pete and let them take care of it. (If they have time.) I know Jerry and I won't have time.

Art C—I'd take it to bed to keep me warm.

La Vohn J—I'd give it to the new school in remembrance of the Senior class of '57.

Ron H—I would send it back to China.

Barbara A—I'd give it to Mr Johnson for his black eye.

Know Your Town

This week the roving reporters wandered into Ron's T V Service Shop and interviewed Ron Barz.

Ron, as he is known to everyone, told us that television had not even been thought of when he made his first premier on February 15, 1916. He said that TV might have made his studies at Garner High a bit more interesting.

We thought, when Ron said he had served in the Navy, that he must have gotten some valuable experience for the plumbing angle of his business.

Ron hasn't always had his own shop. For a time he farmed. Then he went to a school in Chicago to learn his present trade.

Naturally, Ron's pet peeve has to do with his work. He says he just doesn't like those cartoons which make fun of the TV repairman.

Mr and Mrs Barz have two daughters, Shirley and Jeanne. Shirley is attending A I B in Des Moines and Jeanne is a junior in Klemme High School.

KEEP COOL WHEN

"I'll bring your ladder right back . . ."

"Yeah, five'll help, but what I really need is. . ."

Of course I'm no authority, but. . ."

"Your right on time. What happened?"

Maynard Weisbrod called the meeting to order. The club decided to donate $5 to the International Youth Exchange. Maynard Weisbrod gave a talk on "Getting Ready for Early Pigs".

The discussion topic for the evening was "External Parasites". Slides were shown by Ed Bruns on "External Parasites" and some of the controls for these pests.

Frank Hrubes and Donald Hrubes favored the group with several selections on piano, cornet and accordion.—Gerald Lenz, reporter.

BASKETBALL — FUNNY GAME

As a result of Franklin Consolidated's victory over Belmond in the sectional tournament, 63—57, here are some interesting comparisons:

Belmond beat Clear Lake;
Clear Lake beat Webster City;
Webster City beat Ames;
Ames beat Marshalltown;
Klemme beat Franklin.

I think this goes to show how unpredictable the game of basketball really is.

ROAMIN HISTORY

Nero was talking to one of his officers. "We're not making much money out of this amphitheater," he commented.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Highway patrolmen in four counties got to know him. He was the big, outraged man who waved his arm out the car window and blasted his horn every time he saw a patrol car approaching. It was no greeting. It was a signal for the patrol car to stop.

When the patrolman stopped, the same scene was enacted. The man would be furious. Always, there was a driver just down the road who had almost forced him off the highway, or passed in a no-passing zone, or who had endangered the man in some other way.

"You go get that guy," he'd order the patrolman. "Haul him in and knock his ears down. People like that shouldn't be allowed on the road."

No, he wouldn't appear in court against the other driver. "That's your job," he'd tell the officer. "I've got enough to do without doing your work, too. Now, go haul that guy in."

When the patrolman found the drivers complained against, they would question them about the alleged incidents. Generally, the officers left with some doubt that any infraction had been committed.

But the furious man continued his outside crusade against his fellow drivers. He became well-known among enforcement officers in the area. At least once a week an officer could report that he had been stopped by the man reporting a guy just down the road."

He's more or less vanished now. In fact, the last time a patrolman saw him he was standing in the crowd that ringed a fatal highway crash.

A car had passed another on a hill and an oncoming car had been forced off the road and the driver killed. The patrolman was shocked when he learned who had been driving the car that caused the accident. Some of the best critics are the worst drivers.

Teacher: Now Tommy, tell me where elephants are found."

A man had his hands burned in an automobile crash. As he lay in the emergency ward watching the man in white dress his limbs he said, "Doctor, when the bandages are removed, will I be able to play the piano?"

The doctor nodded and said, "I think so."

"That's funny, Doc, I never could play before."

Passing a door in the wee hours of the morning, a drunk noticed a sign which read, "Ring the bell for the caretaker."

He did just that and a sleepy-eyed man came to the door.

"What do you want?" asked the man.

"I want [illegible] can't [illegible] self."

Agricultural Experiment Ass'n to Hold Meeting

The annual meeting of the Northern Iowa Agricultural Experiment Association will be held Thursday, March 14, in the Roxy Theatre at Kanawha, says Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director.

The morning program will open at 10:30 with the annual meeting of the stockholders. The meeting will have particular importance to stockholders this year, says Henderson, since decisions reached may well determine the future status of the farm.

An audit report is also scheduled for the morning meeting, which will close with a color movie on tiling and drainage. A free dinner, sponsored by the association, will be served to stockholders and visitors at noon. Dinner speaker will be W G Murray, Iowa State College economist, who will discuss "A Better Tax System for Iowa".

All Hancock County farmers will find the afternoon program of interest, Henderson says. Iowa State College specialists will make presentations dealing with soil moisture and fertilizers, and grain sorghums will be discussed by Ed Dyas.

The annual report of the association will also be presented during the afternoon session.

Local Groups Observe National 4-H Week

Hancock County's 4-H Clubs are joining in a national 4-H observance the week of March 2-9, Ed Bruns of the county extension staff, said today.

During this period, emphasis will be placed on recognizing the adult volunteer leaders who guide the activities of the local clubs, and to giving eligible boys and girls a final opportunity to become 4-H members.

Currently there are 38 local clubs in Hancock County. These clubs have 75 adult leaders. In addition, 18 persons serve on the county 4-H committees that give general guidance to the work. The 18 organized boys' clubs have 35 leaders, and 40 leaders assist the 20 girls' clubs.

Young people who wish further information about 4-H work can obtain it from any leader or from the county extension office, Ed Bruns stated. Boys and girls who were 10 years old on January 1, and who have not passed their twenty-first birthday on that date, are eligible for membership.

Other requirements of membership are that the individual join a local club, attend meetings of the group, conduct an approved agricultural or home economics project and take part in the club's activities.

Ed points out that, unless a young person enrolls in a club soon he will not be able to fully share in the many activities that are a part of the summer 4-H program. Most projects must be started immediately so they can be completed by the time of the local achievement show. There will be tours, camps, picnics, rally days, and many other events during the late spring and summer. To take part in them and have the experiences these activities provide, immediate enrollment is desirable.

Will Classify Draft Registrants at 18½

State Selective Service Headquarters this week notified all Iowa Local Boards that "The procedure of delaying classification to age 20 is changed to classify at age 18½ said Earnest A Haes, Chairman of the Hancock County Local Board.

"Our local board will now begin classifying registrants at age 18½ instead of delaying the initial classification to age 20 as has been the practice in recent months" he said.

The new policy is brought about by the necessity of National Selective Service Headquarters and the Congress to know the exact national manpower for the present and future planning purposes.

This policy change is in conformity with existing regulations which provide that a young man must register with Selective Service on his 18th birthday or within five days thereafter, complete a "Classification Questionaire" for the information of his local board, and be classified when he attains the age of 18½. Mr Haes emphasized that a registrant's classification depends upon the written information furnished by him and that he should keep the local board advised of any change in his status in order to be properly classified.

The law prohibits the induction of registrants, except volunteers, under 19 years of age, until substantially all registrants over 19 years of age, not otherwise deferred, are ordered for induction.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

We suppose that by the time you read this some of you will have already been approached by a member of the Klemme School Band, asking you to renew your subscription to The Times. If such be the case, you know that in cooperation with the Klemme Music Mothers, we are staging a subscription campaign.

The campaign began Tuesday, when band conductor Charles Whitford passed out sales pads to band members and gave them the necessary instructions as to how to fill out the tickets and the rules of the contest. Ye Ed was also on hand to offer a few suggestions and tell the aspiring musicians about the fine prizes that are going to be awarded to the top three subscription salesmen.

First prize will be a V-M 45 rpm automatic record player worth $39.95. Second prize will be a Phonola 3-speed manual record player. Third prize will be either a boy's or girl's Timex wristwatch worth $12.95. In addition to these three prizes, the Klemme Music Mothers will benefit to the tune of $1.00 for each new subscription to The Times sold during the campaign and 50 cents for each renewal.

The prizes are now on display at Gerardi's, and "Ernie" says the band youngsters have already been looking them over and "drooling".

Regardless of when your subscription expires, if you renew with one of the band members during this campaign, it will be extended for another year.

If you're curious about the expiration date of your subscription, look at the numbers following your name at the top of the front page. The first number is the month of expiration, and the number following the hyphen, is the year. Thus 10-58 would be October, 1958.

As we said, the campaign began Tuesday and will continue until Monday, the 25th of March. We hope that it will add considerably to the number of readers of The Times, and increase the funds in the treasury of the Klemme Music Mothers.

"Flattery is like perfume—you're supposed to smell it, not swallow it!"

We have watched for some years the annual return of the Clarence Neubergers from their winter retreat in Brownsville, Texas. It seems that without fail, on the day of their return or the day after, we get one of those March snow storms.

• RANDOM THOUGHTS

The Neubergers returned to Klemme, Thursday, and Friday, Clarence was in to tell us to stop sending The Times to Brownsville. We were kidding him about the fact that he always came back from the sunny south just in time for a good snow storm. In fact, we said something to the effect that he and the first robin usually arrived about the same time. . . and that we were afraid there was something a little bit wrong with the weather judgement of both of them.

Clarence agreed with us that he and the robin were probably both pushing the season, but said that it always seemed good to get back. He said they were just one day behind a rain storm from the time they left Brownsville till they got into northern Missouri . . .and that the rain was a good one. He said there was water in ponds now, that had been dry for the past several years, and that it looked very good to see things looking a little more normal.

With the hope in mind of soon getting at his spring farm work, Clarence, of course, had his eye on activities in the fields on the way home. He saw grass a foot high along the road in northern Texas, saw farmers plowing and discing in northern Missouri, and saw quite a few farmers plowing in southern Iowa.

. We suppose his hopes were high for an early spring here . . .but look what happened. He arrives in Klemme, and we get the usual snowstorm that his return fromthe south seems to bring. ..

Don't forget that Cub Scout Carnival which will be held at the high school gym Friday evening, March 15. The doors open at 6:30 and there should be a good time for everyone from that moment until the evening is over. The affair has been very successful in the past and promises to be bigger and better than ever this year.

Rain came to this part of the state Monday afternoon, and although it was a cold rain and didn't leave too much moisture, still it was welcome. Monday was a warm, spring-like day and the falling rain scented the air, making one hope that spring was really on the way. Tuesday dawned bright and clear and warm, so maybe . . . . . .

Speaking of spring. We were having our early morning coffee at Duke's, Tuesday morning and were talking with a trucker from Boone. We were born in the southern part of Iowa and the trucker has traveled considerably in that part of the state. Somehow, in the course of the conversation, southern Iowa roads came under discussion.

About this time of the year in much of the south half of the state, the traveler on the highways will see cars parked at intersections and driveways . . . and they stay there for days. People who live away from the highway don't try to drive to their homes at this time of the year. The frost going out of the roads, makes them a sometimes sticky, sometimes bottomless mess. So they leave their cars at the highway and get to their homes on foot, by horse and wagon, or, if possible, by tractor.

Sometimes in the spring, we complain about the condition of our roads, but we are in the clover compared to our neighbors to the south. We have good gravel on our side roads, and although they get a little cut up and rough in spots in the spring, still they are easily passable, and we know of no one who finds it necessary to do any walking because of the fact that they can't get their car where they want it to go.

Truck Facts

For many years Iowa legislators have been wondering about trucking on the state's highways; wondering whether the truckers are paying their fair share of highway costs; wondering how much they are using the highway; wondering where trucks are coming from and where they are going.

A few of the answers are found in the survey just completed by the cooperative efforts of the highway commission and the Iowa legislative research bureau. The report shows:

Iowa highways are carrying 28 percent more ton-miles than they were just four years ago. Eighty-five percent of this travel is by Iowa registered cars and trucks; 15 percent is by out-of-state vehicles. Out-of-state trucks account for an estimated 20 percent of the total ton-miles traveled by trucks.

Trucks account for about 15 percent of the vehicle miles traveled in Iowa, and Iowa registered trucks traveled an estimated 2.2 billion ton-miles in other states in 1956 and out-of-state registered trucks traveled an estimated 2.9 billion ton-miles in Iowa the same year.

Forty percent of the trips by out-of-state trucks ended in Iowa last year. Almost 400,000 out-of state trucks trips were made through or across Iowa to deliver goods in another state.

About one-half of the out-of-state truck trips made in Iowa are by vehicles with registered gross weights of 36,000 pounds or more; a third of the trips are made by trucks registered for at least 50,000 pounds gross weight.

Back in Session

State legislature got back into session this week after a 10-day spring recess. The controversial issues will come to the front as the lawmakers enter the stretch drive before adjournment.

Biggest problems to face them from now on will revolve around the matter of state appropriations; the decision on how much money to provide state departments for government operations, and where to get the money after they've decided.

Speed limits, legislative reapportionment, a liquor-by-the-drink referendum, school district reorganization are a few other big issues that will be under serious discussion in the next eight weeks.

Favor Speed Limits

Strong support for a law for maximum speed limits in Iowa was indicated by persons in attendance at the organizational meeting to revive the Iowa State Safety Council after some three years of inactivity.

The support came on a show of hands among the 80 some persons present. The request for an expression was made by John Hattery, Nevada, president of the new council and former highway patrol chief and state senator.

Income Payments Up

Early returns of state income tax payments show that Iowans are paying slightly more state tax this year than they did last. Their payments this year, of course, are on 1956 income.

The Iowa tax commission made this report and also said that early returns are up for this period indicating more citizens are filing earlier.

The average payment in January and February this year was $45; last year the figure was $42.

So far this year 93,000 Iowans have filed returns on payments totaling $4,187,151. Last year, in the same period, 85,000 returns were filed with revenue totaling $3,589,956.

Driver's Improving?

State safety officials feel that their courses for "bad drivers" are paying off.

Nearly 600 Iowans with bad driving records have taken improvement courses in the last year. The results: less than 10 percent of them got into trouble after completing the course.

Russell Brown, director of safety education, says:

"We think the results have been astounding."

Courses consist of three hours of study and work in each of three sessions of schooling covering one week. About 600 drivers have been given the alternative of suspension or taking the courses so far, and 540 have gone through the schooling.

Budget Battle

Robert Carson, Independence, Republican floor leader in the Iowa house, said the other day that Gov Herschel Loveless' budget "gives no hope for the farmers."

He points out it does not include increases for state aid to schools, vocational rehabilitation, soil conservation or agricultural land tax credits. He said there is no property tax relief in the budget.

The governor countered:

"If you superimpose my budget over the one two years ago I think you will see that I gave increases where there were little or any two years ago. The budget was thrown out of balance two years ago; agricultural land tax credits were increased but the usual rate of increase for state institutions was cut down. I'm looking at the over-all state picture.

Appointments Okayed

The Iowa senate has confirmed five appointments made by Governor Loveless. They are: Kenneth A Madigan, Council Bluffs, to the employment security commission; Dale K DeKoster, Waterloo, and George Foerstner, Amana, to advisory state investment board; Jack Snodgrass, Waterloo and Albert Detje, Traer, to state aeronautics commission.

The senate still must confirm these appointments sent to them by the governor: Henry Carter, Burlington, employment security commission; Emlin Bergeson, Sioux City, tax commission; Don W Lowe, Des Moines, state labor commissioner; Louis P Culver, Dunlap, natural resources Council.

State Gas Tax

Iowa's state gasoline tax will likely continue at the six-cents per gallon rate for another four years. The Iowa senate has approved a bill asking continuance of the rate for four years and the measure is expected to get favorable action in the house.

Truck Bill Signed

The governor has signed a bill which will permit truckers to operate 50-foot trucks in the state of Iowa, a length which is five feet longer than formerly legal in the state.

The governor said that, after talking to the highway commission and safety officials, he believes it will not adversely affect highway safety or unduly increase the wear and tear on the highways.

Bingo Bills

Two bills, which would legalize bingo and parimutuel betting on races, are on file in the Iowa house. They have been assigned to committees but no action has been taken on them as yet.

Retirement Age

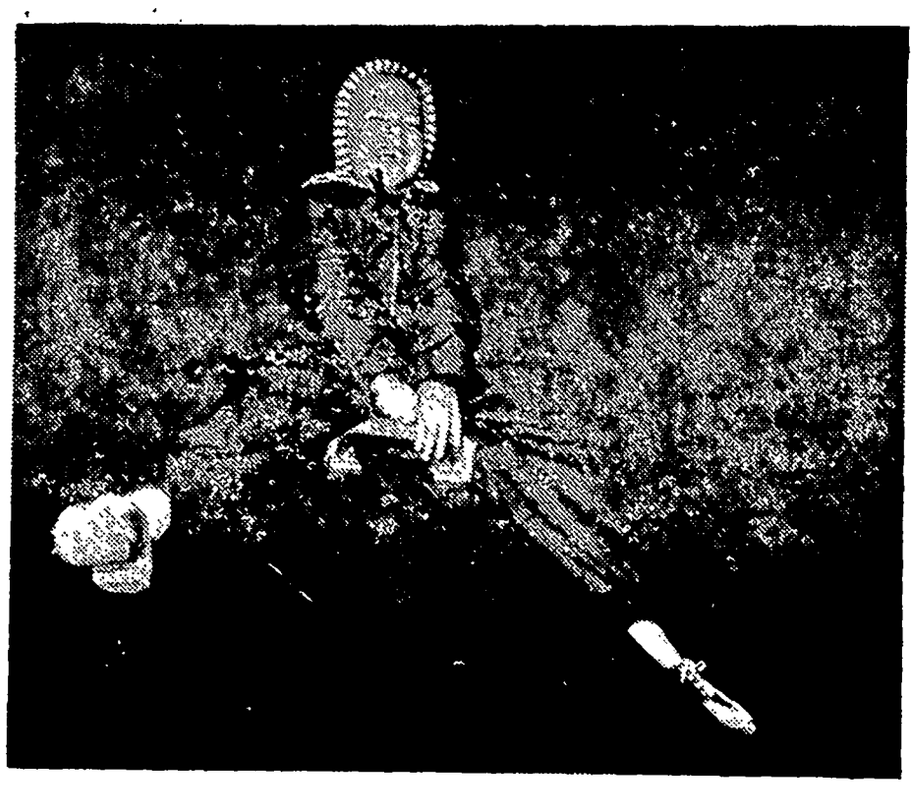
Rep Emil Novak, (R) Cedar Rapids, has filed a bill setting 65 as the mandatory retirement age limit for all city, county, and state employees. There is no mandatory retirement age limit now.

Liquor Question

A house committee on constitutional amendments, by a narrow margin, passed a proposal to submit the entire liquor issue to the voters. The house must yet take action.

Gives Pointers on How to—

Keep Up With Mending Each Week



When snowsuit knees wearthin, apply a rectangular darned on patch by hand. It's unlikely that it would be worthwhile to put an invisible or an overall patch in—you'd have take out the lining to do it.

No matter how hard you try, it's impossible to overlook a full basket of mending for very long. Chances are you are a very busy woman—busy with homemaking and family, church anl community activities or perhaps a outside job. Even so, it's just plain smart to keep up wi h the mending

Without a doubt, you want to do a good mending job as quickly and as easily as possible. Mending is easy to do. You can often do such a skillful job of it that no one can see where you've repaired a tear or snag, or filled in a hole or reinforced a thin place in a fabric.

MEND DURING IRONING

Shirley Jean Smith, extension clothing specialist at Iowa State College, suggests that you keep your mending equipment handy when you're doing the ironing. You may be able to catch a snag or tear when it's just starting. If you find new small holes or tears you may be able to mend them with iron-on tape which makes a fairly invisible patch. Tape won't work so well on a garment if the tear or hole is in a place of strain.

You can mend small holes or tears in most fabrics by machine darning. In fact, you can do most of the family's mending on the sewing machine in a short time and get good results.

First, get the machine ready. Be sure the tension is correctly adjusted and that your machine stitches evenly. Adjust the length of the stitch to suit the weave of the cloth. The finer the weave, the shorter the stitch. Use No. 50 mercerized thread in the machine. Use a regular darning attachment, or loosen tre thumb screw on top of the machine so you can pull the cloth back and forth while stitching.

If the tear is quite long or three-cornered—as in a sheet, for instance—baste the edges together to hold them in place. Place a piece of soft matching material under the hole if the area around the hole is worn.

Hold the area to be darned securely between your hands, or use an embroidery hoop or a special darning hoop to keep the material taut. Or you may use tissue paper basted to the underside of washable material to hold cloth tight. The paper will wash off when you launder the article.

Stitch slowly backward and forward, following the grain of the material or the diagonal of a twill woven fabric. Stitch well beyond the worn area. Space the line stitching close together if the weave is fine or if the cloth needs strong reinforcement. Then stitch crosswise over these rows.

HAND DARN WOOLENS

You'll want to do hand darning on wool articles and "better" clothes. It takes longer than machine darning, but it gives a softer finish and is usually less conspicious. If possible use short threads from the same fabric. If the garment is ready-made, ravel threads from the straight cut seams—lengthwise yarns from side seams and crosswise yarns from waistline seams or the straight hem of the skirt.

Use a fine needle and a short thread. Don't pull the thread too tight. Put a lightweight fabric such as net on the underside if the material needs strengthening.

Turning a shirt collar used to be a pretty common mending job. Nowadays many collars can't be turned. Some have plastic pin stays, other collars are bonded together for stiffness.

PIE CONTEST AND STYLE SHOW FOR WOMEN'S DAY

The Hancock County Rural Women's Day will be held at the Britt High School Auditorium on Friday, March 22, 1957, at 2:00 pm.

The afternoon's program will highlight a style show and pie contest. For the style show the women will model the garments made in extension work. The pie contest is to help promote agricultural products. Musical numbers will furnish some in-between acts.

A hearty welcome is extended to all to come to the Rural Woman's Day at Britt on March 22nd.

EDITORIAL

Nowadays a senior in high school is somewhat of a triple personality. First of all, he must be a student and a scholar. This means that he must attend class and do his assignments faithfully. This also includes such extra-curricular activities as band, vocal music, sports, and dramatics. Secondly, he must be a social butterfly. He must never miss a basketball game, class party, or school program. Finally, he owes a responsibility toward his church and his parents.

All of these things are important. That's true. But which should come first? That is the $64,000 question. We certainly can't let our subjects slide because of over-participation on other activities. And we owe it to ourselves to enjoy ourselves by being active in things other than the required classes in high school. On the other hand, should we let Dad down by finding something else to do when chore time rolls around? Or how would our choir sound on Sunday morning if all the high school kids had skipped out to a basketball game, or from the other side of the fence, how would the boys feel if no one was there at the game to cheer them on to victory?

These are problems which most seniors face every day. Is it any wonder that we sometimes make the wrong decision?

Seniors Plan Bake Sale

In order to help raise money for our Skip-Day trip to Minneapolis, the seniors are planning several bake sales from now to April 18. The first will be held at Wellemeyer's Store on Saturday, March 16th at 10:00 a.m.

Let's all help the seniors raise money for their trip by attending these bake sales!

SENIOR INTERVIEW

For the past six years at 8:30 a.m. Val Stromer has started his school days by playing his cornet in the Klemme High School Band. After band rehearsal we talked to Val and found out that his other activities include mixed chorus, boys' glee club, mixed double quartet, and sports which include basketball for one year and two years in track. In his junior year he carried the responsibility of vice-president of the class. Val now works on the annual and paper staff.

Val is a member of the Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church in Garner. He is a member of the Youth Fellowship and sings in the choir.

Here are some of Val's favorites:

TV Program—Ford Theater and Playhouse 90.

Pastime—Riding horseback and skating.

Subject—Typing.

Val's secret ambition is to work with landscaping.

Good Luck, Val.

English Theme Written By Cozette Lau

This is the Tip Top Teen Program brought to you by the makers of Ivory soap, VAM hair conditioner, LaCross nail clips and files, Pepsodent tooth paste, TeK tooth brushes, and Cannon washcloths. Boys, if you want to make a hit with the girls, start by rushing to the nearest department, buying and making use of our sponsors' products.

My fashion advice for today is: Sell your black leather motorcycle jacket to some "hood" and never, ever buy one again.

Wear a belt tight enough to keep those sagging jeans where they belong.

Don't try to imitate Elvis Presley's haircut or any modification of it. He's getting paid for looking like he does. Thumbs down on those haircuts for you.

You probably wouldn't lose many points for wearing a V-neck sweater with only a T-shirt underneath, but you could gain a lot of points by wearing a neat shirt underneath, too.

To look real sharp—go Ivy League.

Tune in tomorrow for more nuggets of wisdom from the fashion world.

GOING STEADY

HE SAYS: Will you go steady with me?
HE THINKS: I'll kick your head in if you don't!
SHE SAYS: Yes, I'll go steady with you.
SHE THINKS: What can I lose?

Know Your Town

This week our interview takes us to the "Sawtelle Superette" owned and operated by Gordon Sawtelle who has been in business in Klemme for two years. While we were talking to Gordon, he told us that he was born in Latimer in the year 1920. He attended school at Latimer and graduated there in 1938. After graduation he attended Iowa State and later worked in the heating of sheet metal in Latimer.

Mr Sawtelle's favorite meal would consist mainly of a nice big, juicy steak. When hunting season comes around, you will see Gordon out in the fields toting a gun, for that is his favorite sport.

Mixed Chorus Takes Part in County Festival

Monday, March 4, found a busload of Klemme High School mixed chorus members enroute to Crystal Lake for the annual Hancock County Chorus Festival. Upon arrival at Crystal Lake we were assigned a "home room" and soon started to wear our voices to a thin shriek.

Mr Engle, our guest instructor from Clear Lake High School, directed some two-hundred chorus members from Garner, Britt, Woden, Crystal Lake, Corwith, Hayfield, Kanawha, and Klemme. After rehearsal was dismissed we all enjoyed a supper prepared by the Crystal Lake Music Mothers.

The evening performance started at 8 p.m. and consisted of the following songs: "Glorie", "Glory to God", "Riddle Song", "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair", "Climbing up the Mountain", "Tis the Holy Hour of Evening", "On the Street Where You Live", and "If I Loved You". Between these songs, "The Hungry Five", a five piece orchestra composed of band leaders from surrounding schools presented a delightful array of musical selections.

QUIZ FOR ENGLISH TEACHERS

English, they say, is the language most used,
Most spoken, most written, most cruelly abused.
The plural of box we all know is boxes,
Yet the plural of ox is oxen, not oxes.
One goose is goose, but two are called geese;
But why isn't more than one moose quoted meese?
A mouse and his family are mentioned as mice,
But the plural of house is houses, not hice.
The plural of brother is brothers, or brethren,
And yet we say mothers, but never say methren.
The plural of man? The answer is men.
The plural of pan? Who'd dare to say pen?
If more than one tooth we'll designate teeth,
Then why isn't more than one booth termed as beeth?
If one thing is that and three things are those
Then why do we ever swear at cats and not cose?
A cow in the plural is sometimes the kine,
But who ever spoke of two vows as vine?,
You can readily double a foot and have feet,
But try as you will you can't make root reet.
If this, in my hand were two, 'twould be these,
And yet is the plural of kiss ever kese?
We classify pronouns as he, his and him,
But never, it's certain, as she, shis and shim.
No wonder then, foreigners nearly go mad
And speak our good English atrociously bad.

My sister asked her kindergarten class how many stars they could see at night. After receiving answers running from "more than a hundred" to "too many to count," she called on Georgie. His answer was, "Three." "But Georgie, how is it you saw so few stars, when the other children found so many?"

"Well," said the youthful Georgie, apologetically, "Our back yard is very small!"

70 YEARS

At Columbus Junction, John Summerville has received the first 70-year IOOF pin to be presented in Iowa.

the Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The next time the conversation turns to death on the highway and friend Joe sums up with, "They ought to do something about it", you'll have an answer.

And the next time neighbor Hazel drops over for coffee and the talk gets to the point where she says, "Why it's just terrible. It isn't safe to drive any more. Somebody ought to do something about it." —you'll have an answer.

You can tell friend Joe or neighbor Hazel or anyone else who deplores the traffic problem that there is now a way they can do something about it.

This week in Des Moines a new Iowa Safety Council was formed to organize a state-wide membership for a town-by-town drive on traffic accident prevention.

The new council has been organized by private citizens whose aims are to build a public support group of individual citizens and groups for traffic safety, to stimulate the formation of a safety council in your community, and to go at the whole problem of accident prevention in a scientific manner.

What this all means is that there is now a place for you — and Joe and Hazel and everyone —to "do something" about traffic accident prevention.

Iowa has been without a statewide citizen safety group for some years. State and national safety officials have felt this is one reason for our heavy accidental death and injury toll last year.

If you're ready to join your fellow citizens in an attack on the safety problem, you can get in touch with the new safety council by writing to the Safety Education Division, State Office Building, Des Moines 19.

Hancock County young people between the ages of 18 and 30, and unmarried, will find the Iowa Rural Young People's State Assembly at Ames, March 22 through 24, a rewarding experience, says Ed Bruns, County Extension Youth Assistant.

The Assembly is open to all unmarried persons between 18 and 30 years old, whether they live in rural or urban communities, he said. Membership in a formal youth group is not a requirement for attendance. Adult advisors and counselors of young people's organizations are also welcome.

All activities of the assembly will be held on the Iowa State College campus. Parties, dances, and the inspirational and educational meetings will all take place in the college atmosphere, says Ed.

Theme of the Assembly will be "This—Your Life". Harlan Geiger, state older youth leader, reports that college staff members who are authorities on "training for living" will provide counsel on such topics as preparation for marriage and family life, making progress in your vocation, preparing for leadership in your community, and the role of personal values in everyday living.

The Assembly will open Friday afternoon, March 22, with registration and tours of the campus. A get-acquainted party is planned for Friday evening. Another highlight is the annual banquet and dance Saturday evening. The assembly closes with a matins service Sunday morning, March 24.

Additional information on the assembly can be obtained at the county extension office in Garner.

"Yes, sir, boy. You certainly won that argument with your wife!"

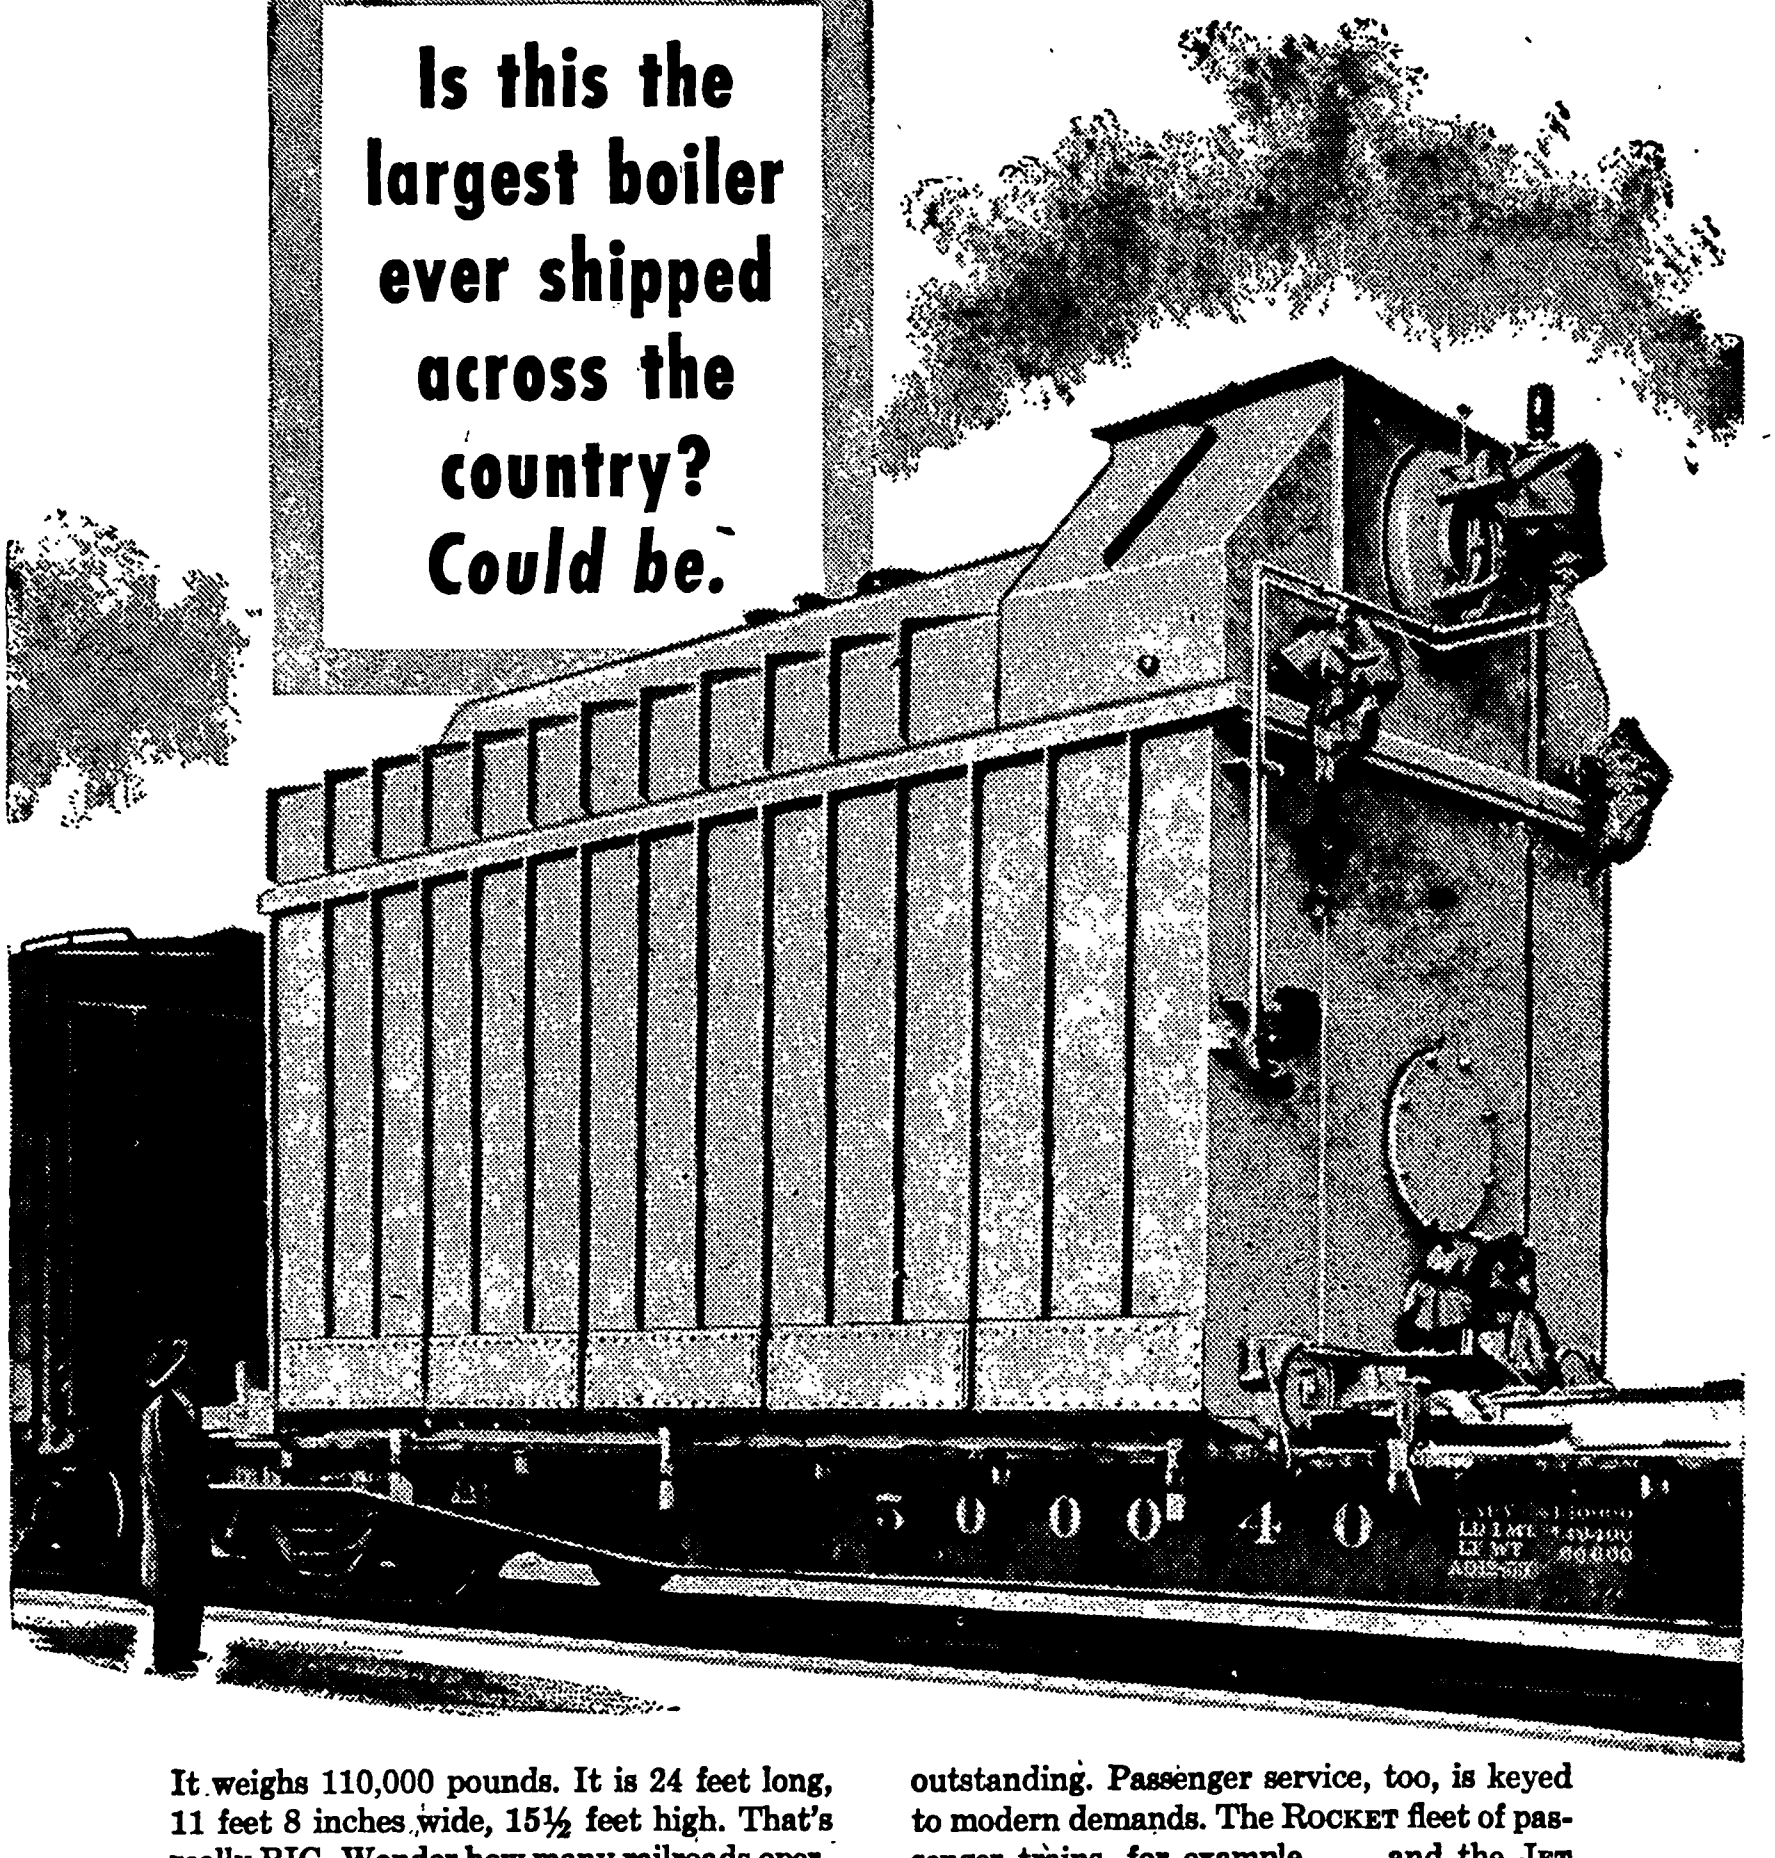
Is this the largest boiler ever shipped across the country? Could be.



It weighs 110,000 pounds. It is 24 feet long, 11 feet 8 inches wide, 15½ feet high. That's really BIG. Wonder how many railroads operating from Chicago to the far west could transport such a huge object?

One could and did—the Rock Island Lines. This road had the necessary right-of-way clearances over its entire line!

This is just one instance of Rock Island's ability to perform a transportation service that's outstanding. Passenger service, too, is keyed to modern demands. The ROCKET fleet of passenger trains, for example . . . and the JET ROCKET between Chicago and Peoria . . . and the GOLDEN STATE between Chicago and Los Angeles.

Transportation—smooth, trouble-free rail transportation—that's Rock Island's business. It's a big job and we've been working at it for 105 years!

Consult any Rock Island representative for complete shipping and travel information . . . from anywhere to anywhere.

For a Lovlier Yard—

Plan on Paper Before Planting

Before you plant a tree here and a shryb there, do some planning on paper. Place a piece of tissue or tracing paper over a photograph of your home. Trace the lines of the house, then sketch in plantings.

"Plan ahead" is one of those slogans that seems to apply to just about everything you do. But these two words are never more important than when you are thinking about planting some trees, shrubs and flowers—the accessories to the over-all landscaping of your home.

It takes years for a newly planted yard to grow to maturity, so whether you're ready to do landscaping around a new home or just make some changes or additions around your "old" yard, think to the future. Careful advance planning will give you a total good effect in the long-run, and you will have saved yourself time and money.

Don't Clutter Yard

If you plan to do some landscaping this year, don't let the first warm spring day send you out with trowel or spade in hand to plant something. Margherita Tarr, extension specialist in landscape architecture, says there's a tendency for all of us to clutter up our yards with plants we want to try rather than plants that will give desired beautiful effects. Oftentimes we're so anxious to decorate the yard we wind up with plantings that may outgrow the house, the size of the yard and even our physical stamina.

Miss Tarr suggests that you draw, to scale, a map of the total area of your yard and house and take pictures of the house and grounds. On your scale drawing show where everything's located: all buildings, walks, gates, steps, views (good and bad), utility poles, overhead wires, water lines, drains, tree, shrub, and flower plantings as of now.

Sketch Ideas

Put a sheet of tracing paper or white gift wrapping tissue paper over the map. Trace in the lines of the house and other permanent details. Then sketch in new ideas, using a fresh sheet of paper for each one.

Photograph all sides of the house, plus the grounds around it. These pictures, if enlarged, will give you a chance to sketch out the kind (size and height) of plantings that will look best when fully grown. Try out planting ideas on tissue paper placed over the photograph. This can give you a realistic effect and help you decide on the final result you want.

Study what you want to do in light of the permanent results. Consider how you, as a family, will use your yard. Children need uncluttered play space (a large open lawn area) so give it high priority in your planning.

As you work on your long-time plan keep three things in mind: (1) The grounds should be convenient and efficient in layout in terms of the use your family will give them; (2) beautiful (pleasing to look at); (3) easy to take care of from time, energy and money standpoint.

When you have decided why you want certain plantings, decide where you will need them. Not until after you have made these two decisions will you be ready to search out the kinds of trees, shrubs or flowers that will do this for you.

Then you'll want to study up on the kinds of plants and trees that will give you just the effect you want. A bulletin, "Landscape Plants for Iowa," can give you specific information on the characteristics of various kinds of trees, plants and shrubs. You will be able to tell the heights and spreads to which they grow. The bulletin is available for 15 cents from your County Agricultural Extension Office or the Publications Distribution Room, Morrill Hall, Iowa State College.

Some Random Thoughts

For some time we have thought of devoting one page of The Times to farm news. This week, we decided we would try it. The page will not contain as much local farm news this week as we hope it will in the future, but for those who are interested it appears on page six of this issue.

Due to weather and road conditions which caused the local school to be closed on both Friday and Monday, there is no Shamrock in The Times this week. Friday is the day that the students usually prepare the copy for the school page, but since there was no school that day, they didn't get to follow their usual weekly routine. Had there been school on Monday, they could have still gotten copy to us in time, but Tuesday evening would have been too late. The weatherman willing, The Shamrock will be back next week.

If you haven't yet purchased your tickets for the annual Lions Athletic Banquet, the time is drawing near. The banquet is to be held in the high school gym on Friday evening, March 29, and it is essential that the ticket sale be in advance, so that the Lions can notify the cooks as to how many meals to prepare. The food will be good and there will be an evening of entertainment, topped by a talk by Mr Edsel Schweizer, head football coach at Luther College.

Guess what! Last Friday morning during the final stages of the blizzard . . . right when it was needed more than at any time all winter . . . the town's snow plow broke down. Never made it back into action until Tuesday, either. In fact, a county plow cleaned our streets of snow Monday.

"Pete" Larsen wishes they had cleaned the main street a little earlier in the morning. Monday. He was driving his pickup to work and empty pickups just aren't much good in slippery going. In fact, "Pete" only made it as far as in front of The Times office. Although the walk from there to work wasn't far, "Pete" said that the bad part was having to go and get a truck to tow his pickup the rest of the way up town.

One casualty of the high wind that accompanied Thursday night's blizzard was Dad's TV antenna. It didn't blow clear down, but Friday morning it was drooping over like a wilted flower. Wasn't so bad, though, as he had been thinking about getting a new one, anyway.

The board of education met on March 18 to organize the board. New members this year are the two incumbents, C J Larsen and Herman Schimdt. Clifford Anderson was elected chairman, succeeding Mr Schmidt.

Contracts for the 1957-58 school year were offered to all teachers, janitors, cooks, and bus drivers. Some increases and adjustments in salaries were made.

No resignations have been received from school personnel to date and indications are that there will be little or no turnover this year. Teachers have until April 15 to return their contracts.

SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN EXTENDED

Due to the snow and bad roads, we are extending the time of our subscription campaign. We had originally intended for it to run until Monday, March 25th, but we felt that weather and road conditions made it bad for band members to get around to see prospects, so we decided to extend the closing date for another week, or until Monday, April 1st.

Many new subscriptions and renewals have already been sold, and as of today (Wednesday), the leading salesmen are Virginia Kudje, Vernon Jurgemeyer, Sharon Blau and Franklin Neuberger.

The salesmen are working toward winning for themselves one of three prizes: either an automatic 45 rpm record player, a manual 3-speed record player, or a wrist watch, and each new subscription they sell puts a dollar in the treasury of the Klemme Music Mothers. Each renewal is 50 cents for the Music Mothers.

Services Held for Bennie A. Liljenberg

Funeral services for Bennie A. Liljenberg were held at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon from the Osman Funeral Chapel at Britt, with the Rev. Melvin Miller officiating. Bennie, well-known in the Klemme community, died Friday at Veterans Hospital in Des Moines, where he had been a patient since December.

Comfort in music was furnished by Mrs Melvin Miller and Mrs Marvin Lemke, accompanied at the organ by Mrs Edsel Hesley.

Interment was in the Ell Township Cemetery here, and casket bearers were Kenneth and Franklin Kluckhohn, Lynford Back, LaRayne Stille, Carold Larson, and Wayne Buseman.

Obituary

Bennie A. Liljenberg was born in Thompson, Iowa, on August 30, 1896, and was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran Church at Thompson.

He spent his boyhood and grew to manhood in the Thompson community, where he also attended school.

His father was an architect, and Bennie followed his line of work as a plasterer.

In 1917, at the beginning of World War I, Ben entered the armed services of our country, and served overseas.

After the war, he came to Klemme and lived with his mother until her death.

Last December, Bennie became ill and was taken to the Veterans Hospital in Des Moines, where he remained as a patient until his death early Friday morning.

Preceding him in death were his mother and father, and a sister, Anna.

Surviving are two sisters: Mrs Julia Bianchi of St Louis, Mo., and Mrs Clarence Wold of Jewell, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Klemme School Bonds To Be Sold April 3rd

The board of directors of the Klemme Community School District met in special session on March 14 to fix the time and place for the sale of $375,000 in school building bonds. The date of April 3 at 2:00 p. m. in the library of the high school building was designated.

The bonds will be in denominations of $1,000 with the final maturity date of November 1, 1976.

The purpose of the issue is to construct and equip an addition to the present grade and high school building and to purchase land to add to the present school site.

The bond election was held on February 18 and carried by a 78% majority. The "Yes" votes totaled 536, the "No" votes 148.

Bond bidders may receive additional information from the office of the superintendent, Klemme Community School District, or from H N Rogers, Liberty Building, Des Moines, Iowa.

farmer, having operated a grocery store from 1933 to 1955 in Joice and Lake Mills. He is owner-operator of a 200-acre farm in Worth County.

Thunderstorms and Blizzard All In The Same Day

Thunderstorms moved into this section of the state last Wednesday night and continued, off and on, until well into Thursday afternoon. At that time, a cool front, accompanied by high wind, pushed the thunderstorms away, and shortly thereafter snow began to fall.

By supper time visibility was practically nil, and the highway was no place to be. In fact, the only good place was home, as a considerable number of people found out. Basketball tournaments were in session all over Iowa and many people who attended games in the north half of the state, found themselves spending the night sleeping on gym floors, or in the homes of good-hearted townspeople.

By Friday morning road conditions were not good, and there was no school in many districts; Klemme being one of them.

Saturday and Sunday were nice days. The wind was down, the sun was out, and considerable thawing took place. In fact, by Sunday night most of the snow was gone. Sometime in the night, Sunday, though, it began to rain, and before morning the rain changed to snow. About four inches of the wet, sticky, heavy flakes accumulated here by early morning and then the fall eased off. It snowed lightly most of the day, but the weather was warm, and much of the day's fall melted as it hit the ground.

The wet snow made secondary roads in the area very slippery and some heavy drifts were reported, so there was no school on Monday. However, Tuesday the sun was out bright and strong, and today, the first day of spring, is warm and sunny.

Easter Seal Sale Aids Crippled Children

Don C Roe of Garner, Hancock County Easter Seal chairman, said today that Easter Seals have been mailed to Hancock County residents this week. This mailing of Easter Seals is the climax of months of planning and work by the Hancock County Easter Seal Society and cooperating organizations.

Enclosed with the seals will be a return envelope in which families may mail their contribution to help crippled children.

Mr Roe said, "The happiness of crippled children depends on the success or failure of this Easter Seal campaign. Hancock County has never let these youngsters down yet, and I know we won't this year."

The Easter Seal campaign is conducted by local volunteers entirely and over 90 percent of the funds raised stay in the State of Iowa. The remainder goes to the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults for a nation-wide program of consultation, education and research.

Worst casualty was the editorial left knee which has been stiff and sore since we helped put up the new antenna.

Although the pheasant population at the Joe Schuldt farm just north of town is heavy, still the highway traffic takes a toll on the birds. The evening is especially bad as the birds are coming in from the fields to roost in the grove along the highway. We remember some years ago that Walt Rosendahl had a nice big rooster come right through his windshield, and Tuesday evening Arnold Blau had one strike the radio antenna on his car.

We were returning from Garner and Arnold was right behind us. We slowed down to keep from hitting the rooster that walked out onto the highway and he turned and went back to the edge of the road. As soon as we were past, he started to cross the road again, and although Arnold braked his car and even slid a little, he was unable to avoid the bird as it flew up to try and clear the car.

The bird was only injured, not killed. Arnold says, "If we see one flying with a limp around the Schuldt farm, we'll know it's the one that bent my antenna out of shape."

Right now, before warm weather arrives, is a good time to get those polio shots. We took our boy to have his first one last week, and decided that maybe it wouldn't hurt us to take the course, too . . . so the whole family got shot. Didn't hurt, either, although the young one gave Doc a mighty serious look after he finished with him.

One thing we know . . . the preventative in this case is not nearly as bad as the disease. We hope everyone will take advantage of this vaccine.

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

The House of Representatives reconvened on March 12 ,Tuesday, and again the members of the House began deliberations on bills which are before them, dealing with everything that affects the public and the operation of the laws of Iowa. There are only 1,001 bills which have been introduced. If you consider the fact that there are only 100 days to a session, it means approximately 10 bills per day if we are going to pass them all, which of course, is impossible.

I think that I have stated before that a legislator's job is just as important in keeping poor bills from being passed as in passing good ones.

The bills which have been passed this week are of minor importance; that is, they do not touch on any particular major problem in the state of Iowa.

One bill which, I believe, is a good bill in the sense that it places a limitation on one of the funds in the county as far as how much the assessor's office can levy for taxes, was passed by the House this week. This is one of the few tax spending bodies that has no limitation as to the amount of money it can spend. With this bill, they now will be limited.

I think that each and every one of you is interested in where our state tax dollar goes and I believe that some information on our budget would be of interest, therefore I would like to set forth some facts.

First, let me say that unless more money is raised you are going to find either some of the tax money which comes back to the local community being cut, or, if they are not cut, then some other thing would have to be done. In the event it isn't raised, the state has the right to place a property tax upon all property in the state of Iowa to raise the money for the state for these expenditures.

You may wonder about some of this money that comes back from the state to the county. About 22½ million dollars goes back in school aid; over 10½ million dollars for agricultural land tax credit; over 26 million dollars goes back to homestead credits. This is the $62.50 which is allowed upon your home and the state pays toward your taxes. There is considerable discussion that some of this Homestead Credit tax should be dropped somewhat and thus there would be no need for raising more money.

I believe that the general public would not buy this and would want to continue the Homestead Credit. It has been said that this Homestead Credit tax, which is paid by the state of Iowa, is for the inducement of home ownership.

Over 19 million dollars goes to Social Welfare which helps the poor out in all the counties throughout the state of Iowa through our various welfare departments.

Another very large item is your Educational Institutions; your colleges where over 32 million dollars are suggested for use by our educational institutions.

The next is our Board of Control which takes care of our institutionalized people in our reformatories and penetentiaries where it costs over 17 million dollars. In addition to these major items you have requests for funds for public safety, for miscellaneous aids and services and for the administration of the state government.

Governor Loveless' proposed budget recommends an increase of 900 thousand dollars for state administration over the previous administration at a total cost for administration of 6.9 million. The cost of administration for the two past years was right at 6 million dollars. The budget as proposed by Governor Loveless is 151 million dollars. Approximately 30 million dollars more than Governor Hoegh's budget.

I have talked with some of the members on the Committee on Appropriations and they have indicated that they expect to cut at least 5 million dollars from his proposed budget. However, with the sales tax dropping back to 2%, the State of Iowa is in trouble if it expects to receive the benefits which I have outlined above for Homestead Credit, for Veterans exemptions, for school aid, unless some other money is raised.

It is estimated that with the present income for the State of Iowa for the proposed budget by Governor Loveless there will be approximately 28 million dollars deficit. That is, for each year you would have to raise approximately 14 million dollars from some source in order to take care of these expenditures.

This money must be raised somewhere because, if you analyze this and give it serious consideration, you will find that most of the money actually comes back to be spent at home where the tax saving can and should be made in your own local tax budget hearings.

As of July 1st we should have a surplus of money on hand of about 36 million dollars. This does not mean that this is surplus. The State Comptroller has stated that there is a need for about 24 or 26 million as working capital since the money that the state receives comes in once a year for the income tax and quarterly on the sales tax. This working capital is necessary in order to operate the state government and make payments, in accordance with the obligations, back to the counties as they are received, and to other expenditures of the state.

This would allow some 10 million dollars of this money on hand to be used if the people of Iowa believe that this should be done and if the legislature believes this should be done, which still leaves a deficit as to the amount of money that must be raised.

So far, the facts and figures I have given you have not even taken into consideration the requests by the veterans and auxiliaries for a new home for the soldiers at Marshalltown, which estimated cost is 2 million dollars; the retarded children of Iowa and the children who are handicapped and need special education. I believe the combined request would total approximately 3½ million. These have not been considered above! In addition to that, you have requests for other expenditures and conservation measures which are not included in the above considerations.

Just as the members of the legislature have an obligation to acquaint themselves with all the facts pertaining to their government and to the needs of the people and to the desires of the people, I also believe that the people of the state have an obligation to keep themselves informed as to their needs.

There are some individuals who will say, "we want our school aid" and "we want our homestead credit tax" and "we want our agricultural land tax credit" and "we want more money for higher education" and "we want better institutions for our mentally ill and for our reformatories"; and, in the same breath say, "we oppose any tax increase whatsoever".

This is not a realistic approach to the matter which the state is trying to solve. A government exists only for one purpose, and that is to provide services and benefits for the people which the people, as individuals, cannot provide for themselves. This is really the true, and only purpose of government.

If you believe that the objects and purposes for which the monies are raised in the state government are good, then you must also accept the taxes which go with these objectives. The cost of the state government for administration is about 4%. The other 96% goes to the benefit of the people of Iowa.

I know that you are paying close attention to the reporting of the legislation which is pending, adopted, or considered here at the Statehouse, in your newspapers. I know that you will form an opinion on them as they are presented to you, and, I know that you realize there are many problems.

Stirs Action

A quickening in legislative action and in political tempers has marked the end of the spring recess for the state legislature.

Appropriations committees are moving on budget matters so that action can be approved for state appropriations. Both houses are moving faster on legislative bills already on the calendars of the two houses.

On the political side, State Rep. Clark McNeal, Belmond, took the floor of the house right after the recess and described Democrat Gov. Herschel Loveless' state budget as one that "has taken on the character of a fish exposed to the sun and there is considerable odor emitting therefrom."

McNeal, who reportedly is himself interested in either a Republican primary governorship contest or a sixth district congressional race, attacked the Loveless budget for some 20 minutes.

Replied the governor: "It is time the legislature developed some statesmanship and not so much partisanship."

GOP Leaders Meet

Republican county chairman and Republican legislators got together last week for a behind-the-doors session on politics and legislation.

While both sides reported to newsmen that "nothing definite" was accomplished there are reports that those attending reached the conclusion that Lt Gov W H Nicholas and State Rep. Clark McNeal are more than casually eyeing a governorship race next year. Statements they made, or close friends of theirs made, apparently were the springboards for reports on the future plans of the two politicians.

Senate Nominations

Governor Loveless has been having so little trouble with senate confirmation of his appointments thus far that some GOP legislators are becoming uneasy. There are reports around the senate halls that an effort will be made to block one or two if only to sharpen political lines.

For the first time now there are indications that some uneasiness is being shown against at least two appointments, one to the highway commission and one to the board of control.

The governor had named Robert L Brice of Waterloo to the highway post to succeed Democrat Emery Loomis of Waterloo, who had been appointed by Gov Leo Hoegh. Not only is Loomis unhappy over not getting the reappointment, but some Republicans have threatened a fight on the change.

John R Hansen, Manning Democrat, named to the board of control, was at first thought to face opposition over a misunderstanding of names, Hansen, a member of the Democratic state central committee, has never held office nor has he run for state elective position. However, John E Hansen of Dedham, and now of Eagle Grove, who once served in the Iowa house and sought election as state treasurer two years ago, was believed at first to be the appointee. This Hansen had been denied a state appointment by the senate in 1953 when it was tendered by Governor Beardsley. Republicans who thought it was the same man were predicting another turndown.

Loveless' other appointment to the highway commission is Cecil Malone of Atlantic, to succeed Mel Graham of Audubon who did not seek reappointment. Both are democrats.

Cigarette Machines

Unusual legislative action occured in the state legislature on a bill to permit cigarette vending machines in Iowa.

The measure, which passed the house handily, found rough going in the senate before the senior house finally approved it, after amendment, and returned it to the house for final approval and for passing to the governor for his signature.

The senate then reconsidered and asked a recall of the bill from the house. Before it went to the governor the senate got it back. After further debate, the other day, the senate finally approved a motion to "lay the bill upon the table," which is tantamount to killing it. It takes a two-thirds vote of the senate now to reactivate it.

Incorporation Measure

The house steering committee, now handling all bills in that body, has approved for floor discussion a measure to prohibit the incorporation of a new town within three miles of the city limit of a city of 15,000 or more population.

Loveless Appointments

John R Hansen, of Manning, a member of the Democratic state central committee, has been appointed to the Iowa state board of control by Gov Herschel Loveless. The appointment needs confirmation by the state senate.

Hansen would succeed Henry Burma, of Allison, whose term expires July 1. The term is for six years at $7,000 a year.

Other appointments made by the governor which need senate confirmation also, include John P Hummel of Iowa City and Elmer W Hertel of Waverly to the board of examiners in basic sciences. Hertel's is a reappointment.

New Highway Maps

The state highway commission reports new road maps will be available for distribution before the end of the month.

The 1957 maps will have a new look with a redesigned cover which sees the large Iowa ear of corn replaced with an industrial scene. Also gone is the two-lane highway winding through the countryside. A four-laner has taken the place of the narrower highway, reflecting the changes in the highway traffic and design.

About 150,000 of the maps will be distributed, the commission reports.

Freeman to Talk

One of the Iowa Governor Loveless's friends in elective politics, Gov Orville Freeman of Minnesota, will speak at the Iowa Democrats Jackson Day dinner April 13.

Freeman was selected as the speaker after U S Senator Richard L Neuberger of Oregon had accepted and then rejected the invitation because of the press of congressional business. The state's lone Democratic congressman, Merwin Coad of Boone, will also speak at the fund-raising dinner.

Speed Limit Necessary

Safety Commissioner Clinton Moyer told a police traffic school at the University of Iowa that a definite speed limit control law is necessary on Iowa's highways to control drivers in the "lunatic fringe."

Moyer said checks have shown that 85 percent of the drivers on Iowa highways now drive at speeds of 65 miles an hour or less. The other 15 percent causes the accidents, he said.

Moyer said the legislature mea-

Soil Bank Signers

Early reports show that 37,624 Iowa farmers have signed 1957 soil bank agreements covering corn which provide total possible payments of $26,398,587.

The agreements, state ASC officials report, call for at least 597,000 acres to be taken out of corn production this year.

The payments would average about $44.25 an acre and $702 per participating farm, officials estimate. Indications are that 237,581 more acres would go into the corn acreage reserve this year.

Iowa's original apportionment on national corn acreage reserve funds for 1957 was $44,287,000. This would be sufficient to meet all requests under the present program.

Bus Lines Bill

The Iowa house steering committee has approved for action a bill which would permit cities and towns to use up to 25 percent of parking meter revenue to subsidize public transportation systems. Other provisions of this bill would eliminate the six-cent state gas tax used by transit firms and reduce their registration fees.

FARM PAGE

Although The Times has always carried a considerable amount of news of interest to farmers, it has been scattered all through the paper. We thought that perhaps our farm readers would enjoy having an entire page devoted entirely to news and information in line with their vocation.

Consequently, we decided to try a farm page, for a few weeks at least, and see what might come of it. We hope that it will grow into more than just a page each week, but we realize that in order for this to happen, we will have to have some help from our farmer subscribers.

We know that there are many things of interest that happen on the farms in our circulation area that would make good reading . . . if we only knew about them . . . and we would like to have as much local material as possible on this page. So we are going to ask for your help.

If something unusual in the way of animal births or out-of-the-ordinary plant growth occurs on your farm, we would appreciate hearing about it. If you have found some time- saving or work-easing gimmick that you think would help other readers of The Times, we would like to help you pass it along. If you have an exceptionally fine herd of hogs, feeder or dairy cattle, others would probably be interested in how you managed and fed them.

In other words . . . if you have any helpful hints, or anything on your farm that you think might be of interest, let us know . . . and if the story contains picture possibilities, we would appreciate a chance to publish them, also.

Anyway, this page is for our farm readers, and if we hear of any of our "city slicker" subscribers reading it, we'll . . . . .

All the rain and snow we have had in the past week should be quite beneficial. The frost apparently had pretty well gone out of the ground before all the precipitation arrived, so as the snow melts, it should soak in. We hope that this moisture is only the beginning of a season that will see a more nearly normal amount of rainfall than has been our lot for the past couple of years.

We saw Fred Olthoff in the Klemme Hardware, Tuesday, and asked him how things were "out west". He replied. "Muddy". We suspect that such is the case in every farm yard and feed lot in this area . . . and although the mud makes for harder work in taking care of stock, still we imagine that everyone is grateful for the moisture.

We know of a couple of fellows who didn't much approve of the blizzard last Thursday evening. Doc Baker got a call to go to the Art Pringnitz farm southwest of Goodell and lend some professional assistance to a sow that was having more than the normal amount of trouble producing her litter. Doc asked his neighbor, Melvin Schlei, to ride along with him, and although they arrived at the farm in time to remedy the troublesome situation there, they didn't get back to Klemme until Friday.

The blizzard became too much for them, so they stopped in Goodell and spent the night with friends. Guess neither Doc nor Melvin enjoyed the ride much, but they were glad to have been of service.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Inflation

Poor farm prices have covered up an inflationary condition that has existed in the United States' economy since 1953, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Kutish says the American press has become somewhat concerned over this inflation danger in recent weeks because of a rising trend in wholesale prices that began early in 1956 and because of a hike in the cost of living that occurred about the middle of 1956.

He says this recent price upsurge has come as a shock to some, since the wholesale price index and the consumer's price index have both been relatively stable since 1953. However, he points out that this stability was maintained at the cost of farm prices, which have been poor. When farm prices stopped dropping, and the other wholesale price indexes continued rising, this inflation became apparent.

Cattle Numbers

January 1, 1957, marked the end of an increase in cattle numbers that began in 1949, says Kutish. When the climb began, there were about 77 million cattle on farms. Heavy sale of cattle and calves during 1956 had cut the number back to 95.2 million on Jan. 1, 1957. This was a drop from 96.8 million cattle of Jan. 1, 1956, and was a decline in numbers of 1.7 percent.

Kutish says cattle numbers usually fluctuate in cycles of 12 to 15 years. However, no two cycles are exactly alike, he says. This means we have no assurance that there will be a six or seven year decline in cattle numbers, now that the trend is downward.

Last year's reduction in cattle numbers was due mainly to drought in the grazing country. The 17 western states showed a drop of 5.2 percent because of this. The west showed sharpest reduction in calves and steers, which dropped off 14 percent by January 1.

Kutish believes that good weather in the grazing areas could cause some holding back of cattle during 1957. And this could mean ranchers will compete with the corn belt for stocker cattle come fall. The fall supply of older steers from the west will be down most, with yearlings next, and calves showing the least decrease in numbers, says Kutish.

Cattle demand in the corn belt will hinge on the 1957 corn crop and the trend in fed-cattle prices during 1957, he concludes.

YOUNG MARRIED FARMERS HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

The Young Married Farmers of Hancock County met last Tuesday evening at the extension office in Garner. The evening began with a pot-luck supper. Paul Henderson, County Extension Director, led an interesting discussion and showed slides on "Insect Control". Lou Stiegerwalt, assistant to the County Home Economist, led an interesting group discussion on "Furniture Arrangement and Color Schemes".

Beef Producers' Banquet Will Feature Roasts

WILDLIFE CROP BOOSTED BY SOIL BANK

One farm crop not in surplus will be increased by the Soil Bank. That farm crop is wildlife, says Donald A Williams, Administrator of the U S Soil Conservation Service. Every soil bank acre will add something to food and cover for wild birds and mammals that inhabit farmlands.

"The Soil Conservation Service regards wildlife as an important product of the land," Williams says. Frank H Mendell, State Conservationist, points out that "Soil Conservation Service helps and encourages farmers and ranchers to recognize that wildlife, like other crops, must be intentionally managed and produced. Technicians assisting farmers, cooperating with the Hancock County Soil Conservation District and participating in the Soil Bank, show them how wildlife improvement fits logically into a soil and water conservation plan.

"The Soil Conservation Service will give Soil Bank participants the same kind of technical assistance on wildlife habitat development that it has given through soil conservation district operations."

The Conservation Reserve part of the Soil Bank offers cost-sharing for practices to improve wildlife habitat. But whether land goes into the long-term Conservation Reserve, or is out of cultivation only one year under the Acreage Reserve it will have an opportunity to grow cover and food plants useful to wildlife, Mendell points out.

Even the annual weeds that normally grow on untilled fields are staple foods of such species as quail and pheasants. Or cover crops planted to prevent erosion, being left unharvested will furnish nesting cover and food.

The Conservation Reserve offers an opportunity for interested farmers to increase beneficial wildlife without disadvantage to farm income, Mendell believes. In the Conservation Reserve, Soil Bank acres may be used specifically to produce wildlife. At the Soil Bank pay window, wildlife land commands exactly the same return in annual rental as grassland or woodland. In addition, farmers may harvest or sell their wildlife crop during the contract term, a privilege that does not apply to grass or trees under normal conditions.

For once the oft-heard argument that farmers cannot afford to use their land for wildlife does not hold, Mendell says. In the Conservation Reserve, production of farm game, fur animals, waterfowl, songbirds, or fish has the same dollar value as any alternative use for the land.

Cost-sharing for establishing the new land use and applying conservation practices on wildlife land is scaled to the same basis —80 percent of cost— as where the farmer chooses to plant grass or trees.

The Soil Bank program contains three practices for Conservation Reserve acres designed especially to protect and produce wildlife. They are:

"Establishment and management of cover specifically beneficial to wildlife."

"Water and marsh management to benefit fish and wildlife."

"Constucting dams or ponds for fish."

Whether a farmer uses one or more of these special wildlife practices or devotes his reserve acres to pasture grasses, trees, or water storage, farm game and other wildlife will benefit.

Whatever their ultimate use, the grasses, legumes, shrubs, and trees planted on Conservation Reserve land may not be cut for harvest, except under certain emergency conditions, for the 3, 5, or 10 year contract periods. Water impounded under any of the Conservation Reserve practices will be available for wildlife use.

These areas of protected wildlife habitat interspersed throughout the 478 million acres of cultivated land in the United States, is sure to improve living conditions for wildlife.

Land eligible for the Conservation Reserve includes cropland that was tilled or was in regular crop rotation the year before the contract begins, or former cropland that was established in permanent cover other than trees since 1953.

The deadline for signing 1957 Conservation Reserve contracts is April 15.

Legume Inoculation Good Insurance Says Henderson

Inoculating legume seed will provide Hancock County farmers with assurance that legume seedlings will have nitrogen, says Paul Henderson, county extension director.

The use of an inoculant insures that nodule-forming bacteria will be present for the new seedlings. These bacteria make nitrogen from the air available for legume plant use, Henderson explains. Clovers, alfalfa, soybeans, and lespedeza should all be inoculated, he says. Be sura you get the proper inoculum for the type of seed you're planting.

Lloyd Frederick, Iowa State College agronomist, recommends the moist application method as most effective in bringing the bacteria into contact with the seed. Follow directions on the container.

After the seed is inoculated, it shouldn't be allowed to dry before planting, Frederick says. Keep it out of direct sunlight. Remember that the bacteria are alive, and may be harmed by drying.

If you have seed that has been treated with a fungicide, you'll have to use two or three times as much inoculum as would normally be recommended, says Frederick. The fungicide chemicals will injure the inoculum bacteria.

The meeting of the Avery-Twin Lake Hustlers was held at the home of Kay and Dean Burk on March 11, 1957. There were 18 members and two leaders present.

One-Pound Rib Roast to Eoch Plate

Each plate at the Hancock County Beef Producers' Banquet, Tuesday night, March 26, will feature a one-pound standing rib roast, prepared by the chefs of the Hormel Packing Company at Austin, Minnesota, according to Herman Bode, president of the county association.

Tickets for the banquet for both men and women are available from one of the following directors: Herman Bode, Corwith; Wiley Weaver, Britt; Bob Schneider, Goodell; Forest Eckels, Britt; Sanford Rogness, Britt; Elmer Jante, Garner; Alvin Townsend, Britt; and Paul Steiff, Forest City.

There will be a good speaking program with music furnished by the music department of the Britt Community School when the meal is completed at St. Patrick's Parish hall in Britt. Election of some new board members and a report of the association activities in beef promotion will be on the program.

Tickets are $2.00 and only 250 will be sold. The ticket sale is on a first come, first served basis, according to Bob Schneider, secretary of the Beef Producers' Association.

TWIN LAKE INDIANS SELECT KING CANDIDATE

Monday night, March 11, at the home of Raymond Eliason, Gary Steenblock was chosen king candidate by the Twin Lake Indians 4-H Club. Eldon Thompson was selected as voting delegate and recreation chairman.

Samples of parasite control chemicals were examined so as to acquaint each member with the appearance and odor of each.

After the meeting, Raymond Eliason gave a demonstration on "Lifting and Carrying". It was emphasized that if possible you should divide the load and don't show off. Raymond said, "In the long run, time will be saved if you get some help."

Gary Steenblock demonstrated "How to Use a Saw". "An important point to remember," said Gary, "is to be sure the saw is at a ninety degree angle to the wood. The reflection in the saw should be straight." — Reporter, David W. Eliason.

ANNUAL 4-H FUN NIGHT SET FOR MARCH 30TH

The annual 4-H Fun Night will be held on Saturday, March 30, in the Memorial Building at Garner. The program is scheduled to start at 8:00 p. m., according to Ed Bruns, Youth Assistant.

A 4-H king and queen will be selected and crowned during the program. Each 4-H Club selects a candidate to be its representative. Who will be king and queen this year?

The crowning of the king and queen may be the big event, but there will be fun for all that attend. There will be square dancing, social dancing, folk games, and party games. This is a big evening when 4-H members, leaders, and parents from all over the county get together to visit and have "fun".

TOMATOES

At Manchester, Miss Emma Bartman, put a couple of tomato plants indoors last fall, now has tomatoes about the size of golf balls.

Meeting adjourned following a discussion of business on hand, and refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs Daisy Lemke.

FOR GREATER IOWA PAYROLLS

More than $30,000,000 per year! That is the payroll received by workers in the brewing industry who live and are employed in Iowa. The entire state benefits from this continuing source of added revenue. These thousands of employees reside right here in Iowa, and spend these added millions in every nook and corner of Iowa, for every kind of product and service.

Yet this is only one of many advantages we derive from the brewing industry. For instance, over $62,000,000 is invested in its business in Iowa. More than $23,000,000 per year is paid in taxes, thus reducing the taxes others must pay. And we receive many millions more through the industry's purchases of farm products. All this means steadily growing wealth for our state, and for all of us.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

We cannot help but wonder what could have caused Sunday's fatal accident four miles south of town on highway 69. Although the day was windy and cloudy, visibility was good, the road was straight and dry, and it just seems that there could be no possible reason, short of mechanical failure or a sleeping driver, for the two cars to have met head-on as they did.

The accident happened at Elmer Anderson's corner with one car southbound and the other headed north, and in an instant one man was dead, another was injured, one teenager lay critically injured with a broken back, and three other youths were in serious condition . . . and we just can't see how the accident could have happened.

We have heard varied conjecture on what could have been the cause, but we are inclined to think that it boils down to the fact that someone had their mind off their driving for just the right length of time . . . and at just the right time! We know that there have been times when the proper sequence of events could have caught us in a lax moment and we would not only have been in an accident but we would have been at fault. We imagine that nearly everyone who drives can think of times when they, too, could have been in the same predicament.

Driving is a job in itself. One that requires concentration and no distraction. An instant used in glancing away from the road ahead at the right time, can easily result in tragedy.

And while we're on the subject of driving, State Safety Education Director, Russell Brown, has some comments about back-seat driving. He cautions that back-seat driving should not be carried to a "nagging extreme", but says that the right kind of back-seat driving is probably our most under-rated safety device.

Brown says, "The important thing is that the back-seat driver keep calm, use a pleasant tone of voice, don't startle the driver, and be sure to be specific about the danger. Don't just yell 'look out'." He feels sure that many accidents are avoided because a passenger says the right thing at the right time, and adds that he thinks it is the right and perhaps the responsibility of a passenger to sound off if he thinks it is necessary to warn a driver.

From the south half of Iowa to the Texas Panhandle, the biggest blizzard of many a year hit early this week. Cars, trains, and buses stuck, people marooned away from their homes, planes grounded, and for once we didn't get hit. Seems funny to hear over the radio that there are ten inches of snow in Des Moines while we have none. It's usually the other way around . . . especially at this time of the year.

It's an ill wind that blows nobody some good, though, and the section of the country that was

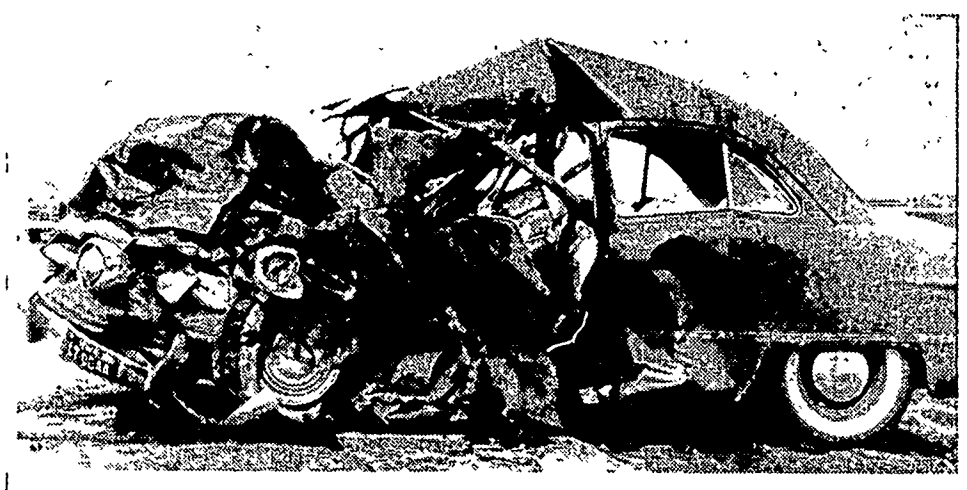
Two Fatalities as Result of Head-on Collision



This is the car in which one teen-ager was fatally injured in Sunday's head-on crash south of town on highway 69. Three other youths who were riding in the car were hospitalized, and two escaped injury.

Accident Happened Sunday Four Miles South of Klemme on 69

One man, Roy L Shuermann, 47, of Ames was killed instantly and 17-year-old Jerry Echard of Clear Lake died this morning (Wednesday) as a result of a head-on collision on highway 69 four miles south of Klemme, Sunday afternoon.

Eckhard, along with three other youths who were riding with him, and Virgil Erbe, 24 of Ames who was a passenger in the Shuermann car, was hospitalized at Belmond. He suffered a spinal fracture, compound fractures of the left leg and a fractured left thigh; injuries from which he could not recover.

Two other boys riding with Eckhard, James Gilbertson and Gerald Furness, both 16-year-olds from Hanlontown, were not injured.

Shuermann was driving south and the carload of boys was northbound, returning home after having attended the boys state basketball tournament at Des Moines, when the two cars crashed head-on near the Elmer Anderson corner four miles south of town.

However, a bill is now pending in the General Assembly in Des Moines to move the date ahead to September 15. The bill has passed one house but its final disposition is not known at this time.

Census records indicate that next year's kindergarten class will be large compared to this year's class.

Will Tear Down Old Elevator After Collapse of Floor

New One Story Warehouse Will Replace Building

The floor in the warehouse of the old elevator at the Klemme Co-op. Grain Company collapsed Monday morning, dropping some 25 tons of salt and feed about six feet to the ground. Many broken bags and shattered blocks of salt are left to clean up following the failure of the structure.

A meeting of the board of directors was called for Monday afternoon and a decision was made to tear down the old elevator, which was erected in the 1890's, and build a new one-story warehouse in its place.

The old building has been used only as a warehouse for the past couple of years as its condition made it unfit for the sort of use for which it was designed.

Future plans called for razing the building and putting a new warehouse in its place, but they were not to be carried out for at least another year. The collapse of the floor Monday made it necessary that the board take some action immediately and plans now are to begin work on the project as soon as arrangements can be made.

This building is the last of the original plant of the company, and when it is torn down a landmark will disappear from the local scene.

hit with the most snow is the section that has been stricken by drought for the past several years. The moisture will no doubt be appreciated.

We don't recall ever having seen so many ducks on lakes in this section as we have seen this spring. The part of Clear Lake west of the grade is covered with them and then there are more on the open water in the big lake.

Sunday, between five and six o'clock in the evening, we drove around in the Morse Lake, Lake Cornelia and Elm Lake area, and there were ducks everywhere. They were feeding in the cornfields, swimming in the open water, standing around on the ice, and any direction you looked in the sky there were ducks either going to feed or heading back to water.

Interesting to watch. We imagine they'll be here for a few days, too, for it's easy for them to find feed, and the weather is still a little unsettled for them to head on north. We wonder if maybe the storm in the southwest didn't push them up this way a little earlier than is normal.

One fact that surprised us during our drive Sunday evening was the water level in Elm Lake. It's just about dry. Looks more like a big mud flat after a rain, than it does a lake after a long dry spell. But what water there was, the ducks were enjoying.

Glad we're not out in that Panhandle country right now. We soldiered during WW 11 with a fellow by the name of Foster from Dalhart, Texas, and he always said, "There's nothin' between Dalhart and the North Pole but a barb wire fence . . . and that gets down every winter."

MIX-UP IN DATES BUT AUXILIARY WOMEN STILL MAKE WOODWARD TOUR

A mix-up in dates between members of Hancock County units of the American Legion Auxiliary and a bus company resulted in considerable confusion and delay, but the Auxiliary women still made their tour to the institution at Woodward on Wednesday, March 20.

Thirty-nine women gathered at pickup points in Garner, Britt, Kanawha, and Goodell to wait for their chartered bus. Klemme ladies waited with a group at the Duck Inn at Goodell and the bus was to be there at 8:15 a. m. However, the bus company had the tour scheduled for the 27th.

Arrangements for a bus were made and several sandwiches and a lemon pie later, at 11:45, the bus finally arrived in Goodell.

Arrival at Woodward was at 2:00 p. m. and although the tour had to be shortened, still it was interesting and many improvements were noted by the ladies since they last visited the institution.

On the return trip, the ladies had dinner at Treloar's Inn on the north edge of Fort Dodge. They arrived home at 9:00 p. m.

EDITORIAL

As you can see, the "Question of the Week" deals with TV commercials. Most of the kids' favorite commercials are those which advertise beer or cigarettes. I am not surprised. Neither should you be surprised.

Most beer and cigarette ads are better than other ads. I am forced to admit that my favorite commercial is the one advertising Hamm's beer. Some of these commercials are better than the programs that they sponsor.

Perhaps some of the other advertisers could take a lesson from this and could maybe make their ads a little more interesting. We all enjoy commercials when they are halfway interesting.

April Fool Roots Lost In Legend

Many explanations have been offered for the custom of "April-fooling" on April 1, but they vary greatly. The most general thought is that it has something to do with spring equinox—the beginning of spring. There were many ancient, pagan festivals for this purpose, and our present custom may be an outgrowth of these.

In France, the custom became general as early as 1564. The calendar was revised that year, making the year begin January 1. There had been a custom of exchanging gifts at the New Year, and some early wags began giving false gifts and playing pranks after the calendar change. In France, a person fooled is called a "poison d'avril," or "April fish."

April fooling arose in England in the 18th century. In Scotland, the April fool is called a "gowk," or "cuckoo."

Many school newspapers in the United States publish special April Fool editions—with outlandish stories making up the fare. Headlines of "School Dismissed for Rest of Term," "No More Tests." etc., are the order of the day. Quizzes and April Fool jokes are also in order.

AWARD

Forest City attorney Burt J Thompson was named as the first recipient of an annual award to be made by the American Bar Foundation. The citation is awarded for "adherence to the highest principles and traditions of the legal profession and service to the public in the community in which he lives."

Seniors Working Hard On Class Play

The Senior class play is about Johnny Clover, who is editor of the "Penguin", the Preston High School newspaper, and Spud Erwin, who is the business manager.

Johnny and Spud are intent on running the "Penguin" by themselves but fate steps in and puts Susan Blake in as assistant-editor. This causes the boys to become very perturbed and they try to throw her out. This is all in vain, however, because Susan has the backing of Miss Willard, the journalism teacher, and Henry Quinn, who is the youngest principal in the state.

Spud and Johnny meanwhile, have suspicious symptoms which they interpret as being in love with Miss Lucybelle Lee from Kentucky, but they are really coming down with the measles. This, of course, is blamed on Susan and the "Penguin" is almost ruined. However, all is well that ends well and the play does have a happy ending.

Mrs Clover, Fonda Bier; Johnny Clover, Art Carlson; Mr Clover, John Datema; Spud Erwin, Gary Lenz; Susan Blake, Winola Zwald; Betsy Erwin, LaVohn Josten.

Janice Stokesbary is prompting the cast, Marvalyn Carolus is taking care of hand properties and Juda Stahl is in charge of getting the tickets typed and ready for sale by March 27th.

Each night for the past two weeks, play practice has been in progress. Act one is supposedly memorized and act two is being blocked on stage. The entire cast is trying to remember everything and Mrs Oberg is getting lots of headaches.

Be sure to come to the Senior Class Play on Friday, April 5th, at 8:00 p. m. in the Klemme High School gym.

VOCAL MUSIC CONTEST TO BE HELD AT FERTILE

Contest time is getting nearer and nearer every day. All the soloists are especially aware of this so they are spending many hours in practicing. The vocal soloists that we entered in the small group contest to be held at Fertile on April 12-13 are as follows: Art Carlson, John Datema, Candace Carlson, Virginia Kudje, Joyce Lassahn, Joyce Thiemann, and Fonda Bier.

Practice hard and bring home a lot of I's.

HOME ECONOMICS PLANS APARTMENT LIVING

The advanced home economics class has been preparing to live in an apartment for two. Plans were made for buying kitchen utensils, linens, curtains, rugs and furniture. After figuring the salary of the average person, some plans seemed a little extravagent.

Cooking meals for two people was the next step. The meals were planned for one week, according to working hours and salaries. Guests were invited for one meal, and finally a meal was cooked using left-overs.

At the pesrent time, styles of houses and furniture are the main subject of discussion. Individual notebooks will be made to illustrate these things.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

Down the hall comes a package of personality, drawing smiles from all corners of the hallway. Who is it? None other than Winola Ann Zwald, better known as "Winnie", who was born June 5, 1939. "Winnie" attended country school until the eighth grade when she joined our hectic group called Freshmen. Winola participates in Sextette, Mixed Chorus, Girls Glee Club, Double Mixed Quartet, Band,, Paper, Annual, and Class Play.

Winola has started her job as a citizen by becoming president of GSCS, reporter for 4-H, and and an officer of MYF. Winola plans to attend Morningside College after she graduates from KHS.

Winola likes French fried onions very much, and "Don't Forbid Me", by Pat Boone is her favorite song. The Chevrolet (yellow and white) is her favorite car and "Oh No!" is her favorite saying. Teachers who have pets are her favorite peeve and her secret ambition is to become another Liberace (not really). Winola is a very capable pianist and has done well with her music. In fact, Winola does well in all she attempts. It's just her way.

Know Your Town

This week, as always, Ronald and I, due to popular demand, were assigned the merchant interview.

We decided to visit the Klemme Hardware and interview Melvin L Neuberger.

Melvin was born on a farm in Butler County, Iowa, in 1904. In 1915 his family moved to Hancock County.

Melvin has been employed at the Klemme Hardware for 26 years and he hopes to be employed there for many more years as he enjoys his work.

Some of Melvin's favorites are as follows: chicken is his favorite food, but if he is hungry, he'll eat anything. He likes to watch the Laurence Welk show on TV. His hobby is improving his golf game.

His favorite way to pass time depends upon the season of the year. In the winter he enjoys television and playing cards, but in the summertime he gets that old urge to work around the house and garden.

Mr and Mrs Neuberger have been married 25 years. They have two children, Elaine (Mrs Valere Nelson of Forest City) and Alan, both of whom graduated from good old Klemme High.

BRINKMAN'S TEAM WINS IN INTRA-MURAL TOURNAMENTS

Wednesday, March 20, saw Roger Sobek, Larry Hoffmann, Bob Thieman, Craig Larson, and Daryl Brager, under the leadership of Martin Brinkman, captain, win an easy victory over the team led by Marvin Josten.

The tournaments started some time ago with eight teams, each commanded by one of the basketball team members. The fellows thought it was a lot of fun and so did the spectators. Most of the kids on the teams weren't excellent players and sometimes the onlookers got quite a laugh. But it was all in fun and everybody had a high old time.

SHOP CLASS SEES SAWMILL IN ACTION ON FIELD TRIP

The Shop boys went on a field trip on Thursday, March 21, to the Ned Howard farm. There they learned all about the sawmill and saw it work. Mr Howard does custom sawing and he was nice enough to demonstrate the mill to the fellows in the class.

"Chuck" Bacon had the privilege of trying out the machine. He found it rather interesting, to say the least.

CONSULTANTS FROM ISTC VISIT KLEMME SCHOOL

During the past two weeks, two consultants from Iowa State Teachers College at Cedar Falls visited in the Klemme High School. Dr M B Smith of the speech department visited in the room of Mrs Carolyn Oberg, English instructor. He suggested ways of integrating speech work in the English program. Dr Smith visited Klemme on March 21.

On March 26, Mr Willis Wagner of the industrial arts department visited the classes of Donald Butler. Plans for the layout of the new shop were discussed.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS TO ATTEND MOVIE AT KANAWHA

All members of both the Klemme and Kanawha high schools will attend a showing of the movie, "War and Peace", at Kanawha on April 1. The film will be shown at 9:00 a. m. and will last over three hours. An admission charge of 50 cents will be made to each student.

It is felt by school officials that every high school student should see this film for its historical and literary value.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

HOGS

There is about a 50-50 chance that this year's top hog prices will be reached in the next three to four months, says Frances A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Kutish says the time when the hog-price increase will begin depends on how fast marketings fall off during the next three weeks or so. The size of the price increase will be determined by how well hog marketings are spread out as well as by total numbers. The March 1 pig crop report will give the first indication of how much farmers have changed their hog-farrowing plans since December 1, 1956. Kutish believes there is undoubtedly some change in farrowing plans. He bases his belief on events since December 1. Looking back, Kutish points out that the December 1 pig crop report indicated there would be little change in early pigs and only a slight decrease in numbers of spring pigs. However, late December and early January hog prices raised hopes for high hog prices during the winter of 1957-58. This caused increased interest in hog breeding. Farmers were advised at that time to base price expectations on the long-range hog price outlook and not on current prices, Kutish points out. About the time farmers were given this advice, hog prices dropped as increased runs of fall pigs hit the market. The result of this and other events is that the planned late-spring pig increase has probably been changed some, Kutish concludes.

CATTLE

About 10 percent fewer steers were sold out of first hands for slaughter at the Chicago, Omaha and Sioux City markets during February, 1957, than was the case a year earlier. This marketing reduction boosted fed cattle prices a bit above prices of the year before. But they were still not satisfactory to the cattle feeder, says Kutish. The decrease in marketing came in price and good-grade steers. There were slightly more choice steers sold than in February, 1956, mainly because of a big increase in receipts of these animals at Sioux City. Of the three markets, Chicago, Omaha, and Sioux City, Sioux City was the only one that received more steers during February, 1957, than it did a year earlier. During the second week of March, the fed steer market showed some strength, Kutish reports. He says the market seems to be following the pattern of a year ago—weakness in late January and February followed by some recovery. If February turns out to be the low month in fed cattle prices, it will be the sixth time since the end of World War 11, Kutish says.

200 Attend Swine Producers Banquet at Britt

Hear Talks by Meyers And Bernard Collins

Two hundred producers assembled in the basement of the Lutheran Church in Britt Tuesday night, March 19, at a banquet meeting to talk over the outlook for swine producers. Keith Meyers, executive secretary of the National Swine Growers Council pointed up the need for national promotion, legislation and the necessity of servicing swine products distribution in the United States and on foreign markets.

Bernard Collins, Wright County commercial swine producer discussed the need of the meat type hog to fit consumer demands and how the commercial and purebred swine producers could help in producing this type of hog. He also discussed the swine producers boar testing station at Ames.

The swine producers present at the banquet elected the following men to the board of directors for a three year term: Loren Abele, representing Garfield and Concord Townships; Charles Sheets, representing Bingham and Crystal Townships and Clifford Howlett representing Erin and Boone Townships.

The newly elected board will meet Tuesday night, April 2, to elect officers for the coming year.

INCOME TAX DEADLINE NEAR FOR FARMERS

Farm operators who filed an estimate on or before January 15 must submit their final federal income tax returns by April 15, he says. The final date for state returns is April 30.

Conservation Reserve Contracts Offered by ASC

A number of Hancock County farms contain fields or parts of fields which could be placed in the conservation reserve program of the soil bank to the advantage of the owners or operators according to Hancock County ASC Committee.

The conservation reserve is a long-term plan under which land regularly used in crop production is put exclusively to conserving uses for a period of three, five or ten years. The program applies especially to land which is low-producing, has been over-cropped or is washing or eroding. Under the conservation reserve plan, such cropland can be put to conserving uses and rehabilitated while the owner or operator receives an annual payment which in most instances will be sufficient to provide some net income even during the years it is being built up for future cropping or being transformed into a valuable tract of forest trees or a water storage area.

Hancock County ASC Committee urged farmers having any land of this nature to call at once at the county ASC office in Garner for complete information on the conservation reserve program. He emphasized that contracts beginning in 1957 must be signed by April 15.

Farmers of Hancock County who participate in the program will receive an annual payment of $13.00 per acre for conservation reserve land. If the contracts are for more than three years, they can also receive up to 80 percent of the cost of establishing a vegetative cover, constructing ponds, planting forest trees or developing wildlife resources on the designated land. In addition, participating farmers may qualify for regular ACP cost-sharing for other conservation practices which are needed on the reserved land.

Hancock County ASC Committee said that a number of farmers have already inquired about the conservation reserve. No contracts have been signed on conservation reserve.

A farmer may choose a conservation reserve contract of 3, 5 or 10 years for land already in approved cover crops. If vegetative cover is to be established, contracts must be for 5 or 10 years, whichever the farmer prefers. If the land is to be planted to forest trees, the contracts will be for ten years but these contracts may be extended if tree seedlings are not available.

All farmers are eligible to take part in the conservation reserve. Farmers having corn or wheat allotments may participate in both the acreage reserve and the conservation reserve but the same land cannot be placed in both programs.

The minimum which can be placed in the conservation reserve is 5 acres if no trees are to be planted and 2 acres if the area is to be planted to trees. There is no limitation on the maximum number of eligible acres which may be placed in the conservation reserve.

Land placed in the conservation reserve must come from cropland included in the soil bank base established for each participating farm. The reserved land cannot be grazed or harvested, and any allotment requirements affecting the farm must be met.

Farmer-Merchant Dinner Draws 175 at Kanawha

Approximately 175 farmers and their merchant friends attended the Farmer-Merchant Dinner which was held at the Kanawha High School March 18 and served by the Evening Guild of the Kanawha Lutheran Church.

Ed Engstrom, Hancock County Delegate to Washington, reported on his recent trip to the capital, and Kenneth Thatcher, secretary of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, was guest speaker.

This is the third annual Farmer-Merchant Dinner which is sponsored by the Hancock County Farm Bureau.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

"It often shows a fine command of language to say nothing!"

Mr and Mrs Lloyd Sherwood are counting themselves as lucky. They, in company with the Francis Sherwoods of Mason City, returned from Panhandle, Texas just ahead of the big storm of a couple of weeks ago. They have since had a letter from the Texas relatives they were visiting and they are more than ever glad they came home when they did.

They left Texas on Friday and Saturday the wind began to blow at a 70 to 80 mile an hour clip. The snow came and before the wind quit blowing Monday, it had piled up drifts as high as the barn. The people the Sherwoods had visited were unable to leave their house except through a window; the snow had blocked all the doors.

Vic Schoenwetter is also counting himself among the lucky ones. He was using a tractor and drag on his driveway the other day and the drag caught on some obstacle. When it pulled loose it was with such force that it flew forward and upward, clipping Vic in the back of the head. Made a nasty wound that took several stitches to close.

We think he was lucky, too, for we had an item in The Times recently about a fellow who was dragging a log chain behind his tractor. It caught on something, too, and when it came loose it flew up and hit him in the head, killing him instantly.

We have four other lucky fellows in Klemme, too. They are Worthie Usher, Merlin Brinkman and Wayne Whitney and his son. They drove to the Decorah area Saturday and caught their limits in trout. Some fun!

Each year Iowa Electric Light and Power Company puts out a little card showing the amount of taxes they pay. Their 1956 taxes paid in 1957 amounted to $6,637,807.00. According to the card, that's $13.00 per minute.

Makes our tax molehill look a little less like a mountain. We would be satisfied to take in thirteen bucks every hour or so, but "Uncle Sammy" seems to have an insatiable appetite for the "long green".

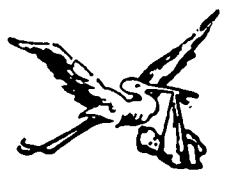
Stork Club



The first child for Mr and Mrs Edwin Huckins arrived March 27 at the Park Hospital in Mason City. The new daughter, weighing six pounds two ounces, has been named Sheri Evelyn. Her mother is the former Gladys Schlichting of Klemme.

Mr and Mrs Elmer Bachman are the parents of a girl, born March 29 at the Belmond Community Hospital. The young lady weighed in at seven pounds twelve ounces and has been named Mary Ann.

With the arrival of eight pound Jeffrey Valere at the Forest City Hospital, Friday, March 29, Mr and Mrs Valere Nelson of Forest City now have a boy and a girl in their family. Mrs Nelson is the former Elaine Neuberger.

GOODWILL TRUCK TO BE HERE APRIL 8

The Goodwill Truck will be in Klemme on Monday, April 8, to pick up the discarded clothing, toys, and shoes for the handicapped workers at Goodwill Industries. Those discarded household items are the material worked on by the handicapped as they attempt to help themselves.

The Goodwill Industries last year gave employment to 170 handicapped people and paid nearly one hundred thousand dollars in opportunity wages. The support of this program by the people of the Siouxland area has made it possible for the Goodwill Industries to look forward to an expansion of its service. The material gathered will help to provide work for additional handicapped workers. The Goodwill Industries operates on the principal that the handicapped person doesn't want charity, But A Chance. When discarded clothing, toys and shoes are contributed to the Goodwill, the contributor is giving some handicapped person a chance to work his way back to a job in private industries.

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

Lack of space kept last week's report out of print, but we start with it this week.

Last Friday the House killed a bill which would have permitted the issuance only of probationary drivers licenses to youths between 16 and 18 years of age, and would have cut out the present school license that we now have.

There was considerable discussion and opposition to this bill since it was said that this was a direct attack upon the youth and would work hardships in many cases.

Passed also in the House was an automobile dealer bill which would require that all the finance and insurance charges on a finance sale should be disclosed in the contract.

Many of the bus companies in large cities are in very serious trouble trying to operate a bus system which will provide transportation for the residents of the cities, and the bill to grant some relief to these transit systems was finally adopted by the House and sent to the senate.

The highly controversial bill legalizing the union shop in labor contracts was recommended by the Labor Committee to be indefinitely postponed, which is the same as saying that it should be killed. However, upon the floor of the House, the labor leaders in the House moved that this bill be reconsidered and given life again. After a complete discussion as to the merits of union shop and forcing all men to belong to a union, the House voted to kill this bill.

It seems that a large majority of the hunters and fishermen and the conservation and Isaac Walton Leagues were very much in favor of raising the salaries paid to our state conservation officers. In order to do this the hunting and fishing license had to be raised and the House passed bills which would raise the cost of the hunting and fishing license in order to pay the state conservation officers more money and bring them in line with costs of living.

As usual, the question of having annual sessions for the Legislature was brought up again, and after approximately a half hour discussion a bill was passed which would provide for annual session of the Legislature. I was the lone dissenter in voting this resolution, the vote was 100 to 1. I voted against the resolution for the reason that I didn't like the way it was worded to change the constitution and for the further reason that I do not believe in annual sessions.

The little red school house, the little country school in which many of us have received our first eight grades of education, came up for discussion again on Thursday on the basis of increasing the number of pupils from five to eight before they could operate. This was on the basis that if there were only five, with the increased costs of operation, that it would not be economical to operate that school.

Our legislative session is approximately two-thirds over and there are many decisions to be made on appropriations, mental health, reapportionment, drainage, on legislation for farmers, businessmen and practically everyone in the state.

Some, I know, criticize the Legislature for being so slow and deliberate, however, we must realize that democracy in action is slow and we can be very thankful for this. Some people by their criticism of the Legislature would lead you to believe that they would change this democratic process that we have evolved since 1776. However, with serious consideration to the principles involved, I am sure they would not change it in any manner, shape or form. It is our American way of life to reserve our right to criticize and this is also as it should be for only by criticism can we change those things for the betterment of our society.

Current Report

This week has been another very busy week. Many of the committees are trying to complete their business; that is, to finish consideration of all the bills that they have. These committees must meet prior to our session which usually begins at 10 o'clock, or after our session, at 3:00 or 3:30.

We had some 35 bills in the Conservation and Drainage Committee and we have disposed of all of them but three that we still have under consideration.

We have recommended that the other 32 either be passed or killed, depending on how we felt toward them.

The other committee chairmen are trying desparately to do the same; to dispose of all the bills in their committees so that they can devote all their time to the study of bills which are up for passage.

I handled quite a few bills on the House floor this week and secured their passage . . . and these bills were then sent to the Senate for action. Two of the bills which I consider important were bills which I understand were approved by the Judges Association and by the Parole Officers Association.

It was by discussing this particular matter with Judge Boyton of Forest City that I drafted the bills and introduced them for passage. They deal with the authority of the judges in the event that they have given a bench parole, to terminate that bench parole. This has come up at various times where boys who have gotten into trouble and upon trying to enlist in the armed services, find that they will not be accepted because their case is still pending in the courts.

My bills will provide for clear termination of this jurisdiction of the court which has never been set out clearly before. I consider these bills very important for the reason that none of us know when our boys or our friends may get into trouble and the judicial discretion of the court should be allowed to take care of such matters, rather than to have a hard-and-fast rule as to what can be done.

The bill which would drop the sales tax on gasoline used for farm purposes has been passed by the Senate and the House and now awaits action by the governor. There are indications that he may Veto this bill.

House File 46, the road budget bill which would require that counties prepare a planned program as to how they expect to spend their road money for the following year, was passed by the Senate and was also sent to the governor for signature. This bill which will affect the spending of some 62 million dollars for secondary roads has been recommended for passage during many sessions of this legislature and is considered an important piece of legislation.

Another important bill which was passed will now allow persons who have objections to proposed budgets to file their objections in writing instead of having to appear in person at the budget hearing.

It seems that the house passed a bill which not everyone agrees with. The present law on school age provides that the starting date for children be November 15th, if they are five years old, with the local school boards having the privilege of moving the date up if they so desire. The bill that was passed changed the November 15th date to September 15th and some objection has been registered around the state to this particular measure. The reason for the bill was to provide uniformity throughout the state which does not now exist.

The utility bill which would have, in a sense, created a Utility Commission by delegation of powers to the Commerce Commission was defeated on Wednesday after a considerable amount of discussion. The bill, as proposed, would have allowed the Commerce Commission to have thrown out any ordinance that towns may have, regulating rates and, in the event the town was not satisfied, it would have had to appeal the decision to the courts in order to settle the matter, with the resulting cost either paid for by the town or the utility company, depending upon who petitioned for it.

Another argument used in defeating the utility bill was that this would merely centralize more power in Des Moines, rather than increase our local control back in our home towns.

The bill further provided that cost of service, or rates the consumer should pay should render to the utility company a fair and reasonable return on its investment on the basis of present fair value. This would be regardless of the cost to the utility company in its inception, and the present value, in most cases, would be higher than the original cost. The utility bill was defeated by a vote of 56 to 48.

Thursday and Friday—and not decided on Friday—schools came up in the nature of Senate File 1 which provided that all schools not within a twelve grade school district must be in one by July 1, 1962, or the County Board of Education would set them into a high school district. Many are the amendments that have been offered to this bill. I offered an amendment that provided that before the district could be set into a twelve grade school district that the agricultural land tax credit must be paid in full, at least one year prior to the effective date of the act. This would put the future legislators upon notice that they should fully implement the agricultural land tax credit if they are to have the effective date go into operation on this act.

CAPITOL LETTER

Traffic Down

For the first time in 21 months, vehicle traffic on the state's rural primary highways showed a decrease over the same month of the previous year.

February traffic on the state's roads was down 1.56 percent, the Iowa highway commission reports. That's the first time since April of 1955 that traffic hasn't shown an increase over the same period of the year before.

The average daily traffic for the month was recorded at 2,209 vehicles per day at 26 check points, compared with 2,285 vehicles per day in the same period a year ago.

Moyer's Plan

State Safety Commissioner Clinton Moyer said that the big department which he runs could be better operated by a five-member part-time commission than by a single state commissioner.

"I have come to the firm conclusion," he said, "that the department can only operate successfully under a bipartisan commission of five members who should be selected on the basis of geography to satisfactorily represent all the state."

Moyer has announced that he will resign his job about July 15. He plans to return to his law practice at Marion because his partner is leaving the firm. Moyer was named by Governor Hoegh and has served in the post for a year and nine months.

Governor Loveless would name his successor. The appointment must have senate confirmation but will probably be an interim appointment because Moyer does not leave until after the session will adjourn.

Kills Union Shop

Labor's request for union shop recognition in Iowa still gets a cool reception in the legislature. The house killed, by a 71-34 vote, a bill that would have legalized the union shop in this state.

The vote came on a motion to pull the bill from committee and onto the floor via the calendar. Repubuicans voted to support the committee in keeping the bill, while Democrats fought to draw it out.

Union shop contracts are prohibited by Iowa's right to work laws.

In discussion on the proposal, State Rep. Dewey Goode, Bloomfield Republican, charged that unions often use dues to support political candidates against the wish of the individual worker. He also said the state constitution guarantees citizens the right to join a union or not and the legislature cannot take away that right.

Under a union shop a laborer would have to join within 30 to 90 days after taking a job.

Smoking Age

The Iowa house committee on safety and law enforcement has approved and sent to the calendar for action a measure that would reduce the age at which a minor could buy cigarettes in Iowa from age 21 to 18.

Speed Limits

After nearly two days of debate, the Iowa senate passed a speed law bill. The measure, which still must have action in the house, would set maximum limits of 70 miles an hour for daytime driving, and 60 at night.

There is an exception to the rule, however. When over-taking another auto a driver could, under this proposal, go faster than the 70 or 60 maximum, to pass the vehicle.

The measure is controversial, may be amended in the house. Opponents say the bill isn't really a speed limit bill. They also contend it isn't specific in that it doesn't spell out whether passing another vehicle involves the intent to pass or the actual act of passing for the excessive speed.

As one senator stated: "A fellow could drive 90 all the time because at that speed he'd always be passing someone."

Others contend it gives drivers the impression that a 70 mile an hour speed is perfectly all right without taking road or other conditions into consideration.

In Last Month

The regulation 100 days will end April 23. That's the day the clock will be stopped if all the business hasn't been completed by that time, then they'll work on. Right now there's hardly a legislator who expects they'll be home by April 24th.

Most of the veteran lawmakers believe the session will run over the 100 day period by some 5 or 6 days, a few expect it may be May 1st before the sine die adjournment takes place.

Right now, however, senate and house committees generally have wound up their work and the bills, still to be acted upon, have been turned over to the well-known sifting committees of the two houses.

Bills that now reach the senate and house calendars for action will have been well sifted by the two powerful units in the two houses.

Backup On Bill

The Iowa house had to back-up or buck on a measure it passed and sent to the house. The house members had amended a senate bill which would have extended the present state gasoline tax another four years. The house cut the time element to two years for the six cetns tax.

The senate took quick action on the amended measure. It told the house "nothing doing" and sent it back. The house was expected to retreat; most members had expected the senate to hold firm anyway.

Some house members thought the two year extension would give the legislature a little more control over the commission funds and expenditures.

Annual Session

For the third time in as many sessions the Iowa house passed and sent to the Iowa senate a bill authorizing annual sessions of the state legislature. In both previous sessions the senators have turned a deaf ear to the proposal; the same may happen again.

But the house measure may yet have to be returned for corrective action. Rep Dewey Goode (R) of Bloomfield has said that because of legal barriers the measure will have to be recalled from the senate for reconsideration and amending.

The bill, as passed by the house, would not only provide annual sessions but also set the salaries for legislators in subsequent sessions. Goode contends that a bill may deal with only one subject whereas this one deals with two separate subjects.

Liquor-By-Drink

The Iowa governor's office has received several pages of signatures of western Iowa citizens asking for liquor-by-the-drink legislation from this session.

The move indicates a drive may be on to get action on such legislation.

Meantime an Iowa house committee has voted onto the calendar a proposal that would turn the liquor question over to a referendum of the people, giving them a chance to vote on the wet-dry issue.

Western Iowans, in their petitions, suggested licensing fees of $750 for retail dispensers of liquor-by-drink and pointed to the revenue possibilities through such action.

Door Prizes Illegal

The Iowa attorney general's office has ruled that giving away an auto, or some other merchandise, as a door prize at an event where admission is charged is "definitely a lottery and a species of gambling."

State Sen W H Tate (R) of Mason City asked for an opinion on this question. He asked if it would be legal for a home show, or some other such event sponsored by a non-profit organization, to charge an admission of adults and give away, as an attendance prize, an automobile, with the winner to be selected through the medium of drawing a number or name from among those who purchased tickets.

The opinion of the attorney general said the proposal would violate state law because (1) it involves payment of a consideration, (2) chance, and (3) a prize.

To Governor

Both the house and senate passed and sent to the governor a bill that would require county supervisors to submit an annual budget of secondary road expenditures to the state highway commission. In case of disapproval the county supervisors could adopt the budget but only after a public hearing.

The bill is designed to eliminate some of the criticisms of county government which have led to demands for use of the county manager form of government in Iowa.

FIRE

ESCAPED

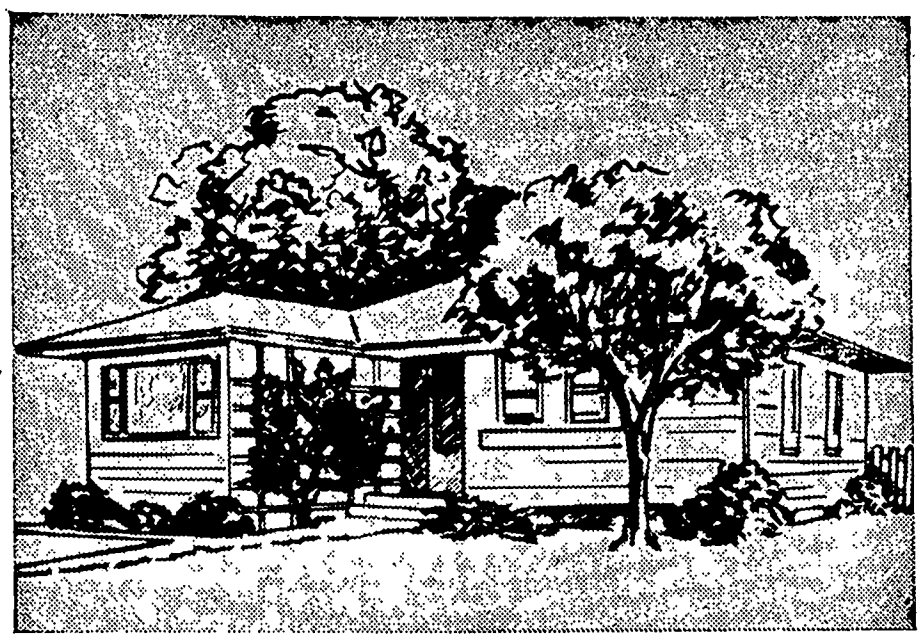
Got Spring Fever? Watch Out—

Don't Overdo Home Grounds Planting



A pencil and paper drawing gives the owners of this new home an idea how it will look in future years. At the front entrance they will plant Andoora creeping juniper on one side and Virginal Mock-orange on the lattice. Japanese barberry will add height at the house corners.

Spring fever will get you if you don't watch out! And the next thing you know, you'll be out digging up the front or side yard all ambitious to plant some new shrubs, or a tree, or rose bushes.

Don't squelch that desire to do some creative planning about your yard, but do tackle the whole idea logically. What do you really want your home grounds to look like in the long run? Will putting in a "chance" bush or tree here and there really give the desired effect 5 or 10 years from now? How can you be sure.

If you happen to be a new home owner and are starting your yard plantings from scratch, take it easy this year on the amount of permanent flower, tree or shrub planting you do. If you don't have a lawn yet, Margherita Tarr advises you to concentrate first on getting 6 inches or more topsoil on the lawn, making sure the area is graded for proper drainage away from the house in every direction, and then seed or sod. Miss Tarr is extension specialist in landscape architecture.

Seed Temporary Lawn

Perhaps you'll want to seed a temporary lawn of annual rye for the time being, if you're not ready to put in a permanent lawn yet. Then you can put in your permanent seeding around the first of August.

If you want to plant something now and you haven't decided just exactly what your long-range plans will be, why don't you experiment with annuals this year? Put tall plantings where you'll want tall shrubs eventually, and low ones where low permanent plantings will be. This will give you several months to think through and work out your long-time plan which will make your home grounds beautiful and functional.

If your yard is pretty well planted, but you want to make some changes, you can still work pretty much in the way a "new house" owner will. List your yard's good features and those features you wish to change.

Then you can do some further pencil and paper planning on tracing or tissue paper placed over a scale drawing and enlarged photographs of your house and grounds. Trace in the features your landscape has now that you want to keep. Then sketch your new planting ideas, using a fresh sheet of paper for each idea.

There are many things to consider. You'll want your house and grounds to blend together so they'll look beautiful from every angle and so they'll be functional too. You'll probably want protection from too much sunlight, wind or drifted snow. You may want plantings that will give you flowers, foliage and fruit for cutting.

You'll want to think about the exposure (north or south side of the house), soil conditions, drainage and upkeep of the plantings. Study the height of the foundation in relation to the over-all mass of the house, the size, pitch and overhang of the roof and the size and location of the windows and doors.

Plan Year-Around Beauty

What sort of winter, as well as summer, effect do you want your yard to give? Look at your grounds right now. You can achieve a trim, charming appearance of plantings in combination with bare, brown lawn or a snow-covered one. Or you can have a front yard which looks tangled and unkempt in winter.

When you plan your front yard area, plan for trees and shrubs rather than flowers. Most flowers go to seed and look pretty bedraggled once their blooming season is over. So reserve your flowers for the backyard. When winter comes you can cover them.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Whenever Ralph attends Rotary, or takes his wife to the movie, or sits in church on Sunday morning, or walks into his place of business on main street, there is a murderer present.

Whenever people in the town refer to Ralph as a "real nice little guy," or call him a "fellow you can depend on," or comment that "he never says much but he's always thinking right," they are talking about a man of vengeance.

Of course, no one knows that Ralph is a murderer and a man of vengeance. Even Ralph isn't sure that any crime attaches to him, though he remembers clearly — and sometimes with awful vividness—the day he got his man.

It's been four years ago now. Ralph was on the highway returning home when he approached an intersection. A car at the stop sign suddenly pulled out in front of him. Ralph's heart filled his chest while his tires screamed on the pavement, holding him just short of death.

Then anger flooded over him. An overwhelming desire to "get that guy" sent him roaring ahead. When he passed the car a young man grinned at him. Ralph cut in sharply—his nearest possible gesture to taking a poke at the man.

Ralph went into a driving rage when the young man calmly pulled out and passed him in turn. The next few minutes were pursuit. Ralph managed to catch and pass the car again. This time he cut in more sharply than before.

The other driver swerved to avoid contact. He crashed off the road. Ralph had got his man. There were no witnesses. Trembling so that he could hardly control his car, Ralph drove on home

What is Ralph? A murderer? A man of vengeance? Or an ordinary likeable citizen of the town?

Audit of County's Social Welfare Dept. Shows Interesting Facts

Mr Joel F Steinmetz, a representative of the State Department of Social Welfare, has completed an examination of the financial records and related collateral data of the Hancock County Department of Social Welfare. This routine examination was made to determine that all fiscal transactions had been accounted for in a manner as prescribed by law.

The examination covers the period April 27, 1955, through November 13, 1956. Total advancements of assistance funds to the account of individual recipients in the payment of benefits through the administration of the Old Age Assistance, Aid to Blind and Aid to Dependent Children programs resulted in a total amount of $243,406.56. Of this amount $229,884.14 was met through the availability of matching funds from the Federal Security Administration and from appropriations of the State Legislature resulting in a charge of $13,522.42 as the share assumed by Hancock County.

Reimbursements and recoveries applicable to Hancock County as received during the period covered by our examination was in the amount of $14,286.88. Of this amount, $7,739.78 was accepted or obtained by employees of the Hancock County Department of Social Welfare, and the proportionate share of reimbursements and recoveries in the Aid to the Blind and Aid to Dependent Children programs was credited to Hancock County.

The examination was made by the use of accepted methods of auditing procedure in connection with the examination of records of estates, deeds, contracts and agreements and indicates that the amounts shown on the various receipts issued by employees of the Hancock County Department of Social Welfare were essentially correct. A proper disposition of all funds and securities accepted or obtained by employees of the Hancock County Department have been disposed of and correctly reported.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

More acres of barley and grain sorgums and fewer acres of corn and oats are in farmers' planting plans for 1957, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Kutish says the nation's farmers plan a decrease of 5.3 percent in corn acreages and a cut of 2.5 percent in oat acreages. At the same time they plan a boost of 8.8 percent in barley acres and of 23.2 percent in grain sorgum acres.

The total 1956 acreage of these four feed grains were 159.3 million. This year, the total would be 160.4 million, if farmers follow through on their March 1 plans. This would be an over-all increase of 1.1 million acres of feed grains.

Kutish points out that 1956 corn yields were good over much of the Corn Belt. But with the proposed smaller acreage there is a good chance for a slightly smaller corn crop this year, even if the western Corn Belt produces more than a year ago.

Small grains and sorgums did not yield too well last year, though. And Kutish thinks that with average growing conditions, yields of these grains will be up in 1957. He points out that an acre of sorgum will take the place of an acre of corn as feed.

With farmers intending to plant more than a million acres to feed grains this year, there is little hope indicated of any cutback in feed-grain production. This shows that we must look at more than corn alone when considering any program designed to improve the Mid-west farm situation, Kutish says.

Other factors in the feed output picture also indicate more feed in 1957. Soybean acreage is expected to be up almost a million acres above last year's record crop, and hay production could be up, too, despite a proposed cut of .8 million acres from last year. All in all, says Kutish, odds are better than even that we will have a larger feed output this year than last.

Roy L Risley was burning trash on his farm north of Bedford recently when the flames got out of control. Fire spread across more than 100 acres before the blaze could be brought under control.

King and Queen Crowned At Annual 4-H Fun Night

About 500 4-H members, parents and friends watched the crowning of Jane Hiscocks as Queen and Dick Christenson as King at the annual 4-H Fun Night which was held in the Garner Memorial Building last Saturday night.

Jane, daughter of Mrs Mavis Hiscocks of Britt, has been an active member of the Britt Blue Birds 4-H Club for the past six years. Dick, son of Mr and Mrs Emil Christenson of Garner, has been an active member in the Garfield Sluggers 4-H Club the past eight years and is the county boys' 4-H Secretary-Treasurer at present.

Although the crowning of king and queen was the big event, those attending spent the biggest share of the evening with party games, folk games, square dancing and social dancing. Calvin Smith, Kanawha, and Mrs John Paulson, Britt, provided the music for the social and square dancing. Mrs Elmer Jante led the group in folk games and leaders helped with the party games.

There was something for everyone to do. This may have ranged from really being active in the games or dancing or just sitting to watch and visit. This was an other big 4-H Fun Night.

200 Registered for Rural Women's Day

The Hancock County Women's Farm Bureau Day was held in Britt, March 22. Two hundred women registered. Each was given an Easter egg corsage to wear if they had used eggs that day. Totals showed 1000 eggs had been used by the ladies before they came to the meeting. Twelve ladies using a dozen eggs were given pastry cutter corsages.

A declamatory number was then given by Miss Lois Donovan. A skit for the Scholarship was conducted by Mrs Roy Arnold. Reports were then given on "Pennies for Friendship", Health and Extension. Music was given by the Britt High School.

Several ladies of the county had made suits and dresses under the supervision of an instructor from Ames. A style show of these garments was given with Elsie Mae Van Wert as narrator.

Eighty-five pies were entered in the pie baking contest using eggs, butter, milk, and lard. Pies were classified as meringue, chiffon and custard. Winners in these three classes were: Meringue: Mrs Bob Keel, first; Mrs Joe Meyers, second; Mrs George Kraus, third; Chiffon: Mrs Robert Kudej, first; Mrs Donald Dean, second; and Mrs Clarence Jurgensen, third; Custard: Mrs Orville Barkema, first; Mrs C A Arnold, second and Mrs Cecil Wilhite, third. 4-H Junior Leadership Program to Stort

A Junior Leadership program for older 4-H members will start in Hancock County with the first meeting Tuesday, April 16 at 8:00 p.m., in the REA building in Garner.

The county 4-H officers met last Wednesday to make plans for this new program and get it started. They will have charge of the first meeting, but after that the new group will have officers of its own.

The plans call for a three-fold type of program. Members will receive leadership training that can be used in their local clubs such as helping with record books, demonstrations and recreation. They will have an opportunity to take part in the recreation program, and there will be educational topics of special interest to the group such as vocational guidance, social relations, etc. In general, it is a program designed to meet the need of our older 4-H club members.

According to Ed Bruns, Youth Assistant, the requirements for membership are 16 years old by January 1 and you must be regularly enrolled in a 4-H club with a project. All 4-H members in the county that meet these requirements are eligible to join. If members are interested in such a program they should plan to be at the April 16 meeting. Those attending will be the charter members and will elect officers.

Safe-crackers had a busy time in northern Iowa recently, netting over $2,000 in jobs at Wesley, Britt, Joice and Clear Lake.

WIND

Strong winds were blamed for an unusual accident of a 5½ year old Algona boy. Howard Klinker opened the door leading to a second-story outside stairway and the wind evidently sucked him out the door, through the railing, around the landing and plunged him to the ground. He suffered a bad cut under his chin and several stitches were required to close the wound.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

"Most of us don't put our best foot forward until we get the other one in hot water!"

Two fatal traffic accidents during the past week involved relatives of Klemme people. Emil Rosenau, 48, of Mason City, brother of Mrs Leslie Hartbeck, was killed in an accident on highway 18 east of Mason City, and Mrs Minnie Kriens, 54, of Belmond, sister of Mrs Fred Wessels, was killed in an accident on highway 212 near Chelsea.

Rosenau was killed when he was pinned beneath his truck in one of those chain reaction accidents involving several vehicles, and Mrs Kriens was killed when the car in which she was riding with her husband and daughter left the road on a curve.

Klemme should present quite a busy and prosperous appearance this summer. The new school should be under construction, the new educational wing and parsonage for the E and R Church will be going up, and the new warehouse at the Klemme Co-operative Grain Company will be taking shape. There are tentative plans for some residential building and remodeling, so if any of them go through, it will be a busy town.

Martin Brinkman, Shamrock basketball star, has achieved what no other Klemme player has ever been able to do. He was placed on the fifth all-state team of the IDPA. If our memory serves us correctly, no other Klemme player has ever been ranked higher than honorable mention.

"Mart" made 44% of his field goal attempts, 70% of his free throws to compile a 530 point total in 20 games for an average of 26.5 points per game. A good record.

Spring can't be too far away, for an advance unit of martins is here this afternoon (Wednesday) inspecting bird houses and looking for a place to spend the summer months.

Spring work should bring more activity to life on the farms in this community, and we would appreciate hearing of the interesting happenings on your farm . . . or your neighbor's farm . . . so that we can put them in print and liven up our Farm Page.

"The man who doesn't know the meaning of the word 'fear' usually is ignorant in other ways, too!"

Freak Circumstances Cause "Black-out"

The unusual happens . . . two power poles were hit Friday night about 8:10 and caused a "black-out" in this area for some forty minutes.

The power poles were located miles apart . . . but both transmission lines were feeding electricity into the Klemme and Garner areas. One pole located near the police radio tower (just south of Goodell on highway 69) was smashed; then within seconds . . . a pole located east of the Star-Light Theatre, east of Algona, was broken off by an automobile.

This incident caused a "black-out" in the Klemme and Garner areas for about forty minutes Friday night, as the re-routing of the operation of the transmission lines had to be accomplish-by the workmen.

This is quite a short period of time when one considers the detailed work and arrangements that had to be done, since the power was knocked out from the two directions coming into Klemme and Garner.

Old Elevator Gone; New Warehouse Soon

The old elevator at the west end of Main Street is gone. It had stood since the 1890's, but it only took a little over a week for a crew from the T E Ibberson Company to tear it down.

Although plans are not yet complete, a new warehouse approximately 38 by 110 feet will be constructed in its place. The new structure will probably be one story for most of its length, with an additional story for part of its length. As soon as plans are completed, construction will begin.

The new scale at the grain company's office is now installed and was put into service Monday. Remodeling of the office is also done, as are improvements in both the elevator and mill.

Manager Marvin Lemke thinks that the new warehouse will end their building for some years to come.

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

Republicans in the Iowa Legislature moved to cut 5.4 million from Gov Loveless' 152 milloin dollar budget, state departments were cut 1.4 million, mental and penal institutions 1.2 million, state colleges 1 million, and 1.8 million for social welfare.

However, this does not provide the entire solution, since this still leaves a budget of 146.6 million without consideration given to some expenditures for some of our lakes; such as Crystal Lake which need an appropriation if we are to preserve them for future generations.

If all taxes were to remain as they are, with sales tax at 2½ cents, the state income will only reach 141 million. But, between now and the time we adjourn, everyone and his uncle will be down to have his budget raised. Nice problem, isn't it?

A sixty-day "cooling off" period before a divorce is granted was passed by the house in an attempt to prevent, if possible, broken homes where children are involved.

If you are arrested, according to a bill passed by the house, you will be given the opportunity to make a telephone call or confer with your attorney. This bill was an outgrowth of the arrest of Bennett, the Iowa Insurance Commissioner, who, after purchasing a bottle of hair oil, walked out of the store without the bottle being wrapped.

Schools again were discussed this week with special stress placed upon taxation of farm lands as compared with town property, even though the bill was one which would allow any unattached school district to be attached to a high school district after July 1, 1962, by the county board.

My amendment was adopted which provided that agricultural land tax credit must be paid in full at least one year before this act can become effective. The need for further study on this problem is demonstrated by the fact that farm lands in Hancock County have an assessed valuation of $22,726,709 as compared to town property with an assessed valuation of $14,836,774. A valuation ratio of almost one and a half for farms to one for towns, yet the towns have almost four children to each child from the farm. Further study and reappraisement must be made of all school aids and agricultural land credit to solve this problem which everyone knows exists.

The Governor's veto of the sales tax exemption on gasoline used by farmers in producing his crops (manufacturers are now exempt from sales tax on raw materials used in producing their products) has angered many farmers over the state. Farmers believe they are justly entitled to the same fair treatment.

REVOLUTION

A Monona couple ran into some extra added attraction while on a vacation trip which included Cuba. As they drove in a taxi from Castle Morocco to their hotel, the driver took them through a volley of bullets as 22 students stormed the palace in an attempt to assassinate President Batista. They finished the ride on the floor of the cab.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

First Issue

The governor's veto of the bill that would have excused farmers from paying a sales tax on the gasoline they purchased for farm production work is being viewed by certain Republican leaders as "the first issue we've had" since the legislature got underway January 14.

Some Republican leaders are viewing the governor's veto as a political mistake for the democratic chief executive. They view it as an issue that will turn the farmers away from the Democrats in the next election.

But not all Republicans share that view. A prominent farmer-legislator, who is also a Republican, viewed the bill itself as a "mistake" in making the matter of $5 or $6 per year per farmer an important issue. Democrats, likewise, are of the opinion that the bill itself doesn't mean enough to the farmers to rate as a political issue in spite of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation support of the measure.

The bill would have lost about $1 million a year to the state in revenue.

Senate Revolts

The Iowa senate, for the first time, revolted against some of Governor Loveless' appointments to state positions. They turned down four of the appointments, including two to the highway commission, one to the liquor commission and one to the board of social welfare, but a fight is still brewing.

The governor, with the consent of the appointees involved, sent them right back and said he'd continue to request their approval from the senate or would name the persons to interim appointments after the legislature is adjourned sine die.

Some Republicans were hoping for this. In the highway commission, for instance, with approval of the names, the appointees would serve four years. On interim appointments the persons involved would serve two years, or until the next legislative session. Thus if a Republican should be elected governor next year the appointments would be made by a Republican.

Reapportionment

The Iowa house sifting committee reported out a measure to reapportion the state legislature. The measure will be debated in the house and, if it passes, will go to the senate. Therein lies a tale.

House members in the majority ranks feel the state wants a reapportionment plan adopted in this session. Republican senators who aren't as sold on the idea as the house members, have been reluctant to act on reapportionment. Whether agreement will be reached on the proposal, between the two houses, remains to be seen.

Juvenile Names

City editors of Iowa newspapers heard an Iowa supreme court justice discuss use of names in newspapers of juvenile delinquents.

G K Thompson of Cedar Rapids, associate justice of the Iowa supreme court, told a group at the University of Iowa, that many newspapers and people "tend to overlook the major purpose of law enforcement - to prevent future crimes."

"A lesser purpose is to save and rehabilitate the law breaker," he said. "Part of the punishment may be publicity. This lets the public know parents of offenders aren't training their children properly, and printing names might induce parents to do a better job."

Liquor Bill

The Iowa governor's office is being petitioned these days by citizens in many counties who are asking for liquor-by-the-drink legislation. The governor is sending the petitions to the legislators who serve the districts involved.

At last report the governor said he had 2,346 signers on petitions favoring liquor-by-the-drink from the following counties:

Hamilton, 22; Webster, 312; Plymouth, 42; Humboldt, 38; Greene, 42; Calhoun, 42; Buena Vista, 209; Woodbury, 675; Polk, 275; Lucas, 20; Pottawattamie, 317; Black Hawk, 105; Boone,; 21 Dickinson, 21; Kossuth, 23; Clay, 137; Cerro Gordo, 43.

G O P Chairman

A big struggle is expected within the Iowa Republican ranks over the successor to Don C Pierson of Humboldt, who announced that he will step down, May 8, as chairman of the state Republican central committee.

Pierson will continue on the committee, however, as a district committeeman from the sixth district. Ralph Bastain of Fort Dodge, who has been serving temporarily in Pierson's place as sixth district committeeman, will go off the committee when Pierson retires as chairman.

The battle within the ranks will be between the so-called liberal and conservative elements within the party in Iowa.

Two most-often mentioned candidates for the job are Arthur Donhowe, Des Moines banker, fifth district committeeman, and L L Jurgemeyer, Clinton attorney. Jurgemeyer represents the conservative faction, while Donhowe reportedly is more middle-of-the-road in his views. Roscoe Jones of Atlantic, seventh district committeeman, who might draw more support from the liberal wing, is also considered a possible choice for the chairmanship.

Liquor Referendum

The Iowa house sifting committee has reported out a measure that would authorize turning the liquor question over to the public for a vote on the proposition.

The proposal would amend the constitution to permit a referendum. It would not only take a favorable action in this session, but the next as well, and would then go to a vote of the people. Unless hurried through, via a special session, it would be almost five years before the voters would get an opportunity to express themselves on the wet-dry question.

Sifting Group

House Speaker W L Mooty has named State Rep Clark McNeal, Belmond Republican, as chairman of the house sifting committee which is now handling all bills that go to the floor for action. Ranking member of this powerful group of 28-members is State Rep Jack Milroy of Vinton, a Republican.

The senate sifting committee, appointed earlier by Lt Gov W H Nicholas, is headed by Sen D C Nolan, Iowa City, GOP floor leader in the upper house. Ranking member is Sen Frank Elwood, Cresco Republican.

Legislator To Wed

Wedding announcements soon will go out to house members from State Rep Donald Kimball of Fayette, who at 23 is the youngest legislator in this session. Kinball, a newspaper publisher, plans to wed Miss Mary Moore of Fayette, May 5th.

Junior Colleges

The Iowa senate faces a bill amended by the house which raises the state aid to junior colleges.

By a 90 to 10 vote the house increased the junior college appropriation to $375,000. The Senate had previously acted upon the measure without the big increase. The house approved version raises the state aid rate from 25-cents per pupil to $1 per pupil enrolled in the junior colleges.

No Speed Action

The Iowa house is still to act on a speed bill approved in the senate which would put maximum speed limits of 70 daytime and 60 night-time on the state's highways. The senate bill had an exception to the speeds which would permit higher speeds "when passing."

House members reportedly favor a bill of their own which would permit 65-55 limits but an amendment to this proposal would place top speeds on a sliding scale depending upon the age of the motorist's car. Top speed of a 10-year old vehicle would be cut to 55 by law.

BROKEN LEGS

When a roof fell on a house-razing job near Corwith, two workmen received a total of three broken legs. Ray Becker suffered one leg fracture, Nick Wagner two, in the one accident.

Senior Class Play Enjoyed by Large Crowd

Even forty-five minutes of darkness after a power failure didn't keep the folks who attended the class play Friday night from enjoying themselves. The play was going on smoothly when, "Poof!" The lights went out. Pandemonium reigned back stage while everyone wondered what to do. Finally the cast decided to lead the audience in some community singing to pass the time away. The time passed quite rapidly and the lights were on in what seemed practically no time at all, much to the relief of Mrs Oberg and the cast.

The only mishaps connected with the play, and they were only minor ones, were Gary's torn pocket, which he proceeded to ad lib about for the next five minutes, much to the enjoyment of the audience, and the fact that in the darkness, the man in charge of the tape recorder forgot to set it for the take-off of Spud's car. However, as we said, these mishaps were only minor and a good time was had by all.

11th Grade

Come on, Seniors and Sophomores! Let's buckle down this last quarter and have some more of our group on the honor roll.

LET'S SHOW THEM

Most teenagers agree that the voting age should be lowered to 18. They feel that 18-year-olds are old enough to vote. The most commonly used argument is, "If a person is old enough to fight for his country at 18, he is old enough to vote for the rulers of his country." This is a good point. Some teenagers, however, seem to think they must prove that they are old enough to fight by becoming involved in gang wars. Is this how we teenagers can show that we are responsible, mature citizens?

Are young people who become emotionally upset over a rock and roll movie and subject to mass hysteria sensible enough to weigh national issues in an election?

The only way adults can judge teenagers is by their conduct. An adult seeing a teenager driving recklessly with seemingly little regard for other people's safety can hardly be blamed for opposing a lower voting age.

We teenagers are fighting an uphill battle. A leading newspaper recently carried a report of a robbery by three teenage boys on the front page, while a report of a convention of over two hundred well-mannered young people who met to discuss such teenage problems and find remedies was printed on page three. We must be doubly careful to demonstrate by our daily conduct that we are responsible, mature citizens before we can expect the voting age to be lowered.

Year's End In Sight

The end of the 1956-57 school year is almost in sight. But much remains to be done by every student in the weeks remaining in this school year.

In many respects a school year is much like the mile run in a track meet. A good start is important in the school year as well as in the mile run. But a good start in either is no guarantee of a good finish; likewise, a poor start does not necessarily preclude a poor finish. Usually, it is the ways that the latter part of the mile are run and the latter part of the school year are handled that determine the end results.

Thus it behooves each student to put forth his best efforts in these final weeks of school, —his best efforts on his studies, on his extra-curricular activities, and on his social and cultural life. Such efforts are sure to bring results that will be satisfying and each student who conscientiously puts forth his best efforts will be happier accordingly. Let us make these next weeks the happiest and most satisfying of the school year! We can, if we only try!

Martin was alone when he made the jump and it's impossible to say what went through his mind during those suspended moments of unexpected flight. Martin, surely, can't tell us.

He was on the road that led from work to home and he had often said he could "drive blindfolded." But a little germ of speed was operating in Martin that afternoon and, at a crucial point, it destroyed his control of the car.

Like so many Iowans lately, he drove off the highway. The car hit a slight bank and began the big jump. What went through Martin's mind as he sat there, frozen to the useless wheel, incredibly flying through the air? How could he have believed it was really happening.

After all, he was Clay Martin. He had been mind in body for 34 years. His were the eyes that knew the faces of his wife and children. In his throat was the voice familiar to friends. These hands, clutching white at the steering wheel, were his own. They had signed his checks, opened a thousand doors for him, touched his family.

And he sat in old familiar clothes; in shoes that were worn to the fit of his feet; and there was the wristwatch of a past birthday, quietly counting seconds as though time was not about to end.

Yes he was Clay Martin. He was real. He knew he was real and the world knew it. His name was on a mortgage, a time card, a birth certificate somewhere, a driver's license.

How could something so real end so abruptly, so unexpectedly? Perhaps something like this went through Martin's mind or, perhaps, he only screamed in a voice he couldn't recognize until the car crashed some 60 feet from the highway.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Hogs

The boost in late-spring pig output won't be as large as was expected, according to the March 1 pig crop report.

On March 1, the nine main hog-raising states (producing about 75 percent of the nation's hogs) had 2 percent more pigs 3 months old or younger than a year ago. Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, says this increase was due to better pig-raising by farmers, since there were 1 percent fewer sows farrowed in the December through February period of 1957 than in 1956.

If the trend toward saving more pigs continues, Kutish says, we will have 2 to 4 percent more late spring pigs and 4 to 5 percent more summer pigs than we did a year ago.

If the rest of the country's hog plans fall in line, summer and early fall hog prices should be about the same as last year. The late fall and winter market should average 75 cents to $1.50 lower than a year ago, though, because of heavier marketings. Kutish thinks this market won't recover as rapidly as it did in 1956.

Cattle

Since mid-January, prices of cows and lower-grade cattle have been making their normal late-winter climb.

Kutish says recent rains have helped the demand for grazing animals, and the recovery in fat cattle prices is also responsible for some of the price rise.

Kutish advises farmers who have plain quality cattle to sell to do so during the next 2 months. The market will be best then, he predicts. This advice also holds for sales of cull cows and general clean-up cattle.

Wool Payment Claims Due By April 30th

Wool and lamb producers who wish to participate in the wool incentive payment program for the 1956 marketing year which ended March 31 must file their applications by the end of this month, at the county ASC office, according to Hancock County ASC Committee.

Incentive payments on wool and lambs sold between April 1, 1956, and March 31, 1957, will be made this summer on the basis of applications filed by the final day of this month. Sales made after March 31, 1957, will be included in the 1958 wool marketing year program, which will run until March 31, 1958.

In applying for incentive payments, producers must supply documents showing complete information concerning the sale of their wool and lambs.

A total of 420 wool and lamb producers of Hancock County received $16,235.20 in incentive payments made by the ASC office last summer for the 1955 wool program. So far, 380 applications for payments have been filed in the 1956 marketing year program.

Unprofitable to Keep Layers Another Year

It doesn't pay to keep your laying hens over for another year, warns Paul Walther, extension poultryman at Iowa State College. He says producers who kept their hens over last year report that they "would never do it again."

Walther says this practice proved unprofitable to them for several reasons:

1. The hens that were high producers the first year dropped off by as much as 40 percent the second year in some cases.

2. Although eggs were several ounces heavier per dozen the second season, it took nearly a third more feed to produce these any higher for extra-large eggs. larger eggs. Seldom is the price In fact, buyers have been known to quote the same price for extra-large eggs as for cracked eggs, because oversized eggs are often cracked during shipment to market.

3. Breakage losses were higher with extra-large eggs.

4. There were also increased labor and housing costs per dozen eggs produced because of reduced flock size.

5. The grade of the second-year eggs fell off due to poorer interior quality.

Keeping hens is an effort to cut costs by eliminating the cost of raising new pullets, says Whitfield. But he points out, the egg quality, added to the increased feed cost, will more than offset the cost of raising a new pullet flock.

It's much wiser to buy chicks each year than to keep your old hens over, he emphasizes.

Spring Lawn Seedings Should Be In April

Seedings for new lawns should be completed as soon as possible, advises Paul Henderson, Hancock County Extension Director.

Grass seed should be sown as early as weather and soil conditions permit. Weeds will offer stiff competion by May 1.

1. Work up a mellow, finely crumbled seedbed.

2. Sow a mixture containing at least 50 percent bluegrass, and only about 15 percent temporary nurse crop grasses such as rye grass or red top. Use a two-wheeled grass seeder, if you can borrow, rent or buy one. Distribution of seed is much more uniform with this method.

Figure your seedling rate on the basis of 1 pound of actual bluegrass per 1,000 square feet. For example, if your mixture is 50 percent bluegrass, seed two pounds per thousand square feet.

Seed can be applied in combination with a granular-type fertilizer, if a two-wheel seeder is used.

3. Rake the seed in lightly with a leaf or broom-type rake. Then roll with a light roller to firm the soil around the seed. If possible, keep the surface moist for the first ten days.

You can start mowing the new lawn when the grass is about two inches high. Set your mower at 1½ to 2 inches. Regular mowing is important. Nearly every new lawn is weedy. Mowing keeps these weeds under control.

If mowing is delayed too long, and there is a considerable amount of clippings, rake them off at once. Or get a grass catcher for your mower.

LIBERTY BUSY BEES HAVE ALL DAY MEETING

The Liberty Busy Bees were really busy at an all day meeting at the home of Florence Greiman on March 16. The meeting started with a demonstration, "Sewing on a Button," by Mary Kern; followed by an illustrated talk, "Color Cues," by Joyce Huenemann. An illustrated talk, "Darts, Tucks and Gathers," was given by JaNell Johnson and a demonstration on "Making a Patch Rocket" by Florence Greiman. A talk "Articles in a Sewing Box" was given by Kathleen Upmeyer. Each girl brought something for our dinner at noon. After dinner we pinned our blouse patterns on our material and cut them out. At our business meeting Joyce Huenemann was chosen to represent our club as queen on Fun Night. Nancy Farquhar is to be our voting delegate. We closed the day with music appreciation and a rythm game. Before we went home Florence and her mother served us lunch. Reporter, Carolyn Jass.

MISHAP

Shirley Cole, 20, was injured seriously in a freak auto mishap at Jefferson recently. While waiting at an intersection, her car was bumped from the rear but apparently without injury or damage. Arriving at work, Miss Cole fainted and was found to have received a fractured vertebra in her neck.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

"Be thrifty when you're young, and when you're old you'll be able to afford the things only the young can enjoy!"

Maybe The Old Timer has a point there, but we can't help but think about the fellow who said, "You can't take it with you . . . and you sure don't know when you're going." He had a point, too.

To lean too hard to etiher of these ways is not good. If you get so thrifty that you become miserly, you can't enjoy the wealth you have for fear someone will beat you out of it. On the other hand, if you spend it all faster than you make it, you are in a constant sweat about what to do for money.

Must be a happy medium in there somewhere that provides for a little fun and relaxation along the way . . . as well as a little in the kitty for that rainy day.

As we draw nearer and nearer to the forty mark, we find ourselves getting a kick out of things that ten years ago would have left us cold. For instance, we got quite a chuckle out of this one. "Middle age is the period in life when you will do anything to feel better, except give up what's hurting you."

Of course we don't believe that the above paragraph applies in all cases. Take taxes. They hurt plenty, but we would gladly give up paying them . . . or at least a sizeable part of them.

And while on the subject of taxes, we lifted the following few paragraphs from an editorial in the Industrial Press Service.

"Many people are not much concerned over big federal spending for civilian programs—because of the mistaken belief that citizens in the higher income brackets are paying the freight.

Actually, the higher incomes provide only a small fraction of income tax revenues—even though the rates, up to 91 percent—come close to confiscation in the top brackets. The extreme rates make average taxpayers feel they are 'getting off easy'—by contrast.

About 75 cents out of every federal income tax dollar is paid by people with taxable incomes of $6,000 or less. And 81 cents of every income tax dollar comes from those whose taxable income is less than $10,000.

High-bracket taxpayers have

The Cor You Drive May Be Your Own—But You Need Certificate of Title

Iowa motorists who still own cars they bought prior to Oct 1, 1953, should make sure they have certificates of title for the cars before they apply for 1958 license plates.

Otherwise, there will be utter confusion when the 1958 license plate rush begins, County Treasurer Roy L McMillin said last week.

The 1958 licenses will go on sale next December.

Iowa law requires that all cars sold after Oct. 1, 1953, have a certificate of title. Thus, most cars now have them. But those that haven't changed hands since Oct. 1, 1953, probably don't.

The law also states that a 1958 license buyer must have a certificate of title. This applies to all cars and trucks.

McMillin said about 2,000 Hancock County cars and trucks do not have certificates of title. Such owners should take their current registration form and 75 cents, the price of the title certificate, with them when they go to the courthouse to get their certficate, McMillin explained.

Services Held for 'Herm' Pringnitz

Had Lived In This Community Since 1896

Funeral services for Helmuth W (Herm) Pringnitz were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, April 15, at the Klemme Methodist Church with the Rev Melvin Miller officiating.

Mr. Pringnitz died Thursday morning after having been ill for several weeks. Interment was in the Ell Township Cemetery with casket bearers all being nephews. They were Virgil, Ronald, Harley, Stanley, Fred, and Bernard Pringnitz.

Comfort in music was furnished by a duet composed of Mrs Marvin Lemke and Mrs Carold Larson, accompanied at the organ by Mrs Robert Schulz. Mrs Irene Swanson and Mrs David Schwichtenberg took care of the flowers. Osman Funeral Service was in charge of the arrangements.

Obituary

Helmuth (Herm) Wilhelm Pringnitz, son of Fredricka Sofia and Franz Pringnitz, was born in Hindenburg by Prenzlau, Germany, on August 17, 1879.

When he was less than three years of age, he came with his parents to this country, and moved to Ackley, Iowa. Here he attended the public school and Sunday School.

In 1896, the family moved to Hancock County, Iowa, where he farmed with his father. In 1913, he went into partnership with his brother, Emil, with whom he made his home. They farmed together until 1954.

The Pringnitz brothers continued to live on the farm until the fall of 1956, after which they moved to Klemme.

During the last few years, Mr. Pringnitz spent a great deal of time, and found much pleasure in working with wood. He was widely known for his hobby.

Mr. Pringnitz passed away on Thursday morning, April 11, 1957, following several weeks of illness.

He was preceded in death by his parents, two brothers, and one sister. He leaves to mourn his passing, his brother, Emil, eighteen nieces and nephews, and other distant relatives and friends.

Two Teachers Resign From School Faculty

Two elementary teachers have submitted their resignations from the public school faculty. They are Mrs Dorthe Mernin and Miss Donna Dunahoo. Mrs Mernin has been the Kindergarten teacher here for the past three years, while Miss Dunahoo is completing her first year as a first grade teacher.

Mrs Mernin has accepted a position as a second grade teacher in the Ventura Community School. Her home is in Ventura and she has been commuting to Klemme.

Miss Dunahoo plans to be married during the summer months. She will be living in Fargo, North Dakota, where she plans to teach.

A replacement for Mrs Mernin has not been hired. No replacement for Miss Dunahoo will be necessary because the first grade will be in one section next year.

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

Tuesday the House voted a liquor referendum bill 77 to 26. This will allow the liquor by the drink question to be submitted to the voters. It involves a constitutional amendment and must be passed by the legislature again in 1959. Then it would permit Iowans to vote in 1960 on whether or not they want liquor by the drink. Rep Perkins, retired Methodist minister, favored and voted for the resolution and added that an honest attempt has been made to give the people a chance to voice their opinion on the liquor question.

Standards of the U S Department of Agriculture for milk were adopted by the House. At present we have standards for cream. This measure will affect milk going into dry milk, cheese, and other dairy products.

Killed by the Senate was the bill to require mathematics, English and foreign languages in high school.

Although we have worked on quite a few bills, we in the House worked especially hard this week on two particular bills. According to past newspaper articles, these are important items of legislation—that of reapportionment of the legislature and safety on our roads. Toward a better highway patrol, the House voted (after considerable discussion) a 27 man addition to the patrol as well as a pay increase.

In order to provide money for state colleges, penal institutions, state school aid, agricultural land credit, social welfare for the poor, and others, we must raise money. The Senate passed a 2½ percent sales tax and left the corporation and income tax the same. What the House will do is an unanswered question at this time. However, the editorial in the Des Moines Register on Friday, April 12, had this to say: "The Governor has consistently said he'd veto a 2½ percent sales tax. But it's a wise man who changes his mind occasionally. A veto would not 'pass' another revenue bill. Except for the 'tagging' of sales tax money, the Senate-passed bill is about as fair a tax measure as it's possible to get through the Iowa legislature."

The Senate killed the egg grading bill which would have modified the present egg law and allow the sale of current receipt eggs.

Even when I get impatient, just as I am sure some of you do, with our legislative processes, I remind myself that this is democracy in action, and is one of the main reasons why we have retained our democratic principles and freedoms which we now enjoy instead of a dictatorship or some other form of government we don't want.

HONORED AT RECEPTION

The nine members of the confirmation class of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church were honored guests at a reception given for them by the consistory members and their wives Thursday evening following the Lenten services. Other guests at the reception were the parents of the class members and members of the senior choir.

Local Bank Honored For Savings Bond Sales

The First National Bank of Klemme was honored last week for having exceeded its 1956 quota for sales of United States savings bonds to individual customers. Only Series E and H bonds were counted toward the quota.

A silver plaque, mounted on walnut wood and with the official seal of the U S Treasury superimposed, was presented to A R Arnold, president of the bank.

Awards also were given to this bank in 1955 and 1956 for having exceeded its quotas of savings bond sales.

Inscribed on the plaque is the statement:

1956
DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

Presented with sincere appreciation.
G. M HUMPHREY
Secretary of the Treasury

On the reverse side of the plaque is a further statement of recognition pointing out that it was purchased with funds contributed by patriotic firms and organizations of Iowa. Only Iowa banks are being recognized in this manner, and more than 350 banks will receive the award.

had it: they can't be squeezed much more. Corporate taxes must, in the end, be paid by consumers. So when federal spending goes up, make no mistake about it—the tax bite is on you!"

. . . and who likes to get bit?

Offhand, we don't know of anyone who likes to get bit . . . not even mail carriers. Last Saturday, they had a vacation from their daily battle with the dogs on their routes . . . and as one fellow on the radio put it, "It's a real quiet Saturday; no snarling of dogs nor screaming and cursing of postmen. However, it wasn't altogether quiet, as the storm that was brewing over the head of Postmaster General Sommerfield became quite noisy at times.

And speaking of storms, did you notice the dust in the air Monday. That was quite a dust storm. Looked like somebody's east forty just took off. Good thing it didn't rain. Nothing but mud balls would have hit the ground . . . and there's been enough mud-slinging going on amongst the politicians . . . both on the state and national level.

And D O Flynn has a little mud to sling at the modern housewife. He says, "There's nothing like a good old-fashioned, home-cooked meal . . . not in most homes, at least."

TO LOWER YOUR TAX BILLS

The tax bills of all Iowans are less than they would be, as a result of the sizeable taxes paid annually by the brewing industry. These taxes now total the huge sum of $25,362,798.00 per year on the beer sold in this state. In this total are $11,383,983.00 U. S. tax on Iowa sales, $2,000,000.00 state sales tax, $3,188,944.75 Iowa tax paid by wholesalers, $1,289,871.00 license fees, and $7,500,000.00 other state and federal taxes. These sums reduce by that amount the taxes we Iowans would otherwise have to pay.

And Iowa benefits from the brewing industry in many other ways, too. Take the industry's Iowa payroll of over $30,000,000 per year, or the $62,500,000 invested in property in Iowa, or the huge purchases of farm products used in the brewing process. Truly, most any way you look at it, the brewing industry helps all Iowa.

Farm Bureau Women Take Minneapolis Tour

The Hancock County women enjoyed their annual Women's Tour, sponsored by the Farm Bureau Women, April 9. This year the women chose Minneapolis with Cinerama and the fabulous Southdale Shopping Center.

We left Garner at 6:15 a.m., stopped at Forest City to pick up some more ladies; there were 163 all totaled! We arrived in Minneapolis at 11:10 a.m. and went directly to Dayton's Sky-Line Room for our dinner. From the time the women got through eating until 2:00 p.m. the time was spent shopping.

At 2:00 p.m. we went to Cinerama, "The Seven Wonders of the World," which was enjoyed by all. The women then ventured out to Southdale where we shopped for awhile. We left Southdale at 6:00 p.m., ate supper, and then started south for home. All 163 arrived home about 11:00 p.m., tired and exhausted but everyone thought the day was well spent.

If there are any suggestions as to where the women would like to go on their next tour, write in your suggestions to Mrs Milo Pitkin, chairman of Farm Bureau Women's committee, Forest City, or the Hancock County Farm Bureau Office in Garner.

MRS HERMAN SCHMIDT HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

In celebration of the birthday of Mrs Herman Schmidt, a group of relatives called at the Schmidt home Sunday evening, April 7th, to extend their best wishes and present her with a gift.

The evening was spent visiting and viewing pictures taken by Miss Nora Eliason during her trip to Norway last summer. Lunch was served before the group departed for home.

Those spending the evening at the Schmidt home were Julius Priebe, Erwin Priebe, Mr and Mrs Albert Schmidt, Roger Schmidt, Mr and Mrs Paul Goll, Mr and Mrs Fred Schmidt, Mr and Mrs Dean Rasmus and family, Mr and Mrs Mervin Barkema, Mr and Mrs Luverne Schmidt and family, and Mr and Mrs Luther Schmidt.

Farmers Advised to Use Approved Drain Tile

Hancock County farmers are reminded that drain tile systems must meet minimum specifications as to quality in order to qualify the work for ASC cost sharing assistance.

Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner says specifications as to strength and quality have been outlined by the American Society of Testing Materials.

He says that Dale Hull, Iowa State College agriculture engineer, explains that the testing program has been set up by the manufacturers of clay and concrete tile through their trade groups—the Iowa Concrete Drain Tile Manufacturers' Association and the Structural Clay Products Institute.

As soon as a member manufacturer has had his tile certified as to strength through an independent testing laboratory, the trade associations submit test reports to the Soil Conservation Service state office. State officials of the SCS then advise technicians installing and approving tile drainage systems which manufacturers' tile products have been certified as to quality.

Use of certified tile is recommended even though the system is not being installed under a cost sharing program. Over-all costs of installing high quality drain tile are no more than when inferior quality is used, says Hull.

He adds that preliminary estimates of tile installed last year indicate a reduction of only one-third in total footage, despite the fact the year was unseasonably dry.

TWIN LAKE GO GETTERS MAKE PLANS FOR SUMMER

The meeting of the Twin Lake Go Getters was held at the home of Marilyn Pals on April 13th. Twelve members, four leaders and two visitors, Elsie Mae Van Wert and Mrs Pals, were present.

Rita Hansen was chosen to go to 4-H Camp at Clear Lake, and Gloria Hansen was picked to go to the convention at Ames.

Theresa Lowenberg and Marilyn Pals wrote to the camp at Boone to get more information. Marilyn read the letter.

Talks were given by Judy Eliason on "Suitable Fabric for Type of Blouse"; by Theresa Lowenberg on a record, and by Janet Lange on "Measuring of a Pattern". She also demonstrated as she talked.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Theresa Lowenberg.—Janet Lange, Reporter.

WEED CONTROL—SPECIAL 4-H ACTIVITY FOR 1958

Weed control was chosen as the 4-H Special Activity for 1958 by the Boys' 4-H Committee at their meeting Thursday night in the Extension Office. The committee felt that the control of weeds is a problem with everyone and therefore members should become better acquainted with weed control.

According to Ed Bruns, this activity will consist of a study of the seriousness of the weed problem and of the losses that weeds cause. Members will learn to identify the primary and secondary noxious weeds and common weeds. They will also learn simple methods of control for pasture weeds and brush, fence row weeds and brush, small grain weeds, and corn field weeds.

Members will be encouraged to follow through by adopting weed control practices on their home farms and in establishing demonstrations in their home communities.

HANCOCK COUNTY SWINE PRODUCERS ELECT OFFICERS

The board of directors of the Hancock County Swine Producers Association elected Floyd Friedow, president; Clifford Howlet, vice-president and Wallace Kreitlow, secretary-treasurer for 1957.

The board discussed programs for 1957 and discussed thoroughly the meat type improvement program by individual working, weighing and probing.

The board approved Bill Brady of Garner and Bob Currie of Kanawha as probers for 1957. They are working out a rate for paying for the official probing and weighing.

Any commercial or purebred breeders wanting to improve their selection of breeding stock should contact the swine association officers, Mr Brady, Mr Currie or the County Extension Office for details.

Remember you need to earmark each pig and have birth date records as a starter for this program. Ear marking system and litter record sheets are available at the County Extension Office according to Paul Henderson, County Extension Director.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK
Keith Nuehring
Gary Lenz

WE GROW little by little

The first time I rode into Klemme (1893), I watered my horse at the town well. This well was located in the center of main street, at the intersection between the stores. It was 65 feet deep.

Eight years later (1901), our second well, about 100 feet deep, was put down, and at this time we laid 800 feet of six inch water mains, mostly down main street.

Then, some 33 years later (1934) we put down our third and last well, 1512 feet deep. This "deep well" draws water from the "Jordan Sandstone." They tell us that this vein of sandstone (white as loaf sugar) connects with the bottom of Lake Superior.

There were changes in the stores too: Henry Lau was perhaps the first merchant to locate in Klemme (about 1888). He hauled lumber from Garner, and built an inexpensive shanty-like store on railroad ground just east of the depot platform. (The depot was not built until a year or two later.)

His establishment was a sort of "trading post". His customers had little money, they brought in eggs, butter, hides, chickens, etc. and traded them for staple groceries and such items as barrel salt, flour, barb wire, nails, dishes, tinware, etc. He also developed quite a business in farm machinery and windmills.

Shortly after this, the town of Klemme experienced a "build-boom," and within the next five years some 25 business establishments opened up for business. It was during this building boom that Henry Lau moved to main street and occupied the location where his three sons still operate.

When Klemme was 16 years old (1907, the department store idea hit us, and the Wellemeyer Department Store was born. Here in the "horse and buggy" days, the customer could do all of his trading under one big roof.

This lasted about twenty years, then came the World Wars, the automobile and paved roads, this put the small town in direct competition with the city stores.

Since then; the department stores have changed over, one after another, into separate shops.

Even the big city retail establishments, some of them over 100 years old, have "read the hand writing on the wall", and are folding up. Here are some of the most recent closings:

John Wanamaker, 150 years, 1954; Hearn's, 128 years, 1955; Lewis and Conger, 122 years, 1956; Hecht Co., 56 years, 1956; Oppenheim-Collins, 51 years, 1957; Namm-Loessers, 71 years, 1957. (Above firms in New York and Brooklyn.)

The above facts show that every individual, whether on the farm or in the city, must strive to advance and grow, because when we think we are standing still, we are really falling behind.

Where would our community be if we had been satisfied with:

1. Our first well on main street?
2. Our one department store?
3. Our first one-room school house?
4. Our little grain elevator? (being wrecked today).

This writer moved to Klemme in 1907, and during the fifty years which have passed, the men and women of my generation did try to excel and lead, each in his separate field of endeavor. We accomplished much, but we did not finish anything. There are many interesting things yet to be done.

The Class of 1957 will soon come forth from the Klemme High School. These young people, after a few years of apprenticeship or a few years of further schooling, will be in charge of things—either in this community or elsewhere, and they will tackle the new problems as they come up with the tireless energy of youth.

No; you will not finish everything either, but I am sure you will leave everything better.

We wish you luck. —Arthur Wellemeyer.

Question of the Week

What would you do with an okapi?

Marcella N—I would wrap it up as a birthday present and give it to Lavonne W for her birthday.

Lavonne W—I would give it to Mr Butler to use in algebra class since he didn't have any idea what to write down.

Sandra M—I would give it to Karen for dinner.

Joyce L—I would give it to Karen since she doesn't know what it is.

Jeanne B—First I would chloroform it and then dissect it.

Elaine J—I would send it to Egon; he could let the Navy decide what to do with it. At least I don't have to decide.

Jo Anne J—Send it to Luther College and see what chair Weston Noble would set it in.

Eugene Z—Give it to Randall to play with.

Lois H—I would send it to my cousin in California.

Roger S—I would give it to Dave to play with during science class.

Roxanne B—I would give it to Candace and she could do what ever she wanted to do with it.

An okapi is an African animal related to the giraffe, but having a short neck.

TOP SECRECY

Why? Well, we have discovered that they are planning and working on the Junior-Senior Banquet which will be April 27.

They won't tell us anything about it but we hear they are progressing fairly rapidly. We heard by the grapevine that their latest problem is how much crepe paper they should order for the ceiling decoration.

PUN—THE LOWEST FORM OF HUMOR

The pun is a play on words not only for its sense but for its sound. Here are a few puns we think you might enjoy:

A man told his wife he had always liked tongue, and liked it still.

This girl had never had her ears pierced but often had them bored.

Caesar reigned because the crowd hailed him.

A court jester refused to make a pun about the king because the king wasn't a royal subject.

Home Ec. Student Has Praise for Teacher

On a warm day in August, 1956, sixteen girls walked into the Home Economics room of Klemme High School. We were greeted at the door by Miss Whitmire, the new Home Economics teacher. Little did we realize how completely our lives would be changed by the direction of this expert seamstress and cook. Never again would we sew those crooked, straight lines and taste those delicious well burned meals. (You can tell we had expert training before hand.

The first day the kitchen reeked with smoke from our fires. We soon learned, from the helpful advice of Miss Whitmire, that meals can be made simply without burning.

Our groups planned different meals and parties and started a collection of recipes for future use.

The next skill required for our group was the venture into sewing. (Woe unto Miss Whitmire.) Our first attempt almost made Miss Whitmire loose her hair. It was a simple blouse (so the pattern said) and it took all the skill and patience Miss Whitmire had. We have now made a skirt besides our blouses and some of us are working on dresses.

We are still trying to attain the skill of better seamstresses.

SENIORS MAKE FINAL PLANS FOR SKIP DAY

April 18, is the big day: Bright and early, at 5:00 in the morning, the seniors and their sponsors, Mr and Mrs Whitney and Mr Whitford, will board a Jefferson Bus enroute to Minneapolis. Upon arrival they plan to tour World Chamberlain Field and the Minneapolis plant of the Ford Motor Company. After lunch they will go through WCCO-TV and the Southdale Shopping Center. Cinerama will be the evening attraction. At approximately 4:00 a.m. the seniors, full of vim, vigor and vitality, expect to pull in at Klemme. This promises to be a big day for all concerned.

Know Your Town

Today, as fate would have it, Ron and I are once again assigned the merchant interview. We decided that we'd interview Franklin Kluckhohn.

Franklin G Kluckhohn was born in Klemme on July 11, 1918. He attended elementary and high school at Klemme. He entered the Army for one year. Then he started in the Post Office in 1943.

When Franklin has some spare time he'd enjoy nothing better than playing a round of golf or to watch a football or a basketball game.

Franklin picks "Playhouse 90" as his favorite television program. Lawrence Welk and Guy Lombardo are his favorite bands. Franklin is partial to historical movies and he likes chicken or steak as his favorite food.

His pet peeve is when someone asks the question: "Is the mail in yet?"

HANCOCK COUNTY JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM, APRIL 24

The Annual Hancock County Junior-Senior Prom will be held on Wednesday, April 24, from 9:00 to 1:00 at the Surf Ballroom in Clear Lake. Henry Charles and his orchestra will provide the music. Some of the highlights of the evening will include a jitterbug contest and the crowning of the King and Queen. All high-school kids are invited and tickets may be purchased from Roger Johnson or they may be bought at the door.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

On May 9, 1939, Sharleen Kay Swanson entered into this world on a farm near Klemme. She started school at Klemme and will graduate from this school in May.

Her activities while in high school include the following:

Band (Mixed Trio, and Sax Quartette), Mixed Chorus, Girls Chorus, Girls Sextette, and trio all four years, plus church groups and 4-H.

"Charlie's" (another name for Sharleen) pet peeve is people with a superiority complex. Her favorite movie was "Magnificent Obsession", starring Jane Wyman and Rock Hudson. Her favorite food is steak with all the trimmings, and she likes listening to Lawrence Welk's music, her favorite orchestra.

Sewing is her way of passing time, when she has any time to spare.

"Charlie's" most embarrassing moment is too embarrassing to print.

Her secret ambition is to go on to school, take some business course, be an office girl and marry the boss.

My Life as a Telephone

(As told to Maurine Johnson)

Life as a telephone isn't easy. People slam down my receiver, shout in me, and keep me busy constantly. As if this weren't enough, teenagers make me work overtime by playing "guess who" or "I won't hang up before you do."

My best customers have to play the "64¢ Question" to find out who is at the other end of the line. When they have an important call to make it is often delayed because of some discourteous person.

We telephones used to be used only for delivering important messages, but today people seem to think that we're simply a means of pleasure when they have nothing else to do.

On behalf of telephones all over the United States, I appeal to you, the American citizen, to be courteous to our many other customers, make your conversation direct and to the point, and PLEASE handle us with care.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Justifably proud of their daughter, LaVonne, are Mr and Mrs Elmer Beier, and we think that the rest of the community might share in their pride.

LaVonne is employed in the Soil Conservation Service office of the United States Department of Agriculture in Des Moines and was one of five nominees among the city's federal employees for the annual Civil Servant of the Year Award.

On Tuesday of last week at a luncheon meeting in Des Moines, the award was presented to the Rev DeLoss I Marken, chaplain at Veterans Hospital, but LaVonne and the three other finalists were each presented with Citations of Recognition by Charles T Cownie, chairman of the selection committee. The citations were for outstanding contributions to the government through their jobs and to their community through their many other activities.

To be selected as one of the top five from several thousand federal employees in the city of Des Moines is quite an honor and we imagine that LaVonne is almost as proud as are her Mom and Dad.

And while we are passing out bouquets, we think one is in order for the instructors and students of the Klemme Community School music department.

Instrumental instructor Whitford, vocal instructor Mrs Whitney, and the students should feel mighty fine about the 17 Division I and 16 Division II ratings they brought home from the state music contest at Fertile . . . and we are sure that everyone in the community is proud of their achievements.

The following news item appeared in the Mason City Globe-Gazette on Monday of last week:

"FOREST CITY — Two North Iowa youths were caught Saturday after a chase across a field here when they abandoned their stolen car which had run out of gas.

Charles Galkin, 14, Mason City, and James Anderson, 14, Forest City, stole a car at Garner at about 4 p.m. Saturday, according to Winnebago County Sheriff Maurice Monson. They drove north from Garner on gravel roads to a point about 10 miles northeast of Forest City where they ran out of gas.

Several farmers saw them flee across the field from the car and rounded them up. The farmers are Bertrin Hauge, Carl Hanson, Ronald Knudson and Ernest Knudson, all of Lake Mills."

Know who owned the car? Elmer Meinders. Elmer was in Garner and failing to find a parking place in front of the establishment he wished to enter, he drove around and parked in the alley. Thinking he would be gone only a moment, he did not remove his keys from his car, and when he came

Burial Here for Former Resident of Community

(By Arthur Wellemeyer)

Emil Bettin, 82, a former resident of Liberty Township, died in Charles City, Iowa, Friday, April 19, 1957.

Funeral services were held at 10:00 a.m., Tuesday, April 23, at the Central Methodist Church, Charles City, conducted by Dr. Fred W Ortmeyer. Interment was on the family lot in the Ell Township Cemetery here, the committal service being read by Dr Wesley Belling.

Obituary

Emil Bettin was born in 1875 on a farm in Floyd County near Flood Creek, the eldest of nine children born to Julius M and Amalia (Koerner) Bettin.

When Emil was five years old his parents moved to the Klemme community, having purchased a half section of land near the Southeast corner of Liberty Township.

While Emil was attending Charles City College in 1896, his father died. Emil came home and at age 21 took over as "head of the household".

There were his mother and five younger children to care for. The youngest, twins, were four years old.

Emil Bettin remained a single man, and devoted all of his life to the welfare of the other members of his family.

After living in Liberty Township for 28 years, Emil and the family moved to Charles City where they have resided for the past 49 years.

With the passing of Emil, the Bettin family is now reduced to three members: Julius Bettin, Chicago, Ill.; Arthur Bettin, Forest City, Iowa; and Alma (Mrs Roy Randall), Reo, Wis.

out some fifteen minutes later, the car was gone.

Now Elmer has a lot of friends in Garner, and thinking that one of them was playing a joke on him, he enlisted the aid of some of his pals and they began a search for the missing car.

They looked all over Garner . . . even checking the comotary, but no car. Finally, they decided that it must be something more than a joke, and notified the authorities. Elmer found out about 7:30 that evening that his car had been located.

Bet it will be a long time before he leaves his car with the keys in it again . . . or if he does and it turns up missing . . . we'll bet he won't waste any time notifying the authorities.

The moral of the story is: If you have a car that has the habit of being stolen, keep the gas tank nearly empty, then the thieves can't get far.

Some of you know our brother-in-law, Mike McCormick, of Britt, and know also that he is a member of the Iowa Electric Light & Power Company's maintenance crew.

Last week Thursday, he became involved with a "hot" wire and took 2,400 volts. The current entered his left hand and came out through the bottom of his left foot.

The charge knocked him out, will cause him to lose the index finger from his left hand, left a big hole in the bottom of his foot, melted the nails in his shoe, and will cause him to be off work for several months . . . but he's lucky to be alive . . . and we might add, thankful.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The second hand moved smoothly around the big clock on the white wall and he watched it intently as though at a certain moment he would have to jump up and run out of the building.

A nurse passed swiftly down the corridor and he heard the starchy sound of her uniform and soft thud of rubber heels but she did not come from the operating room, she could tell him nothing. His eyes stayed on the clock.

Down the hall there was an alcove containing chairs and a table. He knew that a small group of silent people sat there and waited, just as he waited.

Occasionally he heard a dim voice raising what seemed to be a question, and it seemed always to be the same question. They were the parents and the grandparents.

Once he walked down the hall and they all looked at him quietly and he looked back, trying to find something to say. Nothing came to his lips so he walked back and sat on a chair alone and looked at the clock.

So much time, he thought, but all of it going forward, never turning back. Never would the clock turn back to those moments just after eight that morning.

Never again would he have the chance to reduce his speed just a little as he came into the residential district, to look at the sidewalks more closely, to hit the brake as the child came running into the street.

So much time, he thought, and none of it ever given back to wipe out a mistake.

The corridor was so silent that he heard the sigh as the operating room doors opened and fell back. A doctor stood looking at him. Time had run out.

SHOT

Robert Johnson of Manly received a thigh wound from a .22 rifle recently, as he and Richard Schmidt were inspecting the rifle. The bullet passed clear through his leg.

GUESS WHO

Hi! all you avid readers of the Shamrock. This week we are starting a new series of articles about members of Klemme High School. There is just one thing missing in these articles and that is the name of the individual. We will give you clues pertaining to this personage and you will have the privilege of guessing who they are. Can you do it?

Our mystery person is a brown-eyed, package of mischief. Her antics are always followed by a burst of hearty laughter. She is an avid follower of sports and plays first chair in the band. She is a member of the Methodist Church and sings in the choir. She sings high soprano very effectively in Mixed Chorus, and Girl's Glee Club. Our mystery person is a librarian and was in one of the class plays.

Can you guess who this person is? Read next week's "Guess Who?"

Art Carlson Will Enter Typing Contest

Saturday, April 27, Arthur Carlson and Mr Johnson will embark to Des Moines to the AIB State Typing Contest. This contest is open to all high school seniors who can type at the rate of 50 words a minute or more for 10 minutes, with no more than 10 errors. Contestants will be divided into three classes: "A," "B" and "C" depending upon the size of the high school from which they come. Each class will have two divisions: "Novice" — not more than one year of high school instruction; "Amateur"— more than one year of high school instruction. Prizes include two new portable typewriters given as follows: one to the contestant with the highest accuracy and one to the contestant with the highest speed. There will also be 18 medals in addition to the regular prizes. There will be first, second and third prize awards for both novice and amateur in the "A," the "B" and the "C" schools.

The best 10-minute timed writings for speed written so far this year in the Typing II Class are three errors-59 words by Arthur Carlson and 4 errors-56 words by Val Stromer. The most accurate writing to date was written by Beverly Christiance. "Bev" got 0-40, a very good writing.

The Typing I students are also busy working for their 30 and 40 word pins. The fastest and most accurate writings thus far are 2-44 by Elaine Jurgemeyer and 2-39 by Barbara Avery.

These writings are written from copies received from AIB in Des Moines. Any student who types for 30, 40, 50, 60 or 70 words per minute after errors have been deducted is eligible to receive one of these pins.

Question of the Week

What did you think of the senior class play, "Ever Since Eve"?

Maurine J—I thought it was especially good this time. I really enjoyed it.

Roxanne B—I think it was the best they have had in a long time.

Margaret—I thought the play was real good. It was just "it", if you know what that is.

Jo Anne J—I believe this play was the best casted and acted play Klemme has had for quite some time. Even Art's singing was good.

Candace C—It was the best play we've had in a long time. What made it so good was that everybody fitted the part they had perfectly.

Joyce L—Very good, although the the lights did go out, they did not seem to be bothered. I liked the whole play.

Marcella—I think the class play was very good.

Lavonne W—I thought it was really a good class play.

Karen—I thought it was very good. The lights going out was different but fun.

Dorothy—I thought the senior class play was real good. It was very amusing when the lights went out but I think everyone enjoyed the play never the less.

Barbara A—I thought it was very good and nicely put in regardless of the interruption.

Lowell—I thought the play was very good.

Daryl—It was funny, but it lasted too long because the lights went out.

Gordon L—It was rather humorous.

Winola Z—I thought it was excellent, especially Marvin and Sharleen (and, of course, Susan).

Freshman Write Limricks In Class

The freshmen English class tried their hand at writing limricks this week. The following are the results of some of their efforts:

There was a young lady of York
Who fed all her scraps to the stork
She rolled her spaghetti
In paper confhetti
And thus; "Ork York" went the stork.
—Jo Ann Jacobs

There was on old man of Bain
Who thought he was insain
He went to a doctor
Whose name was Procter
And came home perfectly sain.
—Donald Anderson

There was an ugly teacher
Who vowed she'd marry a preacher
But to her dismay
He went running away
As soon as he saw her features.
—Sharon Blau

One day as I sat in my room,
I pretended that I was a broom.
Sweeping the floor
Clear up to the door
I could hardly see back through the gloom.
—Candace Carlson

Gordon's so windy he blew
The bottom right out of his shoe.
He walked on bare feet
Until he was beat
And when he got tired he flew.
—Randall Langlitz

Students Progressing In Shorthand Class

Shorthand class starts each afternoon with the dictation of each new lesson by Mr Johnson. We take five minute writings in the typing room and from our notes type, in letter form, the dictation given.

The writings are started at sixty words a minute and the student has to pass two writings at this speed. Next is the eighty minute writing for five minutes. It continues to a hundred words a minute and so on. Errors are counted off for punctuation, misspelled words and words left out.

Jeanne Barz has passed two five minute writings at eighty words a minute. Karen Clabaugh has passed one five minute writing at eighty words a minute. Sharleen Swanson and Barbara Avery have passed one three minute writing at eighty words a minute. Elaine Jurgemeyer has passed two writings at sixty words a minute. Beverly Christiance and Dorothy Kroehnke have passed one five minute writing test at sixty words a minute.

Fourth Grade News

The Fourth Grade Class has been studying about Alaska. To make it more interesting, we are pretending that we are actually visiting this region with our families. Here are two letters that were written to our friends in Iowa. Our letters tell of some of the interesting things we've seen so far.

Stevens Point, Alaska
April 18, 1957

Dear Gary:

I find everything is going well up here. Yesterday I saw a walrus sitting on a piece of ice. I couldn't get too close. I didn't want him to scare the team of Malemutes that was pulling my sled.

We have a lot of fun. We play a lot of games. One of the games is Nelakatuk. I don't know what the word means. It's played by using a large walrus skin. People hang on the sides of the skin. One person is in the center and the other people throw him up in the air. The object of the game is to see who can land on his feet the most times.

I have work to do, too. We have to feed the reindeer. Of course it's fun when the reindeer pull the sled, but not too much fun when you fall in a snow bank.

We have school up here, too. Our teacher is Mr Drury. He also teaches the older Eskimos to count and do a few other things.

There are several ways we can travel. The kayak is a boat that holds one person. Our sleds can be pulled by either Malemutes or reindeer.

Yours truly
Gerald Lange

Stevens Point, Alaska
April 18, 1957

Dear Merlene:

Today we went on a reindeer roundup. Daddy said that I looked pretty scared when those reindeer came after me.

Daddy had a house all picked out for us to stay. It was just like an American house. But I asked Daddy if I could stay overnight in an Eskimo igloo. Their igloos are made out of anything they can find. They can be made of sod, cans, skins and driftwood.

The Eskimos have to wear fur suits in the spring. They aren't as thick as in winter. Daddy said I had to wear one of those fur suits, too. When I got there I knew what Daddy meant by saying it was cold.

Well, I guess I had better be saying good-by.

Your pal,
Donna Ulrich

I Hate to Leave . . . But

. . . the job I was offered at Lakeland College, Plymouth, Wisconsin, was just too good to turn down.

I appreciate the good will and patronage I have enjoyed during the past two and a half years while associated with Harold Kothenbeutel in Ron's TV Service.

THANK YOU

RON BARZ

Announcement

Now that Ron is leaving and our partnership is to be dissolved, I plan to continue in service work with a workshop at my home.

I will continue to repair electric motors, take care of your wiring needs, and offer heating and plumbing service under the name of HAROLD'S HOME SERVICE. I hope to merit your continued patronage.

THANKS, PAL!

A TRIBUTE TO THE MAN AT THE PUMP

THANKS, first of all, for running a combination first-aid and comfort station, garage and information bureau.

THANKS, for always being on the job when the rest of us are all out having fun.

THANKS, for all the accidents you've prevented by spotting trouble before it happened.

THANKS, for all the many things you do without charge—and often even without thanks.

THANKS, for always managing a grin—even when there are more cranks around than there are crankcases.

THANKS, for keeping the word "service" alive when it has lost its meaning almost every place else. And . . .

THANKS, for keeping this whole country of ours from running out of gas and coming to a full stop.

We at The Saturday Evening Post, who have grown up with the automotive industry from the beginning, salute you.

The Saturday Evening Post

This ad appeared recently in The Saturday Evening Post. We don't know whether or not it will sell any more gasoline for us—that is not the purpose behind printing it. But rather, we thought it contained a lot of so-called "Meat", and just thought that you too might agree with us, along with the thousands of other service stations in this great land of ours.

Hold Junior Leadership Meeting for 4-H

County wide recreation opportunities, program of special interest to the Junior Leadership members and leadership training to be taken back to the individual clubs were explained as the goals for the group by Ed Bruns, County Extension Youth Assistant.

Why boys and girls join 4-H, what can be gained as a 4-H club member, and reasons for dropping out of 4-H were discussed in buzz groups. Reports of the three subjects were made by Ilene Rockow, Dona Bonnstetter and Harvey Johnson.

Plans for the next meeting to be held in Britt on May 28 were made with Lyle Johnson presiding. Election of officers will be the main item of business. "Leadership", a film for young adults, was shown at the close of the discussion.

Recreation chairmen for the the evening were LaVohn Josten and Sharleen Swanson. Don Kopacek was refreshment chairman.

Mr and Mrs Jay Howlett of Britt and Mr and Mrs Ed Thiemann of Ventura are the sponsors for the Junior Leadership group.

Farestry and Wildlife Opportunities Possible Under the Soil Bank

Farmers who participate in the Conservation Reserve phase of the soil bank make better use of their eroded and other cropland that should be seeded down to permanent cover, according to Vernon Moss of the Hancock County Soil Conservation District.

The Conservation Reserve phase of the soil bank is intended to help reduce the production of crops now in surplus, and it provides the cooperating farmer with cost-sharing on installing practices and pays annual rental payments of $10 to $13 per year for the period of the contract.

Conservation Reserve practices include:

1. Initial establishment of a permanent vegetative cover for soil protection, or as a needed land use adjustment.

2. Initial establishment of a stand of trees or shrubs on farmland for erosion control, watershed protection, or forestry purposes.

3. Constructing ponds as a means of protecting vegetative cover.

4. Establishment and management of cover specifically beneficial to wildlife.

Technical assistance on the land cover practices is available from the State Farm Foresters and from the Soil Conservation Service.

Responsibility for the technical phases of practices for water conservation and wildlife conservation is assigned to the Soil Conservation Service. Vernon Moss, Work Unit Conservationist, says he and his staff will help farmers cooperating in the Soil Bank Conservation Reserve on:

1. Selection of lands most suitable to be placed in the Conservation Reserve, or

2. Perform steps necessary to determine that practices are needed and are installed in a proper manner. These steps include:

a. Determine that practice is needed and practical.
b. Site selection or layout of practices.
c. Supervision of installation.
d. Certification of practice performance.

Information on cost-sharing, annual payments, and contracts is available at the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office. The final date for sign-up is April 15.

Work Unit Conservationist Moss points out that tree planting, water conservation, and other conservation practices can also be carried out under the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Stop at your ASC or Soil Conservation Service Office for more information.

BOYS 4-H LEADERS TO ATTEND CAMPING WORKSHOP

Three of the boys 4-H club leaders, according to Ed Bruns, will be attending a camping workshop at the State 4-H Camping Center near Boone on April 30 and May 1. Those attending are Harold Kahlstorf, leader of Britt Broncos; Don Burk, leader of Avery Twin Lake Hustlers; and Maurice Murray, leader of Ell Midgets.

These leaders will meet with others from all over Iowa to get training in such topics as evening programs, party program, crafts, enjoying nature and others. They will bring some of the things they learn back to their local clubs and to the county.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Corn

Heavy sales of Commodity Credit Corporation corn have pushed corn prices down this winter, reports Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Last year, corn prices were on the climb during winter and early spring.

The quality of the 1956 corn crop was the best in several years. During the months of December, 1956, through February, 1957, 61 percent of the corn at the major markets graded number 2 or better. Last year, only 34 percent graded that high. The 5-year average is 29 percent of number 2 quality or better.

Kutish says most of the CCC-sold corn has graded number 2 or better, and this is corn from the 1955 crop or older. But even after this is taken into account, the 1956 corn crop has generally been good, and low in moisture. Corn prices during the next few months will depend on the CCC's selling policy.

Soybeans

Kutish believes the bean market for the rest of 1957 will be dominated by our record soybean supplies. A great demand for oil to export helped boost soybean crushings and exports during the October through February period up about 18-million bushels over this period in 1955-56. But last year's mammoth crop left total stocks 30 percent larger on March 1, 1957, than on March 1, 1956. Soybean processors, however, found themselves with only 56-million bushels on March 1. Last year they had 71-million.

Kutish thinks farmers will have to use about half the 57-million bushels of beans now under loan to take care of the bean use expected between now and harvest time. The other half will be carried over into 1958. The big question is whether the soybean price will be good enough to bring out the beans under loan before the May 31st deadline. If it isn't, these beans will go to the government and be disposed of by the CCC.

Kutish says that if farmers hold their beans, they might be able to force the price up a little bit. But this hike would be only temporary, he says. Any great movement of soybeans would send the price skidding down again. About the only possibility of a lasting price increase would be another international crisis, or poor crop prospects.

Soybean meal has carried a wholesale price about $5 a ton lower than last year for quite a while. And the usual spring price rise probably won't occur because of large bean supplies, Kutish observes.

LOCAL 4-H CLUB RECEIVES CHARTER

The Twin Lake Indians 4-H Club received its official charter April 8 at the home of Roger and Daryl Hansen. Also, each member received his '57 identification cards. Roger Hansen gave a talk on "Innoculation of Legume Seeds" and Elton Thompson led a discussion topic on "Brucellosis in Humans and Animals," stating that a person with brucellosis will feel well in the morning, but will have to return home before the days work is through. The next meeting will be at the home of David Kudej, May 13. Reporter, David Eliason.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Spring must really be with us! Motorcycles cough merrily and loudly up and down the street . . . top-down convertibles are becoming commonplace . . . some hardy water skiers are trying their skill . . . b-r-r-r-r . . . golf courses are getting in good shape and are covered with par busters . . . ha . . . some tall fishing stories are being heard . . . gardens and lawns are showing the effects of some hard work . . . girls in shorts are everywhere . . . oat fields are getting green and beginning to cover the broken stalks that remain from last year's corn crop . . . Dutchmen's Britches and Blood Root are blooming in the woods . . . rooster pheasants in the fields look and act as though they owned the world . . . and noises shut out of the house by winter's storm windows come in through the windows now opened to the spring air, and make the world sound more alive. We like it.

That nice shower that came our way last Thursday night and Friday morning was more than welcome. The half inch rain that fell did a good job of starting lawns and pastures and bringing the oat crop along, but we are hoping for more rain . . . and soon.

Of course, in the southwest part of our country, not so long ago a drouth disaster area and now a flood disaster area, they would like very much to see an end to the rain for a spell. One Klemme couple, Mr and Mrs Henry Ludeke, just returned from Fort Worth, Texas, where they had been to visit their son, Paul, and family. They cut their visit short because of the heavy rains and flooding in the area.

The Ludekes report that there were several four-inch rains in the brief time they were in Texas, and that there was no field work done in the part of Oklahoma through which they traveled on the way home because of the excessive moisture. They ran into no floods that gave them any trouble while making the trip, but after seeing so much rain and so many streams out of their banks, felt they were fortunate.

We wouldn't want the southwest to get as dry as it has been for the past several years, but we would gladly take a little of their extra rain for our part of the country. We haven't been exactly drowned out around here the past couple of years.

We are writing this on Tuesday evening, and hearing the kids playing in the park reminds us that we can think of no single thing in the community that gives more pleasure to the youngsters than does that cement playing floor the Lions Club put in the park. Someone is making use of it nearly all the time.

Plans are going ahead toward furthering the usefulness of our park. Next Tuesday evening, the old band stand is to be torn down, and a Commercial Club committee is working toward the erection of a new shelter house in its place. They have the okay of the town council on the project . . . if certain specifications are met. We hope their plans can be completed.

To Be Married

Announcement is made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Donna Mae Dunahoo, daughter of Mr and Mrs Don Dunahoo of Mason City, and Don Reed Jensen, son of Mr and Mrs Cecil Jensen of Mason City. Miss Dunahoo is presently teaching first grade in the local school and her fiance is a student at North Dakota Agricultural College in Fargo, North Dakota. The wedding is set for June 30th.

Mr and Mrs Eugene Bachman

Janice Swanson Bride Of Eugene Bachman

At a 7:30 p.m. candlelight service in the Klemme Methodist Church, on April 14, Janice Swanson, daughter of Mrs Irene Swanson, and Eugene Bachman, son of Mrs Tillie Bachman, were united in marriage. The Rev. Melvin Miller, pastor of the church, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The wedding vows were exchanged before a candlelit altar decorated with baskets of calla-lilies and palms.

Mrs Claire Tompkins of Garner, cousin of the bride, attired in a blue, waltz-length gown of nylon lace, served as matron of honor. Mrs Tompkins' colonial bouquet was of white carnations surrounding a cluster of blue carnations of the same shade as her gown.

Miss JoAnn Bacon provided nuptial music and Mrs Claire Tompkins sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride wore a formal-length gown fashioned with long, pointed cuffed sleeves and a hooped skirt of nylon ruffles with an overskirt of nylon lace and tulle. Her tulle veil was of fingertip length and held in place with a crown hat embroidered with seed pearls. The bride carried a white Bible with a single white orchid tied with white satin streamers. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

The groom, wearing the conventional navy blue suit, was attended by his brother, Martin, of Garner. Raymond Bachman of Jessup and Alvin Bachman of Britt, served their brother as ushers and candlelighters.

A reception was held in the church basement following the ceremony. The wedding table was centered with a square three-tiered white wedding cake baked and decorated by Mrs D P Anderson.

Mrs Bachman is employed at the First National Bank in Klemme and the bridegroom is engaged in farming. After a short wedding trip the couple resides at the farm of Mr Bachman's mother, southeast of town.

Sharleen Swanson Is KHS Band Queen

(Snitched from The Shamrock)

Each year, the members of the Klemme High School Band select a queen candidate to represent our school at the North Iowa Band Festival, in June. This year our representative is Sharleen Swanson. We all think that she has a good chance of becoming the next "Miss North Iowa."

School Contract to Be Let On June 18th

According to word recently received from the Karl Keffer Associates, Architects, Des Moines, Iowa, the contract for the school addition will be let on June 19. Finishing touches are now being put on the blueprints and they will be distributed to contractors in the near future. The addition will be let in three separate contracts.

They are the general contract, plumbing and heating and the electrical.

The repair work will also be a separate contract and will be let the same day, subject to the approval of the voters.

The architects point out that the letting date is still tentative but has been cleared with the Master Builders Association.

Answer Fire Call at Erwin Nuehring Home

The local fire department was called to the Erwin Nuehring home this morning (Wednesday) to extinguish a blaze which had started in the kitchen of the Nuehring home.

They were able to easily control the blaze, and although considerable smoke and water damage resulted, it could have been much worse.

Quick thinking on the part of Mrs Nuehring probably helped control the fire. As soon as she discovered it she closed all the doors and windows, shutting air away from the flames.

Mr and Mrs Dale Brede were in Des Moines, Sunday, to see their new granddaughter, Joyce Ann McClure. She was born on Friday, April 26th, at the Methodist Hospital in Des Moines, and weighed eight pounds. She has a brother, Ricky. Three Injured at Goodell As Car Jumps Curb

Three men were injured, one seriously, and about $1,500 worth of damage was done to the front of the Goodell Hardware last Wednesday afternoon when a car driven by Mrs E J Schneider jumped the curb and plowed into the front of the building.

Most seriously injured was J J Cook, brother of Klemme Mayor, V A Cook. Both his ankles were broken when he was pinned between the car and the building. He is a patient in the Belmond Community Hospital.

The other two Goodell men injured were Warner Butts and Levi Klotzbach. Mr Butts received a couple of fractured ribs and Mr Klotzbach leg bruises. Both have been released from the hospital. Mr Klotzbach is a former resident of Klemme.

The accident happened when Mrs Schneider got into her car to back away from the curb. Apparently the car's gears were in low rather than reverse, and when she stepped on the accelerator it jumped the curb, and caused all the damage.

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

This final week has been a hectic week. The House over-rode the Governor's veto on two bills, rewrote the Senate Tax Bill to raise revenue and returned it to the Senate.

The House voted to drop the ½ cent sales tax on December 31, 1957, to take 10% of the sales tax money now going into the Road Use Fund (about 6 million per year) and return it to the general fund and to leave the income tax the same. This would raise sufficient monies.

For your information, for the year ending June 30, 1955, Hancock County, with 1914 retail sales tax permits, paid the State of Iowa $250,517.62, or about $100,000.00 per 1 cent sales tax, or $50,000.00 per ½ cent of sales tax. Some argue that we will lose road money under the House version, we will, but consider that we can save $50,000.00 a year on a drop of the ½ cent sales tax in Hancock County, and the bother of the ½ cent sales tax against possibly $22,500.00. Hancock County can well afford this tax measure since it will save taxpayers some $27,500.00 after subtracting the loss of $22,500.00 savings on the ½ cent sales tax.

By the time you read this, the daily newspaper will have advised you how the tax money was raised. Again let me briefly state where this state money will go:

Homestead Credits	26	Million
Agriculture Land tax Credit	10½	Million
School Districts Aids	22½	Million
Educational Institutions	32	Million
Board of Control (Institutions)	17	Million
Social Welfare for ADC, Old Age, Etc	19	Million

And others to make a total of about 151 Millions of Dollars

Passed also in the House was the Civil Service bill to establish a Civil Service System for the employees of the State of Iowa.

After I have time to summarize the actions of the legislature, will report what I believe the accomplishments are. Many good laws have been adopted.

Seniors Enjoy Skip Day In Minneapolis

About 12:00 Thursday noon, WCCO radio station greeted the seniors and allowed them to observe the fun of broadcasting. Cake mixes and Saren Wrap were given to several of the girls for souvenirs. We were also given candy to eat since it was time for dinner and we hadn't eaten. Several very serious questions were asked before the show, one of them being, "Is there anyone here who is looking for a man?" Arthur Carlson quietly answered the question by pointing to Sharleen Swanson. During the show, Sharleen was presented with an orchid corsage and a jar of jam.

After leaving WCCO, we went to the bus station and from there, to eat. Now we were on our own until 8:00 when we were to meet and go to Cinerama. The afternoon was spent doing various things. Earrings with feathers were quite an attraction for several of the girls. The fellows amused themselves by riding up and down the escalators.

We started home a little after 11:00. We were determined that we were all going to stay awake all the way home. But our efforts were in vain. We reached Klemme about 3:00 Friday morning, tired but happy. Twenty-four sleepy seniors stumbled out of our Jefferson bus, said good-by to our driver, and went home with our souvenirs.

MORE TYPING STUDENTS EARN RECOGNITION

As an addition to last weeks report on typing students, recognition of some of the students in the typing class taught by Mr Whitney should be given.

Special recognition should be given to Harlan Block, Gordon Johnson, and Larry Ulrich, each of which have qualified for the 40 words a minute pin. Larry has a record of 42 words a minute for 10 minutes with no errors. Harlan qualified with 40 words a minute and 10 errors, and has typed 49 words a minute with 3 errors since. Gordon qualified with 40 words a minute and 2 errors, and has since typed 46 words a minute with 6 errors.

They are hoping that one or more of them will be able to hit the 50 word a minute barrier before the end of the year.

Mystery Student

Our mystery person last week was none other than Joyce Lassahn.

This week we are describing a sweet blond wearing glasses. She stands about five feet four inches tall and has blue eyes. Our mystery gal is a member of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and an active member of choir. She plays in the Klemme High School band in position of first chair. This person is a beautiful singer and sings in Mixed Chorus and Sextette. Being a good 4-H member is one of her many achievements. Can you guess who she is? Read this article next week and find out!

Klemme Girls are Queen Attendants at Jr-Sr Prom

Daryl Kingsburry of Crystal Lake and Rolene Mews of Kanawha were the king and queen of this year's Hancock County Jr-Sr Prom. Out of the six girls which were picked for queen candidates, two were from Klemme, namely Sharleen Swanson and Winola Zwald. We all thought, of course, that they were the prettiest too, but I guess that we are a little prejudiced. Congratulations, girls.

Question of the Week

What do you think Mr Neary should do with his owl?

Marvalyn C—I think he should turn it loose.

Fonda B—I think we should study it or he should turn it loose.

Elmer H—I think Miss Whitmire ought to pick and roast it for the teachers little lunch hour.

Mrs Oberg—Keep it. Maybe its influence will be an aid to the students in learning.

Keith N—Take it with him at night to keep him awake.

Mr Neary—I don't know—let him loose or listen to him hoot.

Beverly C—Take it to summer school with him.

Sharleen S—Keep it and take it with him when he goes abroad to school.

Ford Plant Is Highlight Of Senior Skip Day

Upon our arrival at Minneapolis, the first stop we made was at the Ford Plant. The building housing the Ford Plant must be at least 300 feet long and over half that wide. There is terracing in front of the building to the west, and to the north of the building is a large parking lot for the employees.

The first part that we walked through was the office section which had many rooms with one or two men in a room and occassionally a pretty secretary. The hall with the offices led into a big room where we registered and waited for our guide to show us through the plant. While we were waiting, the seniors of Sheffield High School joined the touring group.

We saw the cars as they were being checked after the assembling, first. We then went to where the seats were made. What fascinated us was the long line of different colored seats being conveyed to the right car at the right moment.

Then we saw the glass furnace and glass cutting machine and found how the glass is made. Next, we saw the bodies welded together and painted. After this, we started at the very beginning of the main assembly line and watched the employees assemble the car from scratch.

First the frame is placed on a slow moving conveyor. As the conveyor moves along, the brake system and brake drums art attached. The conveyor continues moving, various parts are attac-h ed such as the steering column, motor, transmission, drive shaft and others. This continues until the chassis is complete, after which the body and fenders are installed.

After the car is complete, it is greased, gassed, oiled, and given a thorough check up. When the Ford has been checked over carefully, it is then given a test run, it is then shipped to a garage and is ready to be sold to the public.

THE TEXAN WAY

A BRAND is not a brand of coffee or of cigarettes, nor does it mean a brand new hat. In Texas it is the heraldry of the range and ranch . . . the owner's insignia burnt upon his bovine's behind.

A SECTION in Texas is not a section of an orange, of the town, or a railroad track. A section is a square mile of land. It is what ranches and oil leases are made of.

To people in many sections of the country, SPUD is just another name for potato. But the meaning in Texas oil language is to spud in an oil well.

When a Texas cattleman hears BULLDOG, his mental impression is not canine. He thinks of the cowboy sport of grabbing a steer by the horns and rasslin him to the ground.

Cold weather CHAPS the lips of some of us or "chaps" are fellows. But in Texas they are strong leather breeches with the seat cut out, and they protect a rider's legs from unfriendly chaparral. Few Texans know that "chaps" is just a short way of saying the Mexican word, "chaparejos."

BORDER is a proper noun to many Texans, and it does not refer to the garden. Naturally, it is the Texas-Mexico Border. The Rio Grande country. The northern border of the U S is referred to as the U S—Canadian border, but in the south it is the Texas—Mexico border. Oh, well.

THAT KISS

This is what happens when you kiss a pretty girl: The pituitary gland begins secreting like crazy, the adrenal glands are stimulated, the blood pressure rises, some white blood cells break down, the pulse quickens, the breath comes faster and heart action speeds up. However, if there is no pretty girl near by, the same reactions can be had from running around the block.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Retired and prosperous, he was, probably, the town's most respected man. People came to him for advice. They knew he never made hasty or uninformed judgments.

It came as quite a shock to the town when this man of good judgment went out along an Iowa highway, jumped a four-strand barbed wire fence and died in a plowed field.

He had left the small town one spring morning on a trip to the eastern part of the state. About 100 miles from his home he entered a highway that was unfamiliar to him.

But it was fine weather. The day was clear and traffic light. He let his speed creep up.

It is believed he was traveling more than 75 miles an hour when he topped a small, rolling hill and dropped immediately into a short, sharp curve. Apparently he missed the warning sign.

Centrifugal force slammed against his car like a giant hand. It threw the car straight out of the curve and head-on into an inclined embankment. The car climbed the bank and hurtled into the air.

That's when the man of "good judgment" jumped the four-strand barbed wire fence at the top of the bank. That's when he died in the plowed field.

He is well remembered in his town for he was a generous man. And particularly do people remember his favorite phrase whenever anyone came to him for advice: "Let's talk this over until we can see the road ahead," he would say, "then we will know how fast to go."

FARM PAGE

Harold Abele has been suffering from a slipped disc in his back, and has been in bed most of the time for the past couple of weeks. As a result, he has fallen behind in his spring work, so Saturday a group of neighbors came to the Abele farm with all the necessary equipment and cleaned his barns and feedlots.

The ladies who helped Mrs Abele cook for the men were Mrs Franklyn Buseman, Mrs Francis Ames, and Mrs Allen Lau.

ASC Men Learn Facts On Checking Acreage Allotment Compliance

Township ASC Committeemen attended an instruction meeting at the REA building in Garner on Monday, April 29th. This was a preparatory meeting in regard to checking compliance on farms where farmers plan to participate in the corn acreage allotment program.

There will be some change in the determination of planted corn acreages this year as compared to previous years.

In previous years, corn acreage allotments were set in whole acres with no fractions. This year, the allotments were sent out including fractions, or tenths, and compliance will be determined on the same basis. That is, when the planted corn acres are measured and the acreages computed, the tenths will not be dropped, and so farmers planning to plant within their corn acreage allotments should keep in mind that there will be no tolerance for fractional acres this year.

For example, if the corn acreage allotment on a farm was 40.1 acres, and when compliance was checked, the planted acreage was found to be 40.2 acres, the farmer would have to take out the one-tenth acre excess acreage in order to be in compliance and eligible for price support on corn.

Plant Sorghum the Last Week in May

Wait Until Soil Warms To Around 65 Degrees

(Ed's note: This is the first of a news story sequence on sorgum. The next story will report on planting procedure and will appear in May.)

Sorgum is a warm-weather crop, Agronomist Ed Dyas of Iowa State College, reminds growers.

"Planting should be held up until the soil temperature is around 65 degrees," says Dyas. "That will probably be about the last week in May, based on a normal temperature rise."

Planted in cool weather, sorgum starts slowly. Cool-weather weeds get the jump on the crop, and weed control is difficult.

List Varieties

Prospective grain sorgum growers who haven't purchased seed will find the following standard varieties perform best in areas indicated, Dyas says. In the southern half of Iowa, Redbine 66 gives the best performance. In the north-central counties, Martin, Redbine 60 or Midland are possible choices (listed in order of yield). Reliance and Norghum are suggestions for extreme northern Iowa.

Hybrid varieties that were tested by Iowa State College last year include Texas 620, R S 610, R S 650 and R S 590. Dyas says their area of best adaptation is southern to north-central Iowa.

Northern Variety

These are all experiment station hybrids. Dyas adds that there are good commercial hybrids available, too.

He recommends putting at least half of sorgum acreage into a standard variety. The remaining land intended for sorgum might be split between two promising hybrids.

Be sure grain sorgum seed is reasonably pure. Dyas advises. If possible, find if it was raised in plots isolated from other varieties, as certified seed is.

NO TAIL

A calf born last fall on the Herbert Bauer farm north of Dysart is normal in all particulars except that it has no tail. It's thriving, in spite of the fact that it is a very rare calf who must go through life with nothing to swish with.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Cattle

There is a danger that cattle feeders will overload the summer and early fall markets, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Kutish says that, according to the April 1 report of cattle on feed, feeders have had their cattle on feed a relatively longer time this year than last June. This indicates they plan to hit an earlier market, with the rush likely to begin in June. On top of this, there is a good chance of heavier grass-fed range cattle being added to the market run this fall if moisture conditions continue good in the West.

The reason for the planned marketings intentions is probably that cattlemen remember last year's good late-summer market and are trying to hit it, or maybe figure on beating the crowd by hitting the early summer market. Kutish thinks it would be a good idea for some feeders to market more freely in April and May. He urges farmers not to gamble by dumping all their cattle on one market. Top out the feed lot regularly during the next 45 days, he advises.

The cattle market has been better during April than during February. This was partly because the February kill was up sharply from last year. We have been marketing fewer fed steers than a year ago, but when we add this to the larger heifer slaughter the total kill was not down as much as might be supposed from the drop in steer slaughter alone.

Eggs

Chick hatch for laying flock replacement during March dropped 23 percent from 1956 and was the smallest since 1948. For the first 3 months of 1957, the hatch was 25 percent below a year ago. On April 1, hatcheries were incubating 18 percent fewer eggs for flock replacement.

Kutish points out that this cutback will insure Iowa poultrymen of good egg prices next winter. Meanwhile, the turkey hatch continues at a record pace. But the rate of increase over a year ago has slowed. March turkey poult hatch was up 3 percent from a year ago, with the total hatch for the first 3 months of this year up 12 percent.

The heavy breed poultry hatch was 13 percent greater than a year ago; light breed hatch up 6 percent. There is one hopeful sign, though, says Kutish; there were fewer turkey eggs incubating on April 1 than a year ago.

Marauding dogs killed five sheep and mauled a half-dozen more, on the Fred Darrah farm near Emmetsburg recently.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

We wonder what thoughts went through the mind of the driver of the car that went through the barricade at the new culvert in front of Harold Abele's farm on Highway 69 south of town last Thursday night . . . and even more . . . we wonder what he was thinking of when he apparently ignored all the warning and caution signs, flares and signal lights that herald the approach to the danger spot.

We stopped there Friday morning to take a picture of the car where it rested after the accident and in looking at the skid marks the car left, it appeared that the brakes weren't touched until the last instant. The car probably slid 30 or 40 feet before it crashed through the barricade and down onto the newly poured cement in the ditch below.

We asked one of the workmen from the crew building the culvert what he thought it would take to keep people from getting themselves into such predicaments. His reply was to the effect that he didn't think it was possible, and that he was surprised that there weren't more drivers who wound up with their cars in similar spots.

He said, "Man, they nearly kill us out here every day. I've saan cars go through here 65 miles an hour . . . and some of them pay no attention to the lights. They just go!"

With one-lane traffic at the construction site, and with all the signs and signals that warn approaching vehicles at least a quarter of a mile in advance, we would say that anyone who is still doing 65 when they go through is really asking for it.

Speaking of cars on the loose, Mrs Roy Schaefer had an experience with her car last Friday evening. She stopped to visit with Mrs Elizabeth Beier and left the car parked in front of the house. After about half an hour, she came out and her car was gone.

She thought that someone was playing a joke on her and that they would bring the car back soon. However, it didn't show up with any degree of punctuality. Gordon Lassahn passed by and was asked if he had seen the missing machine. He replied that he had and that it was down in front of Benn Coobs' house.

Evidently the car was well trained to stay in the road, for it made the block-long trip unattended, passed a couple of cars parked along the street, and came to a halt with no damage.

Apparently when Mrs Schaefer parked the car, she didn't leave it in gear . . . and away it went.

Members of the Klemme Commercial Club began the task of tearing down the old band stand in the park, Tuesday evening, and although they made a big dent in the job, there is still work to be done in getting the debris cleaned away.

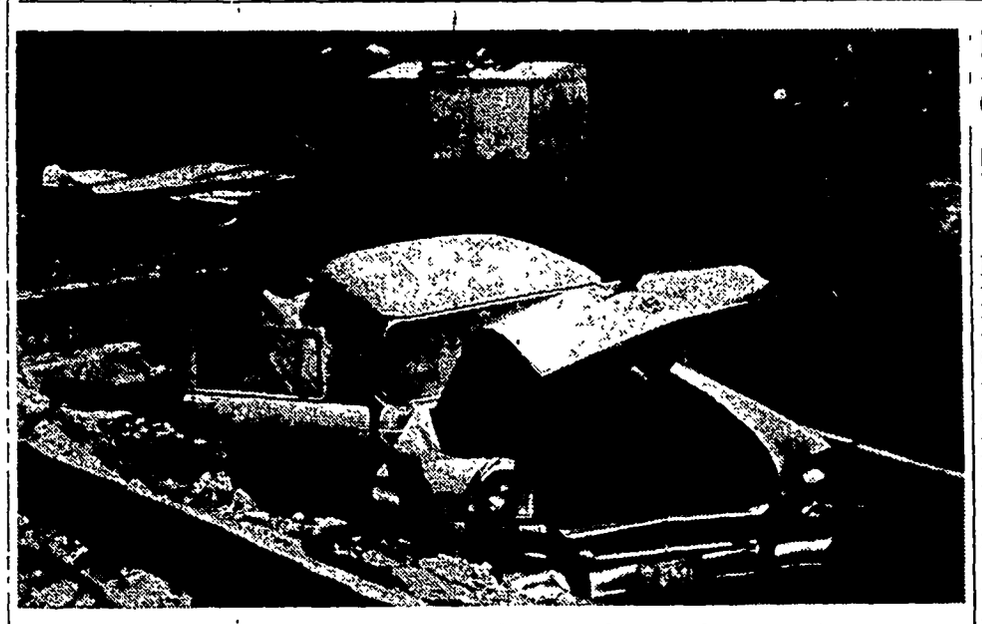
Just having the old structure down will be a big improvement to the appearance of the park, and if their plans to build a new shelter house go through, the park will look even better, and will be much more useful to picnicing groups, etc.



The car pictured above is resting on the newly poured concrete at the site of the new culvert on Highway 69 south of town. It crashed through the barricade last Thursday evening and the two occupants luckily escaped with only cuts and bruises. The Times did not learn the identity of the two men in the car, but the vehicle bore Minnesota license plates

The huge crane shown in the background came in handy when it was time to remove the car from its resting place. Cables were put around each end of the vehicle, the boom on the crane was swung into position, and presto, the car was picked up and deposited where it could be towed away by a wrecker.

Fire Destroys Barn On Ver Helst Farm

Klemme, Goodell and Belmond fire departments answered a call to the Mel Ver Helst farm southeast of town, Tuesday afternoon. However, quick as they were to get on the scene, they were too late to save the barn on the farm.

The high wind Tuesday broke an electric wire between the granary and the barn, and fire broke out in the barn immediately. The blaze started at the south end of the structure and with the strong southwest wind, it was only a matter of minutes til it was destroyed.

Although firemen could do nothing about saving the barn, they did bring under control a number of fires in the woods north of the buildings. Sparks and big pieces of burning material were carried for a half mile by the wind, starting blazes in the Bielefedt woods and in the woods on the Sherwood pasture.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

This Session

The 1957 legislative session, just concluding, may not be tops in all things as compared with those of former years but it appears to be tops in the "fireworks" category.

It has launched the 1958 political campaign off to a running start and both sides will draw from its record freely for political ammunition.

The Republicans will be accusing the Democrats of stubborness, of failure to compromise on legislative measures, particularly a revenue bill.

The Democrats, on the other hand, will be accusing the GOP of stubborness, of failure to cooperate with the Democratic governor, and of failure to respond to the will of the people especially in tax matters.

At this moment the Republicans are more worried about the coming state election than are the Democrats.

There was a definite split in Republican legislative ranks during the session. It got to the point where one Republican senator said that two others "are the engineer and the conductor of the Republican Victory Express that will be wrecked in 1958."

Hot Words

In the final days of the session some of the hottest words came out in the senate debate. It was on a measure that would reimburse utility companies, through state and federal road funds, of expenses they would incur in moving utility lines for major highway construction.

The measure had silently slipped through the house, 102-0, last February 28. In the senate, veteran lawmakers said it was lobbied stronger and by more people than any other bill in the session.

State Sen J Kendall Lynes calls the bill "the greatest steal in the 18 years I've served in the senate."

State Sen Raymond Gillespie referred to it as the "most collossal steal of public funds in this century" if it becomes law.

Long Sessions

Think this was a long legislative session? Well, just two years ago it ran for 114 days.

In 1923, a special session on code revision, ran from April 18, 1923 to July 23, 1924.

Change OMVI Law

The Iowa house and senate has voted changes in the state law involving third offense cases for drunk driving.

Under present law a third offense for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated imposes a mandatory three year prison sentence.

The new law, as passed by the legislature, gives judges more discretion in sentencing in third offense cases. The new law would give a judge authority to impose a sentence ranging from one to five years in such cases. It goes into effect July 4th.

Governor Changes Mind

Governor Herschel Loveless early in the session said he felt strongly that a state chief executive had the duty to sign into law or veto every measure sent to him by the legislature.

One sets up a revolving fund of $300,000 to provide two license plates every year for motor vehicles, the other appropriates money from state conservation commission funds to pay drainage assessment claims on state owned lands in five counties.

In the first instance the governor said the bill didn't say if the money should come from the general fund or motor vehicle fees, and in the second instance he said the conservation measure doesn't require the comptroller to issue warrants.

Republican Team

Latest political report from the legislature: The Republican state ticket in next year's election will be headed by W H Nicholas, for governor, and W H Mooty for lieutenant-governor.

Nicholas, now lieutenant-governor, will seek the top spot against Governor Loveless. Mooty, now speaker of the Iowa house, will seek the post now held by Nicholas.

Strengthen Fire Job

The Iowa legislature has passed and the governor has signed into law a plan that gives more authority to the state fire marshall. The new measure as senators pointed out, "puts more teeth" into the code requiring the fire marshall to enforce fire regulations for public buildings.

The bill, among other things, would:

Require two fire escape outlets from the upper stories of all hotels and other public buildings, including schools; provide a formula whereby the fire marshall may require additional fire escapes for public buildings housing a great many persons; also set up new regulations for the storage of explosives.

Speed Limit

The Iowa highway patrol is seeking clarification of the new 60 mile speed limit which will be in effect each night after July 4.

The law, passed by this legislature, sets a maximum speed limit of 60 miles an hour from sunset to sunrise.

Officers say seasonal variations in the hours of light, may cause some legal difficulty in determining just when it is dark and light. Some are asking the attorney general's office for a ruling to give law enforcement officals a more exact time during which the law will apply.

Kids Need Care

While the birth rate increases, the number of children's physicians is in short supply.

The national shortage of pediatricians is two or three times below the present demand, Dr Lee Forest Hill of Des Moines, prominent pediatrician, reports:

He said that until the demand has been met, properly qualified pediatric hospitals should continue educational as well as service programs.

Plenty of Pictures In New Annuals

If you are strolling around in the halls of good old KHS, be careful that someone doesn't knock you down as he runs up to you and asks you, "Bill, will you autograph my annual for me?"

Yes, this is the time of the year that all the underclassmen are tracking down the seniors to get them to write a little ditty in their annuals. We don't really mind. We don't want them to forget us and the fun (?) they had with us.

This year's annuals come in a handsome green cover and some of us have our names printed on them in gold lettering. A new idea for Klemme's annuals is to have material on both sides of the paper in order to crowd in more memories. Pictures abound in this year's SHAMROCK. You'll see pictures of the teachers in their native habitat. Mr Neary is there with his familiar meter stick; Mr Westberg is explaining the game of tennis to one of his P T classes; Mr Johnson is going over some shorthand with the girls; Mr Butler is explaining an algebra problem as long as your arm; and all the other members of the faculty are there also.

The SHAMROCK for 1957 is dedicated to George Lawhorn. George was very surprised when he saw the first copy of the annual with his picture on the dedication page. We are sure that we dedicated this year's annual to a very fine person. As it says in the dedication: "Like an unobserved brownie, George comes, accomplishes, and departs—leaving behind him polished floors, shining windows, shoveled walks and heated rooms. In addition to material things, he helps make the day rosy by his friendly gestures. With pride, George Lawhorn, we dedicate THE SHAMROCK to you."

Mystery Student

Last week's mystery person was Joyce Thiemann.

This week's mystery personalty is! No I can't tell yon right now. You'll be kept guessing until next week.

She has brown eyes and isn't too tall. Girls glee club, mixed chorus, cheerleading and twirling are some of her school activities. This person is also a member of the Student Council.

Recently she joined the Methodist Church, sings in the choir, and is an officer in GSCS.

George Lawhorn Has Been School Custodian For Fourteen Years

As we walk into Klemme Community High School we see a handsome middle-age man. He is dressed in a gray uniform with keys hanging from his belt. We know at once it is our faithful janitor, Louis "George" Lawhorn.

George was born on December 10, 1895 in Lena, Illinois. He attended Ell No 5 from first grade through eighth. After he completed his formal education, he started farming and quit when he entered the U S Army during the First World War. After the war he changed his profession to painting and he stayed at this for nearly thirty years.

In 1934, George was married to Viola Freie. On April 16, 1943 George started working as janitor of the Klemme Public School.

George's future plans are to retire and move to California.

Senior English Class Ends With Book Report

Speeches, book reports and interpretative reading; Oh, what a mess!

This past week the senior English class has been spending its time listening to interpretative readings given by members of the class. A very common source for the readings was the Holy Bible. There also were humorous readings given.

Our next assignment was a three minute speech to inform the listeners. When they are completed we are to prepare a speech for five minutes. Our biggest problem is choosing a topic and presenting it to the class.

Mrs Oberg has to make our last week of school miserable by assigning book reports. After these are completed our high school English problems will be over.

So long, folks: Winnie & Juda

TREE

When the wind blew down a large limb from a tree on the Waldo Widemann farm, near Stratford, the head of a rake was found firmly embedded in the limb. Apparently the rake had been hung in the tree many years ago and the branch grew around it, completely burying the tines.

THANK YOU

A nice note from Princess Grace of Monaco was received by Mrs Earl Beardmore of Waukon, in appreciation of a pair of knitted nylon booties which were sent for the new royal baby.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

It could be said that Jim never graduated from high school. Oh, he has a diploma and it's been four years now since he walked into a school room. But his mind never really left those few days in a spring four years ago when his senior class moved out into the world.

For most of the boys and girls of that class probably the memories of the final school days are a little blurred already. The names scrawled in the yearbook begin to look like signatures from a distant place.

But it all, remains vivid for Jim. The senior class banquet and dance still have movement and music and voices for him. He was chairman of a committee. He made a short speech. He wore a new suit. He drove the family car.

Then the class had its picnic. And here the mood was more quiet for a time, almost sad, with the boys and girls beginning to feel a nostalgia for school days not quite yet ended.

But the mood picked up strongly later in the evening. It was the sense of adulthood with a mixture of defiance for the world they really didn't know but would soon meet.

The mood scattered the class from the picnic place. They all left in cars, roaring away bravely. Jim was driving the family car again. He "graduated" that night. He drove the car off a country road in a burst of speed.

That's why all the memories of those last days of school remain so vivid for him. There isn't much else to remember from a wheelchair.

KILLED

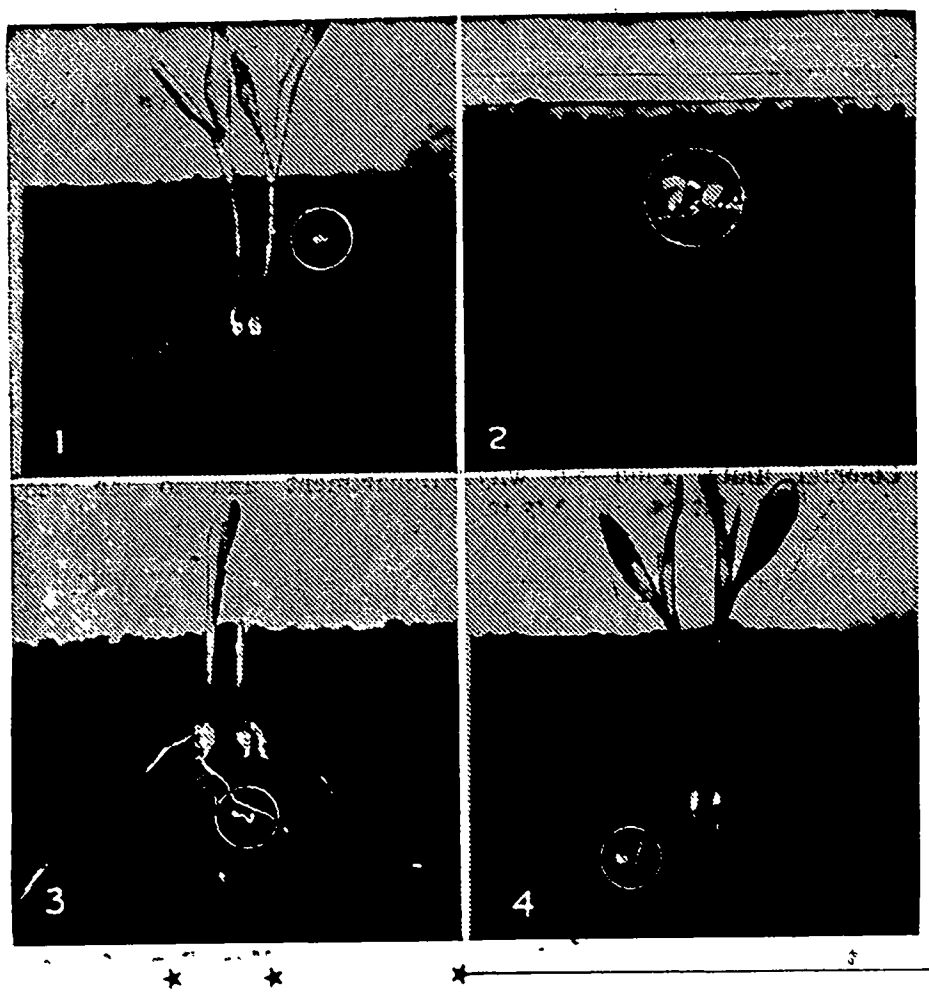
New Method of Fertilizer Placement More Efficient



A new method of fertilizer placement will make it possible to use starter fertilizer more efficiently, says Paul Henderson, Hancock County Extension Director.

The placement is illustrated in picture 4. Fertilizer is placed to the side and below the corn seed. Possible damage to seedlings due to direct contact with fertilizer is avoided.

Henderson says that E R Duncan, Iowa State College agronomist, indicates that planter attachments that will make this placement of fertilizer are now available.

Duncan adds that research in several midwestern states has shown the new-type equipment definitely superior to older-type fertilizer attachments. New attachments allow a heavier rate of starter fetilizer to be used safely, he says. This may save the necessity of a light broadcast application in addition to fertilizer applied in the row.

The agronomist outlines drawbacks of other placements of starter fertilizer, also illustrated.

Picture 1 shows the placement of fertilizer with a "split-boot" applicator, common on corn planters. Fertilizer is above the corn and to the side. It's not as effective in promoting early growth, if rainfall is low in May. Roots grow down, not up.

Fast planting speeds and rough seedbeds often put the fertilizer with the seed, as in picture 2. Stands may be reduced, and fertilizer will be used inefficiently. Yields may be cut.

In picture 3, the fertilizer is directly below the seed, a placement made with certain new-type applicators. The first roots of the corn may grow through the fertilizer. This can delay emergence and possibly reduce yields.

Picture 4, as indicated, shows the best placement of fertilizer for corn when it's put in the row at planting time.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Milk production is running slightly ahead of last year as the seasonal production peak approaches, reports Steve Hiemstra, Iowa State College farm economist. He points out that the peak actually comes in May most years, instead of in June as is commonly assumed.

Ration costs averaging 5 percent less than last year have encouraged dairymen to feed record amounts of concentrates, says Hiemstra.

Pastures looked better on April 1st than they have since 1953. Good rains since April 1st have given pastures a fine start this spring. This means milk production per cow will continue to climb.

Cow numbers are down 1 percent from 1956, but milk production is expected to exceed last year by 2 billion pounds. This is an increase of about two percent.

The consumption of milk has been increasing since early 1954, when support prices were lowered, Hiemstra observes.

Converting all dairy products to their equivalent in milk, we see that Americans used 699 pounds of dairy products per person in 1956. This is one pound more than in 1955 and 17 pounds more than in 1953, Hiemstra points out.

The ratios between feed costs and product prices continue to favor fluid milk production. The 1956 milk-feed ratio was 1.36, and the 20 year average is 1.27. Last year's butterfat-feed ratio was 21 as compared with the 20-year average of 23.5.

Hiemstra predicts that dairy product prices will continue near last year's prices for the rest of 1957. Support levels are unchanged, so with increasing production, prices shouldn't be much, if any above support levels, he concludes.

104TH

Mrs Tonnette Halverson, Sioux Rapids, observed her 104th birthday anniversary recently. She has lived on the same farm for the past 66 years.

ELL MIDGETS MET

The Ell Midgets met at the Ell Center School, April 29. Roll call was answered by handing in project reports.

For old business, a committee was selected to talk to junk dealers about selling iron in this community. Those who are on the committee are Larry Hoffman, Vernon Greiman and Donald Anderson.

For new business, the members elected Donald Anderson and Lowell Greiman for camp delegates. Ronnie Kubly was elected for Boy's Short Course and Larry Hoffman is alternate. Jimmy Schubert moved the meeting be adjourned.

Demonstrations were given by Jimmy and Ronald Schubert on "How to Innoculate Legumes"; Karen and Darlene Brekke on "Splicing an Electric Cord". Talks were given by Ronnie Kubly on "Brucellosis Control", and Gary Kubly on "Human Brucellosis". Jimmy and Ronnie Goll and Alan Howe served lunch.

Wear a Poppy; Honor The Nation's War Dead

Poppy Day will be observed in towns throughout the nation on May 25. A day that has become a familiar one to people everywhere in the USA, but the sight of poppies being offered on street corners and from door to door oftentimes brings the thought "How much do they want?" and the true meaning of the day is lost.

The money that the poppies bring to disabled veterans and their families is not the important aspect of the program. As Mrs Carl W Zeller, National President of the American Legion Auxiliary, put it last February, "The primary purpose of the poppy is not to raise money. Poppies are worn as the individual's personal gesture or remembrance of the nation's war dead. We are trying to get our Units not to hold a poppy sale, but to observe Poppy Day; not to sell poppies but to offer or distribute them, not to ask people to buy a poppy, but to wear a poppy."

So this year don't just contribute money; Wear a Poppy in Remembrance!

April Warmer and Drier Than Normal

April 1957 went into the record as a dry and relatively warm month according to weather records kept on weather bureau approved instruments by Earl Henschen, custodian at the Hancock County Courthouse. The average temperature for the month was 42.59 as compared with 43.67 for the same month in 1956. The average minimum for the month was 35.77 and the maximum average was 59.40. The highest temperature recorded was a warm 84 degrees on April 30 and the low was 17 recorded on the morning of April 12. The first half of the month was extremely cold with temperatures averaging about 10 degrees below normal while the last half of the month reversed the trend with temperatures considerably above normal.

The month was comparatively dry with 1.20 of an inch of precipitation recorded. April 1956 recorded 1.57 inches of precipitation. One inch of snow was recorded during the month just ended. The month just ended had a lot of sunshine with 19 days listed as fair and 11 days as cloudy or partly cloudy. The dry warm weather the latter part of the month enabled farmers to rush the planting of all crops and planters were at work in many fields on the last two days of April and perhaps more acres of corn were planted in April than in any previous April.

Precipitation for the first four months of 1957 totaled only 3.24 inches as compared with 5.39 inches for the same period last year and rain is badly needed to replenish the subsoil which is considerably drier than last year.

EDITORIAL

This is the time of year when you see high school students walking around school in a kind of daze waiting for that final day of school. Some of the seniors have been quoted as saying, "Boy, I'll be glad when I get out of this place!" And sure as you please, the ones who say that the loudest will be the ones with the most tears in their eyes as they shake hands with their well-wishers at Commencement.

Yes, we are all a little sad about the prospect of leaving these hallowed halls, whether we realize it or not. Some of us, if not most or even all of us, are wishing that we had studied a little bit harder some times when we didn't. A number of us plan to go to college in the fall. I would personally recommend that everyone get at least one or two years of college. A college education is today what a high school education was a few years ago. If you go to college, I'm sure that you'll never regret it!

As for you underclassmen, we as graduating seniors of Klemme High School, can give pou much advice in a few words. "Study, study, study!"

Someone once said, "Don't let your studies interfere with your education!" Well, maybe he was right to a limited degree, but it is doubtful. I'm sure that if we take advantage of our public education and apply ourselves to the best of our ability, that we will never be sorry.

This is the last issue of this year's SHAMROCK. We on the staff have had a lot of fun preparing the paper week after week, although sometimes, it looked as if some of us were sleeping on the job. We hope you have enjoyed reading it as much as we have enjoyed writing it for you.

Question of the Week

What are your plans for spending the summer?

Jeanne B—I'm moving to Wisconsin.

Mr Johnson—Find a good job, probably painting, do a little golfing and fishing.

Dorothy—I want to detassel corn and spend two weeks at my Aunt's. Also go roller skating a lot.

Elaine J—I imagine I will stay home and help on the farm, since we are building a barn. I hope to show cattle at a couple of fairs and work on my 4-H projects. A foreign exchange student will be living with us for a month, so I am looking forward to an interesting and busy summer.

Lavonne W—I will probably help teach Bible School and go detasseling again. And also help around the house.

Marcella N—I plan to teach Bible School and go to conservation camp. Also help Mom and Dad with the work around home.

Sandra M—I don't know for sure what I'll do this summer. I might go stay with my relation. I will probably just take it easy.

Joyce L—I will probably get a job for awhile and I am not sure if I will go to any camp or not. I will probably play in summer band.

Barbara A—I haven't made any definite plans. Probably work.

Karen C—I plan to work this summer, go to Girls State and possibly go detasseling.

Maurine J—I plan to teach Bible School and go detasseling. I'd tell the rest but it would take five pages.

Roxanne B—Ride horses, go swiming, teach Bible School and maybe go to Missouri.

Susan W—I plan on taking swimming lessons and am going to take a vacation and enjoy myself.

Elaine E—First I'm going to teach Bible School, then I don't know what I'll do.

JoAnn H—I plan to work and really have fun.

Lois H—I intend to stay home and help out around the farm. Also go horseback riding every day.

Sherryl C—I haven't quite decided what I will do but I would like to go to Wisconsin for a summer vacation.

Jane—I'm going to stay home and enjoy myself, when I'm not doing something else.

Margarite—One thing for sure is that I am going to work. I am planning to go to Michigan and have a couple of girls come and stay with me from Michigan and I am going to have a lot of fun.

Baccalaureate and Commencement to be Held May 19 and 22

Spring is here again and with it comes Klemme's annual Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises. This year our Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday evening, May 19, in the school gymnasium beginning at eight o'clock. Rev Melvin Miller and Rev Ernest Lauer are in charge of the evening's program. The girls sextette is planning on furnishing the music.

Mr Ward Hamilton, President of Hamilton's Business College in Mason City, will be our guest speaker at the Commencement exercises to be held Wednesday, May 22, beginning at 7:30 in the school gymnasium.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The father stayed in the kitchen most of that first night that the body of his 17-year-old son lay in the front room. He came out only once, walking slowly as though wading through a heavy dream, and stood by the coffin. He reached down and touched his son's shoulder lightly. "Such a fine, big boy," he said. "And I've got to put him away."

Much later, he was able to talk to an old friend. He tried, searchingly, to explain what had happened and why.

"I thought I had to give him more than I'd ever had," he said. "I always had the feeling he was growing up in a world where he might not have much of a chance in the end. I never thought I wouldn't raise him.

"People thought it was funny, but that's why he drove the new car around town so much while I stayed with the old bus. It gave me a wonderful kick just to have him pick me up at work in his own car.

"Of course, the car wasn't the reason for what happened. You can't blame machines for what you don't do yourself. I knew the boy was a reckless driver. Friends told me. The police chief talked to me about it.

"So, I bawled the boy out a couple of times. But there's no use being dishonest now. I was proud of everything he did. Secretly I was even proud of his crazy driving. I just couldn't imagine this happening to a boy that fine, a boy that young.

"I haven't been able to think much since they called me to the hospital in the middle of the night. All I can do is remember. I'll never forget that instead of trying to teach him, I gave him things; gave him more than he understood how to use. I don't know how I can live with that and without him."

GUESS WHO

Our mystery person for last week was Karen Clabaugh.

This week we have a dark-complexioned person with dark brown hair and blue eyes, who is five feet eleven inches tall. This person weighs 150 pounds, wears a size 10 shoe and has a waist measurement of 31 inches.

He has been in track and basketball during his high school days.

No matter wherever or whenever you see him, he has a friendly smile for everyone. One of the identifying characteristics of this fellow is the fact that he always has girls in his car. Before school, at noon, after school, and almost any other time.

This last statement should be enough for anyone. Who is it? The answer appears elsewhere in the SHAMROCK.

Bits and Bites

Bon Mots

A fool and his money are soon invited places.

Did anyone ever tell you that the first 32nd part of an inch of a bee's stinger is real, but the other foot and a half is pure imagination.

Quick Turner

Policeman: "Hey you, didn't you hear me say, 'Pull over'?"

Driver: "Oh, I thought you said 'Good morning, Mayor!'."

Policeman: "It is a nice morning, isn't it?"

Foreigners

"What funny names those Korean towns have," remarked a man from Schenectady, as he read a Poughkeepsie newspaper on his way to Hackensack.

—High Times, Zion
Benton Township High,
Zion, Illinois.

Backward But Not Dumb

A California policeman, who stopped a college student driving backward, received this explanation: The car was rented on a mileage basis, and the student was driving backwards because the speedometer didn't register in reverse.

BUMP

A small robin knocked himself out at Audubon recently, when he flew head-on into a picture window. The home-owner saw the bird kicking convulsively on the ground, brought him inside the house and in about ten minutes he was revived and was sent on his way.

Butler Reports On Industrial Arts Program

The following report was prepared and written by Mr Donald Butler, Industrial Arts instructor in the Klemme Community School. The Industrial Arts program was carried on during the past school year under rather adverse conditions. Classes were held in a rural school moved in from the country. However, the results of the course are on display at Wellemeyer's and school patrons are invited to inspect them.

The Industrial Arts course started out this year perhaps a little different than in the past. Before any classroom work could be done every student participated in the clean-up and rearrangement of the country schoolhouse that was moved in for a shop.

After the grounds and the shop were put in order the students started doing simple sketches and drawings using ordinary lead pencils and soft brown paper until books, drawing and lettering instruments, paper, T-squares and other drawing equipment arrived.

The drawing course lasted about 12 weeks and during this time the students not only drew but also studied about the skills required in drawing. Some of the material covered was concerned with lettering and drawing techniques, developing the ability to visualize and describe objects through drawings, sketching techniques, blueprint reading, and sectioning of machine parts. Students were also required to ink some of their drawings.

The final drawing for junior students was to draw up plans for some acceptable project they could make in woodworking. After finishing these drawings the junior students began using the more advanced power tools. Before any student could use these tools there were student reports and a demonstration over each power tool. As soon as it was felt a student was capable and responsible enough, he was permitted to use the power equipment. From this point on every student went different and individual ways, each working on his own project.

The freshmen students worked on less complicated projects, learning the basic operations through the use of hand tools. These projects were intended to be small and contain basic joints and procedures which, when mastered, would lead into more complicated projects in the future.

These projects, which the students have been working on faithfully during the year, will be on display in the window of the Wellemeyer Furniture Store, Friday, May 17, and will remain there until Tuesday, May 21. This display includes a sequence of drawings which all students completed during the course. These drawings are not intended to be the best from the classes, but a display of each student's ability.

Also on display are the projects that were made in woodworking. Due to the limited space and the size of some projects, not all projects will be displayed, but a sample of each student's work will be shown.

This will end the work for this year in shop but next year it is planned much will be added to the Industrial Arts course. It is hoped that each student will have a taste of practical electricity, plastic, more advanced drawing and a little rough carpentry if time permits.

It is hoped that everyone will have an opportunity to see the display of fine work that our students are doing.

This daily half-hour program has been featuring the methods of teaching reading, language, arts, science, social studies, arithmetic, and music in the Des Moines Public Schools.

A studio has been set up KRNT to resemble a classroom, and the school classes are transported to the studio where their regular class work is conducted. Hidden cameras in the wall photograph the class procedure.

Miss Bredbenner's thirty-five fifth graders were shown having a conservation lesson during their science period.

Hancock County Formers Stopping Early Weeds With Early Spray

Hancock County farmers can get the jump on weeds this spring by hitting some of the early ones with 2,4-D this month.

They say that when 2,4-D hits such trouble makers as sour dock, smooth dock, wild parsnip, wild carrot and yellow rocket (mustard) while the weeds are still in the early, tender stage they get almost a total kill. It saves on both time and spray material, according to County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner. These weeds show up early along roadsides, in fence rows and in waste areas.

The spray beats mowing, because the sour and smooth dock and the yellow rocket are perennials and they sprout again after mowing. The wild parsnip and wild carrot are biennials, but late sprouting plants may be missed by the mower blades.

Extension Director Henderson says that E P Sylwester, extension weed specialist at Iowa State College, suggests this mixture for power sprayers: 1 quart 2,4-D concentrate per 25 gallons of water. Add half a pint of good liquid detergent to each 25 gallons of spray.

A similar mixture for spot spraying with a knapsack sprayer can be made up on a 1-gallon basis. Use 2 tablespoons of 2,4-D per gallon of water, along with 1 teaspoonful of liquid detergent. The detergents give sprays "soaking power" that helps get better coverage and penetration.

Weeds should be sprayed to the point of runoff, advises Sylwester. It's important to soak them thoroughly.

A single treatment should catch all the weeds if the application is made now. But since additional seed may be in the soil, treated areas should be watched for signs of reinfestation, Sylwester says.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Hogs

Interior hog prices have been on the climb since their mid-February lows, reports Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. He says wholesale prices of dressed pork haven't had the same steady upward trend. Only bellies seem to be selling appreciably higher than they did in mid-February.

Pork storage stocks are considerably below levels of a year ago, but the reduction isn't uniform. The last available figures show ham storage about equal to last year at the same time. Stocks of bellies were down sharply, though, says Kutish.

Hog slaughter has been going through its seasonal decline. But the absence of a strong upward trend in wholesale pork prices indicates we won't have as sharp a price hike this spring as some expected.

Soybeans

On March 1, farmers indicated they were planning to plant 3½ per cent more acres of soybeans this year than in 1956. Kutish points out that even if crop yields don't equal last year's, we will have a larger supply of soybeans next year. This is because of a 30 to 35 million bushel carry-over of old beans—the largest carry-over on record.

Support rates on beans will stand at a US average of $2.09 per bushel, 6 cents less than last year. Some of the soybean trade people estimate that with this loan rate and the crop size farmers planned on March 1, the 1957 soybean crop will average between $2 and $2.20 for the season.

Crop Loan Deadlines Announced by ASC

Farmers of Hancock County were reminded this week of the deadline date for applying for price support loans and purchase agreements on 1956 crop corn. The period for applying for loans and purchase agreements on 1956 corn will end May 31, 1957. Farmers applying for loans should make their application on or before May 20 so as to have ample time to secure samples, prepare and complete the loan papers by May 31.

The price support rate on 1956 corn for Hancock County on corn planted within the acreage compliance was $1.42 and for that not planted within the compliance, the price was $1.17. As of April 15, 2,588,453 bushels of corn were put under price support of which 1,853,538 bushels were at the $1.42 rate and 734,915 bushels were at the $1.17 rate.

Prepare Corn, Sorghum Seedbeds the Same Way

Seedbed preparation for grain sorghum is the same as that for corn and soybeans, says Ed Dyas, Iowa State College agronomist.

Special emphasis must be placed on weed control before planting, however. Sorghum grows slower than corn, and must be given a chance to get ahead of weeds.

That's why it's important to hold up sorghum planting until soil temperatures reach 65 degrees, Dyas says. At cooler temperatures, weeds may get a head start.

The planter should be adjusted so that a sorghum seed is placed every 1½ to 2 inches in the row, where rows are 40 inches apart. This will give a total of six to eight seeds per foot of row.

This planting rate will take 4 to 7 pounds of seed per acre. The pounds per acre rate varies with seed size.

A final stand of a plant every 2 to 4 inches in the row is desirable, Dyas says. The total stand per acre would then be 60,000 to 100,000 plants.

Before sorghum is up, the field can be harrowed to control weeds. Cultivation should be held up as the crop is coming through the ground. A rotary hoe or weeder may be used when the sorghum is in the 1- to 4- inch growth stage.

Row cultivation will be needed after sorghum is up past 4 or 5 inches, says the agronomist. Chemicals may be used. The same dosage rates and precautions observed for corn should be followed.

GREATER WEALTH FOR IOWA

Each year the brewing industry is investing more and more money in Iowa, further swelling the rising prosperity of our state. Take the item of miscellaneous business costs . . . in this one field alone the industry spends over $27,500,000.00 per year. Included are everything from paper clips to truck repairs, from rent to insurance, and literally hundreds of other items. All Iowa benefits, because these continuing expenditures spread into every nook and corner of the state.

Of course, this is but a part of the growing wealth the brewing industry creates for Iowa. Over $30,000,000.00 per year goes into payrolls, over $25,000,000.00 in taxes, over $62,000,000.00 in buildings, warehouses, and stores, plus huge expenditures for farm products. Here, truly, is a great constructive force for the continued growth of our state.

Memorial Day Services to Honor War Dead

Report From Your Representative

BY CURTIS G. RIEHM

The Iowa 57th General Assembly compiled quite a record in comparison with other legislative sessions, and based on legislative accomplishments.

The Legislative Boxscore is: Introduced were 604 House bills, 497 Senate bills, 25 House Joint Resolutions, and 16 Senate Joint Resolutions for a total of all bills and resolutions of 1142. So far there have been 8 bills that have become a law without the Governor's signature, 3 bills were passed over the Governos's veto, 76 bills were killed, 135 bills passed one House but not the other, and 602 passed neither House, making the total of 1142 bills or joint resolutions introduced.

On May 10th, the last day the Legislature was in active session and when some of the major legislation was completed, Governor Loveless was in Sioux City and made a political talk to members of the Democratic Party, at which time he stated that the Legislature only acted on special interest legislation. However, when the Legislature adjourned formally on Thursday, May 16th, Loveless did have praise for the Legislature and noted in particular bills dealing with schools, water rights, night-time speed on highways, and slum clearance in the city. At the close of the Legislative Session he had this to say to the members of the House and Senate: "I would like to express my appreciation for the long hours of painstaking effort which the individual Senators and Representatives and officers of the Senate and House have devoted to their duties." ON SCHOOLS he said that the lawmakers should be commended on the progress made toward improving the educational system for the state. ON WATER RESOURCES he stated it was a much needed, long overdue beginning for a more careful utilization of the state's water resources. ON THE 60 MPH SPEED LIMIT at night-time he stated this reflected public opinion and the need of effective legislation to reduce highway accident fatalities; and ON THE SLUM CLEARANCE bill he stated that this would enable cities to qualify for federal aid in slum clearance and similar projects.

We know the State of Iowa is made up of various groups and industries, and thus in breaking down the bills as they effect the various groups and industries, we find: For Agriculture there were 25 bills; adoptions, 1 bill; appropriations, 30 bills; banking, 4 bills; cities and towns, 35 bills; claims, 16 bills; conservation, 11 bills; corporations, 3 bills; county offices, 5 bills; courts, 17 bills; divorce, 1 bill; elections, 2 bills; health, 8 bills; highways, 15 bills; insurance, 12 bills; legalizing acts, 29 bills; Legislature, 4 bills; licensing, 5 bills; liquor, 1 bill; military affairs, 4 bills; motor vehicles, 20 bills; salaries, 5 bills; schools, 15 bills; social security, 10 bills; state offices, 24 bills; taxation, 15 bills; and townships, 1 bill. A sum total of 321 bills or Legislative measures were adopted and passed during the 57th General Assembly, actually dealing with all segments of our society. I believe that the average number of bills passed during an average Legislative Session is approximately 250.

Let us look at the bills passed in the Legislature:

AGRICULTURE: Two bills dealt with brucellosis, on the area control and for vaccination and would in time tend to wipe out brucellosis which causes fever in human beings; another bill was on gas tax refund permits, they will be good until the applicant fails to file a claim or moves to another county; 13 of these 25 bills dealt with drainage laws, Chapter 455, and are the first major corrections made to the drainage laws of our state for some time, I was the Chairman of the Drainage and Conservation Committee and had considerable to do with the drainage bills; one was the Water Rights Bill, House File 553, it was first introduced as House File 128, however, in my public hearings I came up with a four page amendment to the original bill and rather than to present the amendments I brought the bill out as another committee bill with the amendments included in the bill as first written by the Water Rights Study Committee which operated in the two year interim between the sessions. Another bill dealt with dairy promotion, another bill with agriculture products and the storage of them, another with allowing veterinaries to take the slide test for brucellosis, another with vaccination and the alteration of a certificate as to vaccination of cattle, another bill, House File 162, does not require farmers to pay sales tax on gasoline used on their farms. Another bill, House File 163, I believe is a major piece of legislation so far as the farm is concerned which sets up standards for fertilization. It was found that in the past we had many manufacturers and dealers taking advantage of Iowans in selling fertilizer which actually did not meet the standards claimed. Another bill would provide that you could have gas refunds jointly with the federal government if the federal government so enacts a law similar to this.

REP. RIEHM'S REPORT

ON ADOPTIONS Senate File 433 legalized adoptions prior to July 1, 1957, when names of adoptive parents were not disclosed in adoption papers.

IN APPROPRIATIONS there were some 30 bills introduced dealing with appropriating monies for all the various functions from the counties, to the schools, to the state institutions and for the operation of the government. One bill I was very much interested in was House File 601 which appropriated $1,500,000 from the State's Special Reserve Fund to the State Conservation Commission for construction and repairs and improvements of our natural resources, such as our parks, our natural lakes and other nature beauty spots.

FOR CORPORATIONS, three bills were passed, for county offices, 5 bills.

FOR OUR COURTS there were 17 bills passed which affect judiciary system. Two bills which I sponsored were the result of a conversation with Judge Boynton. House File 345 will grant a district court judge power to grant a bench parole to defendants who, among other things, have never served time in a state penitentiary or reformatory. Also gives the District Court clear power to terminate a bench parole. House File 352 gives clear power to the juvenile court to terminate juvenile proceedings and to release a young person from the court's control. It was found that during the war many times a young boy applying for service in our armed forces would not be taken, since some time in the past the juvenile court had acquired jurisdiction of the boy, the armed forces would not take anyone who was still under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court.

ON DIVORCE one bill provided for a 60-day cooling off period before a decree of divorce could be granted, except in emergencies.

IN ELECTIONS there were two bills passed; one to permit voting in polling places outside the township units and another one, House File 155, which was submitted by myself, which would discontinue inclusion of spoiled ballots in figuring the percentage of votes cast on a proposition for the sale of public bonds.

ON EMPLOYMENT AGENCIES one bill was passed, another bill was passed concerning GARNISHMENT OF WAGES; ON HEALTH, 8 bills were passed; for HIGHWAYS, 15 bills were passed; for INSURANCE, 12 bills were passed; 29 LEGALIZING ACTS, 4 bills dealing with the LEGISLATURE, 5 on PROFESSIONS and BUSINESS, 1 on LIQUOR which will allow cities to set the hours of closing of key clubs, 4 on MILITARY AFFAIRS, 20 on MOTOR VEHICLES, 5 on SALARIES, 15 on SCHOOLS, 10 on SOCIAL SECURITY, 24 on STATE OFFICES, 15 on TAXATION, and 1 TOWNSHIPS.

As a recapitulation of these 321 bills which were passed by the Legislature, I would like to tell you the part that I played in these various bills that were passed. We have 158 members of the Legislature, 108 in the House and 50 in the Senate. Of these 321 bills, I had my hand in 42 bills, that is I mean, they were either my bills or they were my committee bills or I amended the bills so that they were good bills and were passed by the legislature. Briefly I would like to give you the following information: Out of the 25 bills on Agriculture, 13 of them I handled on the floor of the House and helped secure their passage. Of the 11 bills in Conservation, I handled 5. For Courts, out of 17 bills, I handled 2. In elections, I handled both of them. For Highways, 15 bills; there were 2 draniage bills which I handled on the floor and there were 3 other bills dealing with the county financing, one especially, House File 46 which, because of my amendment, was passed. The Good Roads Association had this to say on House File 46: "One of the most important highway bills enacted in years was House File 46 which requires county boards and engineers to submit a budget of proposed road expenditures to the State Highway Commission for approval. In the event of disapproval the law, which will be effective July 4th, provides for hearing at the local level, thus allowing the public full knowledge of the proposed road expenditures." Another bill was raising the 45 foot truck limit to 50 foot in order to be in line with the states to the east of us and to the states to the west of us and also for another very good reason which is that if we hadn't passed this law, the federal government possibly would have stepped in and would have forced this to be done within a few years, due to their control of Interstate Commerce. In Military Affairs, which had 4 bills, House File 539, was a bill which Henry Luken and I wrote for the committee which extends the time of filing for World War II veterans for the bonus in order to pay some valid claims that came in late, there is sufficient money on hand in the Bonus Fund to do this.

the 20 bills I had two bills, and I worked and amended seven others before they were passed. Thus, nine out of 20.

Under Schools, there were 15 bills of which 3 bills were mine and I amended Senate File 1 and House File 158, the two major pieces of school legislation and they are now part of the school law. Of the 15 bills on Taxation, most of these were from the Study Committee which had been operating for 15 months prior to the session, 1 bill I prepared and had it brought out of the Taxation Committee on April 16th and proceeded to do the same in the Senate and make sure that we got the passage of it. I was one to cancel out all inheritance tax liens prior to 1921, two years ago we cancelled the inheritance tax liens which were on the property prior to 1940, but it only went back to 1921. Under Townships there was one bill, this was House File 233, and will allow a district around a town to set up a fire district similar to a school district with three trustees and this fire district could then levy a millage to provide for rural fire protection by contracting with a town or buying their own equipment. This will be effective at once, in fact, it will be used in many parts of the state immediately as a result of it.

Many people like to criticize the Legislature on the basis of the failure to pass some pet bill that they may have been interested in, some of these failures to act, which some people will point at, the Legislature never intended to act on these items. Of these items that are held up as big failures on the part of the Legislature, one of them is liquor by the drink, thousands of Iowans believe that we now have the best liquor law possible and they don't want it liberalized any more, so therefore, failure to act on that measure was wise in the minds of most of the people of the state. Reapportionment is another pet of many private individuals, however, there were thousands of Iowans who don't want anything to happen to our state government that has taken place in the City of Des Moines, failure to act on this question would be hailed as a triumph for a solid majority of the Iowans. School Legislation, it possibly has not satisfied both factions of those which seek school legislation. The liberal group who would like to force everything down somebodys throat and the other group that would not want to do anything. Actually, I believe that the school reorganization laws as voted this session will do much to speed reorganization and improve our schools and educational system.

The state speed law is another proposal which met just as stubborn a resistance as in school reorganization. There was a wide variation in what constituted a safe speed, whether 60, 65 or 70, some even advocated 80 miles an hour, majority sentiment is not clear. Passage of the 60 nighttime speed limit was not failure to act, but was really good sense in satisfying both parties that were against and for speed limits. Actually, in talking to some of the safety officials, I have come to the conclusion that they are not so sold on a speed limit in the daytime either. The nighttime speed limit of 60 miles an hour is realistic and any law must be realistic if you expect the public to obey it, it will be to a great extent, self-enforcing.

THUS, FAILURE TO ACT ON HIGHLY CONTROVERSIAL LAWS DOES NOT MAKE A BAD LEGISLATURE, SOMETIMES FAILURE TO ACT IS WHAT MAKES GOOD LEGISLATION.

Of the 1142 bills that were submitted in both the House and the Senate, some 76 were killed, somebody had to lead the offensive in killing these bills. I am happy to say that I led the offensive on more than a few bills, the most notable one was the Utility Bill. This Utility Bill would have regulated only utilities in towns and could have thrown out all the town ordinances affecting rates for public utilities and would have set up the State Commerce Commission as the Utility Board to render decisions of fact and also to render judicial decisions as well, which many of us figured would lead only to more controversy, court action and expense.

Briefly, I would like to trace with you the life of a bill, whether introduced in the Senate or in the House. It must be introduced by an individual or by a standing committee. It then will be studied and debated in the committee and if it is found to have merit, it would be voted out by the committee to the House for passage. However, as soon as the bills start piling out of the committees and onto the calendars of the House and Senate, in the House a Steering Committee is appointed which has jurisdiction of all the bills voted out by the Committees. This committee, then arranges the bills in the order of their importance on the calendar. Approximately a month before the end of the Session, a Sifting Committee is appointed which takes over jurisdiction of all the bills that are voted out by the various committees and they in turn arrange the calendar for the House by voting out for passage those bills which are important. After a bill is passed in the House it must then go to the Senate where it is referred to a committee (if it pertains to motor vehicles, it would be referred to the Motor Vehicle Committee) which then must study the bill which has been passed by the House and if they recommend it for passage it would then come out in the Senate Floor for passage subject to pretty much the same procedure that I have outlined for the House. If the bill is then passed in the Senate sent to the Governor for signature. If the Governor vetoed it, it would then be enrolled and it would then be returned to the House where it originated for action to over-ride the veto, if a bill passes in the House and the Senate amends it, it would then be returned to the House where the House must either concur in the Senate amendment or refuses to concur. If the House refuses to concur, then it is returned to the Senate and a Conference Committee would be established of 4 members from the House and 4 members from the Senate and if they can reach an agreement on it, then it is submitted to both Houses again either for approval or disapproval. If disapproved by one or both Houses another Conference Committee would be appointed. In the latter days of the session many bills went to the Conference Committees, sometimes 2 and sometimes 3 times before both Houses would accept the bill. While the Legislature is in session, the Governor has 3 days after he receives a bill to approve it or disapprove it by vetoing it. If he holds it more than 3 days, the bill becomes a law without his signature. Bills submitted to the Governor for approval during the last 3 legislative days of the session may lie on the Governor's desk for his consideration for 30 days. In Iowa, we have the LEGISLATURE to make the laws, the GOVERNOR and EXECUTIVE BRANCH to enforce the laws, and the COURTS to interpret the laws.

Conclusion

Thus it is that a bill becomes a law, the road from the need to the final remedy has been long and difficult. From the time the idea was conceived until its final completion, it has passed through many legislative processes and encountered dangers to its life. It has been the subject of adverse opinion, searing criticism, bitter denunciation, met with popular claim, or approbation, from the public and special interests alike. As it proceeded slowly on its way, it was strengthened, improved and better adapted to the need which originally brought it into being, discussion and compromise are both adherent in a democratic legislature process. And through the varied interests that make up the membership of the General Assembly, wide experience is brought to bear upon the problems involved. The seemingly slow process of legislative enactment has one very definite objective, mainly that in avoiding hasty action, ill conceived legislation is many times prevented.

The rules by which the actions of free men are guided and controlled are determined through these long and time consuming processes, but it has permitted the bill to pass through a cleansing fire of democratic tradition. The opposition has spoken; proponents have been heard. The will of the majority has prevailed and a bill has become law.

Thank you for reading of your Legislature in action.

The Land - Promise and Fulfillment

By D. A. Williams
Administrator
U S Soil Conservation Service

The approach of Soil Stewardship Week, May 26 to June 2, sponsored by the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts and national church organizations, again focuses attention on the kinship between a man's spiritual beliefs and the soil resources on which his life depends.

Our awareness of such relationship is always with us, consciously or unconsciously. Some see the kinship most clearly from a pine-blanketed mountain as they look out over woods, strip-cropped fields and clear running streams or sparkling lakes.

Others find it in turning a spadeful of living soil in the cool of the morning, or in the mellow roll of the furrow slice at plowing time. For soil not only gives life, it in itself is a living thing, a combination of living organisms around a skeleton of finely ground particles of sand, silt and clay.

All of us sense our dependence on the soil in the food we eat, many of the clothes we wear and in our houses.

The longing for land ownership—ownership of acres one operates, a desire for that "poultry farm" to which one will retire, or "just a place to raise a few flowers" represents man's feeling that land is something stable, something to which he can tie, something in which he can sink his roots. In it he finds security and peace.

Closely allied to that desire to possess land is the hope and the promise of fulfillment which land gives—hope for stability, for security, for peaceful living; the promise of bountiful harvests, food and a place one can call home.

This longing for land is universal. It surges no less in the heart of a Chinese, an Asian, or a European than in the heart of an American. Because of it, revolutions have occurred and wars have been fought. Yet it is a universal feeling so strong that it may yet help provide a basis on which man — and consequently nations—will learn to live in peace.

With a bit of land, man enjoys its use and its harvest. To get the most from it, he gives it his best knowledge of management and culture. And of the culture he bestows on it, the highest form is wise use of land and conservation measures.

The good soil steward knows that conservation helps make the hope and the promise a reality, both now and for the decades and centuries to come.

Since soil is a God-given heritage to all people, man is merely its custodian and good stewardship is a sacred responsibility. Fortunately, it is also good business since it results in higher income, better living, greater ease of farming, lower production costs and greater efficiency in the use of labor and machinery.

Not only the material benefits but the spiritual feeling for the land must be added together to explain the intense interest and widespread support of modern, scientific soil and water conservation which has swept the country in recent years. Such interest is seen in the long hours which thousands of non-salaried soil conservation district supervisors are giving to speed up the program. It is seen in the many ways found by almost all groups to advance the conservation program. This is true of rural, urban, industrial, civic, professional, wildlife and other organizations.

The striking similarity between definitions of Christian stewardship and of soil conservation probably is not coincidence. Of the many definitions, two illustrate the point: "Christian Stewardship is the systematic practice of using all one's powers and the material assets which have been intrusted to one's care for the furtherance of God's will and the fulfillment of His purpose." Conservation is frequently defined as "the wise use of natural resources to obtain maximum production for the benefit of man without damaging those resources for continued use."

Good Neighbors Help At Nuehring Farm

Fire at the Ervin Nuehring farm on May 1st, caused considerable damage to the new home the Nuehrings erected last year. Their outlook on life, and the interior of the house were both a little black that day, but good neighbors have brightened both considerably.

On Thursday, May 9th, good neighbors helped them move into their basement where they will live this summer. Those who helped were Mr and Mrs August Josten, Mr and Mrs Laurice Lemke, Mrs Merlyn Helps, Mrs Harlan Nuehring, Mrs Earl Nuehring, Mrs Byrnes Lemke, Mrs Alma Nuehring, Mr and Mrs John Meinders, Mrs Carl Wille, and Mrs Leonard Kaduce.

On Wednesday and Thursday, May 8th and 9th, the following men plowed 25 acres for the Nuehrings, then prepared the ground and planted 100 acres of corn: Merlyn Helps, Earl Nuehring, Merle Schoenwetter, Alvin Schlichting for Marvin Schmidt, and Luvern Schmidt.

On Tuesday, May 14th, 13 ladies came and helped Mrs Nuehring wash walls and get them ready for painting. They were the Mesdames Irving Haupt, Elmer Meinders, John Meinders, August Josten, Alfred Jurgemeyer, Laurice Lemke, Byrnes Lemke, Harlan Nuehring, Kermit Schlei, J E "Cap" Blank, Eric Meyers, Lowell Mau, and Merle Schoenwetter.

PITCHER

Dave Hill, Batavia High pitcher, struck out 35 batters in two games in the recent sectional tournament. He fanned 18 Lockridge batters and 17 Libertyville batters, while giving up four hits in the two games.

The board of education of the Klemme Community School District has recently invested $250,000,000.00 of the money in the schoolhouse fund. The money was recently raised through the sale of $375,000.00 in bonds. Two hundred thousand dollars was invested in U S Certificates of Indebtedness and Fifty Thousand was invested in U S Treasury Notes. One Certificate of Indebtedness for $100,000.00 will mature on October 1, 1957 and will bear interest at the rate of 2.89 percent; the other certificate for $100,000.00 will mature on April 15, 1958 and will bear interest at the rate of 3.46 percent. The contract on the new building will be let on June 19 with construction expected to start shortly thereafter. It has been estimated that the first payments to the contractor and archiect will be due on August 1, 1957. Other payments will be made monthly until the building is completed. It is estimated that between five and six thousand dollars will accrue on these investments.

Grief and Pain After Mishap

The accident happened about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the southwest corner of the park, and Lee was apparently thrown from his cycle to a point some eight or ten feet from the point of impact. He received some rather severe lacerations about his face and head and his jaw was fractured in two places.

He was taken to Mercy Hospital at Mason City where emergency surgery was performed. His jaw was wired in place and all but a few of his teeth had to be pulled as they were driven out of place by the force of the collision.

He was reported to be in good condition this morning (Wednesday), but will have to take his nourishment pretty much in liquid form for some time to come.

Lee was riding west on his cycle when Mr Lemke, who was driving east, made a left turn, apparently failing to note Lee's approach.

Humboldt, of the release of the movie—"The Corn Belt Story".

The story goes back twenty years, to 1937, showing the struggle of farmers of those years to obtain electricity for their farms.

It traces the electric conveniences of those years—lights, the pump jack, the washing machine—to the conveniences of the most modern electric kitchen of today.

The movie depicts the days of 1947, when lacking an adequate source from which to purchase electricity, these same Cooperatives banded together to form the Corn Belt Power Cooperative for the generation of their own electricity. And, in April, 1950, the Steam Plant in Humboldt, Iowa, went into operation.

The operation of the Steam Plant is graphically and understandingly described through schematic drawings.

Many persons are seen in the actual parts they played in organizing their Rural Electric Cooperatives, and in making the Corn Belt Power Cooperative a reality.

This movie, in an interesting, fast moving, travelogue style, is a documentary report in beautiful color. It materializes the inscription to be found on the dedication plaque in the lobby of the Humboldt Plant—"To advance the position of agriculture . . . to enrich the life of the community . . . to ease the toils of home and farm . . ."

Owned and controlled by thirty thousand Iowa farmers, of twelve Rural Electric Cooperatives, covering twenty-five counties in North Central Iowa, this movie will be viewed with pride and satisfaction as it depicts the results of their determined and cooperative efforts of twenty years, in building this Corn Belt system.

After having been shown to Member Cooperative groups, Mr Hope stated the movie will be available to 4-H Clubs, Farm Bureaus, Schools, Farm Organizations, Service Clubs and Civic Organizations.

BRIDES NEED TO CHANGE NAME FOR SOCIAL SECURITY

Elmer L Iske, manager of the Mason City social security office, states that as June approaches his office has noticed an increase in inquiries from prospective brides as to how to change the records to show their married name and as to their benefit rights under the Social Security Act.

It is important for every recent bride to change her name on her account number card if she has one. She should call at or write the nearest social security office to notify them of the change in her name. She will receive a new card with her same account number showing her new name. This will insure that her wages are properly credited to her acuount and that any future benefits will be properly paid.

The Mason City office receives about twenty notices weekly regarding changing information in their files.

SQUIRREL

A rabid squirrel was shot by Lloyd Rockholz at Adair recently. The squirrel attempted to attack Mr Rockholz, then ran up a tree. Adair folks in the area are watching for possible infection of dogs and other animals.

New Speech Therapist Hired for 3-County Area

The Division of Special Education for Kossuth, Hancock, and Winnebago Counties recently announced the hiring of Mr James Steffan as speech therapist for the coming school year. This will bring to three the number of therapists working in this area.

Mr Steffan will graduate from Iowa State Teachers College in June and move to Garner the middle of August. Mr Steffan graduated from Xavier High School at Dyersville, Iowa, and entered ISTC in 1951. In 1953 he entered the army and after two years of service, most of which was spent in Germany, he returned to ISTC to complete his education in speech correction. Mr Steffan will serve all of the schools in Hancock County and one or two in Kossuth.

Miss Mary Hunter of Forest City will continue to serve Winnebago County schools and one or two in Kossuth as speech therapist.

Mr Eric Allen who presently lives in Garner and has served all of Hancock and half of Kossuth Counties will move to Algona in August and next year will be working as speech therapist in only Kossuth County.

Mr Donald Potter, Director of Special Education for this area, stated that he believed the schools in this area were very fortunate to be able to have this service available in view of the extreme shortage of speech therapists.

All Over Iowa and the Nation—

Homemakers Work for Better Homes

This county extension home economist is showing a group of women through a new home. She is pointing out the features of the new wall cabinet-type refrigerator.

Perhaps you'd like to know more about the new canning methods, if your pressure cooker's safe to use—or maybe you have a question about the new slip cover you're making for dad's favorite chair—or you may wonder just what makes the youngsters act the way they do.

Then the woman for you to see is your county extension home economist. She can introduce you to your county extension program—a program she carries out through groups, general meetings, special workshops, office and home visits, exhibits, radio, television and the press. You can join the thousands of homemakers all over Iowa who are continually learning new and better ways of life through on-the-job educational program sponsored by the Iowa State College Cooperative Extension Service.

The women decide what they want to study. With the help of college extension specialists in the various fields of home economics, 88 county extension home economists and more than 16,000 local voluntary leaders, Iowa homemakers learn to use newfound knowledge in their homes.

Nation-Wide Program

But this program isn't limited to Iowa. All 48 states have county extension programs that reach 6½ million urban and rural homemakers. The 12th National Home Demonstration Week, April 28 to May 4, is set aside to recognize the efforts of home economists and homemakers who are working together to strengthen home and family life. Their general aim is to become more efficient homemakers and more effective citizens in their communities, states and nation.

Last year more than 113,000 Iowa women took part in the extension program. Here's what they studied and accomplished.

More than 22,000 homemakers learned time and energy management, how to buy wisely and how to manage family finances. Thousands of homemakers learned what to look for when purchasing household equipment and how to take care of their appliances. They learned how to use storage space more effectively, how to plan kitchens more efficiently. They learned about wiring and lighting and sewage systems.

A large number of Iowa youngsters came out this spring wearing new coats, suits and dresses that their mothers made over from old garments. Women learned new sewing methods, how to launder synthetic fiber clothing and how to choose and accessorize a few basic, becoming clothes.

There was much interest in foods and nutrition—over 57,000 women realized the importance of well-balanced diets and adopted good food habits for themselves and their families. Homemakers, too, learned about nutritional needs, how to buy foods, about new canning methods, about weight control.

Family Understanding Gained

Some 37,000 homemakers learned new skills in home furnishings. They learned how to save money by refinishing furniture and making furniture themeslves. The whole family also is feeling results of mother's studies in family understanding, for 26,000 homemakers have been studying child development and family relationships.

Indicating their interest in future homemakers as well as in themselves and their families, over 3,000 women served as 4-H club leaders to more than 24,000 girls. These women, the local leaders and all women taking part in the extension program are living up to their motto, "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World."

Hogs

The spread between 1956 and 1957 hog prices is narrowing and should continue to do so, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. The reason for improving prices, explains Kutish, is that hog slaughter during early 1957 ran 15 to 20 percent below last year.

The Iowa State College economist estimates that hog slaughter for July, August and September will run about the same as last year. He doesn't expect any appreciable slaughter difference until November or December.

Prices are expected to show some strength and will probably reach their peak in late spring or early summer without making any sharp rise.

Hog prices are expected to drop from August to November about as much as they did in 1956. Kutish predicts the fall low will be about the same this year as last. This low should come a little later than last year, with the December market averaging lower than November, he says.

Cattle

This is the time of year when feeder cattle and lower-grade slaughter cattle normally bring their best prices. Suppiles of such cattle are lower now than during summer and fall, and demand by cattlemen for stockers to go on grass competes with packing house demand.

Kutish notes that feeder cattle are about $4 higher now than at the same time last year. Choice slaughter steers are only $2.50 higher, though. Kutish points out that margins on cattle being put on feed now won't be as wide as margins for those going on feed for the fall market last year.

Originally the dollar was subdivided into halves, dimes and cents; there were no quarters.

"Living Memorials" Established for 39

It was announced today that friends and relatives of thirty-nine deceased Hancock County residents have established "Living" memorials in their names. These memorial contributions were given to the Iowa Division, Inc. of the American Cancer Society to control this killer of so many Iowans. To date, cancer memorials have been established for 5,387 departed Iowans, and are continuing at the rate or 140 per month, with funds ranging as high as $5,000. According to the Iowa Division, ASC, these funds are being used to carry out professional and public education programs, and to further research projects which it is felt will eventually produce cancer control. Natural grief caused by the loss of a loved one is being turned into a lasting and meaningful tribute which will go to work for, and provide hope for, the living.

A living memorial may be started by writing to "New Horizons," Iowa's free magazine which has the world's largest circulation in the cancer field (300,000). Upon receiving a contribution, a letter and a card will be sent to those members of the deceased family who are designated, informing them that a memorial has been established. If a memorial has already been established the family will be notified of the additional gift.

The name of the person for whom a memorial has been established will be inscribed in the permanent "Living Memorials" book of Iowa, and will be given a place of honor on the pages of future issues of "New Horizons". Since Memorial Day of 1955, living memorials have been established for the following persons from this county:

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

There are many pictures in highway patrol files that would cause the most confident driver to question himself—if not miss his dinner. There are pictures taken under the wheels of trains of things that look like damp, scattered sacks.

There are pictures of people who seem to be hiding or resting in ditches until you look more closely. There are pictures of people who seem to be dressed entirely in tight, rough, black rubber suits—they have burned to death in wrecks.

But there is one picture that should be seen by those drivers who feel that the natural position of the gas pedal is on the floorboard. It isn't a picture of horror. It is simply a picture of a shoe.

The shoe looks new, shined, and it is fully laced. But there isn't any foot in it. Nor is it where you logically might expect a shoe to be.

This particular shoe is actually wedged halfway into the floorboard of a wrecked automobile. It is just to the right of the gas pedal. The man who wore the shoe, came over a small hill on a county road at just about the top speed his car could make. He found another car crossing the road at an intersection just below the crest of the hill.

He didn't even have time to shift his foot from the gas to the brake. The crash came so suddenly that his foot was still plastered to the gas pedal and the impact was so great that his shoe was driven into the floorboards.

Many pictures in highway patrol files tell more disagreeable stories, but none tells the story of an accident in more pathetic detail than this one picture of a shoe.

Schedule Field Clinic for Handicapped Children

IOWA CITY, IOWA, May 21—The State Services for Crippled Children (SSCC) will conduct a five-county field clinic in the Public School Building at Forest City on Thursday, June 6, for chronically ill or handicapped youngsters.

Counties served by the clinic will be Kossuth, Winnebago, Worth, Hancock and Cerro Gordo.

From its offices on the State University of Iowa campus, the service sends SUI medical teams into more than thirty communities each year at the invitation of county medical societies. Dr George R Barnes, Jr., assistant professor of pediatrics at the University, is director of the service.

Any child under 21 years of age who has a physically handicapping condition is eligible. Clinic officials emphasize the importance of an advance referral of each patient by a local physician or dentist.

The clinics provide consultations and diagnostic services in the fields of pediatrics, orthopedics, children's dentistry, speech and hearing, psychology and physical therapy. X-ray and laboratory services also are provided.

After each clinic, the cases are reviewed at the SSCC offices and findings are forwarded with recommendations to the local physicians.

There is no charge for any of the clinic services.

ASC Starts Checking of Allotment Compliance

Checking of Hancock County farms to determine compliance with acreage allotments and soil bank agreements and contracts is now underway in all townships, it was announced this week by Hancock County ASC Committee.

Virtually all farms must be visited by representatives of the county ASC office to make either an accurate determination or an estimate of acreage in crops.

In most instances, the checking will be done by ASC Community Committeemen, serving as "performance reporters." They will work singly since farm operators are expected to assist in any necessary acreage measuring.

Following are the general rules and requirements involved in the farm checking work, which is scheduled to be completed by June 30 if weather and crop conditions will permit:

WHEAT—All wheat being grown under allotments has already been checked but performance reporters will be on the lookout for any fields of wheat not previously noted or reported. Full compliance with the farm's wheat allotment is required to qualify for price support on wheat. If the allotment is exceeded, a marketing quota penalty must be paid on the excess wheat except that any farmer may raise as much as 15 acres without being subject to a quota penalty. However, every field of wheat estimated to contain 10 acres or more must be measured.

Producers have until June 1 to dispose of excess winter wheat acreage and until June 10 to dispose of excess spring wheat acreage. A farmer who has a soil bank wheat acreage reserve agreement must reduce his allotted wheat acreage to the extent provided by his agreement.

CORN—Any farmer who doesn't wish to qualify for price support on his corn and who is not participating in the soil bank is not required to be in compliance with his corn allotment. His corn acreage will be estimated by a performance reporter, instead of being measured or otherwise being accurately determined. Later, but prior to the compliance deadline, which will probably be August 1, such a farmer may get into compliance by paying ASC for the cost of measuring his corn acreage and by disposing of any excess by discing or plowing under.

Corn acreage will be measured on all farms whose operators wish to comply with their allotments to qualify for price support, on all farms which must be within their corn allotments to qualify for wheat acreage reserve or conservation reserve payments, and on all farms which must be under their allotted corn acreage to meet the terms of corn acreage reserve agreements. Any such producer found to have an excess corn will be notified by mail of the amount of the excess and the deadline date, probably August 1, for getting into compliance.

ACREAGE RESERVE—All acreage reserve tracts must be measured. If the reserved tract or tracts on a farm contain more land than covered by an agreement, the excess may be put to any desired use so long as crop acreage requirements under the agreement are met and if the excess land is officially measured out.

Any farm participating in both the acreage reserve and the conservation reserve must be in full compliance with both programs to qualify for any soil bank payments.

CONSERVATION RESERVE—In most instances, designated conservation reserve land and total cropland by fields have already been measured on conservation reserve farms. Now, the total acreage put to soil bank base crops in 1957 must be measured to determine if the required reduction has been made.

NAMED TO HONOR CLUB FOR POULTRYMEN

Mrs Werner Schlawin, Mr and Mrs Robert Jernigan, Paul Thiemann, Bob Schulz and Mrs Lavern Stadtlander of Klemme have won membership in a national honor club for poultry flock-owners sponsored by the Moorman Manufacturing Company, Quincy, Illinois.

They were among members of the feed company's second annual "Beat the Experts" Egg Club in 18 states announced this week.

Winners' laying flocks produced each dozen eggs during a 60-day record-keeping period with an average of 5 pounds or less total feed.

The national average is eight pounds of feed per dozen eggs. Poultry experts say that 5½ pounds is "very good" and that five pounds is "outstanding". Winners' superior care, feeding and management of their laying hens enable them to "beat the experts".

Soil Conservation District Enters Awards Program

Hancock County Soil Conservation Dictrict has entered the national Soil Conservation Awards program sponsored by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, it was announced today by District Chairman Henry Swanson of Britt, Iowa.

Members of the Hancock District will compete against other soil conservation districts in the state. Non-partisan judging committees, selected from Iowa's outstanding exponents of the soil conservation movement, will determine the state's outstanding district for the period May 1, 1957 to April 30, 1958 on a basis of total points scored in performance of regular district duties.

Grand award for one member of the winning district governing body in each of the 50 competing units, and the top cooperating farmer or rancher named by that district, will be an expense-free vacation trip to Goodyear's fabulous winter resort, the Wigwam Guest Ranch on Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Arizona, in November or December, 1958.

Members of the Hancock District governing body who will compete for the Goodyear award are: Henry Swanson, Britt; S A Barber, Kanawha; Jacob Blumer, Garner.

National winners of the Goodyear Soil Conservation Awards will be honored at the several regular area meetings of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts. Plaques will be awarded at State Conventions to the hundred first and second place winning districts.

Use Credit to Get Full Farm Return

Farm families in Cerro Gordo, Hancock, Winnebago and Worth Counties who are using credit obtained through the Farmers Home Administration are making efficient use of the funds and are maintaining a good repayment record, according to a report by the agency's county supervisor, Irwin C Christiansen.

Many farmers are using the loan funds to obtain higher grade livestock including dairy animals, to improve their pastures, to buy proper types and amounts of fertilizer, to buy machinery and equipment, and pay for farm operating expenses, and to finance similar steps toward better farming.

So far this fiscal year, or since June 30, 1956, farmers in Cerro Gordo, Hancock, Winnebago and Worth Counties have repaid a total of $267,932.55 on all types of loans.

The Farmers Home Administration provides loans to farm better, buy or improve farms, build or repair farm buildings, improve soil and water conservation practices, meet emergency needs, or take care of certain refinancing problems, Mr Christianson said.

Farmers Home Administration credit is supplied on the basis of supplementing credit from other sources, he explained. The loans are available only when other lenders are not in position to supply the credit the farmers need to get the greatest possible returns from their land and family labor resources.

The average time taken by farmers in the counties to repay their loans for farm operating purposes, and to reach the point where they can obtain the credit they need from conventional lenders, is approximately 5 years, Mr Christiansen said.

Before a loan is closed, the agency and the applicant plan ahead to make sure that every loan will be repayable from planned income.

In addition to credit, farmers with Farmers Home Administration loans receive necessary aid with farm and home management problems and in keeping records that help them to keep their farm business on a sound financial basis.

Conservation Air Tour Will Be Friday, June 21

A Soil Conservation District Air Tour will be held on Friday, June 21. Time is from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m., starting at the Garner Airport. This tour is sponsored by the Hancock County Soil Conservation District with cooperation of the Flying Farmers and the Garner Airport.

A tour route of 85 to 100 miles covering over one-half of Hancock County has been planned. Approximately 35 farms with various conservation practices will be shown from the air. Air Tour passengers will be expected to reimburse pilots for cost of operation of planes.

STUCK

A transport truck loaded with 37,000 pounds of dry beans was stuck for three hours near Sidney recently, when the tractor hit a soft shoulder and jackknifed into the ditch, with the trailer remaining on the road. It took two wreckers and three trucks to get the vehicle back on the highway.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Never Too Early

In politics it's never too early to ready for the next election.

The new Republican state chairman, L L Jurgemeyer, elected early this month, has his eye on the city vote in Iowa. That's where the Democrats came through with heavy returns as Herschel Loveless last year upset the form charts and Leo A Hoegh and is now entrenched in the Iowa chief executive's office.

Jurgemeyer has named an urban-vote committee to study the why and wherefor of the city folks' voting habits. County chairmen of the 10 largest counties will make the study under the direction of B D Silliman, Linn county chairman.

Jurgemeyer, who said he'd pursue an aggressive program, also has indicated there may be some changes in the GOP state headquarters office staff.

Looking Ahead

Iowa Democrats are at work mapping strategy for next year's campaigns too. Their state central committee met in Des Moines last weekend.

Principal item of business: The next state election and what to do about it. They are hoping for substantial gains.

They'll start a field representative on the road next month, a move designed to stir up interest in the so-called grass roots level. This will be the first such man the Democrats have employed in a good many years.

Pay More Taxes

The state tax commission reports revenue from income tax returns is running $3,462,750 ahead of the collections at this time last year.

Officials aren't quite sure whether the "take" will taper off or fall back somewhat. They report if the increase holds the income tax yield will be about $4-millions ahead of a year ago.

To date this year some 35,799 more returns have been processed than in the same period in 1956. This indicates more folks have filed returns, officials report.

Leading Counties

The Iowa Development Commission reports that 13 of the 100 leading agricultural counties in the U S are in Iowa.

A 1954 census of agriculture special report, by the U S Department of Commerce, ranks the nation's top ag counties according to the value of all farm products sold. The list includes these Iowa counties:

Pottawattamie, Sioux, Kossuth, Clinton, Plymouth, Woodbury, Benton, Cherokee, Cedar, Black Hawk, O'Brien, Hamilton, and Buena Vista.

According to the report, the value of all farm products sold in these 13 counties was more than $411-million, accounting for over 8 per cent of the total sold in the 100 top counties. These 100 counties accounted for about 20 percent of the total value of all farm products sold in the U S.

Opens Office

Lt Gov W H Nicholas, Mason City, reports he'll open his office in the State House two days each month during the interim between legislative sessions. Nicholas' office will be open the first Tuesday and Wednesday of each month, he reports.

Usually the lieutenant-governor's office, behind the Iowa senate chamber, is closed between sessions. But increased duties, Nicholas reports, necessitate his being available at the Capitol.

New Committeeman

James T Remley, Anamosa attorney, has been elected second district committeeman for the Republican state central committee. He takes the place of L L Jurgemeyer of Clinton who moved up to the state chairman's post. Remley will serve on the committee until Jurgemeyer relinquishes the top spot and returns to the district assignment.

Remley is the second Anamosa attorney in recent years to serve on the state GOP policy-making unit. Warren Rees, Anamosa, left the committee about three years ago.

College Costs More

Tuition rates at the University of Iowa, Iowa State College and Iowa State Teachers College, have been increased, effective next fall, by the Iowa Board of Regents.

The SUI increase ranges from $6 to $96 a year for residents, and non-residents fees will be up from $56 to $275 a year.

At Iowa State, tuitions will go up $33 a year for all resident undergraduates, and $93 for non-resident undergraduates.

At Iowa State Teachers, tuition will be hiked $40 a year for both resident and non-resident undergraduates.

In Labor Post

Jack McCoy of Ottumwa, a Democratic state representative in the Iowa legislative session, has assumed his duties as executive vice-president of the Iowa State Federation of Labor.

McCoy was elected to the post last January but deferred acceptance until after the legislature. He is on leave of absence from the John Morrell and Company maintenance department, Ottumwa.

Polio Decrease

There was a sharp decrease in polio cases in Iowa in 1956. The final report for the year has been released by the Iowa Department of Health.

There was a paralytic polio decrease from 525 in 1954 to 45 in 1956, the department said. Salk polio vaccinations of youngsters from three through twelve "greatly reduced" the number of polio cases, health officials declared.

Another Veto

Gov Herschel C Loveless, who campaigned against the two-and-a-half cent state sales tax, vetoed the bill passed by the legislature which continued that tax in effect.

Loveless said he vetoed the revenue bill passed by the legislature because it would raise $18-million more money than is needed.

"The people of Iowa," he said, "Do not need the state as a banker."

Policy Unit

L L Jurgemeyer, Clinton attorney and new Republican state chairman, announced in Des Moines that he plans to estabish a new small-county policy group to advise the state GOP committee on various phases of its operation.

The committee would represent the less-populated counties of the state, Jurgemeyer said, and will be designed to offer strategy tips for future campaigns, as well as finance suggestions and party platform assistance.

BAND HOUSE TO BE MOVED SOON

The Dorr Brothers Construction Company of Belmond has been hired by the Board of Education of the Klemme Community School District to move the rural school now housing the band. The building will be moved in the near future to a temporary location in the southwest corner of the school grounds. Moving of the building is necessary because part of the new addition will be built where the band house now stands. The band house will not be put on a foundation but on railroad ties. It is expected that the building will be disposed of when the new music facilities become available.

May Cooler and Wetter Than Normal for Month

May 1957 went into the record as a comparatively cool and wet month according to Earl Henschen, custodian at the Hancock County Courthouse, local weather observer. The average temperature for the month was 56.94 as compared to 60.48 for the same month last year. The maximum average for the month was 66.87 and the minimum average was 47. The highest temperature recorded during the month was 84 which occured on May 2 and 9, and the low was a cool 31 on the morning of May 4. The first week of the month had the warmest weather.

Precipitation for the month just ended was 6.20 inches for one of the wettest in recent years and the total is almost double the normal amount of rainfall for May. Precipitation fell in measureable amounts on 18 of the 31 days of the month with the heaviest amount falling in the twenty-four hour period ending at 7:00 a.m. on May 14 when 1.52 inches was recorded. In 1956 a total of 4.26 inches of precipitation fell during May. Eighteen of the thirty-one days of the month were listed as cloudy, or partly cloudy and thirteen days were listed as fair.

The frequent showers coupled with cool temperatures and cloudy days retarded the planting of crops but was ideal for the development of meadows, pastures and small grain which looked exceptionally good at the end of the month. In spite of heavy precipitation not much water stood on fields because of the extremely dry condition of the sub-soil depleted of moisure by a prolonged period of below normal precipitation. Not since July of 1956 when 7.74 inches of rain fell, has the precipitation been normal until May of this year.

"Iowa Fish and Fishing" Judged Best Book at Conservation Meeting

"Iowa Fish and Fishing" was judged the best book on conservation information for 1956 at the annual meeting of the American Association for Conservation Information held in Biloxi, Mississippi, May 22-25.

The book received top honors for general excellence over 44 states and three Canadian provinces eligible in the national cofpetition. Judges included Dr Ira N Gabrielson, President of the Wildlife Management Institute, Washington, D C; Michael Hudoba, Washington editor for Sports Afield magazine; and Charles Callison, conservation director of the National Wildlife Federation, also Washington, D C.

Now in its third publication, "Iowa Fish and Fishing" locates and describes Iowa's major fishing waters including rivers, trout streams, artificial and natural lakes, and river oxbows.

All of Iowa's major fish species also are included with especial emphasis on angling species and best techniques for catching them. Color illustrations by Maynard Reece are considered among the best fish identification portraits ever published.

Of the 24,000 copies of the book that have been sold, more than thirty percent of the sales have been outside of Iowa, proving the great popular interest the book has enjoyed outside of Iowa's borders.

Copies of "Iowa Fish and Fishing", priced at $2.50 postpaid, are available from the Iowa Conservation Commission, East 7th and Court Avenue, Des Moines, Iowa.

Square Dances Will Begin Next Week

In addition to the square dances on Saturday evenings, the Klemme Band will be on the vacant lot east of the Wellemeyer Store for a concert. First of the concerts was held last Saturday night and was well received by a good crowd.

Gordon Sawtelle, chairman of the entertainment committee, reminds all kiddies that a pet parade is on schedule for one Saturday night during the summer, so get your pets all prettied up, and on their best behavior.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Future Stakes

Gov Herschel Loveless, Iowa's first Democratic governor in some 20 years, is staking his political future on his opinion that a majority of citizens of the state do not like the present two-and-a-half cent sales tax, and are not interested in increased taxes for capital improvements at state institutions.

The governor stuck by his promise of last fall when he campaigned for a return of the sales tax to 2-cents on the dollar. He has vetoed the 2½ cent sales tax revenue bill passed in early May by the legislature. He has also vetoed capital appropriations measure of the board of regents.

Loveless drew the ire of Republican lawmakers when he said the capital improvements could be obtained without increased taxes—by transferring ten percent of the sales tax that goes to roads back to the state general fund. Republican legislators don't like that idea.

Special Session

The state legislature hasn't had a special session in a little over a decade. That is, up to this year.

Gov Loveless, after placing the veto on the revenue and capital appropriations bills said he'd call a special session for this fall. He did not say exactly but indicates to newsmen the special meeting of the legislature will probably be convened in September.

The governor is apparently hoping that summer vacations, plus time, will mellow the GOP-dominated legislature, and will find them in a better mood than if he'd called them back now.

Most Vetoes

There is no doubt but what Loveless will set a new modern record for vetoed bills by an Iowa governor.

He hoped to have all the measures acted upon by Memorial Day and early indications were that the number of vetoed bills might well reach 10, or could hit an even dozen without much trouble.

Not Kites Either

Iowans have heard of illicit check kiting schemes in recent years but a new kind of check kites has been reported. All because of tornadoes.

Mrs Joe Stewart, on a farm in southern Iowa, near Floris, has found a check drawn on a Missouri bank which U S Weather Bureau officials said most likely was blown into Iowa on a recent tornado.

A farm wife on another farm near Floris also found a Missouri check on her land since the recent tornadoes hit Missouri and near the Iowa borders to the south.

Demo Named

Paul Hellwege, Boone attorney, has been named to the Democratic state central committee. He succeeds John R Hansen of Manning who resigned from that committee to accept an appointment to the Iowa State Board of Control.

Hansen will go on the board July 1. He was appointed by Gov Loveless and has won senate confirmation.

Water Control

The Iowa Natural Resources Council is proceeding to take control of the use of water in the state for the first time. Such action was authorized by the last legislature.

The new Iowa law requires approval for the use of water in excess of 5,000 gallons a day, with four exceptions one of which is use of water for domestic and livestock purposes

Forms for applying for permission to use state water have been prepared and are available from the council. A fee of $10 is charged.

Signs Bills

Some bills the governor did sign this month include:

One appropriating $16-millions for salaries, support, maintenance and repair at state board of control institutions.

One appropriating $13,423,000 for salaries and support of the general state departments.

One appropriating $3-millions a year for state transportation aid to schools; $14,610,000 for general aid and $4-millions for supplemental aid.

Women to Meet

Some 600 women, many of whom could probably be classed as "back seat drivers", are expected to attend a women's traffic safety conference being called for July 9 by Gov Loveless.

Purpose of the conference is to develop a plan of action to promote traffic safety in every Iowa Community.

The governor's wife is a member of the conference planning committee.

Recently a state safety official lauded those Iowa women who are back seat drivers—if they didn't carry their activities too far. He said they could keep drivers alert by their words of caution.

Strauss to Speak

The chairman of the U S Atomic Energy Commission, Lewis Strauss, will speak at West Branch, the birthplace of Herbert Hoover, on June 20.

Strauss will headline the dedicatory program for the restored blacksmith shop at the Herbert Hoover Birthplace Park.

Strauss, who was presidential secretary to Mr Hoover when he was president, is president of the Hoover Birthplace Foundation.

Called Composite

The state's new GOP chairman has called Iowa's Democratic governor "a composite governor" who is "understandably schizophrenic."

L L Jurgemeyer of Clinton, GOP state chairman, made the remarks at a Republican women's meeting in the second district at Cedar Rapids.

"I'm not sure who the governor is," said Jurgemeyer, "he may be a composite of Herschel-Johnson-O'Malley."

The Johnson is Robert Johnson, the governor's assistant, and O'Malley is State Senator George O'Malley of Des Moines.

Remley Named

James T Remley, Anamosa attorney, has been named to the Republican state central committee. He becomes the second district committeeman to succeed L L Jurgemeyer, who was named to the state chairman's job.

Remley will serve until Jurgemeyer resumes his second district post on the committee.

Open Hearings

The Iowa legislative investigation committee, which has started hearings into highway commission activities, will hold open public meetings shortly.

In addition to contract padding charges, such items as land purchases and bribe offers to quit the commission are being studied.

One commissioner, Russell Lundy, Des Moines Republican, said he had been approached months ago with an offer to quit the commission. Lundy said the offers were made early this year.

Picks Banking Board

Gov Herschel Loveless has named the following to the state banking board: J Y Floerchinger, DeWitt; E Walter Nun, Ute; J H Pullman, Sidney; W P Ronan, Decorah.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Hurry! We have only seconds to review this man's life before it ends. He is pushing the car up to seventy miles an hour. He is pulling out to pass. The top of the hill is only yards away. There is very little time.

Somewhere, years and miles behind him, there is an old baseball mitt, once carefully oiled and pliant to the hand, but dry and stiff and lost in an attic. That's all we can say about his boyhood. There's so little time.

And somewhere far up on a darkened wall in a high school building, his younger face stares out from all the faces of the class of 1928.

And part of his life is behind him in the old records of companies where he worked. And part of his life is behind him in boxes and drawers, in letters that he wrote home mentioning the weather, in letters that he wrote to the girl he finally married.

Then there are the snapshots, some creased and cracked. Pictures of the kids when they were babies. Pictures of the wife when she wore short skirts because it was the style. Pictures of himself when he wore a sailor straw.

And, just behind him, just an hour behind him, is the home with the bed he slept in the night before, with his wife in the kitchen making up the grocery list, with the door he closed so casually after he said goodby for the day.

In the office, the little notes piling up on his desk for when he returns: "Mr Thompson called—Call Harvey Brothers—The shipment will be delayed—."

Everything he lived through and for is riding with him up that hill on the wrong side of the road. But now there's no more time. He'll see the truck coming in a second and there's no more time at all.

During June: A Salute To Iowa's Busy Bossies

Placid dairy cows munching contentedly in Iowa's lush green pastures deserve the salute they will receive during June, which is Dairy Month, the Iowa Development Commission says.

Although they are the picture of indolence to the casual eye, the more-than-a-million bossies on Iowa farms are responsible for Iowa's ranking as one of the nation's top dairy states.

For, the Commission says, on a 10-year average Iowa ranks second in the nation in production of creamery butter and places fourth in the U S in milk production. Last year the Hawkeye state ranked ninth in the production of American cheese, and nineteenth in ice cream production.

Iowa's dairy herds consistently supply almost 14 percent of the nation's total butter supply each year; and over 5 percent of all the milk in the nation (a yearly average of more than six billion pounds of milk).

Not only is Bossie busy, but she keeps a lot of people busy, too, the Commission claims. Approximately 7,000 Iowans are employed in Iowa's 500 dairy processing firms, earning annual payrolls of almost $22 million.

The estimated value of Iowa dairy products is about $150,000,000 and included in the nutritious dairy foods on thousands of American dinner tables are Iowa-made butter, milk, whey, ice cream, frozen desserts and dozens of varieties of cheese such as cottage cheese, cheddar cheese, brick cheese, blue cheese, Swiss cheese, beer cheese, etc.

Iowa's dairy products will be promoted especially this month, and extensive preparations have been made to make June Dairy Month in Iowa the focal point of the National Dairy Month program. Processors and distributors, magazines, newspapers, radio and television are joining forces to publicize delicious dairy foods and recipes.

And, says the Iowa Development Commission, Iowa's bossies will go on chewing their cud, quite unaware of the huge Iowa industry that depends on them, and ignorant of the fact that they started all this!

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Pasture conditions for the United States were rated the highest in five years on May 1, reports Steve Hiemstra, Iowa State College farm economist. The May 1 rating was 85 percent, as compared yith a 68 percent rating last year and a 10-year average of 81 percent.

Pastures in all areas of the country are in better shape than last year, but the Great Plains and the Southwest show the most improvement, says Hiemstra.

This year there are no "extreme drouth" areas, such as were parts of Texas and Oklahoma last year. On May 1, the poorest feed conditions were found in western Kansas and northeastern New Mexico.

Hiemstra observes that the cattle market has shown the effect of the improved pasture situation with feeder cattle being closely held on the range and a demand for restocking developing. A year ago, no spring price rise occurred; this year the market has taken a sharp jump.

Along with this, crop prospects are brighter than a year ago. Hiemstra points out that even though some crop losses have occurred because of wet weather, the winter wheat crop should be only a little smaller than last year in spite of a one-fifth reduction in seeded agreages.

Oats agreages will probably be less than expected. Some areas intended for oats will be planted in corn or soybeans, predicts Hiemstra. However, it is likely that more acres of grain sorghum will be planted than previously figured because of April rains in the plains area.

Corn planting is far behind normal right now because of the rains. Soybean-planting is also lagging, but two weeks of drying weather could change the whole picture, says Hiemstra.

Local Men at State Farm Bureau Conference

Four Hancock County Farm Bureau representatives attended the annual Iowa Farm Bureau Mid-Summer Conference in Des Moines June 3 and 4, according to FB President Kenneth Olson.

In addition to Kenneth Olson, Vice-President Gordon Upmeyer Voting Delegate Tory Nodland, and Lumen Jacobsen, the county's fieldman, are attending the meeting. Two members of the Farm Bureau's insurance service staff—Charles F Jackson and Arthur Chelsvig—will be attending a sales campaign kick-off meeting at the same time.

One of the major purposes of the Mid-Summer meeting is to get ideas from leaders on what isues Farm Bureau members want to discuss in this fall's resolutions process. Members have been encouraged to make suggestions to any of the county leaders. A special meeting of the Vice-Presidents from the 100 county Farm Bureaus will be held to "pool" the members' ideas.

AVERY SUNBEAMS MET

The Avery Sunbeams met at the home of JoAnn Helps in May. We held our annual Mother's Day Tea. For roll call we pinned red carnations on our mothers. Elsie Mae Van Wert and our Good Grooming judges were also our guests. Della Mae Avery was chosen our Senior best groomed girl and JoAnn Helps was chosen alternate. Merrie June Reinhart was chosen as our Junior better groomed girl and Dorothy Ostendorf as Intermediate best groomed girl.

Della Mae Avery gave a health talk on Care of Hands and Nails. Merrie June Reinhart led the discussion on When Does a 4-H Girl Act as a Nurse. Diane Avery gave a talk on Points to Remember When Buying Fabric. Kathleen James and Karen Wood gave a team demonstration on Selection of Pattern According to Measurements.

Boys 4-H Clubs Plan June Tour

June is 4-H club tour month for most of the boys' 4-H clubs in the county, according to Ed Bruns, Youth Assistant. Many of the clubs have completed plans for their annual tour.

All club tours are equal in one respect. Members visit the place of each member to look at his project. Various comments are made and these comments can be very educational for those attending.

The most successful tours are those that are attended by the entire family instead of just the member. Everyone gets together as a group. There is usually more interest, enthusiasm and fun. The tour starts out in the morning, all projects are viewed, there may be a judging workout or showmanship demonstration. The tour ends at noon with a potluck picnic dinner. After dinner, there may be a ball game if the boys can talk "Dad" into it.

These tours are a large annual affair in many clubs and can do much to help the community, both socially and educationally.

BREDE HERD HIGH IN COUNTY DHIA FOR PAST TWO MONTHS

The herd of grade Holsteins owned by Dale Brede has been high in the Hancock County DHIA for both April and May.

In April with 14 cows on test and 13 in milk, the herd averaged 1,475.7 pounds of milk and 58.2 pounds of butterfat at a feed cost of $12.41 per cow.

In May, still with 14 cows on test and 13 in milk, the herd averaged 1,638.5 pounds of milk and 60 pounds of butterfat at a feed cost of $16.91 per cow.

Other local farmers who had high producing herds were Mitchell Bock, W H Greiman & Farm Company, Cecil Katter and Sons, and Cook and Miller.

DELEGATES TO CAMP AND SHORT COURSE CHOSEN

Daryl Hansen was chosen as delegate to Short Course at Ames, June 25-27, and Richard Eliason as alternate; as representatives to 4-H camp at Clear Lake, June 12-14, Harlan Thompson and David Kudej were elected at the Twin Lake Indian's meeting at the home of David Kudej on May 13. The club also decided to give $10 toward a cement floor for the new girls' 4-H building at the fairgrounds. After the meeting, David Kudej gave a demonstration on measuring percent of slope, and David Eliason led a discussion topic on "Sitting Down and Rising". Due to electric power failure, the meeting and lunch were enjoyed by candlelight. Reporter, David W Eliason.

TWIN LAKE GIRLS GIVE $20 TO FAIR BUILDING

The meeting of the Twin Lake Go Getters was held May 11 at the home of Theresa Lowenberg, 15 members, 4 leaders and 2 visitors were present. The Twin Lake Go Getters voted to give $20 to the county Junior Fair Board toward the concrete floor in the new 4-H girls' building. Marcella Nuehring and Marilyn Pals were chosen to sing in the choir at Rally Day. Patty Burk is our candidate for county office. Karen Nuehring is voting delegate. Demonstrations were given by Wanda Mason on laying on a pattern and cutting it out; Patty Burk on how to stay stitch and Rita Hansen on care and selection of shoes. The next meeting is an all day meeting at the home of Gloria and Rita Hansen.

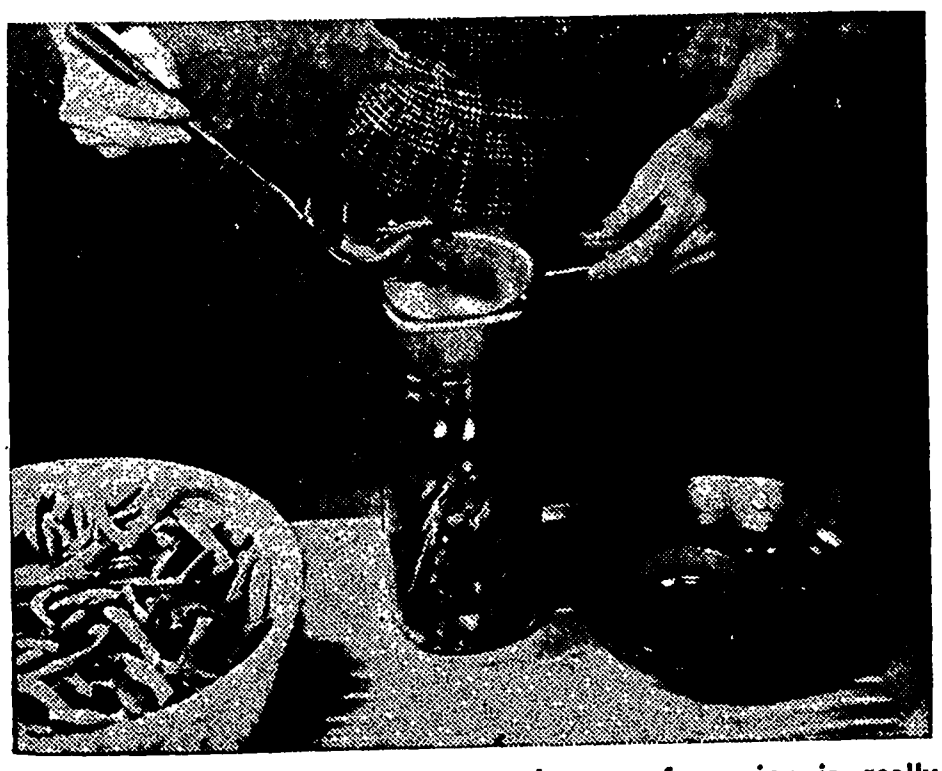
Nutrition Researchers Find—

Safer, Surer Home Canning Methods



Now we're sure that the raw pack way of canning is really safe. You can either raw pack or hot pack snap beans. Pack the 1-inch pieces into quart jars or pint jars. Add 1 teaspoon of salt to quarts, ½ teaspoon to pints, cover with boiling water, leaving ½ inch space at the top.

Follow the safer, surer canning methods when you put up fruits and vegetables this summer. Not that the old way of canning isn't basically all right. But home economics researchers at the United States Department of Agriculture have been studying canning procedures for a long time, and last summer they announced some new canning methods.

Now we know that the raw pack—a method used by many homemakers in the past but not perfected—is really safe. The researchers have also given us processing times that are even more exact and safe. By using these new canning methods, your canned fruits and vegetables will be of excellent quality, say nutritionists at Iowa State College. They'll keep their characteristic texture, color and flavor.

Time Shortened, Lengthened

The new recommendations are based on heat penetration—how long it takes heat to go through the food to destroy food spoilage organisms and make the food safe for eating. Here are the changes to note: (1) Tested timetables for both raw and precooked foods have been set up. (2) Some processing times have been shortened and others lengthened.

Here are the fruits and vegetables that you can raw pack satisfactorily: cherries, peaches, berries (except strawberries), apricots, pears, plums, tomatoes, asparagus, fresh lima beans, snap beans, carrots, corn (cream style and kernel) and peas.

To raw pack fruits, place cold raw fruit in containers and cover with boiling hot sirup, juice or water. Press tomatoes down in containers so they are covered with their own juice—do not add water. Pack cold raw vegetables in containers and cover with boiling water. Pack raw foods tightly because they shrink during processing.

For specific directions and recommended processing times, refer to reprint FS-664, Here Are the New Canning Recommendations, and Pamphlet 88, They are available from your county extension office or from the Publications Distribution Room, Morrill Hall, Iowa State College, Ames.

Researchers found that heat penetrates less solid food more quickly than had been previously thought. So they recommend shorter processing time for those foods. They retain more of their natural texture, color, flavor and in some foods vitamin C.

Longer processing times are recommended for greens, pumpkin, squash, dry baked beans and carrots—all solid foods. Heat must penetrate them thoroughly to make them safe. For many foods, both raw and hot pack methods require the same processing times. In this case you'll want to consider the time-saving factor.

Boiling Water for Acid Foods

You can process fruits, tomatoes, sauerkraut and picked vegetables in a boiling water bath. All other foods—the low-acid foods—require the pressure canner. If you raw pack foods that will be processed in a boiling water bath, have the water in the canner hot when you put in the jars. Then bring the water to boiling and start counting the processing time.

If you do lots of canning, you'll probably put up some snap beans next month. To raw pack snap beans, process in pressure canner at 10 pounds of pressure: pints, 20 minutes and quarts, 25 minutes. The hot pack method hasn't changed, and the processing time is the same as for raw packs.

The meeting adjourned and lunch was served by the hostess and her assistant, Miss Minnie Lenz.

The next meeting of the group will be a picnic July 14 at the Elmer Arnold home.

Meeting called to order by Mayor Cook with Councilmen Buseman, Josten, Lemke, Schaefer, and Schulz present.

The following citizens were also present at the meeting: Don Bacon, Wallace Eichorn, Henry Wessels, Glenn Osman, Dale Linahon, Kenneth Kluckhohn, Bert Lieuwen, and Edmund K. Josten.

Representatives of the Klemme Commercial Club reported that said Club has appointed a Committee to tear down the band stand in the park, saving usable lumber to be used in construction of a shelter house which the Club desires to erect in the park. Motion was made by Lemke, seconded by Schaefer, and carried that Town Council approve said project, provided plans for shelter house are presented to Council for approval.

Klemme Commercial Club asked permission to hold entertainment on Main Street each Saturday night during the summer months, closing off the one block of Main Street during said entertainment. Council decided this can be done provided the Commercial Club secures permission from Highway Commission to close the block of Main Street, and provided Commercial Club assumes full responsibility leaving Town free of all claims in case of accident or legal proceedings against the Town or any officer of the Town.

Motion was made by Schulz, seconded by Josten, and carried that seals be placed on all water meters as soon as possible.

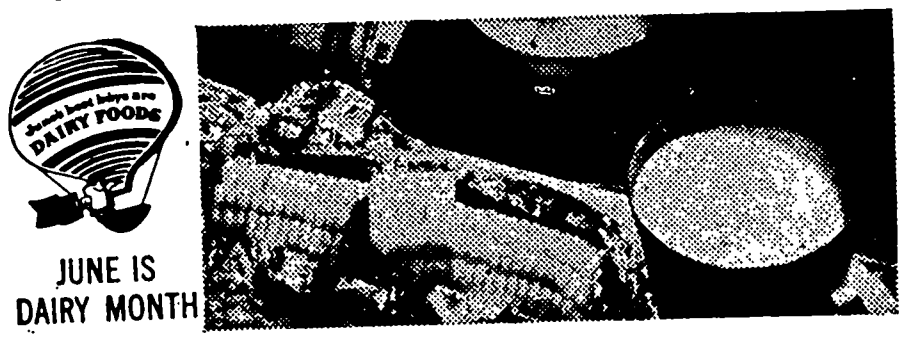
How dairy foods help you give your family better tasting meals



JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH

Dairy foods complement each other . . . add their fresh, extra good taste to your meals. In cooking or baking, for instance, butter adds its naturally delicious flavor in a way that imitations can't match. (Nothing adds as much good taste to food as butter.) Substitute for dairy foods and you substitute for flavor. Serve nutritious dairy foods often.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Things are really moving constructionwise in Klemme. The new educational wing and new parsonage at the E & R Church is coming along, the Klemme Co-op Grain Co is practically through with their building and remodeling, contracts will soon be let for the new school and repair of the old one, hopes are high that the shelter house in the park will be done before too much time elapses, and new coats of paint are blossoming out on store fronts and houses on Main Street.

The new educational wing and new parsonage at the E & R Church will be a fine improvement to the town and will make our churches more a credit than ever . . . and they were good before.

The new school and a new face on the old one will show visitors to Klemme that we are progressive and value our children . . . and have high hopes for their future.

The new warehouse and remodled office, mill and elevator at the Klemme Co-op Grain Co shows that there is good progressive business in Klemme.

The shelter house in the park will show that we want our park to be of the most use to those who want to picnic and hold family reunions. When added to the playing slab, installed a few years ago by the Lions Club, and the horseshoe pitching courts installed last year by the same club, it will make the park a complete recreational facility for the community.

The new paint jobs blossoming out in town show that there is pride among our citizens . . . in fact all of these improvements show pride and point to our community as a good place to live.

Plenty of rain the past month has brought forth an extremely vigorous and large crop of mosquitoes. Consequently, the Town Council has decided that it is time to spray for the pests. Good deal! We like to be outdoors and enjoy ourselves, but we don't approve of mosquitoes enjoying our being outdoors.

Speaking of spraying, a hole drilled in the wall of the post office building and some well directed spray, seems to have gotten rid of the bees that have made their home in the wall of the building for a number of years. They had been getting by pretty easy since they hadn't been bothering anyone, but the other day they were swarming and were in a rather bad mood. Several people were stung. Hence the hole and the spray. Apparently complete destruction.

Although the cool weather of a week or so ago was detrimental to a fast start for corn and beans, still it was just the checker for oats, hay and pasture. Many fields of oats are beginning to head out, hay looks like a bumper crop, pastures look fine, and now that warm weather has returned, corn and beans are beginning to stretch. An occasional rain through the summer and harvest this fall should be a thing of joy.

Mitchell Bock's Herd Third High In County According to Report

Dairy cows tested in the Hancock Co-op. Dairy Herd Improvement Association last year averaged 11,966 pounds of milk containing 441 pounds of butterfat per cow. The production is 5,696 pounds more milk and 209 pounds more butterfat than the average for all Iowa dairy cows.

These facts were among many brought out in the annual summary of production records of 451 cows tested in the Hancock Co-op. DHIA. At their annual meeting held June 3 at Britt, association members compared the records of their herds for the results of feeding according to production, careful culling in the herd, and other dairy practices they follow in the DHIA program.

The herd of 25 Holsteins owned by Fern Huling and Sons of Britt recorded the highest average production per cow—16,593 pounds of milk and 602.4 pounds of butterfat. The next highest ranking herd was 24 Holsteins owned by Cletus A Stalzer of Britt, which averaged 14,670 pounds of milk and 505.4 pounds of butterfat per cow. Twenty-one Holsteins owned by Mitchell Bock of Klemme, ranked third with average production of 13,913 pounds of milk and 498.5 pounds of butterfat per cow.

A comparison of the five high herds in the association with the five low herds show the following differences: The average production per cow in the high herds was 14,535 pounds of milk and 521 pounds of butterfat. In the low herds average production was 9,741 pounds of milk and 365 pounds of butterfat.

The herds in the high group were fed more hay, silage, and grain than were the low herds resulting in a higher feed cost per cow. The average cost per cow in the high herds was $170 while it was $141 in the low group. The feed cost represents about one-half of the total cost of production.

While the feed costs were greater in the high group, their return above the cost of feed was also greater. The value of the milk and cream above the cost of feed was $311 per cow in the five high herds compared to $187 in the five low herds. The average return for all cows in the Hancock Co-op. Association was $240.

Floyd J Arnold, extension dairy specialist, at Iowa State College, met with Hancock Co-op DHIA members to present the association's annual summary and discuss recommended dairy farming practices. Mr and Mrs Max Hunt of Garner serve the association as supervisors.

Council Approves Plans For Park Shelter House

The Town Council met Monday night and during the course of the meeting, Henry Wessels, chairman of the Commercial Club Shelter House Committee, presented plans to the council.

The plans, which call for a structure 24' X 48', were approved by the council and as soon as financing can be arranged, construction will get underway.

Present plans call for the shelter house to be located in the center of the park. The north end of the building will contain two rest rooms which will be of block construction and the rest of the building will be open from the eaves down.

More information, including a picture of a similar building, will appear in next week's issue of The Times.

First Square Dance This Saturday Night

The first square dance of the summer will be held Saturday evening on Main Street with one block of the street being roped off for the event. The dance will begin soon after the band concert is done for the evening and the hour-long band concert will begin at 8 o'clock.

The street will be roped off at eight o'clock, but will be open to short-time parking prior to that for those who want to get their shopping done early.

The Commercial Club asks for a little cooperation on the short-time parking and in driving carefully so that over-eager children will not get hurt before the street is roped off. Your cooperation is also requested in keeping the street clean, so that dancers will be able to fully enjoy the evening.

Caller for the first dance will be Leroy Bruhn of Chapin, who is a regular caller on square dance programs at KGLO TV, Mason City.

You are cordially invited to be on hand Saturday night for both the band concert and the square dance. Members of the Klemme Commercial Club hope that you will enjoy yourselves.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Assess Actions

Iowa politicos are still trying to assess the strength or weakness of both parties.

Republicans are contending the Democratic governor's veto of 14 bills was a mistake, not generally acceptable, and one that will win Republican gubernatorial votes next fall.

Democrats, on the other hand, feel the Republican-dominated assembly passed too much so-called special interest legislation that forced the vetoes.

Governor Loveless reports his correspondence is over-whelmingly in support of his actions. Lt Gov W H Nicholas, top GOP elective official, who is making speaking engagements all over the state, contends that the Republican party has made great strides since Loveless went on his veto binge.

Loveless has indicated he will call a special session in September to act on appropriations matter, particularly capital appropriations for the state's schools of higher aducation.

Veto Marks

An enterprising reporter made a quick check of records and found that Iowa's state and territorial governors have vetoed a total of 151 bills.

Governor Loveless apparently has established the record with his 14 vetoes in his first months in office.

Gov Robert Blue had vetoed 10 legislative measures and Gov Robert Lucas, first territorial chief executive of the state, vetoed 11 acts.

Governor Loveless' total represented almost 10 percent of the vetoed bills.

Quits GOP Post

William McCuen, Jefferson, executive secretary of the state Republican central committee, has resigned effective at the end of this month. McCuen had been on the job since the spring of 1955.

L L Jurgemeyer, state GOP chairman, has indicated that the committee is searching not only for an executive secretary but also a publicity man to help with the coming state campaigns.

Abe Barron, publisher of the Iowa Commerce magazine, has been retained to handle publicity on a temporary basis until the vacancies are filled.

Iowa Welcomes You

A new 100-page booklet on the history of the state of Iowa is now available at the State House and from the state printer.

The pamphlet, particularly designed for the tourist trade, is named "Iowa Welcomes You".

It is one of the first such pamphlets to have the picture of the new Democratic governor. Up until recently, state employees were passing out books that were somewhat outdated in that they contained pictures of Gov Leo A Hoegh, defeated last fall by Loveless.

Campaign Ahead

Dale Kramer, Sigourney, well known writer, was defeated last year by Stephen Carter, Leon, in the primary contest for congress on the Democratic ticket. The next campaign is in 1958 but Kramer apparently has already opened it by mailing a letter to district Democrats in which he was quite critical of the party's district nominee of 1956. Carter lost in the general election to Congressman Karl LeCompte, Republican, who was the incumbent.

Road Fund Veto

Among the last bills vetoed by the governor was one which would have permitted state farm-to-market roads money to be used in secondary road resurfacing.

The governor said the U S government does not share in the resurfacing costs of the farm-to-market roads and thus the state would not be aided in meeting the costs.

No New Car

Gov Loveless is determined not to become involved in a new car controversy during his term.

The present governor's auto was purchased by the state in 1956 for then Gov Hoegh. Because of a law that puts a $2,000 retail ceiling on cars purchased for state use, it was necessary to obtain an unusually good "deal" from a dealer in order to buy the big Oldsmobile sedan for Hoegh. There was some objection.

Loveless reports the 1956 vehicle is sufficiently good for his uses and he doesn't plan to purchase another new one now.

Salt-Proof Paint

The state is looking for a salt-proof paint to use on auto license plates next year.

Production of 1958 plates, at the license factory at the Anamosa Reformatory, has been somewhat delayed because a suitable paint hasn't been found. Officials want one that will withstand salt thrown up from the concrete during winter months.

Meantime, the license plate factory continues to stamp out the year's supply of 1,300,000. Some 50,000 plates already made must be redone because the paint on these would not stand the salt treatment tests.

To Federal Job

Howard L Benshoof, director of the Iowa division of rehabilitation for the last 10 years, has become regional representative for the federal office of vocational rehabilitation. He has been given a year's leave of absence to serve in the U S assignment.

Merrill E Hunt, assistant director, succeeds Benshoof.

Atomic Plant

An atomic power plant will be constructed in Minnesota just north of the Iowa line.

Formal application to build the atomic power plant has been filed with the Atomic Energy Commission by Northern States Power Co., Minneapolis, in collaboration with the Central Utilities Associates.

This latter group includes three Iowa utilities, Iowa Power and Light Co., Des Moines; Interstate Power Co., Dubuque and Iowa Southern Utilities, Centerville.

Road Jobs Let

Nearly $4 and ½ millions in road work was let by the Iowa Highway Commission at its last letting. The work, in all parts of the state, includes grading, bridging and surfacing.

Farm Plans

The executive committee of the Midwest Conference Democrats, a nine state representation, met recently in Des Moines and charged that the Republicans are "dominated by leaders who do not recognize the importance of farm production and farm income in our national economy".

Jake More, Iowa State Demo chairman, is chairman of the Midwest group.

A series of resolutions urging support for the Democratic farm program, and attacking the GOP farm planks were passed at the meeting.

Child Aid Soars

The number of Iowans receiving ADC (aid to dependent children) payments has increased 2,500 in ten months, the state social welfare department reports.

The upward trend is causing some concern among state officials. County welfare officials over the state have been alerted to keep extra close watch on ADC cases.

There are 27,115 persons on ADC rolls in Iowa. The average payment is $35.67 a month. Last July there were 24,605 on the rolls receiving an average check of $30.97.

Vetoes Attorney Bill

One of the 14 bills vetoed by Gov Loveless was one much desired by Iowa's Attorney General, Norman Erbe.

The measure would have extended the appointment power of the attorney general to name assistant attorney generals for the department of public instruction, state conservation commission and state health departments. He now has authority to appoint assistants for the highway commission, state tax commission and social welfare department.

Erbe wanted the bill to assure trained staff men in the divisions outlined. Attorneys in those departments where he doesn't have men, Erbe said, frequently call upon the attorney general's staff for assistance anyway. He has contended better service can be offered by his own staff members.

The governor's veto measure of the bill held that "professional employees of each department of state government should be selected by the responsible officer or board of each department.

CHEVROLET OFFERS 'LITTER BAG'

Coming at the outset of the vacation travel season, introduction of a new Chevrolet accessory—the Litter Bag—calls attention to the year-round responsibility of keeping streets and highways free of trash. A purse-style plastic container which fits beneath the glove compartment and slips off easily for emptying, the Litter Bag is demonsfrated here by Barbara Sias. The accessory helps combat a highway littering problem which cost taxpayers over $30,000,000 last year. States levy stiff penalties against those who toss litter on the highways.

The Most Nearly Perfect Food—

Milk is Unusual yet Common Food

These Cub Scouts are making an extra-rich milk drink—maple sirup, milk, and a topping of ice cream or whipped cream. The youngsters get more of the milk they need, and have fun serving themselves.

Milk is probably the most unusual food in the world. And at the same time it's one of the most common. This paradox is really simpler than it sounds. Milk is unusual because it's an almost perfect food—it contains almost everything that makes food good for us. Milk is common because it's a food that almost everyone eats and because it's so plentiful all year long.

Here's what milk has: the B vitamin (thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, B-12) and small amounts of vitamin A, C and D. Calcium is the mineral that milk is noted for. In fact, it's hard to get enough calcium unless you get part of it from milk, or milk products, says Leslie Smith, extension nutritionist at Iowa State College. Milk also gives you the minerals iron and phosphorus.

Most foods contain proteins, carbohydrates or fats, or a combination of these. Whole milk contains all three in forms our bodies can easily use.

June Dairy Month

June is National Dairy Month, so it's a good time to check and see if you and your family are getting enough milk. Youngsters need at least 3 to 4 cups of milk every day to stay in good condition, says Mrs Smith. Adults require at least 2 cups of milk each day.

Don't forget the nutritional value of other dairy products that fit into well-planned meals and snacks — cheese sandwiches for noon lunch boxes, cottage cheese for cool salads, ice cream for easy, refreshing desserts and drinks.

Active youngsters like a milk drink with a special flavor. For something a little different, Mrs Smith suggests this recipe for maple cooler. Combine ¾ cup of maple-flavored table sirup, 1 teaspoon of vanilla extract, 6 cups cold milk and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Beat one minute. Pour into six glasses. Then add a puff of whipped cream or a scoop of ice cream to each glass.

It's a good idea to take out some insurance against running short of milk these hot summer months. You can do this by keeping a supply of evaporated milk on hand.

These handy dairy foods take up little space, don't need refrigeration and are very nutritious. And the comparative low cost of these products is another good reason for using them.

Concentrated Products

Evaporated milk is homogenized whole milk, concentrated to half its original volume by evaporation of part of the natural water. You can buy evaporated skimmilk, if you like. Non-fat dry milk has all the nourishment of fresh skimmilk. Sweetened condensed milk, with its high sugar content, won't freeze even if you leave it at the summer cottage over the winter months.

These handy space-savers will help brighten your meals whether you have plenty of fluid milk on hand or not. Whipped evaporated milk substitutes for whipped cream in desserts. Sweetened condensed milk makes extra-rich fudge, salad dressings, cream sauces for desserts, goes on cereals and in hot or iced coffee. Non-fat dry milk adds richness to any recipe without concern for changing the moisture content.

To make a whipped topping for desserts, place ½ cup water in a bowl and add ½ cup dry milk, slowly. Beat with a rotary beater or electric mixer until quite stiff—about 10 minutes. Add ¼ to ½ cup sugar and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Chill before serving. This makes 2½ cups topping.

● Hay Safety

mittee reports that many farmers who have been crippled or maimed in hay harvesting mishaps admit that in the rush to get the hay crop harvested during ideal weather, simple, but important safety rules were neglected. Extension Director Henderson says he is urging Hancock County farmers to join the committee's efforts to improve this safety record this year.

Dale Hull, an Iowa State College agricultural engineer and a member of the committee, says records indicate operators of hay balers should be especially alert. Last year, balers accounted for 10 accidents. General hay harvesting mishaps, including falls from hay stacks and hay racks, and injuries resulting from heavy lifting, accounted for 18 accidents severe enough to require hospitalization.

Six accidents were attributed to hay choppers and five to hay mowers. It's estimated that about 10 other farm accidents occuring during the hay harvesting season aren't included in the summary. In one instance, a man died as a result of silo suffocation, says Hull.

He adds that often-repeated rules of safe farm machinery operation need to be strictly enforced. One rule worth repeating is making sure the power takeoff is disengaged before dismounting from the tractor. Keep in mind, says Hull, that it pays to make hay while the sun shines —but only if you take the time needed to do the job safely.

New Oats Will Be On Display This Summer

New oat varieties that many Hancock County farmers may be planting next year will be on display this summer, says Paul Henderson, County Extension director. They're the Newton and Burnett oats.

Demonstration plots of Newton and Burnett oats are located on the North Iowa Experimental Farm here in Hancock County, Henderson says.

The new oat varieties might also be inspected in the fields of certified seed growers in Hancock County. These growers will have seed of Newton available for 1958 planting. Seed of Burnett is being grown under contract. It will be alloted by the county seed distribution committee, Henderson says. A list of certified seed growers may be obtained at the extension office in Garner.

Both Newton and Burnett oats represent progress toward the "perfect" variety, in the estimation of Agronomist Kenneth Frey of Iowa State College, Henderson reports.

Frey says neither Newton nor Burnett is perfect. Nor are they superior to currently named recommended varieties in all characteristics. For the years 1952 through 1954, Burnett yielded 5 bushels per acre more than Missouri 0-205, 14 bushels more than Clintland, and 18 bushels more than Cherokee.

In the three-year period, 1954-1956, Burnett outyielded Clintland and Cherokee by 11 and 15 bushels per acre respectively.

Burnett seems to show greater superiority in central and northern Iowa. So the Committee for Agricultural Development at Iowa State College released Burnett seed for 1957 planting in the northern two-thirds of the state. It released Newton to certified seed producers throughout Iowa.

Farm Costs

The cost of farm labor has increased at a greater rate than other farm costs over the last 15 years, reports Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Kutish points out that as long as labor costs increase faster than other costs, farmers will tend to substitute other production factors for manpower.

It is encouraging a farmer to work more acres, although he may get lower yields per acre. And, says Kutish, it means that a farmer may milk more cows or raise more litters of pigs, even though he gets less milk per cow and saves fewer pigs per litter.

A United States Department of Agriculture cost study indicates that farmers are buying more goods and services than previously in an attempt to offset the labor cost increase. The study showed that on the average, each farm has more than tripled its buying of feed, fertilizer and lime, petroleum, fuel and oil since the 1935-39 period.

Kutish points out that these increased purchases have helped double farm output since 1935. During this same period, farmers have decreased their use of hired labor by 55 percent.

The Iowa State College farm economist also notes a rise in other farm costs. Farmers paid about five percent more for goods and services this spring than they did a year ago. The only important farm production cost that didn't show a net price boost in the last year is fertilizer.

The United States Department of Agriculture reports that this year farm costs showed the following percentage increases as compared with a year earlier: Mortgage interest rates—up 22 percent; feeder livestock—up 11 percent; farm real estate—up 7 percent; motor vehicles—up 7 percent; motor supplies—up 5 percent; farm machinery—up 5 percent; farm real estate taxes per acre—up 5 percent; farm supplies—up 4 percent; seed—up 4 percent; wage rates—up 2 percent; building and fencing materials—up 3 percent; feed—up 2 percent.

Huge Soil Loss From Sheet Erosion Can Be Stopped By Contouring

Rains during May caused considerable damage due to sheet erosion, reports Vernon Moss, Soil Conservation Service technician at Garner.

Before the rains, a lot of folks were talking about the dry conditions and the clouds of soil blowing. Since the rains there has been very little soil blowing, but the loss through sheet erosion is severe. Estimates of soil loss from the spring rains amount to more than 20 tons per acre. This is based on rills 100 feet long, 2 inches wide and 3 inches deep between corn rows. Soil scientists advise that in planting farms for conservation farming, soil loss on Clarion soil held to 4 to 5 tons per acre per year. This loss from sheet erosion doesn't get much attention since once over with a cultivator or drag erases most of the rills. The soil is gone however, and the damage can't be undone. Farm land is generally considered a good investment which will yield a return each year. How long will land be a good investment if the top soil is permitted to erode away four times faster than what is safe?

Contour farming is a simple practice which can be practiced by every farmer with his present equipment. While not a cure-all, it will reduce runoff and soil loss to one-half the amount with up and down hill farming. Every implement mark on the contour is a little barrier against runoff and erosion. When field operations are up and down hill, each implement mark is a trough to carry off water and top soil.

There is an increase in contouring this year over last and we are thankful for this increase. The needless waste of topsoil to erosion, which occurred throughout the county is hard to understand. Soil Stewardship Week, which has just ended, brought to our attention through Churches the need for care of our soil. Each rill which appears on a hillside after a rain and each gully that appears on farm land are reminders that erosion is stealing our soil and depriving present and future generations of their rightful heritage. Bank robbers and others who steal money or property aren't permitted to go unchecked, so why let erosion go unchecked?

Obituary of Edward H. Becker

(By Rev. E. H. Lauer)

Edward Heinrick was the son of William and Barbara nee Hass Becker. He was born on the family farm near Klemme, Iowa, January 5, 1887. Born and reared in the country, farming became his occupation and remained his life-long interest even though he retired from active farming some 18 years ago when he and his wife moved to Klemme.

He was baptised as an infant June 5, 1887. Reared in a Christian home, he became an active member of the Evangelical and Reformed Church by rite of confirmation April 5, 1905, and remained a loyal and faithful member until his death. He served his church in various capacities throughout the years. Among the ways he served were terms on the consistory both as elder and deacon. At the time of his death he was serving on the special Finance Committee to secure funds for the erection of a Christian education building and a parsonage.

Mr. Becker was united in marriage with Gail Buss, March 12, 1931. One son, Edward Henry, graced their household for a brief time and was then called away in death. Eugene Haberkamp, child of a deceased sister, became his official ward in whom he took much interest.

Although he had not enjoyed the best of health in recent years, death came to Mr. Becker quite unexpectedly June 5, 1957, in Mercy Hospital, Mason City, where he had been taken the previous night.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Louise Josten, Anna and Rosa Becker, all of Klemme; one brother, Fred, of Clear Lake; his nephew, Eugene Haberkamp, Odebolt; and other neices and nephews, relatives and friends.

Finger Points ot Rural Drivers for Big Fatality Increase on County Roads

Iowa's county road drivers "have thrown away the best chance we've had in years to improve the state's traffic safety record," a state safety official charged recently.

Russell Brown, state safety education director, said there have been 54 fatal traffic accidents on county roads during the first 4 months of this year compared to 30 in the same months last year.

"That's the biggest increase on our books today and it's pointing right at the rural driver," Brown said. He said fatal accidents on the much heavier traveled primary highways are down from 92 in the first quarter of 1956 at 75 this year.

He said the increase in accidents on county roads this year is mainly responsible for the state's loss of headway in what was a sharply improved safety record.

"At the end of the first three months of this year we had 31 fewer deaths than at the same time last year," Brown said. "Now, at the end of four months, we're within 13 deaths of matching the killing pace that set an all-time fatality record in Iowa last year."

With the summer months of heavy travel coming on, Brown said it's going to be "almost impossible to improve or even hold our position unless drivers start using their heads for something besides hair tonic and permanent waves."

According to state safety department records, 186 persons have been killed in 166 Iowa fatal traffic accidents during the first four months of this year compared to 199 killed in 169 accidents in the same period last year.

"The whole picture to date shows up one fact: there's something very wrong in the habits or attitudes of rural drivers," Brown said.

"From a traffic standpoint, the county roads should be among the safest in the state," Brown said. "It's possible that the people making most use of these roads feel they are almost private property where they can drive any way they feel like driving."

Brown said he realized that some of the fatal accidents on county roads involved city drivers and teen-agers.

"But the fact remains," he said, "that the teen-age driver has improved his record this year." Safety department records show that 31 teen-age drivers have been involved in fatal accidents during the first quarter of this year compared to 39 in the same time last year.

Brown said the state will lose what little advantage is left over last year's death record "unless the rural driver wakes up to the facts of life and death in the automobile.

"The traffic fatality isn't something that happens only to the city driver rolling along a primary highway," Brown said.

He warned drivers on county roads to reduce speeds according to conditions of the road surface, to be especially cautious at intersections, and to come to a complete stop, as required by state law, when entering a road from a farm lane.

"Above all," he warned, "respect county roads for what they are—public thoroughfares—and not private lanes."

Air Tour In Connection With Conservation Week

Commissioners of Hancock County Soil Conservation District and Flying Farmers in Hancock County are planning an Air Tour for Friday, June 21. This event has been scheduled for Soil Conservation Week to give farmers, land owners and town people a chance to view from the air, some conservation on the land. With the severe sheet erosion caused by our May rains still evident in many places, folks on the tour should be able to make comparasions of farms with Conservation and farms without.

Plans are to start the tour at the Garner Airport and fly over farms in Concord and Garfield Townships, operated by Jake Blumer, Larry Juhl, Carl Hoeft, Vern Grau and Curtis Jante. All these farms have contouring and grassed waterways and some have terraces and tile drainage. From Garfield Township, the flight plan is to go to Ellington Township and fly over the Merle Hall, Jay Brooker, Paul Paulson, Wilbur Olson and Earl Monson farms. Next will be the Teget farm in Crystal Township which is operated by Wm Peck. The tour will then continue south, following Highway No 111. South of Crystal Lake, the Gordon Volding, Lawrence Nielson, Roy Rogness, Leo Paulson and Sanford Rogness farms can be seen. Continuing south of Britt, the tour will go over the Cecil Hildebrand, Fay Foster, Martin Hinders and Martin VanderPloeg farms in Erin Township, approximately 5 miles farther south, the tour route turns east to go over the Freerkson farm operated by Oren Thompson and the Rankin farm operated by Kermit Engh. East and south of Kermit Engh, the route goes over the Ole G Eliason, Clarence Eliason, Lloyd Carpenter, Carleton D Beh and Wm Janssen farms in Twin Lake Township. In Avery Township, terraces built last fall, will be seen on the Harlan Avery farm and contouring can be seen at Ed Green and Wm Reinhardt farms. The tour will continue north to the Laurence Radloff farm in Ell Township, then west to Frank Zrostlik in Liberty Township and back to the Garner Airport. Total length of the tour will be 85 to 100 miles and will take approximately 45 minutes. This will be an opportunity to see over one-half of Hancock County on one trip. Pilots will have maps and a list of the farms to be seen with the practices to look for on each farm.

Flying Farmers are contributing their time and planes for this event. Those going on the tour are expected to reimburse pilots for operating costs of their planes.

EMERGENCY

Three years ago a hatchery at Dysart purchased an auxiliary electricity generator, just in case of power failure. When a severe electrical storm cut off the main source of power recently, the emergency generator went into action and saved the lives of many baby chicks. About 23,000 were born the next morning.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Story of a young man who liked to be seen going and coming, though he ended up by going in one direction only—out. This young man of peculiar habits once functioned on the country roads around a southeast Iowa city. This is the report on him.

He spent much time and patience adjusting the brakes on his hot-rod type car. Safety conscious? No, just conscious. For the adjustment he made was such that when the brakes were applied sharply at a good speed, the car jumped so far to the left that it ended up almost broadside in the road. He was a quick turn artist.

With his car so equipped, it was the young man's simple pleasure to go driving on the country roads until he found another car going in the same direction.

He would trail the car closely for a time, then pass and remain just ahead until a hill or sharp curve came up.

Dropping over the hill or out of sight around the curve, he would slam on his crazy brakes. The car would jump and skid broadside to the left, turning almost completely around in the road.

A second later when the following car came in sight, the young man would be driving back on the way he had come. The people in the other car would be properly mystified and our young man would swell with some kind of misguided joy.

The quick-turn artist is no longer practicing his art. The day came when his brakes and speed caused the car to overturn. The boy and his car rolled down the highway and out of the picture.

Phillipino at Assessor's Office in Garner for Week

Juvenal Ragat Raguini, of Santa Maria, Castillejos, Zambales, Phillipines, is spending this week in the Hancock County Assessor's office, under the auspices of the International Cooperation Administration, in cooperation with U S Department of Agriculture and Land Grant Colleges.

Raguini arrived in the U S on January 29, 1957, spent from February 1 to 15 in Washington, D C; from February 18 to March 1st, he was with the Farmers Home Administration, U S D A, Little Rock, Arkansas. He then went to Columbia, South Carolina, where he was with the Farm Credit District of Columbia, from March 4th to the 15th. Since March 18, he has been at Iowa State College to gain a thorough knowledge of methods and techniques used in farm appraisals in the United States. Major emphasis was on land appraisal with farm planning on small farms and land taxation as major subjects. From June 17 to 28 he will be in the field working with county assessors in valuing land for tax purposes, with arrangements made by Dr William Murray, Department of Economics and Sociology.

On July 1st he will return to Washington D C for two weeks and then go to Honolulu, Hawaii, International Cooperation Center, and will return to the Phillipines on July 27th.

Raguini is 28 years old, married, speaks English fluently and is a graduate of the University of the Phillipines, 1954. His present position is Soil Technologist, Land Tenure Administration. He collects soil samples and makes laboratory a n a l y s i s, appraises land for real value. He formerly was a vocational agriculture instructor in high school. He is a member of the Vanguard Fraternity, Phillipines Country Life Association and Ranchers' Club.

Contouring Saves Time and Money; Brings Bigger Yields

Contouring is one of our most simple and practical methods of conserving soil and water on rolling land. Contouring is one of the cheapest ways of controlling runoff that can be devloped because each row around the hill acts as a miniature terrace to hold the water in the rows. Through this the water is stopped, combatting soil erosion and at the same time the water infiltrates into the soil to the plant roots.

There are five important things gained by contouring:

1. You save wear on your equipment.
2. You save fuel in your tractor.
3. & 4. You save your two most important assets on your farm which are topsoil and water.
5. You can at least figure a 10% increase in yield per acre by keeping that extra water up on the sidehill to where plants will get the value of the extra water.

It is figured that it takes 35 to 40 gallons of water to produce one plant of corn from the time it is planted to the time it is ready to harvest. This definitely stresses the points of need for such a practice as contouring.

Generally contouring is classified as the first basic step in developing a soil and water management program on your farm, but at the same time we know that contouring alone does not solve all erosion problems. The use of a suitable rotation, correct rates and kinds of fertilizers. proper tillage and other soil management practices are always essential. There are times that other erosion control practices such as terracing or strip cropping must be combined along with contouring depending on the length, steepness of the slope and soil type.

Waterways are very essential to contouring because they serve as a channel. Excess water from the contoured rows is channeled into the waterways and carried from the field. They must be adequate in size and have plenty of vegetation or gullies may develop.

Contouring has proved its value year after year in better crops and greater yields on thousands of farms in every section of the country.

Listed below are a few of the farmers in the county who have taken their first step this year in developing soil and water management programs on their farms by contouring. Those in Ellington are Paul Paulson, Dick Larson, Earl Monson, Wilbur Olson, Clarence Holms, Lester Rogness, and Fred Baum. In Britt Township is the Ted Tulin farm, Erin Township there is the Cecil Hildebrand farm and in Garfield Township is the Eddie Kotz farm.

Bids $20,000 Under Architects Estimate

Contracts for the addition to the Klemme Community School were let today (Wednesday). The contracts totaled $310,846. The contract for the repair work amounted to $24,600.

The general contract was let to the Andersen Construction Company of Clear Lake for $212,324. The only change in the base bid was the acceptance of an alternate to change the chalk board from slate to composition board. This alternate amounted to a $650.00 saving to the school district.

The plumbing and heating contract was let to Hanig Brothers Plumbing and Heating of Fort Dodge for $72,570. The only change in the base bid was the acceptance of an alternate to install Herman Nelson unit ventilators in place of Nesbit unit ventilators. This alternate amounted to a $200 saving to the school district.

The electrical contract was let to Wecco Electric of Iowa Falls for a base bid of $25,942.

The contract on the repair work of the present grade and high school building was tentatively let to Andersen Construction Company of Clear Lake for $24,600. This contract will be subject to the approval of the voters of the Klemme Community School District. A special election on the repair work will be held within a few weeks.

A total of thirteen contractors submitted bids on the general conract. There were eleven plumbing and heating bidders and six electrical bidders. Only five general contractors bid on the repair work.

The Andersen Construction Company has indicated that work on the new addition and the repair work will commence in the near future.

The total contracts were approximately $20,000 under the architects estimate and amounts to around $11.50 per square foot.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

'CONFIRMED'

The appointment of Mrs Irene Smith, Ottumwa Democrat, to the state board of social welfare has finally been 'confirmed' . . . although not by the Iowa Senate.

The Iowa executive council has given its unanimous approval to the appointment of Mrs Smith, by Governor Loveless. During the legislative session, the Senate declined to confirm the appointment.

Her interim appointment to the $5,500 a year job is for two years and her appointment for the full term will again be subject to confirmation by the Senate in 1959.

She succeeds Rolla Glenn, of Osceola.

PRINTING BOARD

John Dunlevy, Avoca, will succeed Richard Aby of Moulton as a member of the state printing board. Both are weekly newspaper publishers.

Other members of the board include Fred Edwards of Davenport, whose term expires in 1958, plus three elective state officials, attorney-general Norman Erby, state auditor Chet Akers and secretary of state Melvin Synhorst.

Principal duty of the board is to obtain bids and let contracts for all printing ordered by state departments.

APPOINTMENTS

Other appointments announced this week include Mrs Dorothy Kirsner of Des Moines to the commission for the blind, succeeding Mrs King Palmer.

Dr H T Opsahl of Decorah has been named to a new three year term on the board of chiropractic examiners.

HOUSE CLEANING

Attorney General Norman Erbe has announced completion of a big legal house cleaning job. At least 1,582 old criminal cases, pending for six months at the minimum and some even dating back 50 years, have been uncovered in the offices of the state's 99 county attorneys.

At his request, the county attorneys reported to him the list of cases which had not been disposed of and are now disposing of them. Many of the ancient charges will be dismissed, as in some cases both witnesses and defendants are no longer available.

Eighteen counties reported they have had no old cases on file.

REFORMATORY

State officials are getting perturbed over the fact that work has been halted on the new million-dollar light plant at Anamosa men's reformatory, due to picketing. The picketing has been under way for over a month and the project is only half completed.

Representatives of a Cedar Rapids iron workers union are picketing the plant, due to refusal of the construction company to use union iron workers.

PRIZE MONEY

Judges in the annual cattle, swine and sheep contests at the Iowa State Fair have been announced. They'll be brought in from six states to select winners at the livestock show. $74,367 in prize money will be distributed.

BIGGER

Your state capital city 'grew' by 16,000 population recently, as the result of a supreme court decision which made official the annexation of Bloomfield township, to Des Moines. The area has between 7 and 8 square miles and its status has been the subject of litigation since Des Moines voters approved the annexation.

INADEQUATE

State Comptroller Glenn Sarsfield has cautioned state departments to trim their expenses, or else get more money for operation, either from the interim committee or the special legislative session.

Sarsfield believes the governor's recommendation to the legislature was the "minimum amount" on which the departments could operate. The departments will run short a little over a million dollars a year unless expenses are trimmed.

SAID 'NO'

Polk county auditor Homer Adcock has decided not to accept an interim appointment to the Iowa liquor control commission.

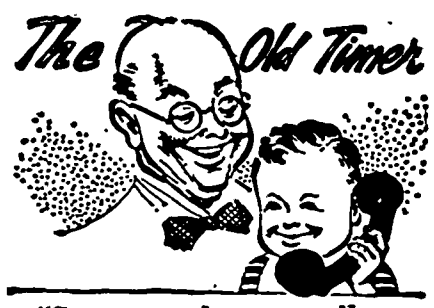
As an interim appointee, his appointment would be subject to confirmation by the Senate in 1959. Harold E Wolfe, Mason City Republican, is the member whose term expires this month. Other members of the commission include William P Housel of Humboldt, whose term expires June 30, 1959, and Gerald W Smith, Creston, whose term runs until 1961.

CANDIDATE

Sam "King" Cole has announced his candidacy for the Hobo Crown at Britt's famous annual Hobo festival in August. The 67 year old candidate has already visited 15 states, publicizing the festival and his candidacy.

DIES

Pocahontas lost one of its oldest residents recently. Harry Plantz, 88, died May 28.



"Some people are easily entertained. All you have to do is sit down and listen to them."

"Union welfare funds?"

By Bob Hullihan

Seems only fair, men, that you should be warned. The old male dominance of the highways and things automotive is about to be challenged.

An able group of ladies is quietly at work now organizing a huge meeting of women to be held at the State House, July 9. At least 600 are expected to attend the state's first Women's Traffic Safety Conference.

They'll be taking a critical look at what we men have accomplished—or failed to accomplish—in traffic safety. (Let's not try to crawl out of this one, boys. Men head practically all the local, state and national safety organizations. Men still control the family cars most of the time. Most of the responsibility for traffic safety has been ours.)

And, fellows, let's not pass off this conference as just another get-together of the girls. Nothing like it has ever happened before in Iowa—or, perhaps, in the nation.

The women, meeting at the conference will be delegates from state-wide and local organizations. They will be representing hundreds of thousands of women. They'll meet at the invitation of Governor Loveless and they'll have the support of the safety department.

There's a potent new force arising in traffic, men. The only way we can hold our own is to do a better job in safety ourselves. Let's start now before the ladies decide to put us on the sidelines.

Good Eating in June

Serve Luscious Strawberries Often

You can make biscuit short-cakes in a jiffy when you use a commercial biscuit mix or an all-purpose mix that you've made in advance. It takes about five minutes to mix the biscuits and about twelve minutes to bake them.

* * *

Red, plump, lucious strawberries—the "crown jewel" of all fruits. June is a month noted for many things, not least of which is strawberries. It's the homegrown season—strawberries are most plentiful in June.

Wonderful as they are, strawberries are among the most tempermentel of all fruits. The people who know most about them are most reluctant to predict how big the crop will be or how good it will be at a given time, because the situation can change with a switch in the weather.

More Berries This Year

But, with fingers crossed, the United States Department of Agriculture market men say prospects for homegrown strawberries are good this year, because of large amounts of rain earlier this spring. On the other hand, rains during the harvest season are harmful rather than helpful.

The USDA reports that 15 percent more acres were planted to strawberries this year than last, and most of these fresh berries are hitting the markets this month. Be on the look out for special buys on frozen strawberries. There was a record pack last year, and there are lots and lots of berries left over.

Strawberries are a pretty good source of vitamin C, ranking just under orange juice and lemon juice. It takes ¾ cup frozen or fresh strawberries to give you the amount of vitamin C you need each day (70 mg).

For a dessert that's so easy to fix that you can prepare it right while you're getting dinner, make a shortcake the good old-fashioned biscuit way. If you don't have time to make your biscuits from scratch, Jewel Graham, extension nutritionist at Iowa State College, suggests you use either a commercial biscuit mix or an all-purpose mix that you've made in advance. Mixes cut shortcake making time to less than five minutes and baking time is about twelve minutes.

Strawberry pinwheel sandwiches with their delicate pink filling are perfect for decorating a summertime refreshment tray. Wash and hull one pint of fresh strawberries. Crush them slightly, sweeten to taste and drain. Mash one 8-ounce package of cream cheese and whip with 3 tablespoons of dairy sour cream until fluffy. Add drained strawberries and mix gently. Remove crusts from a loaf of unsliced sandwich bread and cut 4 very thin lengthwise slices. Spread with strawberry mixture. Roll up firmly, starting at one narrow end and rolling to the other. Wrap each roll in foil and chill. Slice crocc-wise to serve. Makes about four dozen.

Parfait Pie

You might like to serve strawberry parfait pie at your next dessert party or company dinner. Each piece makes a beautiful picture when served with a mound of whipped cream and garnished with a whole strawberry.

Ingredients: 1 3-ounce package strawberry-flavored gelatin, 1 cup hot water, ½ cup cold water, 1 pint vanilla ice cream, 1 cup sliced fresh or frozen strawberies.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add cold water and stir. Cut ice cream in 6 chunks; add to gelatin mixture. Stir till the ice cream melts. Chill the mixture until it begins to thicken (20 to 30 minutes). Fold in strawberries gently. Pour into cooled graham cracker or cocount shell. Chill until firm—about 20 to 25 minutes.

ATTEST:

SAVES INFANT

The grandson of Mr and Mrs Ted Thoma, LeMars, recently saved the life of a 21-month old infant in Chicago. Jimmy Thoma, 12, saw the youngster crawl out on the ledge of a window and managed to break his fall enough that the child will recover.

KILLED

A tractor upset cost the life of 70 year old Frank Lux of Hopkinton recently. It is believed a heart attack may have caused him to loose control of the machine, which plunged down an embankment.

FARM PAGE

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Business activity has been "treading water", with off-setting adjustments continuing to take place, Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, points out. The sidewise movement, or "rolling adjustment" as it is sometimes called, is a more favorable development than many people expected at the turn of the year. As a result, there is little talk now of a recession or a "hair-curling" depression.

Some business areas, such as residential construction, inventory accumulation and retail sales have barely held their own since the first of the year, says Kutish. Other economic measurements show modest gains. These include an increase in non-agricultural employment, rising personal incomes and higher livestock prices. It adds up to a shift in business sentiment to one of cautious optimism, Kutish reports.

The gross national product for the first quarter of 1957 was estimated at an annual rate of $427 billion, up $3 billion from the previous quarter. Most of this increase, however, was a result of higher prices. Total industrial production, for example, remained about the same.

Government spending for goods and services set a new peacetime record for the first quarter of 1957. Consumers have indicated that they are still in a healthy buying mood in spite of rising prices and some further increase of debts.

Businessmen, too, are still adding to inventories and new plants and equipment but at a much reduced rate compared with 1956, states Kutish. Business inventories at present are not regarded as either unbalanced or too high.

"The basic strength of the combined spending by government, consumers and business should not be underestimated." Kutish believes. "It gives no validity to expressed fears and hunches that a recession is imminent."

Oat Crop Nearing Best Silage Stage

A number of Hancock County farmers will put their oats for silage in the near future, reports Paul Henderson, County Extension director.

He says the crop is nearing the early dough state—best time for harvesting it for silage. Oat silage ranks midway between corn silage and legume-grass silage without preservatives in feeding value, according to Agronomist Ralph Krenzin of Iowa State College, Henderson says. It's higher in protein than corn silage, but lower than legume-grass silage. In energy value, oat silage is lower than corn silage, but above legume-grass silage.

Utilizing oats for silage could increase the value of the crop above the return from oats grain, Krenzin says, if you can utilize and sell the silage through livestock.

Removing oats as silage could also help the legume-grass seeding. This is especially true where the oats have lodged, Krenzin points out. And at the same time more of the downed oats can be saved by harvesting it for silage instead of grain.

Oats silage yields range from 4 to 10 tons per acre, depending on soil and moisture. Five tons per acre would be a reasonable expectation from a good crop of oats, the agronomist says.

The crop is best cut when the grain is in the early dough stage, he says. But weather conditions may influence the harvesting time. In a wet period, when forage is green and very high in moisture it's sometimes advisable to allow oats to mature a little more, to lower moisture content.

If moisure content is lowered rapidly by hot, dry weather, on the other hand, you might want to cut the oats in the early dough stage, or just before.

The oat forage may present handling and packing problems when it's cut for silage, Krenzin cautions. Stems are hollow and slick, and difficult to pack. Chopping the forage finely will help overcome this problem. Coarse-chopped material will make good silage, too. But it's harder to pack.

The packing problem is not so great if an upright silo is used. If the silage is stored in a trench silo, a tractor will be needed to pack it well. For that reason, the trench silo must have strong sides. Packing the forage well is vital to the success of oat silage making, Krenzin emphasizes.

He says good oat silage can be made without preservatives. The oats contains sufficient carbohydrate material to support the fermentation process.

Corn Price Support Totals Are Announced

A total of 3,141,681 bushels of corn produced in Hancock County in 1956 was placed under government price support by the close of the application period on May 31, it was announced this week by Alfred V Josten, Manager of Hancock County ASC.

The total was 634,718 more than the 2,506,963 bushels of 1955 corn placed under price support by the close of the application period for that crop a year ago.

Of the 1956 corn placed under support in this county, 2,264,164 bushels qualified for the $1.42 rate in effect for grain produced in compliance with production adjustment programs. The remainder of the corn (or 877,517 bushels) qualified for the "non-compliance rate" of $1.17 per bushel.

In the program just ended, 1601 loans were completed on a

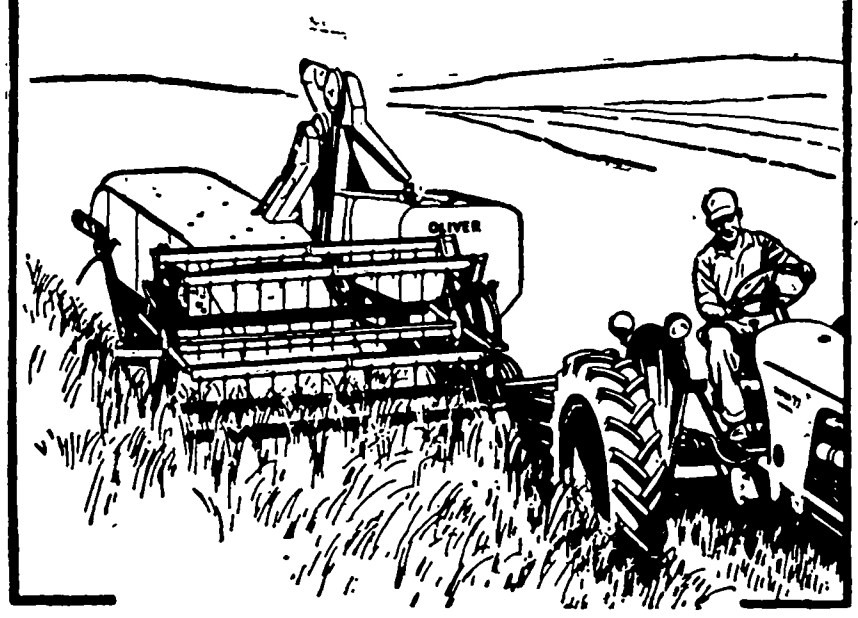
OLIVER 18 COMBINE

Harvests More, Saves More



Harvesting goes faster with an Oliver Model 18 pull-type. You take a full 7-foot cut with its floating, auger-type header. Right behind it are field-proven units to save more of every grain and bean crop.

First of all, a semi-revolving reel reduces shattering by descending straight into the crop. Then another grain-saver takes over. Oliver's "Man Behind the Gun" traps 90% of the grain right at the cylinder, sends it directly to the cleaning shoe before it can mix with straw and chaff. Finally, extra pitching by extra long walkers shakes out the remaining kernels.

There's a lot more to see—the swinging drawbar, 25-bushel tank, husky tubular frame, adjustable concaves. Engine or PTO model; hydraulic or counterbalanced hand lift.

BOOSTING IOWA TRANSPORTATION

Iowa income in the transportation field gains substantially from the growing expenditures made here by the brewing industry. Over $6,640,000.00 per year is spent in this state for such transportation costs — including more than $3,467,000.00 for railway and truck transport in Iowa, and over $3,173,000.00 for local trucking from wholesalers to retailers. Both these items mean more jobs for Iowans, more income, a further stimulus for business in every part of our state.

Add to this the $30,000,000.00 Iowa payroll of the brewing industry itself, or the $25,000,000.00 paid in Iowa taxes, or the large expenditures made for Iowa farm products, plus many other such items. Put them all together and you get an impressive picture of the contribution the industry is making to the welfare and advancement of Iowa, and Iowans.

total of 2,795,521 bushels of 1956 corn, and 215 purchase agreements were made on 346,160 bushels.

A year ago, 1377 loans were made on 2,209,063 bushels of the 1955 crop, and there were 200 purchase agreements on 297,900 bushels.

The statewide total of 1956 corn placed under price support was expected to be from 110 to 115 million bushels, or 9 to 12 million under the total reached by the 1955 crop a year ago. Up to mid-May, 68 percent of the 1956 corn under support in Iowa qualified for the "compliance rate".

All loans and purchase agreements on 1956 corn will mature on July 31. Also maturing at that time are all re-seal or extended re-seal loans on farm-stored 1953, 1954 and 1955 corn. Of the more than 69 million bushels of old corn under re-seal or extended re-seal in the state, approximately 1,069,000 bushels are in Hancock County.

A re-seal program for 1956 corn and an extended re-seal program for 1955 corn have already been announced. No provision has been made for further extension of present extended re-seal loans on 1953 and 1954 corn.

Farmers who re-seal or extend their loans, on eligbile 1955 and 1956 corn and hold it until July 31, 1958, will receive a storage payment of 16 cents per bushel. They will have the right to redeem the grain at the end of the extra year instead of delivering it to the government and still qualify for a full storage payment. If they redeem their corn after October 1, 1957, and prior to the end of the extra year, they will receive a pro-rated storage payment.

Quality and storage requirements for either the 1956 crop re-seal or the extension of 1955 crop re-sealed loans will be the same as for the original loans.

New Laws Become Effective July 4th

New laws governing horsepower of motor boats on artificial lakes of the state and new requirements for fishing and hunting licenses take effect July 4, the Conservation Commission reminded Iowans today.

Motor boats operating on artificial lakes of 100 or more acres may have a maximum motor output of six horse-power on July 4. The new law supercedes the five horsepower maximum that has been in effect.

Women anglers 16 years of age and over are required to have licenses to fish in any water of the state on and after July 4. Heretofore, women were required to have licenses only when fishing in state-owned lakes.

Also beginning July 4th, Iowa resident fishing and hunting licenses will be increased to $2.00 each, or $3.50 when purchased in combination. Also increased, effective July 4, is the six-day non-resident license fee which goes to $3.00. No license will be required for non-residents under 14 years of age.

All other license requirements and fees unchanged.

In order to finance the construction of the building, the club plans to canvass the community for donations. Hopes are for generous contributions, but any amount will be gladly accepted.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

IOWA TAXES

State tax revenue from sales and income taxes will be up by some $10-million in the fiscal year ended June 30 as compared with the fiscal 1955-56 year.

Figures for the last 11½ months show the sales tax returns increased by $5,407,736 over fiscal 1955-56.

Income tax returns paid by individuals is likewise higher. As of mid-June the total was running some $3,335,633 more than in the last fiscal year. Tax officials say more individuals are filing state tax returns this year than in past years.

LOWER TAX

The state sales tax dropped a half-cent this week, or had you noticed?

For the last two years Iowans have been paying sales tax at the rate of 2½ percent. Now it goes back to the 2-cents on the dollar rate.

Reason for the lower rate? The veto of the legislative bill to continue the higher rate past the temporary two-year period first voted by the legislature in 1955.

DON'T LIKE IT

Many state legislators aren't saying so publicly, but they are still burning over remarks made by Commissioner Russell Lundy who told a newsman that Iowa lawmakers often "pressure" the commission.

The statement was made after the legislative investigation committee had obtained a statement from each of the five road commissioners that undue legislative pressure was not placed on the commission.

MOYERS MOVE

The Clinton Moyers have moved from Des Moines to Marion.

Moyer, the commissioner of public safety, is now on military leave with the Air Force at Offutt Field. He's keeping in touch with safety department activities from there.

Moyer resigned effective August 1 but his family has moved back to Marion where Moyer will resume his law practice. He has been safety commissioner for two years.

SOLID SUPPORT

The Iowa attorney general does not want the roof to fall in on any district court judges.

Norman Erbe, attorney general, has reported to the Mills County board of supervisors they have a respossibility in providing a suitable and safe place "to hold court".

The ruling came after architects, fire inspectors and three grand juries said Mills County courthouse at Glenwood is in danger of falling down or burning up. District court judges ordered the supervisors to find another courtroom for them. The supervisors sought legal counsel on the request.

HOOVER SMITHY SHOP

Iowa and the nation have formally dedicated the blacksmith shop, duplicating that of Herbert Hoover's father, Jesse, at a special ceremony at Hoover Birthplace at West Branch.

Speakers at the ceremony included Gov Loveless; Admiral Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; and Allan Hoover, son of the former president.

Herbert Hoover personally approved and helped with plans for the exact duplication of the shop. Last summer, during the GOP national convention at San Francisco, William B Anderson of West Branch, and other interested Iowans, showed Hoover blueprints of the plans in his San Francisco hotel suite. Mr Hoover expressed interest and pride in the project.

DANGER, TOO SLOW!

What driver hasn't, on occasion, fumed over the slow driver just ahead? For years some folks in the safety business have contended the slow driver, especial ly those Sunday fellows, are a real cause of too many highway crashes.

Iowa's safety commissioner is somewhat inclined to agree with this thought.

Commissioner Clinton Moyer has alerted the highway patrol to urge on those slow pokes who are proving a threat to safe driving by their tantalizing tactics or yield the right of way to vehicles being delafed.

FIRE VICTIMS

Iowa's fire marshal, Ed J Herron, says that 40 percent of the people who die in fires are 14 years old or younger, and that 35 percent are 60 or older. Herron made his report to the Iowa Association of Fire Fighters.

BOW OUT

Two state highway commissioners, Mel Graham, Audubon, and Emery Loomis, Waterloo, have ended their terms on the commission. They were replaced July 1 by Cecil Malone, Atlantic, and Robert Brice, Waterloo.

Malone and Brice were named by Gov Loveless to succeed Graham and Loomis. The new members will serve until the next session of the legislature when they must win senate confirmation. Their appointments had been turned down by the senate earlier this year.

A new chairman, to replace Robert Beck, Centerville, will be elected at the next commissiin meeting. Traditionally a chairman serves only a one year term. Beck succeeded Russell Lundy, Des Moines. Both continue on the committee of which control still rests with the Republicans 3 to 2.

NEW PATROLMEN

Thirty-seven new Iowa highway patrolmen will be appointed upon completion of a training school for candidates now in its second week at Camp Dodge in Des Moines. Major James Maccholz, of the patrol, is in charge of the month-long training program for recruits.

AMVETS ELECT

Eldon Huisman, Wellsburg, is the new state commander of the Iowa Amvets. Robert Rankin, Aplington, is the new first vice-commander and William Robinson, Des Moines, second vice-commander.

HICK ON STANDBY

Iowa's senior U S senator, B B Hickenlooper, has been alerted to a standby basis for a possible quick trip to London for disarmament talks.

Three Republican and three Democratic senators have been alerted to prepare themselves for possible participation in the London confab.

FORMER LEGISLATOR DIES

Loren B Sayre, Winterset, who served one term in the Iowa senate, died in his home town. He had been in ill health some time. He had left the senate during the 1955 session because of ill health.

MORE FOR DISABLED

Iowa is planning an expanded rehabilitation program for its physically handicapped citizens. The state executive council has given preliminary approval to a $225,000 project for doubling capacity of the state vocational rehab center in Des Moines.

SHARE AIRPORT COSTS

The Iowa Aeronautics commission will participate with two Iowa cities, Corning and Clarinda, in airport improvement projects.

Corning plans an airport lighting program while Clarinda will replace its beacon tower. The commission will pay 50 percent of the costs in both instances.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Iowa farm land values are still rising, says W G Murray, Iowa State College economist. A U S Departmens of Agriculture report for the 4 months ending March 1, 1957, showed that Iowa farm land prices had increased 1 percent since November 1, 1956.

Murray points out that average farm land values for the state had risen from $203 an acre on March 1, 1955 to $206 an acre in 1956, and had climbed to $216 an acre on the same date in 1957. This increase has come about in spite of severe drouths and an income squeeze caused by lower farm-product prices and higher costs.

Main reason for the big price boost during 1956-57 has been that better farming equipment allows farmers to efficiently farm more land than before. This causes competition in renting and buying unimproved tracts of land.

In reality, says Murray, there are two markets for farm land; a slow market for whole farms with buildings, and an active market for unimproved tracts to add to nearby farms.

Lesser factors in the land-price hike, says Murray, are urban expansion and new highways. These two things don't affect as many farms as overall farm enlargement, but where they are present, a definite price increase appears. he says.

And the Soil Bank also has an influence on farm land prices. A USDA survey shows that farms have been taken off the market is Minnesota. South Dakota and Kansas because the owners wanted to participate in the Soil Bank Program.

AVERY SUNBEAMS

The Avery Sunbeams met at the home of Diane Avery on June 15. Members answered roll call by naming and describing one type of fabric. We planned our tour for Wednesday, June 26. We are planning to visit the State Brand Creamery, Iowa Odd Fellows and Orphans Home, Holsum Bakery and LaJames Beauty School. Kathleen James and JoAnn Helps were elected to be on the Senior demonstration team. Dorothy Ostendorf and Merrie June Reinhart were elected to be on the Intermediate team. Kathleen James gave a talk on daily food needs. Dorothy Ostendorf led the discussion on "It Pays To Plan My Money Use".

Women have a special feature at the North Iowa Experimental Farm Field Day in Kanawha on July 11th. It will feature a garden (flower and vegetable) pest clinic (bring your specimen), a wagon tour of experiment farm for those who desire such a tour. Then Home Garden problems will be discussed with Ben Vance, Extension Horticulturist. Oh, yes, and free lunch.

Nicaraguan Youth Speaks at FBYP Meeting

The June meeting of the Hancock County FBYP was held at the REA building in Garner at 8:00 p.m. An educational film, "The Story of Corn" was shown. Jacob Medina, of Nicaragua, spoke to us, which was very interesting. It was decided at this meeting to have a hayride and picnic. Games and lunch concluded the evening.

On June 17th the Farm Bureau Young People had their hayride and picnic. They rode over to McIntosh Woods for their picnic. The FBYP furnished the pop, weiners and buns and others furnished the potato chips and the cookies. It was agreed that everyone had plenty of food and fun.

Tomato Disease Appears In Hancock County

Early tomato diseases have been reported in some Hancock County gardens, says Paul Henderson, County Extension Director. He identified the diseases as septoria leaf spot and early blight. First symptoms are small spots on lower leaves.

The tomato fruits are rarley infected with these diseases, Henderson says. But the disease may spread throughout plant foliage.. Many of the infected leaves will turn yellow and drop from the plant, exposing fruits to the sun. Sunscald results.

The tomato disease problem can be controlled with good management and early treatment, the extension director says. He recommends a control program outlined by Mal Shurleff, Iowa State College plant disease specialist.

Shurleff says damage from tomato diseases can be held to a minimum by keeping plants growing vigorously, keeping the tomatoes weed-free and regular treatment with fungicides.

Fungicide applications should be started as soon as the first symptoms are found. Treatments should be repeated every 7 to 10 days throughout the entire season, Shurleff says. He advises using a fungicide or general-purpose garden spray or dust containing manab, zineb or nabam.

Treatment is particularly important during wet periods, Shurleff says, when the diseases spread rapidly.

June Cooler and Wetter Than Same Month 1956

June 1957 was a cooler and wetter month than the corresponding month in 1956, according to weather records kept by Earl Henschen, custodian at the Hancock County courthouse. The average temperature for the month was a cool 68.04 as compared with 74.49 for June 1956. The average minimum temperature for the month was 57 degrees and the average maximum was 79.07. The highest temperature recorded during the month was 90 degrees recorded on June 5th and 6th and again on the 21st and the low was 45 degrees recorded on the morning of June 2nd.

Rainfall for the month totaled 4.77 inches as compared to 2.43 inches for the same month in 1956. The heaviest amount in a 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. on June 22, was 1.56 inches. Many local areas in Hancock County had considerably larger amounts during the month and totals also were much larger. Precipitation fell in measureable amounts on 15 of the 30 days in June with cloudy or partly cloudy skies recorded on a similar number of days. Precipitation for the first six months of 1957 totaled 14.21 inches, almost one-half the normal amount for the year as against 12.08 for the first six months of 1956.

Rainfall was very spotty with some areas receiving just normal amounts for the month while some local areas suffered heavy flooding rains which did considerable damage to crops and the cool weather accompanying the moisture delayed the development of certain crops and in some areas crops are at least ten days late for the season. Some fields are extremely weedy and yields will be reduced. June was one of the worst for haying and much hay spoiled in the field.

Keep Cool and Comfortable—

Investigate Home Air Conditioning

Don't expect your air conditioner to have the room cool right after you turn it on. It takes time to bring the temperature and humidity down. Air conditioners are thinner this year and come in colors.

* * *

"If you don't like the weather, just wait a minute, and it will change," has long been a favorite description of Iowa climate. But nowadays you don't have to wait at all to keep the "weather" inside your home on an even keel. Air conditioning is the answer to the hot, humid weather that may keep you "under-the-weather" during the summer months.

Air conditioning has many advantages beyond the obvious one—just plain comfort. Surveys have shown that, because of better sleeping and eating habits, people living in air conditioned homes feel better and aren't so exhausted by the summer weather. Homemaking is less work, and redecorating costs are less. There the fewer mold, mildew and other high-humidity problems.

Air Conditioning Defined

Air conditioning is the simultaneous control of temperature, humidity, purity and movement of the air. Two types are available for homes—the central system and the room air conditioner.

The central system is usually installed in conjuction with the warm-air furnace, although central cooling equipment has also been developed to use with hot water heat. After investigation, you may find that your heating system can be converted to include air conditioning.

All you need for a room cooler is an electric power connection—208- to 230-volt current, though some of the smaller units can operate on 110 volts. The heat and humidity removed from the air are rejected directly to the outside air. This is the reason room air conditioners are mounted and sealed in window or wall openings.

Manufacturers are making window models more and more attractive. Now many models are thinner and don't project out into the room, or outside the house either. They are set flush with the window. They come in lovely decorator colors too.

The size of the air conditioner you get will depend on the size of the room or area you want to cool, of course. An experienced and reliable retailer can tell you the size you need by looking at the room or the architectural plan of the room you want to cool. If you guess on room dimensions, you're likely to be disappointed, warns John Sandfort, professor of mechanical engineering at Iowa State College.

Some air conditioners will even heat the room on cool summer days. Don't expect your room air conditioner to make a hot room cool and comfortable as soon as you turn the switch on. It takes time to bring temperature and humidity conditions down.

Price Range

Most room units range from $250 to $400 in price. You may occasionally see a bargain at distress sales or promotional sales. Or you may find a closeout model at a bargain sale. Consider the reputation of the manufacturer as well as the reputation and service facilities of the dealer before you buy an air conditioner.

Operating costs differ, according to the sizes of air conditioners and the cost of power. But the cost of operating a room air conditioner in most Iowa homes would probably be from 3 to 6 cents an hour. Remember that this cost is for actual operating hours, and that may be only 6 to 8 hours on a typical summer day.

HEARING ON ASSESSOR'S BUDGET SET FOR JULY 9

The Hancock County Conference Board, consisting of the Board of Supervisors, County Board of Education and Mayors of the towns in Hancock County, met last week and tentatively approved the budget for the administration of the County Assessor's office for the year 1958. A hearing on the budget will be held at the courthouse in Garner on Tuesday, July 9th. The budget proposes expenditures totaling $22,400.00, $1,800 less than the proposed expenditures of 1957 and a tax levy of $18,400, approximately the same as levied in 1957.

The conference also re-appointed Charles H Schissel as a member of the County Board of Review to succeed himself and reappointed Fred C Missal as county assessor to succeed himself.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, JULY 10, 1957 | VOLUME 62 | NUMBER 34

Supervisors Pleased by Results of Stabilization

Results of the first year of a stabilized road program designed to provide a maximum of high quality roads at lowest possible cost have been termed "encouraging" by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Clarence Bird, Clinton Daniels and Sam Barber.

Basis for the program is the chemically stabilized road which provides a hard, smooth and comparatively dust-free riding surface as well as reduced maintenance costs and increased safety.

Since this type of road eventually builds up to a base ready for paving, if and when traffic conditions and financing warrant such a further step, it bridges the gap and serves as an intermediary between plain gravel and hard-surfaced roads.

Before instituting the new program, the local board had a choice between these latter two types. Board members point out, however, that most roads go through a period when traffic conditions demand more than loose gravel while still not justifying the high cost of surfacing.

Supervisors report that stabilized road construction costs Hancock County around $4,200 per mile. This compares with a cost of between $20,000 & $25,000 per mile for a high grade bituminous road. To build a plain gravel road containing an equal amount of gravel costs $3,000 per mile or more.

A further savings from the new program comes in maintenance, board members said, which is reduced by two-thirds by chemical treatment. They pointed out that maintenance has always been a problem since money spent on road upkeep could better be used to upgrade more roads to more permanent types of surfaces.

Board chairman Clarence Bird said that rock roads in Hancock County lose between 200 and 250 tons of road material each year through wind, water and traffic erosion. Surface treatment with calcium chloride reduces this loss by as much as 80 percent.

Asked about association of calcium chloride and rusting, board members said extensive tests as well as widespread use of calcium chloride stabilization have proved that the material does not chemically attack metal, nor is it likely to contribute materially in this use to normal oxidation.

One cause of rust, according to the Dow Chemical Company, a leading producer of calcium chloride, is chipping or breaking of paint on automobiles or other metal objects. Metal surfaces unprotected by paint are subject to the normal oxidation process or rusting which results from atmospheric conditions of air and moisture.

Calcium chloride actually helps guard against rust in this respect by eliminating the hazard of flying stones which damage auto paint and leave exposed metal.

Safety, according to Supervisor Daniels, is another advantage of the chemically stabilized road and one of the prime objectives of the current program.

Board members pointed out that in 1954 alone 49 persons were killed and 1,376 persons injured in Iowa in rural highway accidents charged against loose gravel roads. This means that 21 percent of all Iowa rural highway accidents were attributed to this single road defect—loose surface material.

Stabilization holds gravel in the road to provide a tight, smooth and relatively dust-free riding surface. Elimination of dust also contributes to increased safety, Supervisor Barber added.

Though in some cases stabilized roads may appear slick in wet weather due to the presence of clay, these roads meet Iowa State Highway Commission specifications and contain sufficient

Here Are The Winners Of The Pet Parade

Registering is underway this week in Klemme stores and business places, for a chance to be one of five lucky winners in drawings to be held on Klemme's Main Street, Saturday night, July 13th. $25.00 in cash will be given away, $5.00 at a time.

The first drawing will be held immediately after the band concert and the others will follow at 10 or 15 minute intervals until all the money is given away.

Something different in the way of a band concert will be offered that night as the Garner Old Timers will play here and the local band will play at Garner.

Everyone is invited to register for the drawings and no purchases are necesary in order to register.

School Repair Okayed By Voters 98 to 2

In Friday's election voters of the Klemme Comunity School District voted 98 - 2 to authorize the board of directors to spend $24,600 to repair the old school building. There were 101 ballots cast and one of them was spoiled.

There was not too much interest stirred up over the election, as the money to pay for the repair work was already on hand in the Schoolhouse Fund, and only a legal technicality made the special election necessary.

According to Supt. Harlan Shafer, work on the building should be underway next week. In a telephone conversation with Mr Andersen of Andersen Construction Co., Clear Lake, Friday evening after the ballots were totaled, Supt. Shafer learned that the brick for the repairs would be ordered immediately. He has also been informed that some footings will be poured this week for the addition.

The contract for the repair work had already been let to the Andersen Construction Co., pending outcome of the election.

"BILL" BACK IN GROUP TO TAKE MINNESOTA TRIP

Ames, Iowa — Wilford "Bill" Back will be one of over sixty Iowa State College civil engineering students who will spend six weeks at the annual civil engineering summer camp at Wirt, Minnesota, in the heart of the Chippewa National Forrest, from August 5 to September 15.

The camp is conducted to give students practical experience in land, hydrographic, road and topographic survey which they cannot experience in the confines of the campus.

For the summer camp, the students will be divided into typical survey parties. Each student will fill every position on the party roster from axe man to chief of party during the stay in camp. They will live in comfortable barracks, work in a modern drafting room and eat home-cooked food in a common mess hall. They will have evenings and weekends free to participate in the soft ball league competition with teams from surrounding towns. For those who like sports, there will be fishing and swimming in the lakes surrounding the camp. Every Thursday night is campfire night with a program of entertainment.

Freezing Fruits and Vegetables—

Help Your Freezer Do Its Work

When you freeze large quantities of food, help your freezer to operate as efficiently as it can. You'll want to work quickly and efficiently too. When you are preparing corn for the freezer, make a smooth stroke down the ear at about two-thirds the depth of the kernels. Hold the cob steady on a nail driven at an angle through the cutting board.

Your home freezer's a real "work horse" during the summer months. It's the time you confront this mechanical wonder with quantities of garden-fresh vegetables — peas, green beans and corn, with fruits—strawberries, raspberries and peaches.

Household equipment researchers at Iowa State College say there are three things you can do to help your freezer operate more efficiently to freeze food. First, package the food in rectangular packages or containers. Second, arrange the packages in the freezing compartment so that they make maximum contact with each other and with the evaporator coils. Third, interchange the packages so that the freezer motor will run almost 100 percent of the time while the food is freezing, if your freezer motor usually runs less than 85 percent of the time while food is freezing.

Freezing Time Less

If you follow these three steps, you'll find that you can freeze a maximum load of food in about one-fourth to one-third less time than otherwise. And this is important when you have a large quantity of food to freeze.

When you freeze large quantities you want to give your freezer the most opportunity to operate effectively. The shapes of the containers you use makes a difference. A load of food in rectangular containers freezes more rapidly than a load of food in sloping-side containers. You will probably want to consider this the next time you purchase freezing containers or wrap meat for freezing.

Freezing time also depends on how you arrange the packages in the freezing compartment. Freezing takes place faster when containers contact the evaporator coils. It also goes faster when containers contact each other rather than when they are separated from each other by open space. Rectangular packages make maximum contact with the walls of the freezing compartment and with each other. And they freeze faster than containers which have sloping sides.

Keep Freezer Running

When you are freezing large quantities of food, you want your freezer motor to run as much of the time as possible. Maybe you have the type of freezer that has a motor that runs 100 percent of the time while a load of food is freezing. Or your freezer's motor may operate about 85 percent of the time. If your freezer is of this type, you can keep it running continuously by interchanging packages.

Inetrchange the layers so that containers which have been on top are brought into contact with the evaporator coils. Change the packages about ten hours after you put the load in the freezing compartment, or after twenty hours if that is more convenient. Freezing of all the packaged food may take as long as 40 to 60 hours. If your freezer normally operates almost 100 percent of the time while freezing is going on, you don't need to interchange the packages.

Remember, the rectangular packaging rule applies to meats and other freezer-stored foods, too. Package with a minimum of exposed area, when possible. Using a double thickness of locker paper when your package meat helps prevent "freezer burn".

coarse gravel to provide good traction on the wettest day.

In summing up advantages of the current stabilized road program, board members said that their long-range objective is hard surfacing for all busy county roads.

Stabilized roads, they continue, fit in well with these objectives for three main reasons. They are the next best thing to a paved road. They reduce maintenance costs permitting more money to be used for upgrading roads to higher type surfaces. And, finally, they provide an excellent base, ready-made for paving.

We've Been Scooped!

The following story appeared in Tuesday's Des Moines Register, and although the information contained in the story has been pretty much general knowledge locally for some time, we thought we would reprint it in case anyone is still un-enlightened.

Are nudist camps legal in Iowa?

This is the question Iowa Attorney General Norman Erbe faced Monday.

Hancock County authorities want to know because their county has one. A full-dressed formal attorney general's opinion on the question is expected soon.

At Garner, Hancock county Sheriff L M Brower identified the nudist camp as La Dell Park, operated by LaVern Velau on a woodsy former farm near Klemme.

The Iowa nudist group is chartered by the National Nudist Council of Maumee, Ohio, authorities said.

Velau has agreed to stop operating the nudist camp until the legal situation is cleared up, Brower said.

Challenge from Nudists

Meanwhile, the American Sun Bathers Association, Inc., national nudist organization, has heard about the possible legal peril of its Iowa advocates.

The national group has written Erbe daring him to rule that nudist camps are illegal in Iowa.

Sheriff Brower said he understood the camp near Klemme is the only nudist colony in Iowa. It opened last year but didn't attract much attention unil this year, he said.

Last year, the nudist group used only the farmhouse at La Dell Park, but this year it was expanded, he said.

High Fence, 40 Members

A high board fence now completely encloses the camp. Brower estimated the camp's membership at "about 40".

With expansion of the nudist camp, complaints increased, the sheriff said.

"There's been some heat; not a lot, but some complaints about the colony out there," he said.

So the sheriff asked County Attorney G W Templeton if such a place is legal. Templeton passed the question along to the attorney general.

Schedule Field Clinic To Help Children

IOWA CITY, IOWA — The State Services for Crippled Children (SSCC) will conduct a seven county field clinic in the Herbert Hoover School at Mason City on Wednesday, July 24th, for chronically ill or handicapped youngsters.

Counties served by the clinic will be Winnebago, Worth, Mitchell, Hancock, Cerro Gordo, Floyd and Franklyn.

From its offices on the State University of Iowa campus, the service sends SUI medical teams into more than 30 counties each year at the invitation of county medical societies. Dr George R Barnes, Jr., assistant professor of pediatrics at the University, is director of the service.

Any child under 21 years of age who has a physically handicapping condition is eligible. Clinic officials emphasize the importance of an advance referral of each patient by a local physician or dentist.

The clinics provide consultations and diagnostic services in the fields of pediatrics, orthopedics, children's dentistry, speech and hearing, psychology and physical therapy. X-ray and laboratory services also are provided.

After each clinic, the cases are reviewed at the SSCC offices and findings are forwarded with recommendations to the local physicians.

There is no charge for any of the clinic services.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Remember when you used to tell people you were from Klemme and they would say, "Where in the heck is Klemme?" Them days are gone!

Since LaDell Park has become embroiled in a considerable legal dispute, its fame and that of Klemme spread throughout the land . . . even to points overseas.

We have been the recipient of goodness knows how many clippings from various big city dailies in the country, all sent by former Klemmeites, local folks on vacation, or friends we have made in the years past. In fact, our ex-devil, Merlyn Olson, who is stationed with the army in Germany sent home a clipping from Stars and Stripes, and our brother-in-law, Marine Sgt M B Smith, heard of Klemme and LaDell Park via radio newscast in Japan.

Yep, we're on the map, and now when we tell people we're from Klemme, there is no doubt but what they know where our town is located. The only worry we have now is how we are going to answer the question that we know is coming . . . in one form or another.

See by yesterday's Mason City G-G, and today's issue of "The Newspaper Iowan's Depend On" that Attorney General Norman Erbe has his doubts about the legality of such an institution as LaDell Park and would like to have a jury of 12 tried and true decide the issue.

Personally we are not worried as to the final decision on the case. We don't think that we would care to be a member of the organization that brought Klemme all the publicity . . . we look bad enough fully clothed . . . but if we were in Vern's shoes, and wanted to continue the operation of such a venture, we would strike right now and cash in on all the free advertising . . . millions of dollars worth of it.

As one Long Beach, California writer put it:

Iowan's are the rudest . . .

Ask any nudist!

Which reminds us of the Forest City acquaintance who spotted us about a half a block away and yelled, "Hey, Kilgore, take off your shirt. I want to see how far that tan goes."

"One sure thing wrong with the younger generation is that a lot of us don't belong to it any more!"

EXPENSIVE

A water leak proved somewhat expensive for the Kinsey Chevrolet firm at Iowa Falls. The firm's last water bill was for $166.32, with a consumption of about 500,000 gallons compared with a normal of 50,000 gallons.

Plenty of Entertainment At County Junior Fair

Three big nights of entertainment are set for the Fifth Annual Hancock County Junior Fair at Britt on August 13, 14, 15 and 16.

The fair board has composed a program that will give those in attendance plenty of variety and interest. All evening programs will start at 8 p.m.

Leading off the evening program is the highly entertaining troupe from WHO-TV and radio, featuring Zelda Scott, Red Scobee and Cliff Carl.

Hundreds of Iowa farm families have watched and heard them over the air. Now they can see the top-notch variety show right in their back-yard, Tuesday, August 13. The fair board promises seating for 1500 in the livestock pavilion.

Wednesday, August 14, is the annual livestock parade of all junior exhibitors and their entries at 8 p.m. This will be followed by a horse and pony show. The pony show is open to all 4-H, FFA and others 16 and under in Hancock County.

Wiley Weaver is chairman of the horse and pony show and for more information he can be contacted.

One of the biggest crowds of the fair is expected on Thursday night when announcement is made of various winners of fair events. This is at Junior Exhibitors Recognition Night. The program starts at 8 p.m.

During the morning and afternoons on these days there will be the judging of livestock entries and Girls' 4-H displays. Fair officials predict a record number of entries for the 1957 fair.

Hancock County ASC Committee Elected

D E Keat of Madison Township was re-elected as chairman of the Hancock County ASC Committee at the annual convention of township ASC delegates in Garner on Saturday, July 27.

Jesse G Smith of Amsterdam Township was re-elected vice chairman, and Jake Van Dusseldorp of Erin Township was named third member of the county committee.

Named as first and second alternates of the county committee were Lyle Shipler of Bingham Township and Robert Keel of Madison Township.

All were elected for a one-year term of office starting next Thursday, August 1st.

All of the county committeemen are experienced farmers who are familiar with ASC activities. TWIN CALVES

The Lauren Stapher farm near New Hampton produced two sets of twin calves, within a single week, recently. They are Holsteins and all are in good health.

BEES

Six pounds of bees were rescued from a hedge in Laurens last week, by Mrs Elmer Muller. The bees refused to enter a hive, so Mrs Muller corraled them from their temporary roost on the hedge. There were 18,000 bees in the swarm.

Charleen Brown; Wilford Back Exchange Vows

Mrs. Wilford Back

Couple Will Attend Iowa State College; Both Are Seniors

Miss Charleen Brown, daughter of Mr and Mrs Oscar Brown of Cape Girardeau, Missouri, and Wilford Back, son of Mr and Mrs Herman Back of Klemme, were united in marriage at six o'clock in the evening on July 20th at the First Baptist Church in Cape Girardeau.

The bride's dress was of embroidered white organdy with a sheath front and full back. The dress was floor length with a Chapel train. The veil was of three-tiered imported silk illusion.

The bridemaids' dresses were street length nylon organdy over taffeta, styled similar to the bride's dress. The dresses had matching sashes and the girls wore picture hats. The Maid of Honor's dress was pink and the bridesmaids' had dresses of orchid, lavender and blue.

The bride's mother wore a powder blue dress with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a cotillion blue dress with white accessories.

The bride's attendants were Miss Norma Hardwick, Sandra Torvik, Ann Isaac, Anita Allen, and her sister, Marilyn Kay Brown.

The groom's attendants were Mr Gene Fee and Reeder Withers. Ushers were William Blaylock and Forrest Slinkard.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony and then the couple left on a two-week honeymoon trip to Florida.

Mr and Mrs Back have both enrolled at Iowa State College, Ames, for the fall term. They are both seniors this year.

TB Case Finding Program Underway in County

"Tuberculosis is a 'catching' disease—no matter what kind of drugs they may find to cure it, or no matter how old or how young you are: TB is 'caught' just like a head cold or chicken pox."

And to discover who may have 'caught' tuberculosis in this community, the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association is supporting a case-finding program now in progress, according to Mrs Herman Bode, association president, who made the abve statement about TB.

"The case-finding program now in progress is called a 'Contact Program'" Mrs Bode said, "because Marcia Mitchell, R N, public health nurse in Hancock County, is attempting to find those who have 'caught' TB from a patient who has active tuberculosis."

Recent statistics show that in Iowa—and in much of the rest of the nation—the greatest number of new cases of tuberculosis are found among men between the ages of 55 to 59, and among women about 10 years younger. And each new case of tuberculosis originated from someone who had the disease in an active form.

Unlike pneumonia or heart disease, tuberculosis does not suddenly make a person ill. The germs have been breathed in and lodge in the lungs. A person may never know the time he first had the illness in his body, for TB is a silent disease.

A special skin test, called the tuberculin test, will show the TB germs, tubercle bacilli, are in the body. The family physician and the public health nurse make a team in working with the 'Contact' program and the tuberculin testing phase of it. The doctor advises the nurse of persons he knows who may have been in contact with an active case of tuberculosis. The nurse interviews these persons and members of the family, urging them to have the tuberculin skin test done at the doctor's office.

If there is a positive reaction to the skin test, the family physician recommends the individual to have a chest X-ray at the time the mobile X-ray unit comes to the community.

Mrs Benn Coobs, Mrs Franklyn Buseman, Mrs John Chambers, and Mrs David Schwichtenberg attended the 37th Annual Department Convention of the American Legion Auxiliary held at the Hotel Fort Des Moines, July 24, 25 and 26.

Some of the highlights of the convention were the music contest held in the Grand Ballroom, hearing Kenneth J Brenda of Hartwick, Department Commander of the American Legion, and the introduction of Mrs Carl Zeller, National President. She gave a wonderful address before the banquet.

Of special interest was an address by Alfred Sasser, Junior Superintendent of Glenwood State School. He told of all the new methods being introduced at Glenwood to help the mentally retarded children.

Judy Pilmer, new Girl's State Governor, also gave a talk.

The delegates from the first district and the eighth district led the march into the grand ballroom for the installation of the new president, as they had completed their membership drives for the year.

Mrs Gladys Bowman of Pochahontas was installed as the new president, and was presented with a white Bible. The new president's motto is "I Believe".

Cattle

There are more long-fed cattle heading for the summer and early fall market this year than last. There'll be no shortage of these animals for the next 100 days, reports Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Last year there was a shortage of calves and light yearlings on feed, and prices soared during summer and early fall. This year, says Kutish, choice-cattle prices will be steady to seasonally higher during summer and early fall.

This year, too, there shouldn't be as many grass cattle and short-feds going to market as last year. Because of this, there won't be the sharp price decline in October as there was in October, 1956.

Kutish predicts that price strength for fed cattle will extend later into the season this year. He advises farmers to use lots of pasture to hold down grain costs, even though marketing time is delayed as compared with dry-lot feeding.

The outlook is also better for short-feeding heavy cattle this year, since prices are expected to hold up during the last months of the year.

During the second week in July fat cattle averaged $3 higher than in 1956, but feeder cattle at the 10 markets averaged $4.25 higher than a year earlier. This narrow margin means Corn Belt feeders will have to do an efficient job of putting pounds on their feeder cattle if they want a good profit this year.

Hogs

About two percent more litters are planned for fall farrowing this year than last, according to the June 1st, USDA pig survey. Kutish estimates this will give us 3 or 4 percent more pigs this fall.

Kutish points out that the hog-corn feeding ratio will probably be average or above until the latter part of 1958. Since the fall pig crop this year will be larger than in 1956, hog prices this winter and next spring probably won't be as good as the past season. But the hog outlook for this period is still good, says Kutish.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

One man was farming at 60 miles an hour. The other man was selling feed at about the same rate of speed. Both were traveling on a gravel road, approaching one another.

In his mind, the farmer was back in his fields. Could he wait until next year to run new fence? Maybe he should have bought hail insurance this year. Should check that tractor over. Must put some props against that corn crib one of these days.

The fact that he was driving a car 60-miles an hour on a gravel road was incidental. He was really farming.

And the feed salesman was really selling feed as he drove along. He was a little worried about sales recently. He was going over a fresh sales approach in his mind. Now, at this next stop, he'd start off by saying . . .

He pushed back in his seat, horrified. His car was lurching across the road. It was out of control. Speed and the road surface were throwing him out of line. He watched while the front of his car battered down fence poles. He saw the earth turn as the car went up in the air. The farmer arrived just in time to see the man die.

Or was it the salesman who arrived just in time to watch the farmer die? Take your choice. Both men were risking death with too much speed, too little attention on a gravel road.

ASC Announces Wool Payment Rates to Hancock County farmers who participated in the government's wool incentive program for the 1956 wool marketing year which ended on March 31, 1957, it was announced this week by Alfred V Josten, Office Manager, of Hancock County ASC.

The payment rate on shorn wool will be 40 percent of the dollar returns which participating producers received from the sale of wool in the 1956 marketing year.

The payment rate on sales of unshorn lambs, to compensate for the wool on them, will be 71 cents per hundredweight of live animals sold.

Payments to be made in this county for the 1956 marketing year will total around $15,064.36. Claims filed in this county consist of 322 for shorn wool incentive payments and 187 for wool on unshorn lambs.

Payments made by the County ASC Office last year in the 1955 wool program totaled $16,235.20 on 338 claims for shorn wool and 129 claims for unshorn wool on lambs and yearlings sold for slaughter.

Producers eligible for incentive payments on the 1956 marketing year program who made no assignment of their payments will receive their checks by mail as soon as records can be completed. Those who made assignments will each receive a statement of the payment made by the ASC office to the assignee.

The amount of the checks will be net after deductions of one cent per pound from shorn wool payments and five cents per hundredweight for unshorn lambs, as authorized in a referendum in 1955. The deductions go into a national fund for the promotion of the wool and sheep industry.

The shorn wool payment rate of 40 per cent for the 1956 marketing year was determined on the basis of the difference between the average price received by producers in the actual sale of their wool and the 62-cent per pound incentive level. Since the incentive payment rate is applied to the price at which the participating producer sold, it is to the producer's advantage to get the best possible price for his wool. The 40 per cent rate means that the producer will receive a gross incentive payment of $4 for every $10 he received in the sale of his wool above marketing charges.

The lamb payment rate of 71-cents per hundredweight for the 1956 marketing year program was determined on the average weight of wool per hundred pounds of lamb, the value of lamb wool in relation to shorn wool, and the average shorn wool incentive payment per pound.

The incentive payment rates for the 1955 marketing year program were 44.9 per cent for shorn wool and 77-cents per hundredweight on lambs sold for slaughter. The fact that the 1955 program rates were higher than those for the 1956 program payments, while the incentive level for both years was 62-cents, indicates that the average selling price received by producers in the 1956 marketing year was higher than in the 1955 marketing year.

5 Reasons Why

Tht 1957 Mitchell Room Air Conditioner Is The Very Best Dollar For Dollar

1. Every 1957 Mitchell room air conditioner (except casement series) is built on a slide-out chassis making them easier to install and easier to service, if ever needed.
2. Every Mitchell air conditioner on the 1957 line is High Power Factor Corrected 90% or more at UL conditions, as compared to the minimum requirement set up for the industry of 85%, which other types try to meet.
3. Every Mitchell air conditioner is powered by the HIGH PUMPING RATE, high capacity Tecumseh compressor, and, as you know, there are three lines of Tecumseh compressors giving three levels of capacity.
4. Every Mitchell air conditioner uses a compressor designed for operation with Freon-22, which is the most efficient Freon known to the Refrigeration Business.
5. The quantity of BTU's that an air conditioner can remove per hour is very important—so much so that the price you pay for on air conditioner CAN BE UN-IMPORTANT!!! The larger the quantity an air conditioner can remove per hour the more efficient it is.

BEFORE YOU BUY, KNOW WHAT YOU ARE BUYING! We have the listing of capacities which are actual ratings as submitted by various manufacturers to the American Refrigeration Institute.

WE NOW HAVE IN STOCK

One Model M-2006 1 H.P. 11,300 BTU per hour Mitchell which will remove 3.5 pints of water from the air per hour. This machine will handle the average size 2-bedroom home.

North Iowa Fair to Be August 5 thru 11

The biggest North Iowa Fair to date will open Aug. 5 at the fairgrounds at Mason City for a seven-day run, according to Hans Henriksen, fair secretary-manager.

With a new array of entertainment and exhibits, fair officials expect another record breaking event. The board is so optimistic that the admission price at the outside gate is to be reduced from 75 cents to 50 cents for adults. Children's tickets will be 25 cents each.

The 1957 fair is expected to be tops in exhibits. Hinriksen said there will be more commercial exhibits than ever before. A tent is to be put up in addition to the present exhibit building to house additional agricultural displays. Two new 80-by-200 feet livestock buildings are expected to be ready by fair time.

Grandstand Shows

Booked for a performance in front of the grandstand on six of the seven nights, the L N Fleckles. Ice Varieties of 1957 again promises to be a sensation in North Iowa entertainment. With bigger acts and a larger rink, the colorful outdoor ice show could well be the hit of the fair.

Fleckles will bring his own portable refrigeration unit to freeze a new ice skating arena before each performance. A cast of more than 60 persons, assembled from all over the world, will participate in the show.

The Barnes Championship Rodeo will appear before the fair grandstand for the first time in history. Bronc busters and steer bulldogers will be riding for points and $2,250 in prize money in this official contest rodeo, so fairgoers can be set to see plenty of action.

The rodeo, co-sponsored by the Clear Lake Bit & Spur Club, will be held Wednesday and Friday afternoons and Thursday night.

Thrillcade, Too

The nationally famed Aut Swenson Thrillcade which kept spectators on the edges of their seats at the 1956 fair will return with new stunts and acts for this year's event. The troupe of daredevils have spine tingling shows scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday afternoons before the grandstand. many North Iowans to see will be the car races on Saturday and

Also on the "must list" for Sunday afternoons. The grueling 100-mile stock car race will be staged Saturday and the big car auto races will be the feature attraction Sunday afternoon.

The regional "Queen of the Furrow" will be chosen before the performance of the ice show Tuesday night. The candidate will represent Emmet, Kossuth, Palo Alto, Pocahontas, Humboldt, Wright, Franklin, Cerro Gordo, Hancock, Winnebago and Worth counties in the statewide contest Sept. 8 at Ames.

The 20th Century Shows will be on the midway which is being relocated this year to the area south instead of east of the grandstand.

Roserve Seats

Hinriksen said reserve seat tickets will be sold for the grandstand this year. There will be two "Kids' Days" at the fair, Tuesday and Friday. Free matinees will be held in front of the grandstand on both days for youngsters under 16.

A North Iowa high school band will put on a half-hour concert preceding each grandstand program throughout the week, Henriksen said.

The outside fence at the fairgrounds is being moved so that all car parking will be on the inside. Parking outside the fence last year caused considerable inconvenience, Henriksen said. People who wished to return to their cars for a picnic lunch or rest had to get passes at the gate.

Approximately $12,000 in prize money will be paid to exhibitors and competitors this year. The livestock show, which is growing larger every year, again will receive top money. Livestock premiums will total over $9,000.

Other leading departments in which cash prize listings were announced are women's projects, education, textiles, pantry stores, floriculture, horticulture, poultry, rabbits and pigeons.

Again this year, the fair will feature both county and district competition for 4-H and F.F.A. chapter members.

Baby Beef Fair Entries Now Over 300 Mark

A record number of 302 baby beeves have been entered for the Hancock County Junior Fair, August 13 to 16. This is an increase of 70 from last year. With this many baby beeves there is bound to be some very good steers and some keen competition for the purple ribbons.

Beef Heifer entries doubled, so there will be 20 at the Fair this year.

The number of Dairy entries increased to 72. This will fill the pole type barn, and since most of these are Holsteins, it should be very interesting to see who has the top animal.

There are 34 market litters entered which is a slight decrease. Fifteen purebred litters will round out the swine entries.

Other entries include 35 horses and ponies, 12 members with market lambs, 7 with purebred lambs, 6 with rabbits, 10 with poultry and 11 electricity exhibits.

The judging of these projects and other programs that have been planned should make a very interesting fair and one which parents and friends will enjoy attending.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

We blame no one for the tragedy which took the life of a small boy on our Main Street at the south side of the park, Sunday . . . but we hope that someone . . . either the town council or one of Klemme's civic or service organizations will see fit to erect a fence along the south side of the playing slab in the park. We feel that it would greatly reduce the chances of such an accident in the future.

Knowing Curtis Riehm personally and being familiar with his record during the past two sessions of the Iowa General Assembly, we think he would make an able United States Representative from the Sixth District. He has a natural talent for finishing a job once it is started, and we are glad to see him toss his hat into the ring for the Republican Primary next spring .

If you are planning on doing any deer hunting this fall, you can get your application for a license from the county recorder or from Bill Ayers any time. Your application must be in the State Conservation Commission office not later than October 14 if you plan to hunt with a gun and your $10 license fee must accompany the application. If you plan to hunt with a bow and arrow, there is no deadline as to when your application must be in . . . but they still want your money. The $10 fee must accompany your application.

Work is progressing on the repair of the old school building. The old brick and stucco are being taken off and new buff colored brick are being laid to replace them. It is doubtful that the job will be completed by the time school opens on September 3rd, but by that time there should not be too much of the work left to do.

Which reminds us that Supt Harlan Shafer has been busy answering his phone telling people when school is to start. Some wild rumors had been flying around putting the opening date anywhere from August 26th to the first of October. However, Supt Shafer says that school will start September 3rd, the day after Labor day.

Three dairy herds from this community are again among the top four herds in the Hancock County DHIA according to the last report. The report covers the month of July and the three herds from this community are those of Dale Brede and son, Virgil Cook and Myrl Miller, and W H Greimann and Farm Co. These herds took 2nd, 3rd and 4th place in the order listed. They are fairly consistent in being in the top ten in the county, as is the herd belonging to Mitchell Bock. This is one of the few reports that doesn't list the Bock herd. Congratulations are in order to all these good dairymen.

Our home has been graced this week with a beautiful bouquet of gladiolus from "Stub" Lewis. "Stub" raises them by the hundreds, crosses them for unusual and beautiful specimens, and sells a large quantity of bulbs each fall and spring.

So school starts the 3rd of September! That's not too far away. First thing you know, frost will be with us and then winter again. Better enjoy yourselves this month, kids, cause it's soon "back to the salt mine" for you.

Family Reunion Ends In Tragedy; Boy, 4, Killed By Auto

The Geddes family reunion, which was held in the Klemme Park, Sunday afternoon, ended in tragedy when Rogen Dean Cassels, 4, son of Mr and Mrs Herbert Cassels of Thornton, was killed almost instantly.

Although it seems that no one actually saw the accident happen, Henry Thiemann, who lives across the street from the park, saw a chain of events which leads to the conclusion that the boy must have been almost in front of Donald Kramer's parked car when Don put the vehicle in motion.

Henry said he was looking out his front window, watching the children at play in the park, when he noticed the little boy playing some distance in front of the Kramer car. He then shifted his gaze to see Don and a couple of girls, Joyce Thiemann and Myrna Barz, enter the car. He thought to himself that he hoped the boy was in the clear if Don started ahead.

About that time the car was put in motion and Henry looked for the child but did not see him, and almost as soon as he had put his car in motion, Don stopped. Witnesses doubted that he moved his vehicle its full length.

The accident was investigated by Patrolman Elmer Angle and Deputy Sheriff Gregg Arnold. No charges have been filed.

There are five other children in the Cassels family.

Site of New Boy Scout Camp to be Open to Visitors; To be Used in '59

One of the finest Boy Scout council camps in the midwest is being carved out of virtual wilderness on the banks of the Shellrock River.

Very little of the 289 acres has been plowed although much of it has served as pastureland. It will remain as nearly like it is now as is possible for an area expected to provide outdoor camping for thousands of North Iowa boys in coming years.

The Winnebago Boy Scout Council has purchased the site. It includes parts of several farms, with one house now occupied by the camp ranger, Willard Nielson. The other house has been abandoned but it is to be made livable since it controls the north entrance to the camp and adjoins the public parking space.

An open area entirely surrounded by trees at the north end of the site will be the location of the camp dining hall now in the planning stage. Nearby is to be a swimming pool.

Near that a well already has been dug, 155 feet deep, from which flows pure water at the Representative, served on committees on Agriculture, Compensation of Public Employees, Consolidation and Co-ordination of State Government, Fish and Game, Judiciary, Military and Veterans Affairs, and Ways and Means. During his first term he sponsored, promoted and secured the passage of many bills correcting school laws; rewrote the Soldiers' Relief Bill by amendments; wrote the amendment that now allows civil service workers or religious workers overseas with the armed forces to vote by granting a longer period of time to them in which to make application for a ballot; was active in all farm legislation, including Agricultural Land Tax Credit, and was one of the two members from the House of Representatives to act as official observer at the Atom Bomb Test in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Riehm, during his second term in the 57th General Assembly in 1957, was chairman of the Conservation, Drainage and Flood Control Committee which rewrote and secured the passage of the water rights legislation which is now a law in the State of Iowa. He was a member of the committees on Agriculture, Judiciary, Military and Veterans Affairs, Motor Vehicles, Commerce and Trade, Public Utilities, Telephone and Ways and Means. Considering that there are 158 Legislators in the Iowa General Assembly, Riehm played a major role in formulating good legislation in the term recently adjourned. Of the 321 bills passed by the GA, he had a part in 42 of them, in that they were either his bills, bills submitted by his committee or bills which carried his amendments, or bills in which he was instrumental in securing their passage.

W L (Bill) Mooty, Grundy Center, veteran of 4 sessions of the Iowa Legislature, Speaker of the House, voted the most valuable member of the House of Representatives this session, said of Riehm:

"I have experienced the pleasure of serving with Curtis G Riehm in the last two sessions of the Iowa House of Representatives. He is an experienced Legislator and possesses the natural abilities to defeat poor legislation. He has demonstrated outstanding leadership on the Floor of the House. His honesty, integrity, and dedication to the cause for good government is above reproach. His record in the Iowa GA makes him one of our outstanding legislators. I am certain that the Sixth Congressional District would be ably represented if he is successful in his campaign for election to the Congress of the United States."

Riehm's hometown editor, C D Elling, of Garner Leader & Signal, on May 29, 1957, had this to say of him:

"Riehm is an active, vigorous campaigner—he is a man of convictions, dedicated to good government — he is sincere, capable and qualified —he is acutely aware of the problems of the day, and he has the 'know how' and qualifications to join with other congressional leaders in working toward the best solutions. Yes, Riehm will serve the 6th District honestly, ably and well!"

An editorial which appeared May 23rd, in the Hampton Chronicle had this to say:

"Curtis Riehm, well known and highly rated lawyer of Garner, and the present member of the Iowa House of Representatives from Hancock County, is being quite generally and favorably mentioned as a possible candidate for the Republican nomination for Congressman from the Sixth District at the primary election next year. Those who know Curtis Riehm know him as a highly rated businessman and lawyer, and this with his legislative experience would put him as another one of those few who would be far ahead of any of the first termers in Congress. He could render his people superb service right from the start."

rate of 200 gallons a minute. That is enough to meet all camp needs, including the swimming pool, said Peter DeJong, council executive.

Already 15 unit camp sites have been staked out in the north end of the 289 acres. They surround the pool and dining hall area as well as a natural half-bowl which will contain the council fire or meeting place.

The southern half of the 289 acres is cut off from the northern by a bend in the river which almost divides the two parts. Areas of the south half which were under cultivation already have been planted with pine and hardwood seedlings which are thriving despite dry weather.

The southern part also is the location of the winter sports area. There will be tobogganing, skiing, sliding and skating areas. It is also an ideal picnic area now and council officials are hoping that the general public will use it after making their presence known to the camp ranger.

Visitors are paticularly welcome on Sunday afternoons while the weather is good, said DeJong. Guides will be available from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Aug 11 and 18, he said.

The north entrance is located 6½ miles south of Highway 147 east of Rockford. The entrance is marked a mile south of the railroad crossing, DeJong said.

Camp Roosevelt on Clear Lake is only 23 acres in size. To make an adequate camping program possible it has been necessary to use land owned by Howard Elder and the Ashland family.

About 20 sites have been considered since it was realized that Camp Roosevelt is too small, said Dr. K. B. Kerr, Charles City, president of the Winnebago Boy Scout Council. Engineers from the national Boy Scout headquarters narrowed the sites to five.

The committee in turn narrowed the five to three—the one at Marble Rock, one near Pliot Knob State Park and one north of Floyd.

A new committee then was formed, Dr Kerr said. It included one man from each of the nine counties in the council. That committee spent 2½ days visiting each of the three sites. At first the committeemen voted for the site nearest their own homes, Dr. Kerr said, but after rating the sites on a chart the votes were unanimously in favor of the one at Marble Rock.

The council had on hand a fund of $80,000 for camp development. The first $30,000 was given by the W. C. Way estate, expressly for that purpose. An anonymous donor then added $50,000, Dr. Kerr explained.

The council has $40,000 left after buying the site. Next spring a campaign is planned to raise $250,000 for construction of necessary buildings and a swimming pool. The dining hall, big enough to serve 600 persons at one time, will be a major expenditure.

The swimming pool is expected to cost approximately $100,000. It is necessary, it was explained, because the Shellrock River is not clean and is full of holes which move from time to time, making it unsafe for boys swimming.

Although the camp is being planned for 250 boys, it is expected that only 150 will have to be accommodated at one time at least in the near future. The regular camping program will be moved from Camp Roosevelt to Marble Rock only after the new site has been developed, probably in 1959.

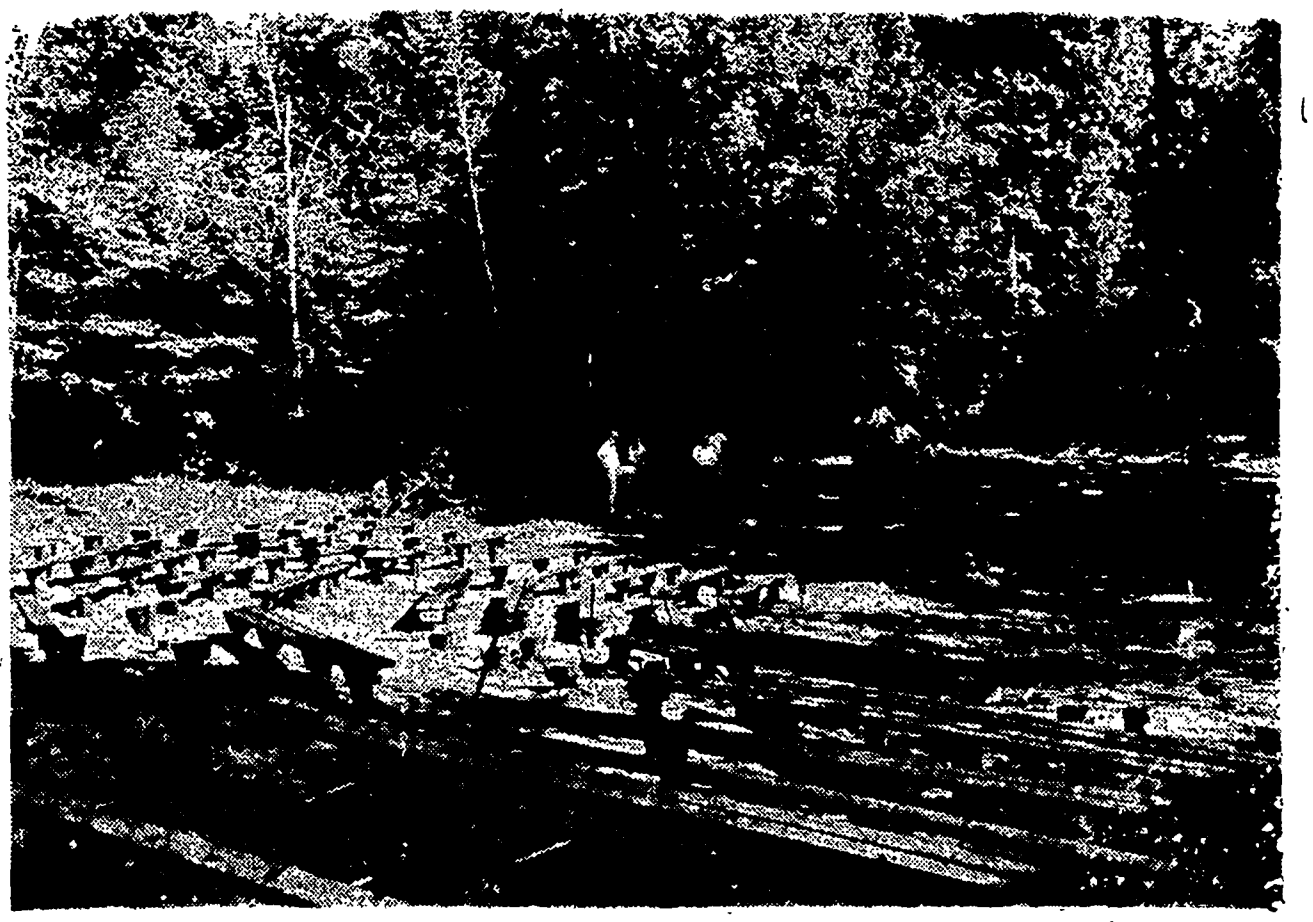
Camp Roosevelt will be operated as usual in 1958, DeJong said. There may be some camping at the new site, particularly by older scouts, he said, but necessary facilities for the formal camp cannot be ready before 1959.

Camp Roosevelt is the property of the Winnebago Boy Scout Council, the executive explained. It was given to the council by the Mason City and Clear Lake Rotary Clubs. The future of that camp is now being considered by a committee which includes E. B. Stillman of the Clear Lake Rotary Club and Judge William P Butler of the Mason City Club.

Special invitations have gone out to Winnebago and Hancock County residents to visit the camp next Sunday afternoon and from Wright and Franklyn counties on Aug 18. The camp is open to people of other counties also on those days, however.

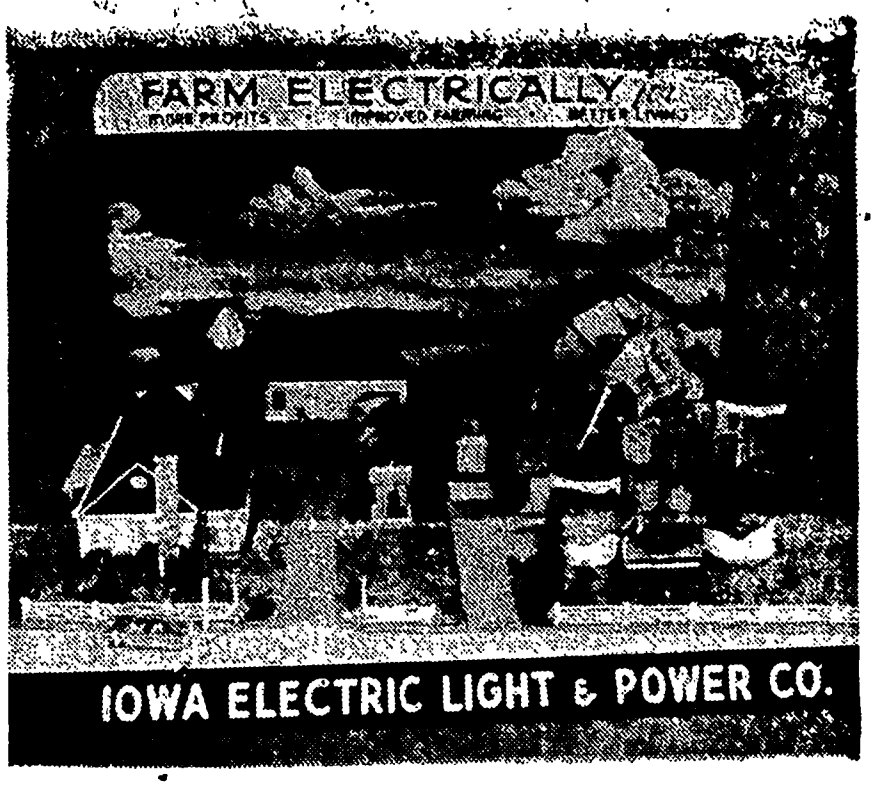
Residents of the nine counties in the council were urged by Ray N Rorick, chairman of the fund campaign, to visit the new camp site. "We want them to see what we are planning for this generation of boys and those of the future," he said.

Newspaper, television and radio men of North Iowa toured the site recently as guests of KGLO and the Globe-Gazette. The tour was headed by Doug Sherwin of KGLO, publicity chairman for the council. He said he would welcome questions concerning the site from anyone interested.



NATURAL BOWL — The Boy Scout council fire will be located in this natural half-bowl. Wright County scouters already have begun building the benches, half of which already are in place. The semi-circle of benches will continue past where the men are standing.

Iowa Electric Light & Power Company to Show Model Electric Farm at Hancock County Fair



A miniature farm mounted on an 8 foot X 10 foot platform will be displayed at the Hancock County Fair, August 13, 14, 15 and 16th by the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company. The showing will be the first in this area and will be an added free attraction at the fair. This model farm constructed at a cost of nearly $5,000.00 shows a typical farm home and buildings with parts cut away to reveal the various pieces of electrical equipment, each piece actually in operation doing its specific job. Some of the equipment you will see are water systems, hay and corn drying, electric milkhouse, automatic insect spray, electric cow trainer, milking machine, silo unloader, barn cleaner, various handling equipment and many others. Stressing live better electrically.

This display will be of great interest to both the adults and children who visit the Power Company booth. Also, each visitor is eligible to register their name for a drawing which will be held Thursday evening, August 15th, at 10:00 p. m. The Power Company will give free, two Sunbeam frypans, one each to the first two names drawn. It will not be necessary for the winners to be present. Be sure and visit the Fair this year, you will find many things of interest. The Fair is expanding rapidly and Hancock County can be proud of their accomplishment.

● BUDGET HEARING

Auditor Gus Pappas read the budget and discussed the various phases of the proposed budget and expenditures. The budget was open to questions from the taxpayers relative to various expenditures and proposed expenditures. Hancock County Representative Curtis G Riehm spoke briefly in support of the report of Ray Edwards, of the Iowa Taxpayers Association and County Engineer Charles K Paulson discussed the proposed road budget and road maintenance and construction.

Following a lengthy discussion, Mitchell Bock, prominent farmer from the Klemme community, made a motion that the proposed budget be adopted as proposed and published, recommending to the Board of Supervisors to act according to the wishes of the taxpayers present, and this motion was seconded by Mayor Virgil Cook of Klemme. When C A Bird, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, placed the motion, taxpayers present voted overwhelmingly in the affirmative and the Board proceeded to act in accordance with their wishes and approved the budget as proposed and published.

The budget as adopted Monday calls for a total proposed expenditure of $1,090,645. and a tax levy in the sum of $646,005.00. Total expenditures in 1956 were $1,080,663. and the amount levied for taxation to be collected in 1957 was $505,191.00 Most of the increase is reflected in the road, poor, state institutions and court expense funds.

me, Iowa, one of eight children born to his parents, Berend and Fanny (Fuls) Swalve.

He grew up on the farm, completed his common school education in the rural school nearby, and attended religious instruction and became a member of the Klemme Reformed Church by confirmation.

On December 23, 1918, John Swalve and Wilhelmina Sandersfeld were married at the John Sandersfeld farm home. They became the parents of two sons and one daughter.

Mr and Mrs Swalve were farmers and lived in the Klemme community through all their active years. In 1948 they moved to Clear Lake in retirement where John died while asleep in bed early on the morning of August 1, 1957.

Even though Mr and Mrs John Swalve lived in Clear Lake, they continued to hold membership and attend services at the Klemme Reformed Church. They both had been baptized and confirmed here, and their three chlidren had been baptized here. As a young man, John sang in the church choir and in his active years held various offices in the church, including a term as Deacon.

Hence, it is fitting that we bring his remains back to the home church for last rites and burial in the Klemme Cemetery.

Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn his passing: two children, Mrs. Wilma Odegaard and his son Raymond; two daughters-in-law, Lorraine and Lois Swalve; three grandchildren, Douglas and Denis Swalve, and Randall Odegaard; four sisters, Tina (Mrs. Henry Behrens, Clarksville, Iowa; Fannie (Mrs. Clark Schupeltz, Wessington Springs, South Dakota; Clara (Mrs. Clyde Marshall), Milwaukee, Wisconsin; and Lena (Mrs Ingrid Lauritzen), Los Angeles, California; and one brother, Ben, of Compton, California.

Special Study Shows Traffic Fatality Increase On Country Roads

The number of fatal traffic accidents on Iowa's county and local roads increased 45 percent during the first six months of this year compared to last year, according to state safety department report submitted to Governor Herschel Loveless today.

At the same time, the number of fatal traffic crashes on US Highways in Iowa dropped slightly more than 10 percent, the report said.

Governor Loveless recently asked the safety department for a special study of traffic fatalities on rural roads.

Russell Brown, who will be acting safety commissioner on August 1st, told Loveless that the number of fatal accidents on country roads has jumped from 58 in the first half of last year to 84 during the same period this year.

He said fatal accidents on US Highways in the state dropped from 96 to 86 during the same time.

Fatal accidents on State Highways remained about the same—53 during the first six months last year compared to 52 this year, Brown said.

He told the Governor that he felt the widespread publicity on highway hazards and enforcement campaigns had helped reduce the death toll on primary roads, especially during holiday periods.

"People believe us when we say highway traffic is dangerous," Brown said, "but apparently the average driver just can't believe the peaceful country roads are dangerous, too."

He said the majority of country road fatal accidents occur when drivers run off the roads or collide at intersections — "a result of too much speed for conditions and too little attention," he said.

Brown told Loveless one of the major problems in cutting the country road death toll is lack of enforcement. He said state and county enforcement agencies do not have the manpower to police county and local roads.

Loveless ordered the safety department to step up a campaign on country road hazards. "I want this problem hit again and again so that every driver will be fully warned," he said.

July Hot and Dry Compared to Normal

July, 1957, was hot and dry according to weather records kept by Earl Henschen, custodian at the Hancock County Courthouse, with temperature above normal and precipitation below normal for the month.

The average temperature for the month just ended was 77.53 as compared with 70.17 for the same month last year. The average maximum temperature for the month was 88.19 and the minimum average was 66.87. The highest temperature recorded during the month was 98 degrees on July 12th and the lowest mark recorded was 56 degrees on July 24th. The mercury climbed to 90 or above on 13 of the 31 days in July, while in 1956, the temperature reached 90 degrees or over only twice.

Precipitation for the month measured 2.36 inches with the heaviest amount, .80 inch, falling in the twenty-four hour period ending at 7:00 a.m. on July 20. In 1956 a total of 7.74 inches was recorded during July. While rainfall was below normal for the month, the frequent small showers accounting for the total were well scattered through the month and little damage from drouth was in evidence. Crops were in need of a soaking rain at the end of the month if drouth damage is to be avoided in August.

Twelve days were listed as cloudy or partly cloudy and 18 days were listed as fair during the month. The warm weather of the month enabled crops delayed by cold, wet weather early in June to progress to normal for year.

Safety Department In Appeal to Cut Fatalities On Secondary Roads

The state safety department has again appealed to Iowans to help win the battle of the traffic death rate on the state's secondary roads.

Russell Brown, acting public safety commissioner, reminded drivers that the number of fatal traffic accidents on county and local roads is running 45 percent ahead of last year.

"It's by far the blackest part of our traffic death picture at the moment," Brown said. "We can expect little improvement unless drivers accept the fact that this danger exists and take steps to protect themselves."

He warned motorists that 50 miles-per-hour is the "top safe speed" on a gravel surface even under the best conditions. "Often this speed is too fast for safety. Drivers must adjust their speeds to conditions," he said.

He emphasized the danger of intersection crashes now that corn and foliage stands high at many rural corners. "The driver who goes dashing into a blind intersection is courting death."

Brown advised reduced speed and extreme caution when entering any country intersection. "Be sure you're moving slowly enough so that you can stop in time to save yourself," he said.

He urged farmers to cut corn standing at intersection corners in order to give drivers a clear view of incoming roads. "Cut the corn just to the ears and back about 100 feet from the corner," he said.

Britt's Annual Hobo Day Will Be Aug. 20th

Are you in need of a King?

Britt, Iowa, will have the distinction of having the largest gathering of kings in the world for two days next week. Four personalities, all whom have borne the title of "King of the Hoboes," will be on board for the 57th annual Hobo Convention, Tuesday, August 20.

Arriving early to set up the Hobo Headquarters, and his campaign bailiwick was Sam "King" Cole, the Hobo King and head of the International Brotherhood of Hoboes. He's traveled 30,000 miles publicizing the 1957 convention.

Reigning King, Ben "Hobo" Benson wrote this week that he would be in Britt, but he has again announced his retirement. King Ben wants to be known as "Hobo King Emeritus."

Bon is the owner of a life-size oil painting of himself hopping a boxcar. It will be on display on Hobo Day.

Scoopshovel Scotty, who was mighty unhappy at losing the crown to Benson last year, will have his hat in the ring—if he has anything to say about it, this 83-year-old knight of the road will get it back.

Harry "King David" Beetison, from Nebraska, assures us he will be here August 20th. He doesn't run for king anymore, but he "likes to come back and see his old friends and enjoy the hospitality of Britt."

Boxcar Myrtle wants to be on hand to run for queen, and so far she has no opposition candidates. Hobo queens are hard to come by.

The giant Hobo Day parade will get underway at 10 a.m. on Tuesday and parade chairman Chris Steinbach assures everyone that it will be much bigger than last year. All groups in the County are invited to put a float or unit in the parade to compete for the $300 prizes.

There will be a special award for the "junior hobo." This will go to the boy or girl 12 years and under who has the best and most authentic hobo costume.

The 16 kettles of mulligan stew will go over the charcoal fires about 3 p.m. Tuesday, to be ready for serving at noon. Kenneth Higdon, chairman, is being aided by Walter Hefti and John Stratton and what hoboes as can cook. Plans are now to serve 4,000 people at the stew.

Kenneth Boughton is working with the hoboes to plan the election and coronation which will follow the parade. This year there will be some special presentations.

Some of the finest free acts in the midwest have been booked for three performances. Hancock County residents are invited to see the show on Monday night to avoid the big crowd that jams the seating on Tuesday afternoon and evening. Jackie Swift, m.c. was in Britt this week and said that these acts are usually paid $2,100 an engagement.

A dance sponsored by the American Legion is planned in Memorial Hall on Tuesday night.

The Royal United Shows will operate on Monday night and all day Tuesday. For Hobo Days, this company will put in a full street show of 12 major rides and 40 concessions. The midway compares with many of the largest fairs, and it is the biggest one day stand in the nation.

Jim Harvey is general chairmon and Bob Korneisel is concession chairman.

August 16 Ends Case Finding TB Program

August 16, 1957, has been set as the date for the climax of the annual 'Contact' X-ray program when the mobile X-ray units will be brought to Garner by the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Miss Marcia Mitchell, R N, public health nurse, has spent the past six weeks interviewing persons who may have been in close contact with an active case of tuberculosis and who may have become infected, but not yet be aware of it. If these persons have had positive tuberculin skin tests, they will have a chest X-ray in the mobile unit.

The 'Contact' Case-finding program has been sponsored by the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association. A portion of the cost is borne by the sale of Christmas Seals each year.

This program has the approval of the Hancock County Medical Society, and is conducted by the Division of Tuberculosis, State Department of Health and the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association.

"Practically everyone I visited has been willing to participate in this program," said Miss Mitchell. "We anticipate about 45 persons to be X-rayed when the mobile unit parks at the Courthouse in Garner.

"Only those persons who have been previously advised of the X-ray clinic can be accepted at the mobile unit on August 16th," the public nurse said. "This survey is not for the general public."

"It's this kind of cooperation which will lead to the ultimate eradication of tuberculosis," said Mrs Herman Bode, president of the local tuberculosis association, adding her appreciation to all persons who have helped carry out the project.

The X-ray films will be interpreted by physicians of the State Department of Health and the confidential findings reported to the family physician. It is from him that the individual may receive his X-ray report.

Follow-up work will be done in the community by Marcia Mitchell, R N, county public health nurse. This follow-up work will be done in co-operation with the doctors of the community.

Three Hospitalized After Head-on Collision on 69

Mr and Mrs Thomas Roths, Jr escaped injury Friday evening when their car was involved in a head-on collision with a car being driven by a Leland girl.

The accident occurred about five miles north of Garner on Highway 69 when the car being driven by the girl from Leland attempted to pass a truck and smacked into the Roths car.

Both the driver of the Leland car and a girl companion were hospitalized, as was C F Lemke of Rockford, who was a passenger in the Roths car. Lemke and one of the girls were treated and released, but the other girl had to remain in the hospital for observation.

Junior's car was badly damaged, but the other machine, which rolled several times, is a total wreck.

Reseal Offer Still Open For 1955 and 1956 Corn

Farmers who have price-supported 1955 and 1956 corn in their cribs or bins still have time to take advantage of the government's reseal offer, it was announced today by Alfred V Josten, Office Manager of the Hancock County ASC.

Manager Josten reported that considerable interest is being shown in resealing, principally because the government is offering to pay farmers 16 cents a bushel for keeping their eligible price-supported corn on the farm an extra year or until July 31, 1958. Pro-rated payments are provided for loan corn kept on the farm less than the full extra year.

The weather is another factor which may bring heavy resealing this year, the chairman declared. Although crop prospects have been bright in the state as a whole, the outlook is not too good in some areas, he pointed out, and many farmers who carry on feeding operations will reseal as protection against any shortage of feed in their neighborhood and resulting higher prices.

All corn loans matured on the last day of July but producers having farm-stored 1955 or 1956 corn under loans may delay their decisions on resealing until they receive their notice to make repayment or deliver their corn in settlement. However, it will be helpful to the county ASC office for those who have already decided to reseal to advise their community sealer or the county office at the earliest possible time.

Producers who hold purchase agreements on farm-stored 1956 corn were given until July 31 to advise the county office if they intended to convert their agreements into reseal loans.

The present offer applies only to farm-stored 1956 corn under original loans and purchase agreements and to 1955 corn which was resealed a year ago. No provision has been made for further extension of present reseal loans on 1953 and 1954 corn, which means that such grain must either be redeemed or delivered to the government in the settlement period starting on August 1.

Because the reseal payment rate of 16 cents a bushel will go a long way toward the cost of a new crib or bin, Manager Josten urged farmers in need of additional grain storage space to consider use of the facility loan program administered by ASC. Under this program, he explained, farmers may obtain loans for as much as 80 percent of the total cost of needed new storage structures. The loans draw 4 percent interest and are repayable in 4 annual installments.

Complete information on resealing and the facility loan program may be obtained at the county ASC office in Garner.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

One day last spring a handful of seed dropped into the earth in the corner of a field. It was only a tiny fraction of the vast job of planting corn in Iowa. From the standpoint of the total economy, it was almost nothing.

During that same week Warren sold his usual number of overalls, socks and shoes in his job in the small drygoods store in town. His sales were only a tiny fraction of the huge Iowa market. In the total economy, it was almost nothing.

Oh, we could probably find some significance to these things. The seed, for example, would grow corn in the corner of the field and block the view of an intersecting road.

And one of the pairs of shoes Warren sold were fitted to the trim feet of a pretty girl from the country. Their conversation was a little more lighthearted than usually passes between clerk and customer. It was, in fact, the beginning of a romance. Warren began driving into the country regularly to visit the girl. He was 23, she was 19.

But, again, these things were not tremendously significant compared to the whole pattern of life and growth—a handful of seeds, one boy and one girl.

It wouldn't seem so, at least, except that one Sunday afternoon Warren and the girl were driving in the country when their view of an intersection was blocked by the tall corn that had risen from the handful of seeds.

The girl died a crushing death when the unseen car smashed into them. The shoes she had bought from Warren were ripped from her feet by the impact. Warren is recovering in a hospital. The corn is doing beautifully.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Cattle

There should be about 20 percent more fed cattle heading for the August and September market this year than last, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Cattle feeders didn't market as many animals in June as they had planned to on April 1st and on July 1st, the 13 main feeding states were feeding 8 percent more cattle and calves than last year, Kutish observes.

On July 1, the number of cattle on feed more than 6 months was 18 percent higher than a year ago, and the number on feed 3 to 6 months was 8 percent greater. Intentions now indicate that marketing after October 1 should be about the same as in 1956.

Another factor in the cattle outlook is the large number of short-fed cattle now in the West. On July 1, the Corn Belt had fewer short-feds than in 1956, but the three western states had more. If California follows its usual short-feeding practices, Kutish predicts we'll have late summer competition from California beef.

This would seem to mean a steady to perhaps moderately higher fat-cattle market during the next few months. There would be periods of temporary weakness. We are not likely to see the sharp price hike of last year, when the market jumped $6 in 8 weeks. Any sharp price rise we get will probably be a short one, ended by an equally sharp drop.

Lower grades of fed cattle are in a better outlook position than are choice and prime grades, compared with a year ago. Good grade steer prices are about as high now as they were at the September peak last fall. Standard and utility grades are higher, but choice and prime grades are still below their September, 1956 peak.

Fewer grass cattle will reach market during August and September than in 1956. We haven't had the drouth this year we had a year ago, and feeders haven't been forced to sell their grass-feds. That's why lower grades should sell closer to top grade cattle this year. This is a good time to market these lower grades—before the western runs get under way.

Crops

The western Corn Belt has the best crop prospects in years, although the eastern Corn Belt is still hampered by wet weather. The July crop report indicated a smaller total crop than a year ago, but crop forecast increases over the mid-summer forecast are more likely under too-wet conditions than when we had a drouth.

A record crop of grain sorghum can be expected this year. Nearly 50 percent more grain sorghums were planted this year than last, with more acres planted to hybrid varieties. Grain sorghums, of course, will add to our feed grain supplies.

Chick Hatch

Laying Flocks will be smaller than last year this summer and next fall because of a 20 percent cutback in the hatch of egg-type chicks during the first six months of this year, according to Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Kutish points out that the full effect of this cutback will be partly offset by the fact that the rate of lay per hen usually increases during late summer and early fall. This means egg production should stay about even with last year during late summer and early fall, says Kutish. However, he points out that by the end of 1957, the reduction in the number of layers will be felt, as egg production drops below year-ago levels.

Turkey Hatch

June of this year was the first month in 1957 in which the turkey hatch was below that of the same month a year ago. Even in hatchings during July and August are down as much as June, total turkey hatch since September, 1956, will be 4 or 5 percent higher than the 77 million turkeys raised in 1956.

This boost in the turkey populations, plus the turkeys in storage, is causing a sharp price drop. Storage on June 1, was more than twice the 41 million pounds in storage on the same date in 1956. And prices are running about 6 cents per pound lower than they did last year. Kutish looks for continued low 1957 turkey prices.

Hogs

Federally inspected hog slaughter for the week ending July 20, was 5 percent below a year ago. Total inspected weekly slaughter has been running under a million head. It is so low, in fact, that packing houses aren't able to run at minimum capacity on a 36-hour a week basis. This means that each packing house tries to get enough hogs to fill its minimum by bidding strongly. But, Kutish points out, there just are not enough hogs to go around, and prices are forced up. That's why hog prices have risen recently.

This situaton makes it hard to tell just how high hog prices will go this time of year, when the peak will come and when the market will drop off, Kutish says.

However, he expects more hogs to hit the market sometime during August. When this happens, packers won't bid so strongly, and prices will slip.

Marcella Nuehring Tells Of Conservation Camp

I was selected to go to State 4-H Conservation Camp last week, July 29 through August 3. Conservation Camp was held at the State 4-H camping center which is located near Madrid on the wooded slopes of the Des Moines River. This was really an ideal setting for such a camp.

Each day was full of new experiences. Some of these were gained through the classes on forestry, plants, birds and soils. For example, the day we had soils we learned how to lay out contour lines and to determine the percent of slope. They were very interesting to me because I live on a farm. Dutch Sylwester pointed out the Poison Ivy plant to us because of the injuries it can cause. Several campers did visit the camp nurse because of it. These classes and other lectures were really interesting and helped give us a better idea of Conservation.

There were plenty of other things to do along with attending classes. Each afternoon we had swimming instruction and we also had some free time for swimming. This was really enjoyed because of the hot weather. There were parties each night with folk dancing, square dancing, skits, talent show and campfires.

I had a wonderful time and would enjoy going back every year. I think everyone should work toward such a trip. I would like to thank everyone for making this week of camp possible for me.

Indiana Man to Speak At Annual County Farm Bureau Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Hancock County Farm Bureau will be held at the new high school building in Britt on Wednesday evening, September 18th.

Final discussion and action of Farm Bureau policy resolutions, elections of officers and directors, and business and progress reports of the county's largest farm organization will be highlights of the meeting.

Farm Bureau President Kenneth Olson of Ellington Township has announced that the evening's speaker will be Mr Larry Brandon, of Auburn, Indiana. Mr Brandon is considered one of the top agricultural speakers.

Early steps in the county-wide project of summarizing Farm Bureau members' recommendations on farm policy have been taken. The county resolutions committee of the Farm Bureau, headad by Gordon Upmeyer of Garner has started its efforts to gather opinions. Other members of this committee are Stanley Bomon, Ellington; Mrs August Josten, Ell; Kermit Engh, Twin Lake; Mrs Emil Christiansen, Garfield; Mrs Milo Pitkin, Madison; and Mrs George Krauss, Magor.

Major agricultural issues which will be considered by the Farm Bureau members in the county include several having to do with state tax problems, with school financing and Federal Aid to education.

Farm Bureau members are also considering the recommendations they will make governing such national legislation as that involved in the soil bank, the methods and levels of farm price supports, and new uses for agricultural products.

Every member-family in the county is urged to attend local, township and county-wide Farm Bureau meetings this month, so that each may voice his opinion and help form organization policy.

Selective Service to Cut Number of College Qualification Tests

Only one Selective Service College Qualification Test will be given during the 1957-58 school year instead of three as in previous years, Colonel Glenn R Bowles, State Director for Selective Service in Iowa, notified local boards today.

Scores on the tests, and student class standing, are criteria used by local boards in the consideration of requests by college students at both the undergraduate and graduate level for deferments from induction in order to continue their studies.

The single test planned for the next school year will probably be held in the spring of 1958. Three tests per school year have been provided for students each year since the 1951-52 school term.

The main reasons cited for offering only one test next year is that the number of students taking the tests has fallen steadily from 74,327 in the first full school year under the program to 11,122 in the school year just ended. Induction calls are presently cast for men 22 years of age and older. The student who progresses normally through school will complete his four years of undergraduate work by that age, thus the demand for the test has fallen.

Student - registrants attending Iowa universities and colleges are urged to keep in touch with their own local boards who will have the latest information on when and where the 1957-58 test will be given.

Pick Best Corn Grower

Des Moines, Iowa—Which farmer will grow Iowa's biggest ear of corn this year? Who will be named the champion all-around farmer of the state? These and other questions on top farming ability will be decided in the state agricultural exposition opening at the Iowa State Fair here on August 23 and continuing through September 1. Over $3,700 in prizes will be awarded in dozens of farming categories and thousands of entries of the world's finest farm products will be on exhibit. The ears of corn are weighed, measured, tested as to kernel quality, checked and double-checked, as shown by this picture of one of the judges at work at a recent Iowa State Fair.

Over 3,000 Join Soil Conservation Districts In Iowa Since January 1st

Three thousand, one hundred ninety-two farmers joined the ranks of conservation enthusiasts by becoming district cooperators with Iowa's 100 soil conservation districts during the first 6 months of 1957. Frank H Mendell, State Conservationist of the U S Soil Conservation Service, further reported that presently there are 60,597 district cooperators working with local Soil Conservation Service technicians. Of this number, 40,953 have received technical assistance in the development of a complete soil and water conservation farm plan.

Farm people's concern over the loss of fertile top soil, along with shortage of moisture, has caused an increased interest in enduring soil conservation practices. Soil Conservation Service employees assisting local soil conservation districts provided technical assistance in applying 2,232 miles of terraces; 153,158 acres of contouring; and 16,775 acres of strip cropping, along with 2,687 acres of grassed waterways, and 11,340 acres of pasture improvement the first six months of 1957. Eight hundred fifty-three farm ponds for livestock water, were built. Mr Mendell further reported that 155 farm structures were designed and built for gully stabilization and water detention. Wildlife was benefited by planting 22,333 rods of multiflora rose and improving 2,266 acres for game cover.

Leading districts in terrace construction were Fremont, Plymouth and Harison, as were Ringgold, Wapello and Wayne in number of ponds built, and Clayton, Mills and Shelby in waterway development.

Liberty Go Getter Boys Give Top Demonstration

Donald Kopacek and Roger Pringnitz, members of the Liberty Go-Getters, were awarded a blue ribbon by Dean Barnes, County Extension Director from Kossuth County, for their demonstration on "Constructing a Range Type Poultry Feeder". Donald and Roger will represent Hancock County at both the North Iowa Fair and State Fair according to Edward Bruns, County Extension Youth Assistant.

Vernon Jurgemeyer and Ronald Schubert, from the Ell Midgets, topped the Junior Division by receiving a blue ribbon on their demonstration, "Cleaning and Care of Paint Brushes". Judge Barnes commented that they gave one of the best presentations on this topic he has seen.

The other demonstrations presented in the REA building on August 6th were awarded red ribbons. Ronald Lacy and Darrel Avery, from the Avery Young Farmers, demonstrated "Gun Safety". Roger and Vincent Kopacek, from the Liberty Go Getters, spliced an electric cord. Merlin Miller and Glenn Pitkin, from the Boone Busy Boys 4-H Club, showed the audience a system of ear marking swine.

The demonstrations are all very interesting and are very helpful not only to those watching, but to the demonstrators. They help to develop poise, leadership, to improve speech before a group and, in general, the attitude of these members.

Henderson Suggests Action to Remove 'Blind Corners' In County

One of the annual late-summer hazards—"blind" road crossings, often resulting from tall crop or weed growth—is beginning to be a problem in Hancock County again this year, says Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

Henderson says some buildings and trees obstruct crossroad visibility all year, but the problem is more widespread now that tall corn, weeds and other plants are growing high. Many of Hancock County's "blind corners" can be remedied. Henderson says that Safety Specialist Norval Wardle of Iowa State College, suggests that where intersections are obstructed by permanent objects, neighbors should ask the County Supervisors to erect appropriate stop signs.

Wardle says one of the most common hazards—tall corn—can be eliminated with relatively little or no loss of yield, as compared to the cost of an accident.

Wardle says a rural crossing with no stop signs should have clear visibility in all directions for at least 125 feet from the center of the intersection. Since most fields are planted all the way to the corner, he suggests cutting the corn back 100 feet along each fence row after it's pollinated. (The difference of 25 feet is an allowance for the road and drainage ditch.)

In effect, Wardle explains, a triangle is cut on each of the 4 corners of the intersection. This area amounts to 11½ percent of 1 acre, or 5,000 square feet. If cut off completely, it would represent a loss of 9.2 bushels of a field yielding 80 bushels per acre.

But if the stalk tops are cut at the second node above the ear, loss would be less than 1 bushel on an 80-bushel yield. Cutting just above the ear results in a loss of 2 to 4 bushels with a similar yield, Wardle says.

The safety specialist adds that a sign placed on the fence 300 to 400 feet from the dangerous corner would help strangers to the area recognize an unforseen accident hazard. He suggests a sign, in orange letters to attract attention, reading: "Caution—Blind Corner—Tall Corn."

Increase Noted In Loans Through Farmers Home Administration Facilities

Cerro Gordo, Hancock, Winnebago and Worth County farmers increased the use of operating and real estate loans available through the Farmers Home Administration during the fiscal year ending June 30.

Irwin C Christiansen, the agency's county supervisor, reports that 88 loans of all types, totaling $319,995, were closed during the year. This compares to $308,885 advanced during the 1956 year.

Most of the demand came from young farmers who expanded their operations in order to make full use of their labor and increase the efficiency of their farming methods, according to Mr Christiansen.

Repayments on loans outstanding during the year totaled $276,343.00.

Funds have been appropriated by Congress to continue all the loan services for the coming year. In addition, the agency will continue to make real estate loans with funds provided by private lenders and insured by the government.

Approximately 27 percent of the funds advanced during the past year were used to pay operating expenses. Local farmers also used the agency's credit for the purchase and development of real estate.

Operating loan funds were advanced to purchase additional machinery and quality livestock and meet annual operating costs repair, feed, seed, fertilizer, and for fuel, insurance, machinery for other farm and home operating needs and to re-finance chattel debts. The loans were also used to purchase portable buildings and fencing materials so the livestock and poultry could be raised on clean ground.

Real estate loans made by the agency fell into three categories: farm housing, soil and water conservation, and repair of farm houses and other essential farm buildings. Soil and water conservation loans were made to carry out measures for soil conservation and to develop water systems for irrigation and farmstead use. Farm Ownership loans were made to buy family-type farms, enlarge undersized farms, develop farms and re-finance debts.

The local FHA committee must approve each loan application before funds can be advanced. Applicants are approved as eligible only if other lenders cannot adequately supply their credit needs and only if prospects are favorable for their being able to improve farming operations and repay their loans. Borrowers are expected to re-finance loans with other lenders as soon as they are in a position to do so.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

"Firsthand knowledge does not become secondhanded just because it is used!"

S-R-T

Our work load has been considerably lightened by the arrival of Sam Swartz. Sam is a printer of some six years experience and as a result we don't have to poke our nose into the back shop to such a degree as has been the case in the past.

Sam is married and he and his wife are the parents of two children, Debbie, 2½, and Sam, 1½. They have been living in Eagle Grove, where Sam was employed at the newspaper, but are originally from the Hanlontown area. They have moved into the Koerner house in the northwest part of town.

If this week is indicative of things to come, Sam's presence in the back shop is going to mean that news items, etc., better be in the Times office by Tuesday evening because Wednesday will be press day.

S-R-T

Have you noticed that most of the Martins are gone . . . that blackbirds are beginning to bunch as though thinking of the flight to the south . . . that lawns are turning brown and waiting thirstily for the fall rains . . . that the nights are now much more comfortable for sleeping . . . that even the days seem to be cooler . . . that this week's issue carries a double-page spread all about the opening of school September 3rd . . . that Warren Bier has cut back his corn fields at the intersection just west of his buildings making it possible for good vision for drivers, and costing him nothing but a couple of hours time with a corn knife . . . . that practically no one is following Warren's good example . . . that another Iowa community is trying to steal some of Klemme's thunder insofar as high board fences are concerned . . . and that regardless of all this, time flies, and winter will be here before we know it.

However, before winter comes, if the year is normal, we will have some beautiful golden days in the latter part of September and October. Days when a sweater or jacket is in order in the morning and then about midmorning, shirt sleeves are adequate and comfortable. Indian summer! We think it is our favorite season. Only one trouble with it. It seems to always bring us itchy feet. Makes us want to go places and see things.

Another good thing about the arrival of fall will be the discontinuance of repeat TV programs. It's getting so that every time you turn on the set you see a program that's familiar. The only good thing about the repeats is that it makes it easy to do a little reading.

Corn Crop Looks Good, But Lack of Rain and Borers Hurt

Driving along country roads in this area gives one the impression that we are in for one of the dang gonedest corn crops that this part of the state has ever known. However, closer inspection and conversation with a few farmers takes some of the shine off the picture.

The corn was off to a slow start this year due to cool, damp weather, but when it finally took hold and started to grow, it began to show signs of being exceptionally good. Showers came at just the right time to keep it doing its best, and right up to the time that it was shooting ears, surface moisture was kept replenished by these timely rains.

Most farmers knew, though, that it wouldn't take too many rainless days to make the crop begin to hurt, for subsoil moisture is practically non-existant—and sure enough there came a spell of weather with no moisture and for about a week the corn plants practically held their breath. Then another shower started it growing again. The trouble was that the week when the corn was holding its breath was the time when it should have been filling out the ears.

Consequently, we are told that although the crop looks fine from the road, a trip into the field reveals that many of the ears are not copletely filled, a fact that will considerably cut the yield at harvest time.

Another pest that is lessening the chances or a bumper crop is the corn borer. He has been extremely active in this vicinity and his activity will probably result in much ear droppage as the corn drys out this fall.

Even though, the crop is not going to be as big or as good as it looks to the casual passerby, it will still be a long ways from failure—and we wouldn't be surprised if some whopping big yields were reported.

Good Duck Population In Canadian Provinces

Duck populations in most of the Canadian provinces are heavy assuring Iowa hunters of waterfowl at least the equal of last year's exceptional outturn when they move down flyways this fall, Ducks Unlimited has reported.

Good to excellent hatch reports have been reported from central and southern Alberta, southwestern Saskatchewan and most of southern Manitoba. In Manitoba, duck and water conditions have been termed "excellent" which means the best situation for several years in that province. Alberta, plagued by flood conditions during the nesting season, reports a fair duck crop.

Adding to the optimistic note of Ducks Unlimited authorities is that a hefty first early hatch has received, an additional boost by successful renesting and sufficient water that is expected to last through the summer.

In drought regions, early hatches were successful in getting on the wing and moving to permanent waters, Ducks Unlimited projects and other man-made impoundments, aiding particularly in the growth of young ducks.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Demos To Meet

Iowa Democrats will start this month to map their tactical plans for the 1958 state elections.

All county chairmen and vice-chairmen will meet in Des Moines August 31. The purpose not only will be to map strategy but also to stir up interest in getting out candidates for state and county races.

Earlier this month the county party leaders from the state's 15 largest counties assembled for discussion. Gov. Herschel Loveless, first Demo governor in almost 20 years, carried all but two of the 15 larger counties but received a majority of only 29,000 over the entire state. His majority for the 15 counties was 49,000.

Clamp Tax Lids

Steps have been taken by the tax commission to clamp the lid on farm sales tax exemptions voted by the 1957 legislature.

The exemptions, Chairman Leon Miller reports, will not apply to items purchased in other states for use in crop and livestock disease control in Iowa.

In veterinary serums alone, he estimates, Iowa will retain $5,000 a year in revenue.

State Employees

By mid-August the Iowa tax commission had lost 43 of its veteran employees. The employees have either quit by request or voluntarily since July 1 when the Democrats assumed control of the commission. Nine new employees have been hired by the commission.

Most of those removed were Republicans. The GOP has had control of the commission for almost 20 years.

Liquor Employees

Thirty-four employees have lost their jobs with the Iowa liquor control commission as a result of a new policy to retire employees at the age of 70.

The commission, now under Democratic control, also plans to check the number of personnel in each of the 180 state liquor stores to "make cuts wherever possible."

Eleven of those losing their jobs this month were store managers.

For Congress

Curtis Reihm of Garner, member of the Iowa house of representatives, has announced that he will seek the GOP nomination for congress from the sixth congressional district.

He'll be opposing state senator Jacob Grimstead of Lake Mills in the Republican primary, for a chance at the seat now held by Democratic Congressman Merwin Coad.

Reihm, 42, is a lifelong resident of Hancock county. He is an SUI graduate, served four years in the army engineers in World War II and has practiced law since his return from the armed services. He is a former county attorney and is now city attorney for Garner and Kanawha and has served two terms in the legislature. He owns and operates one farm, and manages others.

He was chairman of the conservation, drainage and flood control committee of the House, helping write the water rights legislation adopted last session and played an active role in the passage of numerous other bills.

Guard Peps Up

Iowa National Guardsmen, who have completed two weeks of military training at the Guard's new academy at Camp Dodge, Des Moines, are 1,000 percent improved in efficiency.

State Atty. Gen. Norman Erbe, one of the instructors at the camp, said he noted "1,000 percent improvement in the efficiency" of the guardsmen who completed the program.

He said only six of the 60 men selected for the training "quit voluntarily."

Upon successful completion of this training, plus eight weekends of added training, the men may become qualified for officer commissions.

Farm Policy

Iowans may have opportunity to help shape the nation's farm program for 1958.

A congressional subcommittee on agriculture will visit Iowa the week of Nov. 10th. The family-farm subcommittee of the congressional agriculture committee wants to meet with Iowa State College and Extension Service folks at Ames, and then tour farm areas.

Governor Loveless had invited the group here. The governor will name a state committee of farmers, businessmen and technicians to gather data for the subcommittee.

45,000 Iowans Called

Nearly 45,000 Iowans have been called for military service since the nation's induction program was first launched seven years ago.

Selective service officials put the number at 44,981. Since October of 1956 inductions have been running quite low.

Fire Insurance Up

Inflation has sent Iowa fire insurance rates up. O P Bennett, state insurance commissioner, reports they are up an average of 7 to 8 percent.

The new rates, in effect now, were approved by Bennett "on evidence of inflation in the cost of labor and materials."

Lots of Chow

Nearly 15-million meals were were served by the Iowa board of control, in various state institutions, during the last fiscal year.

The total served was 14,928,336. The institutions obtained some $400,000 worth of federal government surplus foods in the period. Penal institutions, however, do not qualify for federal surplus foods.

New Color Plates

Will Iowa depart from black and white on its license plates?

That remains to be seen. However, tests are now being made to determine the strength and useage obtainable on yellow and black paints for the 1959 season. The 1958 plates are already in production on black and white.

White paint now being used doesn't hold up these days under salt spray from the highways during the winter. Salt is spread on highways to melt ice and snow. Officials feel yellow may be better.

Three states—California, New York, Wisconsin—now use yellow and black combinations on their auto plates.

Pilots Elect

Veteran airplane pilots of this state, organized in the Iowa chapter of Ox-5 Club, have named Arthur Hartman, Burlington, as temporary president. Mrs Sylvan O Hugelen, Clear Lake, was named temporary secretary.

The unit, now being organized, takes its name from a water-cooled engine used on many planes until the 1930's.

Secondary Roads Deadly

The Iowa Highway Patrol Thursday issued a startling estimate of the dangers of driving on the state's secondary roads system.

Major James Machholz, Asssitant patrol chief, said that on a per-mile of travel basis a driver is "probably 30 to 40 times more likely to have an accident on a secondary road than on a primary highway."

He said the increased danger on secondary roads is due to the large number of intersections, loose road surface material, and obscured driver vision caused by tall corn, weeds and low-hanging tree foliage.

"These things are made dangerous by the attitude of a driver using a secondary road," Machholz said. "He feels safe traffic doesn't appear to be too heavy."

"As a result he may start to drive too fast for conditions and let his attention wander. That's when the intersections, the loose gravel, the obscured vision close in on him and set up another fatal accident," Machholz pointed out.

He said one-car fatal traffic accidents "are well out in first place' in the steadily rising secondary road death toll.

This means, he said, that individual drivers are killng themselves by driving too fast for conditions on county and local roads. He said "50 miles an hour is the absolute top safe speed on even the best gravel surface."

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

When the insurance executive was arrested for passing on a yellow line, he decided to treat the whole thing as an amusing incident. He gave the story a funny twist and began to tell his friends about it.

About the first time he told the story the Justice of the Peace who had handled the case was sending a transcript of the insurance man's convicition on the passing charge to the state safety department.

The insurance man continued to tell his story several times over the next few days and, each time, it got funnier. At least it seemed amusing to everyone except the safety department evaluator who received the transcript of conviction.

He simply went to the huge files where a duplicate of every drivers license in the state is kept. He found the insurance man's license and added a notation of the illegal passing arrest.

It wasn't the first notation on the license. There was a record of other offenses and an accident all within the past few months. The insurance man's license didn't go back into the file. It went up to a front desk in the safety department.

Probably the insurance executive had about exhausted his funny story of being arrested when the letter from the safety department arrived. It directed him to appear before an officer of the highway patrol for an interview and license examination.

The man was surpised and bitter. Something he had treated lightly had turned into a troublesome situation. His past record had caught up with him. The safety department is keeping score on every driver in Iowa.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

NOTE: This answers one of the questions reported "most asked" in the county extension director reports for the week ending Aug. 10; "What is the outlook for feeder cattle prices in the next few months?"

The profit margin on cattle sold this summer has been good, but rising feeder cattle prices will soon start whittling it down, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Kutish predicts that feeding margins won't be as wide during the coming feeding year as during the last two. Hay and feed grains are cheap, and this means feeders will have to make their profit from the pounds of grain put on their cattle.

Under these conditions, Kutish says, gains put on good quality cattle will bring more money than the same gains put on medium quality animals. This means cheap cattle must be bought "cheap' in order to pay out. And its hard to find "cheap' cattle this fall. One reason feeder cattle are higher is that farmers are already discounting cheap feed this fall. If they don't bid prices up too much, and if fewer cattle are fed than last fall, feeders could still have a profitable year, Kutish thinks. Otherwise, profits will be small.

Another feature of the feeder cattle outlook is that nearly as many feeder cattle have been moving from public markets as a year ago in spite of the fact that fewer cattle have been sold off the range. This is because there are always more cattle available than are fed, Kutish points out. This year, the feeder has bid prices up and taken cattle that would ordinarily go to packing houses. Fewer cattle have been killed this summer than a year ago.

Even though total movement of cattle off grass is smaller than a year ago, there could still be as many animals on feed this winter as last if feeders bid cattle away from the packers.

Prospects for cheap feed in the western corn belt have caused feeders to show increased interest in heavy cattle the last few weeks. Feed lot operators don't expect as many fed cattle coming to market the last of 1957 as in 1956.

Kutish notes that the choice heavy steers are selling in the West for $20 to $22 for immediate delivery. These cattle are hard to find, though, he says. With many ranchers holding their heavy cattle for maximum gains, we could see some bunching up of these heavy steers by late October.

A price drop in heavy feeders is more likely than a drop in light feeders. But the farmer who takes on heavy feeders in late fall will have to carry them over into the February-March market, Kutish points out. This could mean competition from wheat pasture cattle, plus the seasonally weak February market that has occured regularly since the war.

Lightning

LeRoy White, of Bondurant was badly burned about the mouth and suffered considerable pain and stiffness recently when lightning hurled an electric clock and struck the fork which he had in his mouth.

Killed

Death recently claimed the life of Horace A. Zimmerman of Knoxville when a chunk of slate estimated to weigh 500 pounds fell on him. Zimmerman had been a miner since 1939 and he had owned the mine in which he was killed since 1956.

Yes, school's open in many communities this week, and will be in many more, including Klemme, next week. Some of these children will be going to school for the first time and may not be aware of traffic dangers, and others who have gone to school before may forget the dangers . . . so it's up to you. Drive carefully by school grounds and adjoining areas. The few seconds you lose may save a life.

And with the opening of school, we think that it is again appropriate to publish the laws concerning a driver's conduct when he is approaching or overtaking a school bus.

The driver of any vehicle overtaking a school bus shall not pass a school bus when flashing stop warning signal lights are flashing and shall bring said vehicle to a complete stop not closer than fifteen feet to the school bus when it is stopped and stop arm is extended, and shall remain stopped until the stop arm is retracted and school bus resumes motion, or until signaled by the driver to proceed.

The driver of any vehicle when meeting a school bus on which the stop lights are flashing shall reduce the speed of said vehicle to not more than twenty miles per hour, and shall bring said vehicle to a complete stop when school bus stops and stop signal arm is extended and said vehicle shall remain stopped until stop arm is retracted after which driver may proceed with caution.

45,572 Pounds of Surplus Food Distributed in Hancock County

4,073,076 pounds of government surplus commodities, valued at approximately $795,738.84 were distributed to needy families in 69 counties during the first six months of this year, according to L L Caffrey, chairman of the state board of social welfare. Delivery cost to the counties, which includes all expenses incurred by the state for handling, storage, and freight charges to the county warehouses, totaled $27,954.86 or 69c per hundred pounds. Counties reimburse the state for this expense.

United States Department of Agriculture surplus commodities available to the department of social welfare for distribution included cheese, dry milk, beans, rice, flour and corn meal. However, all counties are not prepared to use all items and may requisition just those commodities they can handle at a local level.

Mr Caffrey said, "Families receiving these supplies are certified as eligible through the departments of social welfare in the 69 participating counties. Any county wishing to distribute surplus commodities to its needy families may do so by meeting costs of distribution."

In Hancock county, 45,572 pounds of food valued at $9,196.78 were distributed by the county welfare office to needy families during the first six months of this year. Delivery costs totaled $375.02. Commodities used included 4,560 pounds of cheese, 6,912 pounds dry milk, 4,800 pounds beans, 4,800 pounds rice, 17,250 pounds flour, and 7,250 pounds corn meal.

PREDICT 10 IOWA TRAFFIC DEATHS FOR LABOR DAY WEEKEND

The state's summer driving season may end with a smashing 10 traffic deaths this Labor Day weekend, the Iowa Department of Public Safety warned today.

Highway Patrol Chief David Herrick said past records and present traffic conditions "indicate we will have such a death toll this weekend unless drivers do an outstanding job of protecting themselves."

He reminded motorists that 14 persons were killed in Iowa traffic accidents in 1949 and that the state's traffic volume and death rate has increased since that year.

Herrick said the safety department will stage another all-out traffic law enforcement drive on the highways during the holiday weekend. All highway patrol leaves and days-off have been cancelled for that period.

He said the full force of the patrol will be on the roads from 5 pm Friday through midnight Sunday. Airplanes will spot traffic violators and the patrol will be using electric speed timers.

"The greatest danger may come from the driver who is taking the long weekend as a last summer travel fling," Herrick said. "He will be in a hurry to get someplace and in just as big a hurry to get back. Some of the drivers with this attitude just aren't going to make it," he warned.

Herrick urged all drivers to reduce their highway speeds during the holiday and to use particular care in passing. "Don't pull out on that left side unless you are absolutely sure you can make it."

Two Youths Escape Serious Injury In One-Car Crash

Two youths, Jim Bartek of Britt and Daryl Brager, son of Mr and Mrs Carol Brager of this community, escaped without serious injury last Wednesday evening when they were involved in a one-car accident near the Addis Greimann farm on the gravel road south of Garner.

The accident came about early in the evening when young Bartek borrowed a car belonging to Maynard Weisbrod and then picked up the Brager boy and went for a ride. Bartek apparently lost control of the car and it rolled and slid into the creek south of the Greimann farm where it caught fire.

Luckily both of the boys were thrown from the car before it stopped and burst into flames, and both came out with rather minor injuries considering the shape the car was in. It was demolished . . . smashed flat and partially burned.

Both boys were treated by physicians following the accident and then sent home. Daryl was the most seriously injured and he came out of it with a few cracked ribs and lacerations and bruises on his legs.

Both Bartek and Brager are 15 years old.

Sumner Trumbell, who for the past 33½ years has been the rural carrier out of Klemme, is all set to retire. Saturday, August 31, will be Sum's last day on the route. His tenure of office runs way back to the horse and buggy days, and there have been many changes, both in route patrons and equipment for hauling the mail since he started on the job.

Hearing On School Drainage District To Be Held Oct. 19

Hancock County Supervisors Monday tentatively approved the report of drainage engineer William Henschen recommending the establishment and construction of a drainage improvement petitioned for by the Klemme Community School District. A public hearing on the petition and report of the engineer will be held at the courthouse in Garner at 10 o'clock in the morning, October 9th.

Construction of the new school building would have increased the load on Drainage District No. 21 which embraces the town of Klemme and is already overloaded, so the school board has petitioned for the improvement. The new district, as set up in the engineer's report, would relieve District 21 of about 30 percent of its load, making it more efficient, and at the same time would insure proper drainage for the school and for a considerable number of residences in the northeast part of town.

Total estimated cost of the improvement is $7,898.00, and engineer Henschen stated in his report that construction of the proposed district would be conducive to the public benefit, health, utility, convenience and welfare.

New Federal Judge

Iowa's newest federal judge, Ed R. Hicklin of Wapello, is expected to be sworn in this month, after having just been confirmed to the post by the U. S. Senate. He was nominated for the judgeship by President Eisenhower.

He will serve as U S district judge for the southern half of Iowa. He succeeds the late Judge Will Riley who died several months ago.

A bill is now pending in congress, that may draw approval, to give Iowa a third federal judgeship. Additional federal judges are being requested in several states to help with the workload on the federal bench.

New Safety Section

Two safety specialists are helping to organize a new accident records and research division in the Iowa department of public safety.

The new division is to spearhead a scientific approach to reducing the mounting traffic death toll on the state's highways.

Edward South, Chicago, of the National Safety Council, and Dr A R Lauer, Ames, head of the Iowa State College driver research laboratory, are directing the work of the new division activation.

School Bus Checks

Annual inspection of Iowa school buses will be held next month.

The Iowa highway patrol will cooperate with the department of public instruction in the program which will cover about 5,000 buses, about 300 more than were in use last year.

Each bus will be checked for about 50 items, including safety devices, brakes and lights.

No Enforcement

New fire safety laws for nursing and custodial homes, approved by the last legislature, may not be enforced for lack of funds.

State Fire Marshal Ed Herron asked the legislative budget group for added funds to enforce the new safety requirements. The committee, pointing to attorney general's ruling, decided it would be illegal to provide Herron with funds to enforce the rules.

Demos Hired

The appointment of Mrs West was announced by Dr E G Zimmerer, state health commissioner.

New Blind Office

The Iowa commission for the blind plans to open an eastern Iowa district office probably around the first of the year.

Two advisors to help blind persons with work problems will be stationed in Cedar Rapids. They will provide guidance in training for and locating jobs. The commission may assist with the cost of vocational training.

A native of Marion county, Overton has been working for the department in Washington. At one time he was assistant to the Iowa secretary of agriculture.

Tax Law Holds

The Iowa attorney general has ruled that an old tax law still applies and contractors must pay the state motor fuel tax on public contracts let prior to July 1.

The ruling will result in an additional large amount of money going into the road use tax fund.

As of July 4, this year, a new law exempts motor fuel used in mobile machinery on construction work. But the attorney general's ruling said the law provides that an obligation incurred under the old law was not validated by the new law.

Return From 9-Day Trip Through Three States

Mrs Martha Bredhenner and Novella returned last Thursday from a nine-day bus trip through Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota. They spent a couple days sight seeing and enjoying the boat trips and Stand Rock Indian Ceremonial in the Wisconsin Dells. Then they travelled on to Green Bay and along the shores of Lake Michigan to St Ignace. A ferry boat took them to Mackinac Island located in the Straits of Mackinac, which divide the upper and Lower Peninsula of Michigan and connect Lake Michigan and Lake Huron. Here they enjoyed seeing the historic sites on Mackinac Island via the unique bike-chair and by carriage. No automobiles are allowed on the island. At Mackinac Island they viewed the beautiful new Mackinac Straits Bridge which when completed this fall will connect the Upper and Lower Peninsulas of Michigan. At the present time a ferry is the only means of transportation across the Straits.

After leaving Mackinac Island, they travelled to Sault St. Marie, Ontario, Canada, here they took a boat trip through the locks of the Soo Canal which makes navigation possible from Lake Superior to Lake Huron. Their boat went through both the Canadian lock and the U S Davis lock, the longest canal lock in the world. While in Sault St Marie they enjoyed watching the numerous huge feighters carrying cargoes of iron ore, coal, limestone, or grain pass through the five locks.

From Sault St Marie they journeyed across the Upper Peninsula to Duluth, Minn., where they enjoyed a harbor boat trip to watch the lake freighters being loaded with iron ore or with grain. From their sight-seeing boat they had an opportunity to observe this loading process right beside the huge freighters.

The next part of their trip took them through the iron mining towns in Minnesota's Mesabi Range. At Hibbing they viewed the Mahoning-Hull-Rust Iron Mine, the largest open pit iron mine in the world. They watched the huge 350 ton electric shovel pick up 13 to 16 tons of ore at one time and lift it into an ore car. During the course of their trip they had seen the cycle of iron from the time that it was first mined in Hibbing, loaded into huge freighters at the ore docks in Duluth, transported across Lake Superior and through the Soo Canal, and finally unloaded at the Algoma Steel Mill in Sault St Marie, Ontario, to be processed into steel.

The last part of their trip took them through the land of lakes and forests in northern Minnesota to Minneapolis and then home to Klemme.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Perhaps the sharpest indication of what is happening on Iowa highways this summer comes in this story from the highway patrol:

A patrolman was assigned a new car, but there was to be a couple of days' delay in putting the usual patrol insignia and lights on the machine.

With the traffic death toll climbing as it is this year, however, it was felt there should be no delay in putting the patrolman and his new car on the highways. He went on duty driving the unmarked car.

At the end of the first day, he came back to his sergeant a shaken and troubled man. "We've got to get some identification on that car," he said, "or I'm going to get killed.

"Those drivers out there don't know who I am. They're running me off the road, pulling out in front of me, cutting in, and riding my bumper. We've got to get that car looking like a patrol car so I can get some protection."

Patrolmen tell this for a true story, but they tell it a little sadly. It indicates many drivers have to see the law before they will obey it.

Another straw in the wind appeared in a letter to the safety department recently. A man had been receiving the department's accident and fatality summaries. He wrote to the department:

"Will you please discontinue your report to me? It gets on my nerves."

With the way things have been going this summer, the man's request is understandable, to say the least.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Chances are growing ever smaller that Iowa's farm boys will find opportunities on the farm when they reach farming age, says Robert Osterbur, Iowa State College farm economist.

The number of farms in Iowa and in the United States has been decreasing for several years. Mechanization and labor-saving equipment have caused farms to grow larger and fewer in number.

Normally, Osterbur points out, more people are born and raised on farms than are needed to replace those who leave the farm. Some of these "extra" people have to find jobs off the farm.

This situation interests not only farmers and future farmers but also educators, government credit, extension and soil conservation agencies, and others connected with agriculture. Research is currently in progress that is intended to shed more light on what this situation will be in the future.

For instance, in Clarke County, Iowa, there were 1,281 farms in 1950, but by 1955, there were 1,146, a drop of 135 farms. By taking several factors into account, such as increasing farm size, decreasing total acres of farm land, movement of farmers to cities, retirement and death of farmers, etc., predictions for the future of Clarke County farming have been made.

By 1975, it is figured there will be 819 farms in the county. This is a decrease of 426 from 1950. During this period of decrease, 1,105 farm boys will reach farming age in Clarke County. Of these, only 431 can expect to become farmers. This is about two out of five. The other three will have to find work off the farm.

The Clarke County estimates also indicate that the average farm size, which was 225 acres in 1955, should be a little more than 300 acres in 1975.

Of course Osterbur points out that these figures are estimates based on certain conditions. If these conditions change, the actual figures will change too. Also, the calculations do not include the increasing numbers of part-time farms and farms used primarily as places to live. These are causing a gradual, though small decrease in the amount of commercial farming land.

Announce Regulations for 1957 Waterfowl Season

A 70-day Iowa waterfowl season from October 5 through December 13 was announced today by the State Conservation Commission.

Except for season dates and bag and possession limits of American and red-breasted mergansers, the 1957 regulations are essentially the same as last year.

During the 1957 waterfowl season, hunting will be permitted each day (including opening day) from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Daily bag limit of ducks is four (4). Possession limit of ducks after first day is eight (8). One (1) hooded merganser may be possessed. As in 1956, a closed season will exist on Ross' Geese, grebes, rails, (except coot), gallinules, mourning dove, woodcock, wood duck, and swan.

Bag and possession limit of geese is five (5). Not more than two (2) of the limit may be Canada, Hutchins', Cackling, or White-fronted Geese. Two (2) of any of the above may be included in the limit. The entire bag may be made up of either Blue or Snow Geese or any combination of them.

Bag and possession limit of coot or mudhen is ten (10).

Open season on Wilson's Snipe or jacksnipe will be from October 5 through November 3, 1957. Bag and possession limit is eight (8). Daily shooting hours is the same as for ducks and geese.

During the 1957 season, Iowa hunters may take five (5) American and red-breasted mergansers daily and have ten (10) in possession, singley or in aggregate of both kinds. This regulation is in addition to the bag and possession limits of other ducks.

Early Housing of Pullets Pays in Hancock County Flocks

Hancock County farmers who house their young pullets soon after the first eggs are laid will help speed them into production, says Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner. Henderson says Paul Walther, extension poultryman at Iowa State College reports that pullets will gain weight faster in the laying house. As egg size is closely related to the body weight they will start laying larger eggs sooner.

The pullets will go into steady production about twice as soon if they are housed right away, says Walther. Another advantage to early housing is that the pullets will learn to use nests in the laying houses, thus decreasing the number of "floor eggs."

Due to the hot weather and greater water requirements when birds start laying there must be adequate watering space — at least one four foot waterer per 160 birds, cautions Walther.

Science ond the art of prediction are wonderful. Now we are warned of oncoming storms, epidemics and uneasy world conditions. We can prepare to ride out the storm or flee from its path and modern medicine, both curotive and preventative, helps us weather an epidemic but we still have not learned any reliable way to avert being involved in the struggles of other countries, many of whom are struggling for freedom such as we have long enjoyed. We need wisdom and good sense in ordering the affairs of this country if we are to aid other people and yet not become involved in a devastating war. Our responsibility is not only to avoid war for ourselves but to help others to avoid it and at the same time preserve a sort of world integrity that will not allow international banditry by aggressor nations. Trumbell Receives Recognition

In February of 1924, Sumner Trumbell entered into duty as Rural Carrier on Klemme Route 1. That was 33½ years ago, and Mr Trumbell estimates that he has driven approximately a half a million miles on the route between that time and Saturday, August 31st, his last day on the route . . . and all with only one minor fender scraping incident on slippery roads a few years ago.

When Mr Trumbell began his duties as Rural Carrier, he used a 1924 Model T Ford when the roads would permit, but a team and buggy were necessary part of the time, with winter snows bringing out either a cutter or a bobsled. At that time the route covered 26 miles and it remained that length until 1935, when additional service area was added lengthening his daily trip to 39 miles.

Mr Trumbell's mail carrying equipment had progressed by that time to the point where he no longer made use of the horse and buggy, and if roads became impassable for his car, he walked, and hired others to walk, too, and help him get the mail to his patrons.

As the years went by, roads and autos improved to the point where traveling the route was a pleasure compared to the old days, and in 1954, an additional 4½ miles was added to the route bringing the total mileage to 43½.

So far as Mr Trumbell knows the only original patrons left on the route are Herman Baack, E J Arnold, Mrs C A Arnold and Joe Schuldt.

Mr Trumbell now plans to enjoy himself in retirement and augment his retirement income by selling insurance.

Honorary recognition is accorded James Sumner Trumbell for devotion to duty in the course of an honorable career in the United States Postal Service.

This citation tendered upon the occasion of retirement from active duty, conveys official commendation from the Postmaster General and a cordial expression of esteem from coworkers in the service.

The certificate was issued at Saint Louis, Mo., and was signed by the Regional Director and Postmaster General Arthur E Summerfield.

We feel certain that the entire community joins with the staff at the post office in wishing "Sum" many happy years in retirement.

418 Students Enrolled in Local Schools

The Klemme Community School opened on Tuesday, September 3. Total enrollment for the school now stands at 418. Enrollment by grades is as follows:

Enrollment at the high school buildings in grades 4 through 12 is 260 with 158 students at the grade school.

The only divided grade this year is the second grade which has 23 in each section.

Work on the high shcool building is still in progress with completion about two weeks away. Aluminum sills are still to be installed and some painting will be done.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Little Liklihood

Few politicians are now expecting Iowa's Democratic governor to call a special session of the state legislature.

After veto of several major appropriation bills this spring the governor indicated his disappointment over activities of the GOP-dominated legislature and threatened a special session this fall.

Now he's postponed any such decision before spring. Neither Democrat or Republican legislative leaders now feel there'll be an extra session. Mostly it's the same reasoning on both sides: politically dangerous.

Safe Balance

Governor Loveless reports the state government can operate during the present two-year period "under current appropriations and have a safe working balance."

The state comptroller estimated, to the governor, a working balance of $24,589.62 on July 1, 1959, the close of the present financing period.

The comptroller estimates income of $310,800,730 for the present two-year period and appropriation liability of $286,211,106.

The state finished the last biennium, June 30th, with an unencumbered balance in the general fund of $39,769,643. Of that the state apparently would have to spend about $15-million leaving a balance of almost $25-million.

Harlan Quits

Jim Harlan, assistant director of the Iowa conservation commission, and state employee for 27 years, has quit his job to accept a position with the federal government. He's already at work as a federal conservation consultant in the national water supply and water pollution control program.

Harlan's salary will be $10,320. He received $6,300 from the state.

Harlan is the son of the late Edgar R Harlan, former curator of the state historical department.

Union Funds

Iowa Republican legislators may seek to investigate reports that Teamsters Union funds have been contributed to state Democratic campaign funds last year. Reports are that such funds may have gone into the governorship and perhaps some congressional races.

State Rep Clark McNeal, Belmond Republican, and chairman of the political elections committee of the legislature, said an investigation will be made.

"A very complete analysis will be made," McNeal told newsmen.

State laws may have been violated if the reports are true.

Final Salute

Three Iowa congressmen gave a final salute to the big battleship Iowa at Roanoke, Va., the other day before the ship was scheduled for wrapup with the so-called mothball fleet of inactive vessels.

Congressmen Fred Schengel, Davenport, Henry Talle, Decorah, and Merwin Coad, Boone, visited on the Iowa with their families.

Iowan's Tax

Were you average in tax payments last year?

The average Iowans paid $90.74 in state taxes during the last fiscal year which ended June 30th.

That's a report from the U S dureau of Census, which also says the total state taxes paid by Iowans in the period was $244-millions.

For all states, the average paid was $86.75 per person.

Your Birthday?

The University of Iowa wants to locate all persons in Iowa who are 100 years of age or older. A two-months seach has turned up only 56 of the centenarians.

Quits Post

Dr John Meyer, clinical director for medical education at the state mental health hospital at Independence has resigned. He had been on the staff about one year.

Highway 30

Most heavily traveled road in Iowa continues to be Highway 30. The daily average of traffic carried on the highway last year was 3,915 vehicles, up about 200 more than in 1955. Highway 6 is next busiest.

Legal Staff

Atty Gen Norman Erbe will double the legal staff at the Iowa highway commission. Two more attorneys will be added making it a four-man staff.

C J Lyman is the present assistant attorney general assigned to the commission and his assistant is Dan Flores. The two new additions, however, will not be assigned as assistant attorneys general but will become members of the legal department.

In the last session of the state legislature, Gov Herschel Loveless vetoed a bill that would have placed all departmental attorneys directly under the attorney general as assistants on his staff.

More Liaison

T A "Tommy" Thompson, chief of the Iowa bureau of criminal investigation, has embarked on a new division training program.

A training course for state field agents already has been launched by the new bureau chief who recently succeeded R W Nebergall.

Thompson pledges improved working relationship with local law enforcement officers throughout the state. He plans to visit all law enforcement agencies in Iowa to help bring about a closer-knit statewide operation, he said.

Traveling Librarian

First field librarian for the Iowa Traveling Library is Leona Funk, Cedar Falls librarian. She has been assigned the northeast Iowa territory. Her duties will include counseling services to libraries and organizations. She will keep her present post.

Other representatives will be added to the state traveling library program in the near future.

Death Takes Two

Two well known Iowa Democrats died in recent days. One as District Judge Milton Glenn of Dubuque, the other Davenport Mayor Walter Beuse. Glenn was 55, Beuse, 56. Both men died suddenly.

Ankle

Mrs D C Wright of Northwood recently slipped and fell while working in her garden and broke three bones in her ankle.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Highway Patrolman W F Lewis of Emmestburg has been able to sum up one of the states most dangerous traffic threats in just three letters: C. C. C.

The letters stand for Crop Corner Casualty and refer to the harvest of lives being taken in traffic accidents at rural corners where vision is obscured by tall corn.

In a three-day period recently, FIVE Iowans died in traffic crashes blamed, in most part, on blind rural intersections.

We can expect that lives will be lost at these intersection traps every week from now through the end of harvest. It's all a part of the tremendous increase in traffic deaths on county and local roads.

And speaking of abbreviated safety warning reminds us to tell you about an effective formula that will cure the accident plague if taken consistently. The formula is called U2. It can be taken without prescription by simply accepting the fact that you ,too, have a responsibility to drive with safety and sanity all the time.

The next time you're driving through the peace and quite of the country, take a big dose of U2 and keep the three Cs of Patrolman Lewis in mind.

Move into those blind intersections as cautiously as you would walk into a dark room. Don't be a Crop Corner Casualty.

Wilford Back Attends ISC Engineering Camp

The camp is located in the heart of the Chippewa National Forest in Northern Minnesota. It is in session from Aug. 5 to Sept. 14 and students receive college credit for attending.

While at the camp, the students are divided into typical surveying crews and each student serves in every position on the crew from axe man to chief of party to gain practical experience in working on and directing crews.

The students also receive practical experience in land, right of way, plane table and hydrographic survey in the rugged terrain of the Minnesota woods. There are 67 students at the camp this summer. They live in comfortable barracks and eat home-cooked food prepared by three women cooks in the central mess hall.

The camp day starts at 6:45 with the ringing of an old engine bell in front of the mess hall. The men eat breakfast at 7 a.m. and are on the way to their field locations by 7:45 a.m. They return to camp at 11:45, have lunch and then are back in the field by 12:45. The afternoon work ends at 4 p.m. The men may fish, swim, study, play on the camp soft ball team or visit one of the nearby towns in the evening. Thursday evening is movie night with first run films being shown on an outdoor screen on the main street of Wirt. Residents of Wirt and surrounding territory are guests of the engineers on movie night each week.

Main purpose of the camp is to give civil engineering students the practical experience which they cannot gain in the confines of the campus or from books. In addition to the knowledge gained, the men enjoy six weeks in the Minnesota vacation area.

'Temporary Silos For Short-Range Plans' Says Henderson

Temporary silos—usually built to last not more than 5 years—are finding their place on Hancock county farms, says Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

Their primary advantage, Henderson says, is to farmers who are uncertain about future business planning but need some type of silo space for immediate and near-future operations. Since permanent, upright silos require a relatively higher capital investment, "they're generally out of the question" unless a part of long-range plans, he continues.

Temporary silos with concrete floors such as that found on the Earl Schultz farm southwest of Britt or Lawrence Radloff farm southeast of Garner are becoming more popular throughout the state.

According to Henderson, Larry Van Fossen, extension agricultural engineer at Iowa State College says concrete floors provide better drainage and improve silage keeping qualities, but, because of their cost are not advised unless they can be used for another purpose. When empty, they can be used as feeding floors, or if the outlook doesn't include silage after a year or two, the floor and foundation are already laid for a machine shed or other farm structure.

Where level sites are available, creosote post and plank walls work out well, Van Fossen says. And on hillsides, trench-type silos are often used. Adequate drainage is imperative in either case. He says trench silos sometimes have low spots where moisture is trapped and extensive spoilage results.

Stack-type silos made with snow fencing usually aren't satisfactory, says Van Fossen. Unless such stacks are "very well protected," he adds, "they suffer considerable spoilage."

One type that is convenient to use and can be moved from place to place is the portable bunker type. Its plywood construction is explained in Midwest Plan No. 73301.

It makes no difference what type of silo you build for any given forage. Van Fossen says, as long as recommendations for building the silo and ensiling the forage are followed, most of the temporary silo designs will do the job.

August Cooler, Wetter Than Year Ago

August 1957 went into the weather record as a little cooler and wetter than the same month in 1956 according to weather records kept by Earl Henschen, custodian at the Hancock County Courthouse. The month just ended had an average temperature of 7.01 as compared with 72.11 last year. The maximum average was 82.55 as compared to 83.48 last year and the minmum average this year was 59.58 and in 1956 was 60.74.

The warmest temperature recorded during the month was 94 degrees on August 2nd and the low followed several days later with an early morning low of 44 on August 5th. Four days during the month had temperatures of 90 or above.

Precipitation during the month totaled 4.77 inches which was exactly the same as was recorded in June of this year but considerably higher than the 1.81 inches recorded for August of 1956. The heaviest precipitation recorded during the month fell in the 24 hours period ending at 7 a.m. on August 14th, when 1.01 inches was recorded. Most of the rain fell during the last ten days of the month and precipitation in measurable amounts fell on eight of the last nine days of the month. The month's total with .22 of an inch which fell on September 1st, brought the total for the year to 21.56 inches as compared with 21.63 inches for the same date in 1956.

While 1957 has had as much precipitation as 1956, crops suffered more from the drought this year than last for the reason that one third of the total in 1956, or 7.74 inches fell in July while July of 1957 measured only 2.36 inches with many areas in the county receiving only about an inch. August rains came a little late to benefit corn and soybeans except where the crop was planted late or retarded by wet fields in the spring. About 75 percent of the corn was dented on September 1st and soybeans were maturing rapidly. Both crops will be under 1956 in yield in spite of late rains.

Dry ice is solidified carbon dioxide gas.

DUCKS BEGIN MIGRATION INTO IOWA

Sizeable numbers of blue-wing teal and pintails—the advance guard of the heavy migration of larger ducks still to come—have made an appearance in Iowa, officials of the State Conservation Commission have reported.

Heaviest concentrations of teal and pintails are now resting in the natural lakes of north central and northwest Iowa. Some, however, have pushed on as far south as the lower reaches of the Des Moines River.

It is not early storms or a lack of food or water that sends the early arrivals into Iowa, but simply that they get an urge to move from their northern nesting grounds before their larger "cousins."

The fact that these two species do migrate early finds favor with local hunters, for Iowa's mild fall weather sometimes holds early migrators long enough to provide better early season shooting. Early hunting for teal, pintails and local ducks also help fill the hunting "void" sometimes created by mild Canadian weather and later movement of such larger ducks as mallards, canvasbacks, baldpates and gadwalls.

Iowa's 1957 waterfowl season begins October 5 and continues through December 13.

Obituary

MRS GERTRUDE ELL, was born April 9, 1880, on a farm near Clear Lake, Iowa, the eldest of eight children born into the home of Lewellen Lewis. Her mother was Elmira McGrady.

In 1890 when the first settlers began to arrive in the new town of Klemme, Iowa, the Lewellen Lewis family was with them, and they helped start the town. Gertrude attended our first one room school built in 1892, with Maggie Day as teacher and seven children in attendance. They were Gertrude and Charles Lewis, Luella and Alma Fiero, William and May Kirkwood and Floyd Schaffer.

On December 24, 1901, Henry P Yahnke and Gertrude May Lewis were married at the home of the bride's parents in Klemme, Iowa by the Rev E A Phelps of the Methodist church. They commenced housekeeping on the Ted Dutheridge farm in Avery Twp near Klemme, and continued to live on this farm for twelve years. Here their three children were morn; Erwin, Wava and Lillian.

It was on this farm that death first entered their home, taking Lillian at the age of 14 months.

Later the family lived in Klemme, where Henry Yahnke operated a dray line for four years.

In 1919, Henry and Gertrude Yahnke and family moved to Minnesota where, they farmed near Vernon Center for 21 years.

In May, 1941, Mr Yahnke suffered a brain hemorrage and died at the age of 61 years.

Several years later, 1947, Mrs Gertrude Yahnke and Charles P Ell were married at Garden City, Minn. Two years later Mr Ell died and was buried beside his first wife at Rudd, Iowa.

And on August 27, 1957, the wife died, Mrs Gertrude May Lewis Yahnke Ell. Funeral Services were held in the Methodist Church at Mankato, Minnesota and she was laid to rest on the family lot in the Klemme Cemetery beside her husband, Henry P Yahnke and her daughter, Lillian.

She reached the age of 77 years, 4 months and 16 days.

She is survived by two children: Wava, Mrs Floyd Lundmark, Concordia, Kansas and Erwin Yahnke, Good Thunder, Minnesota. Also Five Grandchildren and five great grandchildren. Four brothers: Charles Lewis, Long Beach, California, Holly Lewis, Torrance, California, Verner Lewis, Klemme, Iowa and Ernest E Lewis, Klemme, Iowa.

The Rev Melvin Miller conducted the graveside service at the Klemme Cemetery on Friday afternoon. The pallbearers were: Benn. Coobs, Fred Bell, Cecil Katter, Harry Gibbs, Mitchell Bock and John Waddingham.

The many beautiful floral pieces which covered her grave, were a silent tribute to the love and esteem in which this good woman was held by her many friends.

To Light The Candles

Another mother gone—
Another mother like a piece of precious lace,
Delicate and fine;
A lovely mother with a halo of white locks, snowy and curling!
Another pioneer, with courage, faith and hope
And calm restraint;
A tender mother with gracious family grown like her;
A thoughtful mother, full of Godly grain, gleaning and golden;
A praying mother, with the light of faith and love
A Benediction;
A kindly mother who would go first in the dark
To light the candles
Welcoming others in;
A sainted mother, but gone a step to light the way,
And wait inside the portals for her own.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director
By Paul Henderson

The nation's pastures are in the best shape since 1951, causing higher cattle prices this summer than a year ago, says Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

August 1 saw the best pasture conditions in 6 years, even considering the drouth-seared pastures of the Northeast, Kutish says.

He points out that western range conditions alone were the best since 1950. Grazing is generally good to excellent throughout the West, although there are some drouth spots.

The hay crop is a record-smasher, despite some short crops in the East and Southeast. Most stockmen have considerably more hay than they've had in recent years, Kutish observes.

Along with the bumper hay crop, we can expect a bigger corn crop in the western Corn Belt this year. Nebraska has prospects of a 50 percent larger corn crop than last year, and is expecting to harvest better than 300 percent more grain sorghums.

With feed conditions looking this good, cattlemen haven't had to liquidate their cattle all summer, as they did in 1956. They're not selling as many animals, and those that are sold are held for maximum gain.

However, the smaller numbers of cattle reaching the summer market doesn't mean feeders are planning to feed fewer cattle during the coming year, Kutish points out. Cattle feeders appear to be getting set to bid strongly for feeder cattle this fall. The big difference from a year ago will probably be in number of grass cattle killed during the last half of the year.

Kutish predicts that cattle will start going on feed later this year than last. It's likely fewer cattle will be on feed October 1, 1957, than on the same date in 1956. The big movement probably will come during the months of October through December, Kutish says.

County Loan Rate On Soybeans Announced

The regular price support or loan rate for soybeans produced in Hancock County this year will be $2.06 per bushel or .07 cents less than for the 1956 crop, it was announced this week by Hancock County ASC Committee.

The announced rate is for green or yellow classes of 1957 soybeans grading No. 2 or better.

County-by-county rates for 1957 soybeans will range in Iowa from $2.05 to $2.10 per bushel, as compared to the 1956 range of $2.12 to $2.16. The 1957 rates are based on a national average of $2.09 per bushel, which represents 70 percent of parity. The 1956 national average support rate was $2.15 per bushel or 75 percent of parity.

Price support loans and purchase agreements on 1957 soybeans will be available from harvest time to next January 31.

The 1957 rates in Hancock County for all other field crops which are price-supported in Iowa were previously announced as follows:

Corn produced in compliance with allotments—$1.28 per bushel.

Oats—.58 cents per bushel.

Grain sorghum—$1.75 per hundredweight.

Farm Bureau Opionnaires Must Be returned By September 12

All Farm Bureau members are urged to return their opinionnaires no later than September 12th reports Gordon Upmeyer, Resolutions Chairman for Hancock County, as the Resolutions Committee will meet on the 13th to tabulate these opinionnaires and draft the suggested resolutions to be presented at the County Annual Meeting, September 18th at the new high school building in Britt.

What other organization spends as much time and money to get a true thinking of its members as Farm Bureau? What more democratic way could an organization operate than to give every member an opportunity to express his wishes and let the majority rule? However, only until every member completes his opinionnaire and every member attends the Annual Meeting to adopt these resolutions will the Farm Bureau operate as a complete, united front for agriculture.

Mr and Mrs Verner Priebe and family visited at the Clarence Lemke home last Wednesday evening.

Boys Demonstration Team Received Blue Ribbon At State Fair

The Boys 4-H Demonstration team received a blue ribbon on their demonstration at the State Fair last week. The topic of the demonstration given by Roger Pringnitz and Donald Kopacek from the Liberty Go-Getters 4-H Club was "How to Build a Range Type Chick Feeder." There seemed to be a great deal of interest in this topic and the 4-H members did a very creditable job in presenting this demonstration and representing the county.

The County crops judging team, the first one from the County to compete at the State Fair, finished 24th among the 46 teams competing. Members of the team, Danny Arndorfer, Kenneth DeWaard, and Freeman Fox all from the Orthel Eagles 4-H Club, did a fine job considering this is the first year they participated in this activity.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Warm weather and winds of the past few days have made for excellent drying weather, hastening the corn and bean crops to maturity and putting them out of danger of frost damage. We have noticed many fields of corn where husks are beginning to open up and allow the big golden ears to show, even though the plants are still green. The ideal way for corn to ripen.

More moisture than has been the case in recent years not only allows crops to mature as they should, but also makes fall plowing a much easier job than has been the case for the past several years. Not only does the moisture make the job easier, it also makes it possible to do much better plowing.

Many forage harvesters at work in the fields this week as silos are being given their annual fall filling preparatory for the winter. The field choppers have lightened the work load on this chore . . . no more stooping and tossing of heavy, wet bundles of corn. Just cut it and chop it in one operation and blow it into the silo.

The usual thing in the family of a printer is that the baby will be born on pressday. Not so, though with our printer, Sam Swartz. Sam's wife presented him with a third child last night at the Belmond Hospital and all three of the children have been born on Tuesday. The little gal weighed in at seven pounds and fourteen ounces and is to be called Patricia Lee. She has a sister and a brother and Sam says it looks like he and little Sam are now out voted.

Town election is coming up in November and it looks like there will be plenty of candidates from which voters can make their selections. At least there are plenty of candidates for councilmen. So far, though, no one has shown too much interest in taking on the Mayor's office. If anyone would care to volunteer to be a candidate for this office, contact Art Wellemeyer. He has been busy the past week trying to line up a couple of tickets for the coming election.

Did you know that when you trade at home, you not only help a local merchant to stay in business and support his family, but you also help him to pay taxes which go toward supporting the local school, local road programs, and many other things which go to make your community a better place in which to live. Dollars you spend away from home are gone. No local benefit is derived.

Looks like there is going to be a bumper crop of corn this year and apparently a goodly number of farmers must feel that way about it. Fred J Arnold, local implement dealer says he has been selling corn pickers like crazy. This issue of The Times carries an ad for Fred in which he tells at least one part of the story.

In fact this issue of The Times is quite well loaded with messages from advertisers. These ads carry information that might be of interest to you . . . and reading them might be to your financial advantage.

Observes 90th Birthday

Julius Priebe was 90 years old Friday and in honor of the event, his children and their families gathered at his home that evening for a birthday supper.

Mr Priebe was born in Germany and came to this country with his parents when he was 13 years old. The family went first to Milwaukee, Wis., where they stayed for only a few months before moving to this community.

Mr Priebe can relate many interesting antecdotes of happenings during his early days in this country and the changes he has seen are many.

He has four children: Esther (Mrs Fred Schmidt), Erma (Mrs Paul Goll), Edna (Mrs Herman Schmidt), and Ervin, all of whom live in this community. There are also six grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

In addition to the family supper in honor of his birthday, Mr Priebe received many cards and letters wishing him well.

ANNUAL MISSION FESTIVAL HELD AT E & R CHURCH

The Annual Mission Festival was observed last Sunday by the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church. The Rev Carroll J Olm of Milwaukee, Wis., delivered the morning and evening sermons and the Rev Raymond Bizer of Geneva the afternoon sermon.

The morning message presented the challenge and task of the Christian Church to reach the teeming multitudes who have never been touched by the Gospel message. In the evening service, the Rev Mr Olm spoke of the work and accomplishments of Calvary Memorial Evangelical and Reformed Church, the congregation to whom he ministers, it, a group of less than 100 members, launched into and completed a $125,000 building project without outside help and became a growing community church with a membership of nearly 500 in about 3 years time.

In his message of the afternoon, the Rev Mr Bizer stressed the worldwide aspect of the churches mission as he spoke on the topic, "Communicating the Gospel."

Services were well attended and about 215 people shared in the basket dinner at noon. Neighboring pastors and their families who were guests for the evening meal, in addition to the speakers, were Rev Carl Mohr and Rev Chester Ploeger of Garner.

On the Virgil Grimm farm at North English, five cows have come fresh recently--and four out of the five had twin calves.

Work on New School Progressing Rapidly

Work on refacing the present school building is progressing rapidly with brick work expected to be finished in less than a week. Aluminum sills are still to be installed and the windows and doors painted.

Five bricklayers are now working on the new addition. It is hoped that all or portions of the building will be completely enclosed before winter. The water service has been installed and a 10,000 gallon oil storage tank will soon be installed. It is expected that work will continue through the winter months.

Masonry work on the new addition has been sublet by the Anderson Construction Company of Clear Lake to A E Christopherson of Osage, Iowa.

Driver Demonstrations, Tests at School House Monday, Sept. 23

Students of Klemme high school will have an opportunity at 9:30 a.m. September 23 to see for themselves how the false impression and sense of security that a driver of a modern automobile gets, can and often does, lead into the danger zone and trouble, when they participate in a series of driving tests, Superintendent Harlan G Shafer announced today.

The tests, which will be in two parts, will be given under the direction of Edward S. Adams, Director of Safety, of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation and Affiliated Companies.

The first section will be a lecture in the high school auditorium, while the second will be a demonstration on the street directly in front of the school. Mr Adams will also demonstrate the correct and incorrect driving habits.

High point of the demonstration will come, however, when driving tests are made with various students and faculty members in the specially equipped car. An electric detonator which is mounted on the front bumper of the car will fire yellow paint bullets to indicate the distance required to stop the car in an emergency.

The driver being tested will be signalled to stop by the report of the first shell. The second will be fired automatically when the brake is applied and the third when the car halts. Distance between the spots of paint will then be measured to determine the reaction and braking distances.

Tests will be limited to 20, 30 and 40 mile per hour speeds because of the danger in making emergency stops at higher speeds. Police officers will be used as drivers in the high speed tests.

As part of a program for safety on the highway, the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation and Affiliated Companies is presenting this driving demonstration and test before the high schools of this state. The program is being brought to Klemme under the sponsorship of the local Farm Bureau. The public is invited to attend the lecture as well as the demonstration.

Patrol Crackdown

The Iowa highway patrol plans to continue its crackdown on motorists who persist in driving autos while their drivers licenses are under suspension.

In the first check in years on this particular violation, the patrol issued 846 summonses at 75 check points in a two-day period. Almost 60,000 motorists were stopped in the inspection of licenses.

The goal, the patrol reports, is to get unlicensed drivers off the state's highways.

Fails to Sign

For the first time in several years an Iowa highway commissioner has refused to sign on annual commission report.

Cecil Malone, new Democratic member of the commission, failed to sign the voluminous report of commission operations for the last fiscal year because it fails to cover a period in which he served on the commission. Robert Brice, Democrat, also a newcomer, did sign along with three Republican commissioners.

For Congress

While two candidates have announced, at least two more are expected to make it a wide-open contest for the GOP nomination for congress in the sixth Iowa district.

State Rep Curtis Riehm, Garner, and State Sen Jacob Grimstead, Lake Mills, are already campaigning. Grimstead was the first entry. State Sen John A Walker, Williams, will enter the race, and almost certain to compete, too, is Robert Waggoner, recently resigned from the staff of U S Sen Thomas E Martin. Waggoner formerly lived in Fort Dodge.

Midwest Demo Meet

Iowa Demo Chairman Jake More will preside at a mid-October meeting of midwest Democrats in Kansas City, Kans. More heads the Midwest Conference of Democrats.

Democratic governors from Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri and Oklahoma will appear on the program.

Possible presidential candidates to participate will include Sen John Kennedy, Mass., Governor Harriman, New York; Sen Eestes Kefauver, Tenn., and Governor Chandler, Ky.

More On Taxes

Iowans will have to think, read and tell more about their finances when they fill out their next state income tax forms. The new form, which most of us will get between Christmas and New Years Day, will be four pages long. It will take the place of the present two-page form built around adjusted gross income.

The new form, officials believe, will lead to greater collections of revenue due the state from the income of Iowa taxpayer. It may plug loopholes in the present law governing persons eligible to file and pay the tax.

High Estate Fees

A state audit criticizes some Iowa lawyers who continue to charge excessive fees for probating estates of old age recipients.

M B Bolsem, superintendent of state agency audits, made the critical remarks in a report on the audit of the state board of social welfare for fiscal 1956.

"In previous reports," the audit said, "we have called attention to the excessive fees charged by some attorneys and administrators for probating estates of old age recipients . . . also undue delay in closing some of these estates. These practices continue to be a problem."

Going Faster

The Iowa highway commission reports show that autos are averaging about 57.6 miles an hour on the highways and trucks 49.4 miles an hour. In each case, the commission reports, the speed was three miles an hour faster than the average a year earlier.

The study showed 20 percent of the trucks were going faster than 55 miles an hour. The speed limit for them is 50 miles an hour.

Aid Reasons

Why do Iowa families need aid for dependent children?

Principal causes, a study shows, are loss of a parent through legal separation, death or incapacity.

The study shows that 7,377 families receiving aid, 31.3 percent required it because of divorce or other forms of legal separation, 22 percent because a parent was incapacitated.

Teen Warning

The Pottawattamie county sheriff has warned teenagers in his county not to be caught idly driving vehicles around at night after 10 p.m. Any carload of teenagers found after that hour in the county will be taken to the sheriff's office and be held until their parents are called.

The action results from an investigation which found youths in the county driving around carrying such weapons as knives, home-made knuckles and pieces of rubber hose.

Ask Home Shifts

A more flexible treatment program for veterans at the Marshalltown Soldiers Home has been asked by the state board of control.

The board has asked the county to participate in a program that would shift persons admitted to the home, but in need of mental care, to another state institution for proper treatment.

The home is not equipped to treat mental illness cases and "we feel we can better help these individuals if we can have them reassigned to the Independence Mental Health Institute," George Callenius, member of the control board, said.

Taxes Soaring

Local property taxes are going to cost Iowans nearly $300-million next year, the Iowa Taxpayers association reports.

The ITA said this would represent an increase of more than $19-million over this year's total.

The estimate is based upon an analysis of 1,854 local budgets. These budgets account for about 81 percent of the property taxes collectible in 1958.

Iowa's Share

Grants totaling about $30,851,017 will be received by the state of Iowa in this fiscal year.

The grants will come from congressional appropriations for the department of health, education and welfare.

OUT ON A LIMB?

It Doesn't Pay to Get Too Far Out in Buying Feeds—The Limb Might Not be Strong Enough to Hold You . . .

Some Folks do this . . .

Just as soon as a new type of feed comes on the market, they go right out and buy some of it.

The feed MIGHT be good . . . and again it might not be good!

WHY?

Because it hasn't been tested . . . it hasn't been given the "third degree" by farmers like yourself.

Other Folks do this . . .

They keep track of the new feeds that do come out, and decide they'll wait until some results are known.

In other words, they reason that with all these new products on the market, they want to be sure of what they buy.

WE AGREE WITH THESE FOLKS— for we will not sell you a bill of goods unless we know it has been tested.

FELCO FREDDIE SEZ:

FELCO FEEDS contain only the ingredients that have been tested and proved through scientific research. We know they are worth the money . . . tests prove it!

KLEMME COMMUNITY SCHOOLS

VOLUME NUMBER 9 — KLEMME, IOWA, SEPTEMBER 18, 1957 — NUMBER 1

Senior Interview

A modest, good looking, ever smiling boy with brown hair and eyes — that's Douglas Joseph Roul, more often referred to as "Doug." Doug was born on a bright, sunny day, August 17, 1940, at Garner, Iowa and now 17 years later is working at Sawtelles Superette in Klemme.

Doug is a senior at Klemme High School and his favorite subject is geometry. His favorite saying is, "oh, is that right" and his pet peeve is people who brag a lot. Oh, by the way, Doug is president of the senior class and has appeared in the junior class play.

In the fall of the year, you will probably find Doug out hunting game, which is his favorite pasttime. If the weather doesn't permit hunting, you will find Doug working on Model airplanes.

When Doug was asked what his most embarrassing moment was, he just answered, "At a birthday party."

GUESS WHO

The person whom we have chosen for our GUESS WHO column this week is a cheerful, happy go lucky sophomore.

This person has blue eyes, light brown hair, and is about 5'4" tall. She is an active member of 4-H, a member of the Methodist Church, sings in the church choir, girls chorus, mixed chorus and double mixed quartet.

If you are ever at the skating rink on a Friday night, you will probably see this "hard working" farm girl happily skating. This is one of her many pasttimes.

Now, with these clues, can you guess who our "Guess Who" girl is? Try!!

SOPHOMORE NEWS

The typical school morning for a sophomore starts by either a long trip out to the band house or a long sit in the study hall. Our first real class, though, is world history. Prehistoric man and ancient Egypt are the main topics of discussion in this class. The class then splits. Ten of us go to geometry and the rest go to geography. Geometry concerns getting acquainted with the different terms of mathematics and drawing simple constructions. The geography class is studying maps, learning how to measure latitude and longitude and things of that sort. The last class of the morning is English. Our first chapter pertained to the do's and don'ts of manners and introductions. Right now we are learning how to write good topic sentences for a paragraph.

We start the afternoon by going to Biology. This class is more or less a review of the extra things Mr Neary taught us last year, like adaptations, animal and plant life, and cells and their structure. The next hour we either have study hall or the girls or boys have physical education. The last period of the day, of course, is our activity period. Quite a few of the sophomores are in one of the large groups and some even in the smaller groups.

Class officers are: President, Lowell Greimann; Vice President, Maurine Johnson; Secretary, Randall Langlitz; Treasurer, Barbara Clayton.

Donald Anderson and Jane Renner.

Fish

Fishing from just below the Adel dam recently, Nile Forcht of Stuart caught a 30 pound flathead, using spinning tackle and a 10 pound test line. Took about 40 minutes to land the big fellow.

JUNIOR NEWS

When we twenty-two juniors entered our home room to begin what we're sure is going to be one of our most exciitng high school years, we were greeted by Mrs Oberg and Miss Whitmire, our class sponsors.

We began our work as a class by electing our class officers. They are as follows:

President, Joyce Thieman; Vice President, Cozette Lau; Secretary, Myrna Barz; Treasurer, Margaret Prignitz.

Student Council members are Virginia Kudje and Roger Meints.

Now as juniors we have a choice of our subjects except for English and American history, which are compulsory. Our class breaks up as we go our separate ways to chemistry, geometry, home economics, shop, typing or driver's training for our other classes.

Right now, our main concern is our class play which we are just beginning to work on.

JOKES

Why should the Brooklyn Dodgers wear nylons?

Answer: Because nylons have more runs.

Harpist Mildred Dilling tells this story about Harpo Marx, one of her pupils: Harpo was playing a recital at my studio. When he left the stage there was a long applause, but he did not return for an encore or even take a bow. Later I asked him why he had not responded to the tremendous applaus. "I couldn't," he replied, I was out in front helping to keep it up."

Service station: A place where you fill the car and drain the family.

Diplomat: A person who can juggle a hot potato long enough for it to become a cold issue.

Housework: Something you do that nobody notices unless you don't do it.

Back To School

Attention all students of Klemme High, the understatement of the year has been made. "We're back in school again." Summer vacation is over and we are back at work once more with the normal activities that take place within the doors of the newly repaired school.

The familiar chatter of the students is still the same except for the new noise in the vicinity that results from the construction crew at work on the new school building.

All of the students are back on schedule, trying to complete their assignments on time for their classes. Many of the students are, in addition to their school subjects, participating in band, music and sports.

The students are looking forward to a good year of school. The Seniors are especially looking forward to completing their last year of high school at Klemme.

FRESHMAN NEWS

September 3, 1957, was the beginning of a new experience for us freshmen. We looked, acted, and felt a little green. No one was sure where he was supposed to go and after finding out where, wondered how to get there.

It isn't too strange to find us wandering around in the halls, wishing someone would tell us where to go. After a few mistakes most of us get to the right place. At least we hope it's right.

When one class is over we make a bee-line for the hall, only to get caught in the middle of the upper classmen. They go every which way and by the time we reach our destination we feel as if we'd been through a wringer.

We are happy to say, though, that we're finally catching on to our schedule. Also most of us are learning to duck in among the upper classmen and get to our rooms in one piece.

Sharon Bachman

BASEBALL

September 4 marked the first fall baseball practice for Klemme High athletes. There were 19 boys who worked out.

Freshman—Daryl Kothenbeutal, Duane Kramer, Harlan Meints, Darryl Nuehring, Eldon Nuehring, Dary Schlie and Jerry Stokesbary.

Senior News

September 3, 1957 the Junior class of 1957 came back to Klemme Community to finish their high school education.

The first day was utter confusion. The next two days were filled with tests and the electing of class officers. We elected Doug Roul as president, Larry Ulrich as vice president, Gordon Johnson as secretary and Harlan Block as Treasurer. For student council we elected Raymond Helps and Dorothy Kroehnke.

On the fourth day we progressed on the regular schedule of classes. The seniors are pretty well distributed through English IV, typing II, home ec. II, geometry, chemistry, bookkeeping, business arithmetic and of course we're all taking American government, required you know.

This past week has found many quiet little huddles of seniors discussing plans. Plans for what? Ask the freshmen about them.

Now for a more strenuous activity we've been learning to climb a rope in physical education class. This is to develop our mind and muscle coordination. Mr Westberg will be glad to demonstrate.

We are all looking forward to next Tuesday when we go to Mason City to have our pictures taken. This should prove to be quite an adventure for us.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

We hold up for your consideration the case of the man in a rather elderly automobile, loaded with wife and children, who was stopped by highway patrolmen for a license inspection recently.

When the patrolman asked to see the man's drivers license he leaped out of the car and ordered the kids out of the backseat. When the wife and children were safely lined up at the side of the road, the man climbed back into the car, pulled up the backseat, reached underneath and brought out a tobacco can.

While the patrolman watched in some surprise and traffic piled up behind, the man opened the tobacco can, turned it upside down, tapped it, and out fluttered his drivers license.

It was in perfect order. The patrolman watched thoughtfully while the man repacked his license in the tin, replaced it under the backseat, reloaded the kids and wife and drove away.

Here is a man, we submit, who considers his license to drive as something more important than just another slip of paper in a crowded wallet. He thinks enough of his license to give it exaggerated protection.

And while we don't recommend the method, we do recommend the attitude. There's considerably more attention being paid to your license these days by safety and enforcement authorities.

Examples are the check of 60,000 licenses by patrolmen, sheriffs and local police one recent weekend, the special study committee working on license tests, the increase in suspensions, by the safety department. It's a good time to think about protecting your license by the way you drive.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director
By Paul Henderson

Soybean supplies will be about the same this year as last, but the crop will be ready for harvest a little later than the unusally early crop of 1956, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Soybean prices peaked in early December, 1956, Kutish points out—then dropped back. The soybean trade has realized supplies aren't as large as supposed, and prices have recovered some.

Indications are that the 1957 bean crop, including carryover from 1956, will be about the same as the actual supply for the year just ending, Kutish observes. Crop prospects have improved in the western Corn Belt since the first of August, but the crop in Illinois will be less than last year.

On the demand side of the picture we find soybeans and soybean oil facing stiffer world competition than a year ago. The world crop of export oils—copra, soybean, cottonseed, peanut, etc. —is slightly larger than a year ago.

United States cottonseed oil and flaxseed oil supplies will be down, while lard supplies will be up. Because of this, Kutish predicts soybean oil prices in the 11 to 13 cent range. Last year, the Suez Canal crisis of November boosted the price to 14 cents.

The soybean meal price averaged about $46 a ton for 1956-57, although it recently climbed to around $50 because of the drought in the Northeast.

A look at the coming feed year shows that aside from poultry, all other categories of livestock will take more feed than in 1957. More pigs will be raised next spring, and we can expect continued heavy feeding of dairy cattle, Kutish says.

At the same time, there will be less cottonseed meal, and this means more demand for soybean meal. But the record supply of feed grains at lower prices will make it difficult to boost soybean prices much.

Kutish predicts soybean meal prices will range from $45 to $55 during the coming season. The price won't be as high as some predict, though, he says. Lowest prices will occur this fall after harvest.

The late-season bean price hike may induce farmers to store beans again this year. And the export demand may develop early. If this happens, Kutish expects relatively good prices during the first half of the coming season. The later and poorer harvest in the early-harvest areas could also contribute to this price strength, he points out. There is usually a price rise following the low prices that prevail during the bean harvest. But it is still too early to tell whether it will pay farmers to store beans into next year, Kutish observes.

Farmers Advised on Handling Sorghum

Hancock County farmers who are raising grain sorghum this season have raised a number of questions about handling the crop, reports Paul Henderson, county extension director.

He says several of the questions were answered this week by Ed Dyas, Iowa State College agronomist, in a review of queries from Iowa sorghum growers. The questions and the agronomist's answers follow.

Will grain sorghum mature before frost?

The majority of sorghum fields around the state are advanced to a stage that should allow them to mature in time to escape frost damage.

Can chemical defoliants be used to dry grain sorghum prior to harvesting?

Chemical defoliants have been used successfully, particularly on sorghum seed crops. However, the most effective chemicals are poisonous to livestock. Don't use such defoliants if grain is to be fed to livestock, or if stalks are to be pastured.

Can grain sorghum be put up for silage?

Grain sorghum can be made into silage. Next to corn, It's about the easiest crop to ensile successfully, if cut at proper moisture content. That point is when grain is in the dough stage. In chemical composition of the total plant, grain sorghum is similar to corn. It's fairly easy to get food fermentation with this crop.

Is grain sorghum silage bitter?

Grain sorghum doesn't make bitter silage. But it isn't as sweet and palatable as sweet sorghums that are usually grown for silage. However, classifying a sorghum as non-sweet doesn't mean that it's bitter.

When is Atlas sorgo ready to cut for silage?

Atlas sorgo should be cut for silage when the grain is in the dough stage.

Retires

At the Corydon Times-Republican, Bertha Stuckey has retired after 47 years of service as a linotype operator, except for pinch-hitting assignments.

Klemme Wins First Round Sectional Game

The Shamrocks slipped by the Rowan nine at Kanawha Monday to advance to the second round of the high school sectional baseball tournament.

Larson pitched the first four innings and held the opponents runless until the fourth inning, when the roof fell in. Rowan scored five runs on 3 hits and two walks. Langlitz releived Larson with his team trailing 5-3.

Gordon Johnson slugged a bases empty homer to deep right center field in the fifth to bring the locals within one run 5-4.

In the bottom of the seventh, Sobek, batting for Thiemann, walked; Beier took over on the base paths for Sobek. Langlitz singled and the left fielder dropped a long fly hit by Bacon. Meints hit a single to right that scored two runs and won the game.

Winning pitcher was Langlitz. Stokesbury and Johnson were the leading hitters with Stokesbury getting 2 for 4 and Johnson 2 for 3. The Larson-Langlitz pitching combination struck out 14 hitters and issued seven walks. Klemme had 6 runs on 7 hits and 3 errors; Rowan, 5 runs on 4 hits and 4 errors.

Information at Field Day on Sorghum And Fertilizer

Hancock County farmers will have a chance to get latest information on sorghum varieties and fertilizer use at the Clarion-Webster Experimental farm field day near Kanawha the afternoon of September 27, says Paul Henderson, county extension director.

The field day program will emphasize four topics, Henderson adds. He lists them as "Sorghum Varieties," "Liquid versus dry Fertilizers," "Effect of Phosphorus and Potassium on Crop Yields in a Corn-Oat-Meadow Rotation" and "Legume versus Fertilizer Nitrogen on Corn."

Henderson says the subjects will be discussed by college specialists of locations of field experiments. So visitors will see as well as hear about experiment results.

Visitors will be provided with wagon transportation between the various program sites. This also will give them an opportunity to view other work underway at the farm, Henderson says. This is your farm, take advantage of the results being obtained on the farm. See for yourself.

580 Years

When the Wagners got together for a family reunion in Anita, the seven members present totaled 580 years in age. Oldest was Chet, soon to be 91; youngest was Mrs Florence Bangham, who is 75. One brother, Harry, was not present, he's 82.

Burial

A dragline which was stripping a gravel pit area near Correctionville has uncovered an old Indian burial ground. One complete skeleton was found.

Fatal

The role of innonent bystander proved fatal to John Groninga, of Dumont, while watching a roda project near there recently. As he stood by the huge cement mixer, he was struck and killed by one of the waiting trucks.

Soybean Harvesting Now Underway Here

Although it is still early for most fields of soybeans to go down before the combine, still some are early varieties now being harvested in the area.

A talk with Marvin Lemke, manager of the Klemme Co-op. Grain Co., brought out the fact that although hese early varieties of beans are not yielding too heavy as far as bushels to the acre are concerned, still they are good quality beans and the yields they are showing would indicate that the later fields should be good.

Driver Tests

The state's mounting highway death toll, until recently running behind last year but now ahead of that record-breaking pace, is getting close attention of Iowa officials.

The highway patrol is halting motorists to determine whether they possess required driver's licenses.

Patrolmen have stepped up their patrol activities to help reduce the toll.

Now, it is announced, driving license tests will be toughened. Applicants for new permits now are taking tougher tests, but these examinations, being given to about 700 applicants, are merely a trial run. Results will be studied and new examinations prepared on the basis of these, for future use.

The trial tests now being given to some folks are forerunners to a regular stiffer license test for all motorists.

11 More Fired

Effective the end of this month 11 employees of the states sales and use tax auditing division will be dismissed. The Democratic controlled commission termed the action as another step to "reorganize" its field force. Three other employees also are to be dismissed by the commission.

The 14 dismissals bring to 57 the announced number of tax department employees who have been let out since July 1. Ten others have resigned voluntarily.

Dollar Day

Iowa Democrats are planning a "dollar day" for Oct. 11-12.

The Democrats hope, through this new approach, to raise funds to help swell the party coffers for the campaigns for 1958.

The dollar day celebration here will be in conjunction with a national effort using the same theme.

Checking at Home

The Iowa tax commission is checking to make sure that all state employees have paid their state income taxes. Reports of employees not filing returns, and some in the tax commission, have brought on the overall review of return records.

Word Watching

The Iowa board of control will continue "more or less permanent" its "censorship" of the Presidio, a magazine published by inmates of the state prison at Fort Madison.

Recent articles, critical of the Iowa board of parole, brought protest from the parole board members and raised the question of closer supervision of the magazine.

George Callenius, chairman of the board of control, which has supervision of the prison, said that "some brakes" are needed on the prisoner criticism of parole board policies.

Warden Percy Lainson of the prison and parole board members have had differences of opinion in recent years over parole procedures.

Furniture Movers

Movers of household furniture have asked the state commerce commission to increase their intrastate rates to levels governing interstate shipments. A hearing on the proposal has been set for Oct. 17.

State Park

The state executive council has delayed condemnation actions proposed by the Iowa commerce commission for acquisition of land in Dubuque for the proposed Julien Dubuque historical state park.

The conservation commission has for two years or more been trying to acquire land owned by Herman Lott. The executive council suggested the commission try again to effect a purchase of 10 acres from Lott rather than start condemnation.

Milkshed Voted

The U S agriculture department said it will take over regulation of marketing fluid milk in a North Central Iowa area under provisions of a federal order.

Minimum prices which handlers will be required to pay dairymen supplying the area will be set by the department. The order is designed to stabilize prices and supplies of the milk in the area.

To Fight Beetles

The legislative interim committee has allocated $10,000 to stamp out the invasion of Japanese beetles in the Fort Madison area. The beetle making its first appearance in Iowa is a potential threat to crops and other plants. A spray program is planned for next month.

Farm Program

Iowan Loyd Van Patten, assistant state secretary of agriculture, is representing commercial corn state in Washington this week at the National Conference of Commodity Organizations.

The Washington meeting is the third in a series to draft a proposed new farm program for the nation.

Van Patten, of Indianola, was selected as a delegate to the national parley at a meeting in Indiana which was attended by representatives of six midwest states.

Income Taxes

Generally speaking Iowans will pay less state income taxes next year. The income tax bite by the state will be about 7 percent below the 1956-57 level. The decrease results from the governor's veto of the legislative revenue bill.

But, tax officials point out, larger families will not get the break on exemptions they've had the last two years.

Instead of $12 credit for each member of the family, the exemption rates will be: $15 each for man and wife, and $30 for each head of the household; but only $7.50 each for children and other other dependents.

These credits are based on the present tax structure and upon new state printing orders for income tax returns. A special legislative session, still a question to be settled, could revise the rates before the tax payments are due.

New and Novel

The mechanical and driver training program at Iowa State Training school for boys at Eldora, is believed to be the only one of its kind in the nation. That is, the only one established in a training institution of ths type.

Members of the Iowa board of control, who establshed the school said it is proving quite successful and has cut down on the "repeats," or the number of boys returning to the school.

Officials feel that getting to know how an auto works, how to repair it, and how to drive it properly cuts down a young man's impulse to steal an auto. They feel auto thefts among youths comes from those who do not have access to autos, except through theft.

Delinquent list will be published in November as provided by law.

NEW LAW

A bill passed by the legislature requires that County Treasurers SHALL advertise delinquent personal tax in two issues of the official county newspapers in November—If the tax is not paid within ten days after the last publication, distress warrants must be made by the Treasurer and given to the Sheriff for collection. The Sheriff will then seize and sell personal property sufficient to pay the tax, interest and costs.

Band and Vocal News

This year Mr Whitford has a new set-up for his bands. He has three bands, arranged according to grades. There aren't any grade students in the high school band at present. The 7th and 8th and 5th and 6th grades are together in separate bands.

Last week Mr Whitford had his testing program, to find our seating arrangement, in action. I am sure the band students are glad this is over.

Mr Whitford reported that last Monday was the best Monday rehearsal he had since he came to Klemme.

The three large groups were organized although it isn't certain how many students signed up for them. There is a sextette, double mixed quartet, and possibly a trio! The girls chorus is Tuesday afternoons, last hour, boys chorus is Monday afternoons last hour and mixed chorus is Wednesday morning first hour and sometimes Friday afternoons last hour. The small groups sneak in a practice when there are no class meetings, etc.

Senior Interview

Our subject for this weeks interview is Howard Dean Anderson. "Andy," as he is better known, was born April 19, 1941 on the farm where he still lives. He stands around 5' 11" has bright red hair, blue eyes and is 16 years old. Some of his favorites are as follows:

Song, Round and Round; Saying, You'd better believe it; Show Loving You; Food, A good steak dinner; Movie actress, Jayne Mansfield, Movie actor, Jeff Chandler; Pasttimes, Bowling and playing pool.

Andy is a member of the Klemme Methodist church.

When we asked him what his most embarrassing moment was, he said, "It's too embarrassing to tell." Howard's future plans are farming.

Question of the Week

This week we asked the student body for suggestions as to how we can improve "The Shamrock." Here are the replies:

Candace Carlson: It was pretty good last year, but a good CLEAN gossip column or juke box would pep it up a little.

Roxanne Back: I think it should be somewhat similar to that of last year. I agree with Candy that a good gossip column might liven it up a little bit.

Barbara Clayton: I disagree with the two above, no gossip column.

Mr Whitney: No suggestions as to any improvement at present but may have later.

Jane Renner: A little bit of good newsy gossip and more information about school work (the classes, etc).

Jerry LaFevre: Anything to build our school paper up.

Robert Abele: We need a gossip column.

Margaret Pringnitz: We need a Juke Box.

ANNUAL STAFF

This year a new system is being adopted in connection with the production of the high school annual, "The Shamrock." Each year the students strive to put out a better annual, but each year they are handicapped by an inexperienced staff. With the new system being inaugurated it is hoped that the inexperience problem will be solved.

Prior to this time the senior class has had the whole responsibility for the annual and when they graduated the training of the annual staff began anew. The new plan is to gradually educate the annual staff beginning in the freshman year. Each class in high school has a representative on the annual staff, i.e., one freshman, two sophomores, three juniors, with the staff officers elected from the senior class. In this way the lower classes are learning how to set up the annual for the press and they can make use of this experience to an advantage to produce a better annual every year. By the time the freshman class of this year become seniors it will have the benefit of six experienced staff members.

The people elected for this year are:

CLASS NEWS

This week we will take a trip to the advanced home making class. Miss Whitmire has five junior girls and two senior girls in this class.

In the first class the girls gave her information about themselves and their families. Then they discussed some of the things they would be studying this year.

Flower arranging was one of their first lessons. Everyone brought a bouquet of assorted flowers and then arranged them in vases to their best advantage. This was a lot of fun. They also studied the different types of arrangements shown in books and in magazines.

One day they had a lesson on cutting letters for bulletin board displays, which proved to be quite interesting.

The class has also studied dishes. They decided aluminum copper bottomed pans and skillets were the best if you could afford them and liked to polish them.

The last couple days they have been washing dishes, cupboards and stoves. This isn't really hard work, they just like to complain.

Next week they plan on making cobblers aprons as their first sewing project. This should be interesting and fun.

JOKES

(Mrs Black) It doesn't always work. I gave my husband too much and he slipped.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council held its first meeting Friday, September 13, with all eight members present. The Student Council is made up of two members from each class in high school. The freshmen are Daryl Kothenbeutal and Melva Johnson, the sophomores are Donald Anderson and Jane Renner, the juniors are Roger Meints and Virginia Kudje and the seniors are Raymond Helps and Dorothy Kroehnke. The following officers were elected: President, Raymond Helps, Vice-president, Roger Meints; Secretary, Virginia Kudje and Treasurer, Dorothy Kroehnke. Mr Whitney is the sponsor for the Student Council.

GUESS WHO

Our person this week in the "Guess Who" column is a hadnsome young fellow. This person plays baseball and basketball, plays in the band, and is in mixed chorus. He is a class officer this year and was in the student council in his high school days. This person also belongs to the Reformed Church and sings in the church choir. He is about five feet nine or ten inches tall, medium weight, brown hair and blue eyes.

The guess who person of last week was none other than JoAnn Helps who is a sophomore this year.

CATCH YOURSELF

Have you ever caught yourself (CAUGHT yourself?) saying some of these familiar expressions? Then "hang your head" in shame. "Rise and shine" (like a light bulb) and "keep your eyes peeled" for these amusing sayings.

"You've got to be sharp" to "get the point." (Ouch!)

"That color brings your eyes out" (Very far?)

"His face fell." (Did it break?)

"My sides are simply splitting." (Ri-i-p.)

"My nose ran." (It has legs, yet?)

"Her eye was glued to the window." (Must have been uncomfortable.)

"There are butterflies in my stomach." (Unusual diet.)

"She batted her eyelashes at him." (Did he catch them?)

"Hit the road." (But don't hurt your hand.)

"That's beside the point." (Which side?)

"His eyes met mine." (How do you do?)

"A man, while driving down the street, turned into a garage." (Like magic!)

"Hold my place." (Heavy is it?)

"The sun is in my eyes—I can't see." (So that's where it went.)

"The robber held up the bank." (Atlas?)

"It's written all over your face." (Go wash.)

"This tastes flat." (Better than tasting pointed, isn't it?)

"I came back to earth." (Been up in a space ship, huh?)

"We think that you're really a gem (pearl or ruby?) if our article "had you in stitches."

This about "sews it up." (What is this, a sewing circle?)

Junior Fair Grounds Skating Rink Has Good Turnouts

Paul Henderson, County Extension Director, reports that the efforts put forth by the local 4-H Clubs and FFA Groups in helping to finance a floor in the girls exhibit building on the Junior Fair Grounds are paying off in good participation by young folks at the Rol Arena. Bob Olson who leased the building reports a fine attitude among the young people who are his paying customers.

The 4-H clubs (boys and girls) and FFA Groups have turned in about $800 toward paying for the concrete floor in the building. The Britt Lions and Rotary Clubs are raising $1,000 to apply on the cost of the concrete floor. They may ask other clubs in the county to assist them in the project. The concrete floor made it possible for Mr Olson to put in the maple skating floor. The Fair Board has partitioned the east end of the building for 2 rest rooms and 4 small rooms to accomodate skaters and for use during the fair each year.

Henderson says that the rink is available for group skating parties Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights. This is especially nice for the local clubs who may want to feature a skating party inviting other clubs. He also reminds the young people that the success of this venture will depend a great deal on the behavior of all participants. Each young person and each adult can help make this recreation venture by the Junior Fair Board a real success if they talk up the good times they are having and help Mr and Mrs Bob Olson keep a good clean place of business.

INDIANS ELECT OFFICERS

Meeting at the home of Leland Halfpop on September 9, the Twin Lake Indians elected the following new officers and leaders: President, Leland Halfpop; Vice president, Raymond Eliason; Secretary-Treasurer, David Kudje; Reporter, Judy Eliason; Historian, Eldon Thompson; Leaders, Howard Kudje and Ed Halfpop. After the meeting David Kudje gave a talk on "Eating Habits." David said "Being full of food is not a sign that we are well fed. It is having enough of the right kind of food."

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson

County Extension Director

Cattle

Large numbers of grain-fed slaughter steers and heifers have hit the market recently, boosting slaughter-cattle receipts above what they were a year ago, reports Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

During the week ending September 5, 1957, Sioux City received 460 loads of slaughter steers and heifers, compared with 395 loads for the same week in 1956. At Chicago, 28,545 beef steers were sold out of first hands for slaughter during this same week, while in 1956, only 19,617 head were sold. At Omaha the steer run for the week ending September 5 was about the same as a year ago. But the price-level spread at Omaha was about the same as at Sioux City and Chicago, with all three markets showing lower prices than last year. For the September 5 week Chicago averaged $25.55 for choice steers; Sioux City $24.92, and Omaha $24.63.

Marketings of grass-fed cattle and cows are below last year, though. And fewer stockers and feeders are being sold as the western ranchers hold their animals for maximum weight gains. This means later western marketings than last year—and the cattle will weigh more.

Tom Rackham, Iowa State economist believes western pasture conditions are good enough that ranchers will hold back some cattle to rebuild herds shrunk by last year's forced marketings.

These higher-priced feeder cattle mean smaller feeding margins. With little or no fat cattle price increase in sight cattle feeders face a situation where their feeding profits will have to come from pounds of gain put on their cattle.

Kutish points out that the lower grades of slaughter cattle are in a stronger position this fall than a year ago because of the scarcity of grass-fed animals. For instance, at Chicago standard-grade steers averaged $1.40 more for the week of September 5 than last year, while choice-grades averaged $1.21 less and prime-grades averaged $2.43 lower than in 1956.

Kutish believes the large numbers of grain-fed slaughter cattle coming to market will prevent a sharp hike in fed-cattle prices this fall. But with a two-dollar spread between the average of good and choice and a similar spread between choice and prime and plenty of cheap feed this fall, he advises finishing out cattle for their grades.

Hogs

Hog receipts are showing their fall increase—and the market has started its fall seasonal drop, Kutish notes. Heavy hogs have sold well, but Kutish warns that holding hogs til they reach heavy weights is dangerous now, since the price situation can change rapidly in the next month as more heavy hogs reach market. Selling hogs as they reach 200-220 pounds look like the best plan at this time.

October 6-12 Is International Letter Writing Week

International Letter Writing week will be celebrated in Klemme, Iowa, during the week October 6 to 12, Postmaster Franklin Kluckhohn announced today.

Commenting on the establishment of International Letter Writing Week, Mr Kluckhohn pointed out that each year since 1938 the Post Office Department has joined in the observance of National Letter Writing Week—an annual event celebrated to emphasize the meaning and value of letter writing as a symbol of American freedom.

"As a result of its success," Postmaster Kluckhohn stated, "National Letter Writing Week will be conducted on an international basis this year for the first time. International Letter Writing Week is based on the idea that written communication between people in all the countries of the world will contribute toward the building of a lasting peace.

"I am sure we are all aware that a personal letter is, next to an actual visit, the most intimate means each of us has to communicate with our fellow human beings. Letters between peoples of different nations are a sure method of establishing friendly relationships and understandings. The problems of freedom loving peoples will be more quickly solved if they are better understood.

"I urge all citizens of Klemme to join in this first celebration of International Letter Writing Week and at the same time write that overdue letter to friends and relatives in America.

Henderson also reports that Joe L Robinson, secretary of the Iowa Crop Improvement Association, warns against "strangers who have new oat varieties." "Their sales talk may be better than their product," Robinson declares.

Robinson also cautions farmers to read with care any contracts to sell the harvested crop to itinerant seed salesmen a year from now. He says to be sure the contract is binding on both parties.

"In the past, many farmers have been left "holding the bag" at the end of the year," Robinson says.

Legion Auxiliary Holding Membership Drive

Re-enrollment of all its members for 1958 is the goal of an intensive membership campaign, being conducted now by Adam-Schaefer Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, according to Mrs Bob Hartzell, Unit President. A membership in the American Legion Auxiliary is an investment in patriotism and service with big dividends.

Iowa's nearly 60,000 members of this past administrative year gave over $94,000 in service and contributions to the disabled or hospitalized veteran and needy veterans' families of World Wars I and II and the Korean Conflict. Outstanding service was also given in Child Welfare, Americanism, Education, National Security, Civil Defense and various types of Community Service. This service was largely made possible by the support of the public to the American Legion Auxiliary Veteran-made Memorial Poppy and the large enrollment of members.

In order to continue this service, the American Legion Auxiliary is now conducting its membership drive for 1958. The local Unit is urging all members to renew their membership before October 20th, the date memberships are due.

An invitation is extended to mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of men and women Legionnaires, or of deceased veterans of World Wars I and II or the Korean Conflict, also women who through their own service are eligible, who are not now members, to request an application blank from Mrs Bob Hartzell, Unit President or Mrs David Schwichtenberg, Membership Chairman, or any other Unit officer or member.

Booster Vaccination Program Will Be Carried Out Again

Marcia Mitchell, R N, Hancock Public Health Nurse, announces that this year we are continuing the Booster Immunization Program which includes only the 4th and 9th graders, and was initiated during the last school year.

If your child has not had his initial immunization, he will not be included in this booster program. He must have had this series done by your own local doctor.

The initial immunization should be given during infancy, and includes three inoculations of diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough, plus a smallpox vaccination, then booster shots at preschool age (5), again at 10 and 14 years of age, then every 3 to 5 years through adulthood. After a child has had the pre-school series, whooping cough is no longer necessary.

This annual booster program for 4th and 9th graders has been approved by the Hancock County Medical Society and the School Master's Club.

Next week your fourth and ninth graders will be given approval slips to be completed and signed by the parents.

We must have this approval before your child may secure these inoculations. Please return these slips to their teachers by October 16, 1957.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Warden vs Parole

The current controversy between Iowa state board of parole and Warden Percy Lainson didn't just pop into conflict overnight. They've been tossing brickbats for years.

Warden Lainson, of the men's prison at Fort Madison, has often publicly stated that the parole policies, as administered by the Iowa board, are outmoded. He said parole report forms have not been changed for 40 years.

Lt Governor Leo Elthon, during the 1955 legislative session, named a special legislative group to study the problem. Things were at a boiling point then between the board and the warden. The present upheaval may well lead to an all-out bipartisan study of the whole program.

Jr College Aid

The Iowa board of public instruction has approved payment of increased state aid to the 16 public junior colleges. However, the state board of regents must give its approval before funds actually can be allocated.

The regents have delayed approval pending a ruling it has requested from the attorney general that payment of the aid is legal. It questions that aid this year can be paid on last year's enrollments and standards.

The last legislature increased aid for the colleges from 25-cents to $1 per student per day. Payments can't be made. the lawmakers ruled, until both state boards approve standards.

Gets State Job

Brian Connell, Des Moines, has been named deputy commissioner of public safety for Iowa. The appointment was made by Commissioner Russell I Brown. Connell, 28, is a Democrat. Brown, recently named acting commissioner by Gov Loveless, is a Republican.

Connell replaces Barry Minear, who resigned two months ago to enter private business. The deputy's salary is $6,600 per year.

The Grapevine

Latest political rumors are that:

Lt Gov William Nicholas, Mason City, definitely will seek the GOP nomination for governor.

He'll have lots of company, including John Ropes, state commerce commissioner, who is already touring the state making luncheon club speeches.

House Speaker William Mooty, Grundy Center, hasn't decided yet whether to try for governor or the lieutenant-governor spot.

May Lose Seat

If population losses continue Iowa is likely to lose one congressional seat. This loss of some congressional voice would come after the 1960 census.

Other states, in addition to Iowa, may lose one or two seats. Still others will gain one or two. Gains, generally, will be made in states where big industrial centers dominate the pattern. Losses, in the main, come from rural agricultural areas.

Iowa now has eight congressmen, one from each congressional district, and two U S senators. Only one congressman is a Democrat.

Seek Pay Hikes

Pay increases of 10 to 25 percent are being sought for the 1,800 state employees who work in departments in which federal funds are involved. These would be longevity pay hikes. Pay increases now are given only in cases of promotion.

The estimated annual cost would be $146,965, with the federal government paying about $100,000. The Iowa executive council would have to approve the plan.

GOP Charge

Iowa Republicans will not win the 1958 state elections "with wishful thinking." That's what new Republican State Chairman L L Jurgemeyer has warned party leaders.

The next campaign must be based on "reality and not fiction," he asserted. "We can afford no wrong guesses and we can live in no dream world."

Preparing for Lady

Society gals in Iowa City and the University of Iowa's faculty family, no doubt, have taken to brushing up on proper English etiquette.

The report is out that Lady Janet Shipton, eldest daughter of England's Earl Attlee, will soon be a resident of Iowa City. That could mean, of course, that those social teas will take on a new meaning and emphasis this season.

Lady Shipton's husband, Harold, 37, will be a research assistant and electronics engineer at the University. Their two daughters will accompany them to Iowa to live.

Gov Picks Aide

A second administrative aide has been named by Governor Loveless. Newest member of the chief executive's staff is Park Rinard, Mason City construction company official, and one-time secretary to the late noted Iowa artist, Grant Wood.

Rinard, 45, is already on the job. He is working with Loveless's top aide, Robert Johnson, an economics professor at the University of Iowa, but now on leave from the University.

This probably marks the first time an Iowa chief executive has had two administrative aides.

Top Corn Loan

A Humboldt farmer, Dale Fraser, is the Iowan wtih the largest quantity of corn under loan for the 1956 federal program.

Fraser, reports say, had a loan of $55,715 on 47,620 bushels of his 1956 corn crop.

Next in line to Fraser was Olaf Twedt, an Estherville farmer, who obtained a loan of $45,739 on 42,416 bushels.

Quits Assignment

Alvin G Hudson, 36, director of the driver's license division in the department of public safety has resigned his state job effective Sept. 30. Hudson will enter private business. He has been director since May of 1956. His state salary was $6,600 per year.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson

County Extension Director

Feeder lamb prices are up this fall, and profit margins are smaller, making it best for farmers to buy light feeders and to feed for gains, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Top feeder lambs sold for 24 cents at the Omaha market during the week ending September 12, 1957. This was the highest price since May, 1954. At the same time, good to choice slaughter spring lambs topped at 23 cents at Omaha.

The reason for higher feeder prices is that the supply of feeder lambs is smaller this fall. The western lamb crop was down 5 percent from a year ago and there is a heavy demand for ewe lambs as western producers restock. Range-country feeder lambs are reported largely out of producer's hands, Kutish says.

A third factor is the short feeder supply in the abundance of feed in the west. Western feeders are buying up feeder lambs as well as cattle.

Besides the western situation, we have prospects for good wheat pastures and good feed crops in the western corn belt. This further increases competition for feeder lambs, Kutish points out.

Relatively few lambs have been wheat-pastured during the past few years. When little or no wheat-pasture feeding takes place feeder lambs are fed out earlier, Kutish notes. This means more lambs coming to market in late fall and early winter and fewer in late winter. Thus, fat-lamb prices drop in December and rise in late winter.

This year prospects are for wheat-pasture lambs to come to slaughter in late winter. But we have heavier feeder lambs this fall and they may increase December Marketings, offsetting the later run from wheat pastures.

In view of these factors, Kutish says fat-lamb prices should average higher this season than a year ago becuse of the smaller total supply of these animals. However, it is difficult to predict the seasonal price pattern because of the many offsetting factors.

30-Acre Feed Wheat Plan Explained

Complete information is now available at the county ASC office in Garner on the new law which permits farmers who have no wheat allotment or an allotment of less than 30 acres to raise as much as 30 acres of wheat which can be used only on the farm where produced.

Hancock county ASC committee, emphasized that the first requirements to participate in the feed-wheat program is that an agreements covering such wheat production must be signed at the county ASC office. In the case of wheat to be harvested in 1958, the agreement must be signed prior to planting of the wheat or October 15, 1957, whichever is later.

The County Committee urged farmers who are interested in the feed wheat program for winter wheat to be sown this fall to call at the county ASC office as soon as possible.

The County Committee also reminded farmers having wheat allotments that they have until October 4 to sign 1958 soil bank acreage reserve agreements on winter wheat to be sown this fall.

Wheat acreage reserve payment rates for 1958 in this county are $27.000 per acre. In addition, farmers who have land in the 1957 wheat acreage reserve can earn a 10 percent premium by putting the same land in the 1958 program.

The new feed-wheat law applies to the 1958 and future wheat crops, including winter wheat sown this fall for harvest next year. The plan is intended primarily to permit raising of feed wheat to be used on the farm where produced.

None of the wheat raised under the new program may be sold, bartered or exchanged. It connot be removed to another farm for any purpose. It will not be eligible for price support.

Wheat raised under the new feed-wheat plan will not be subject to marketing quota penalties if all provisions of the program are met. Farms participating in the wheat acreage reserve of the soil bank will not be eligible to take part in the feed-wheat program.

Although Iowa farms taking part in the feed-wheat program will not be eligible for the 1958 wheat acreage reserve, they will be eligible for the 1985 corn acreage reserve program.

Another provision of the feed-wheat program is that no acreage seeded to wheat for harvest as grain in 1958 or thereafter in excess of the wheat acreage allotment on any farm, regardless of the size of the wheat allotment, shall be considered in establishing future state, county or farm acreage allotments.

No change has been made in the regular wheat allotment provision that any farmer may raise and market as much as 15 acres of wheat without penalty. However, any producer who signs up for the feed-wheat program will not be eligible to market any of his wheat and the 15-acre provision will not apply to his farm.

Iowa Duck Season Opens Saturday

Iowa's 1957 duck season gets underway Saturday with good populations of teal and pintails on hand to provide opening day hunters with some good early shooting.

Opening day shooting is expected to follow nearly the same pattern as former years with "bluebird" days of October holding good populations of teal and pintails for early season shooters. Experience of past seasons has shown that teal particularly do not tarry long which means that hunters either must bag them early or not at all.

Farm ponds are increasing in importance particularly to early season duck hunters. These impoundments also are increasnig in number and are favorite resting places for ducks moving to and from refuge areas. Hunters that use them may experience some excellent hunting this fall, says a State Conservation Commission official.

Except for season dates, bag and possession limits of American and red-breasted mergansers, and shooting hours, 1957 waterfowl regulations are essentially the same as 1956.

Hunting is permitted each day (including opening day) from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Daily bag limit of ducks is four. Possession limit of ducks after the first day is eight. One hooded merganser is allowed. As in 1956, a closed season exists on Ross' geese, grebes, rails (except coot) gallinules, mourning dove, woodcock, wood duck, and swan.

Bag and possession limit of geese is five. Not more than two of the limit may be Canada, Hutchins', Cackling or White-fronted geese. Two of any of the above may be included in the limit. The entire bag may be made up of either Blue or Snow geese or any combination of them.

Open season on Wilson's snipe or Jacksnipe also begins Saturday continuing through November 3, 1957. Bag and possession limit is eight. Daily shooting hours is the same as for ducks and geese.

Waterfowl hunters may take five American and red-breasted mergansers daily and have ten in possession, singly or in aggregate of both kinds. This is in addition to the bag and possession limits of other ducks.

In addition to Iowa regulations, duck hunters must possess a valid duck stamp. The stamps are available at post offices and cost $2.00.

Triplets

A cow on the Clarence Jirak farm in Jacksonville township calved twins last year. This year she gave birth to triplet calves. Next year?

Tomato

A tomato vine which has yielded an overflowing crop of tomatoes all season long for Mrs Edward Nitzchke of Remsen, is still at it. The climber is nearly 10 feet tall and has an off-shoot along the ground eight feet long, also bearing.

OFF the CUFF

We hear John Abele took Judy Gilpin home after Margaret Pringnitz's birthday party. Could this blossom into a new romance?

Say, do you know who Jerry Jannsen brought to the skating party Tuesday night? None other than a cute blonde-haired sophomore by the name of Susan Watne.

What is Dorothy Kroehnke's interest in Garner lately? (And it isn't the skating rink, either! Could it be a certain individual with the initials D S, otherwise known as "Sonny.")

We hear that "Chuck" Bacon and Roxanne Back were together after initiation Friday night. Could this be a continuance from last year? We wonder!

Have you heard the latest? Betty Clayton has been seen with Tom Waddingham three or four time that we know of. How 'bout this Betty and Tom?

Say, Ginger Kudje, whose black and green Oldsmobile was parked in front of your house Sunday night? It couldn't have been Lee Gruis' could it? What happened to Gordon Lemke?

What happened to Karen Clabaugh and Craig Niemeyer, Myrna Barz and Larry Bacon, and Copette Lau and Daryl Hanson? We hear they aren't going steady this year! College took Daryl away from Cozy but what happened to the other two?

Another clip about the skating party Tuesday night. Marcella Nuehring was seen skating with Roger Pringnitz. What about this, kids?

Do you know who took Jane Renner home from initiation Friday night? None other than Donnie Anderson.

Who did JoAnn Jacobs forget to send a letter to Monday? Why so worried JoAnn?

Who is this C F from Illinois that Sherryle Clabaugh is talking so much about?

I don't think Jane Renner did a very good job of chaperoning Chuck Bacon and Roxie Back last Saturday night!

What's this we hear about Margarite Keeper going to Kanawha to see Don Katiun?

Who chickened out on dates Saturday night? It wasn't a couple of sophomores by the names of Daryl Brager and Donald Anderson, was it? What's the matter boys—stage fright?

I wonder if Roxie Back and Barbara Clayton had fun chaperoning Betty Clayton after the skating party Tuesday night?

Looked like JoAnn Helps and Marvin Josten were having fun at the skating party Tuesday night. Is that right, Jo?

Some kids going steady around K H S are: Sharon Blau and Larry Thiemann, Elaine Jurgemeyer and Egon Weaver, Beverly Lemke and Clem McLaughlin, Barbara Avery and Bob Larson, and Raymond Helps and Winola Zwald.

So concludes our gossip column for this week. We hope you have enjoyed reading it. Also we would like to hear some comments on it as to whether you liked it or not and if we should continue it.

Two snobbish French poodles out for a stroll met a disreputable looking mongrel.

"My name is Fifi," said the first poodle, "spelled F-i-f-i."

"And my name is Mimi," said the second poodle, "spelled M-i-m-i."

"Glad to know you," said the mongrel. "My name is Fido, spelled F-i-d-e-a-u-x."

Juniors to Present Class Ploy October 18

Rehearsals are now underway for the junior class play which will be given October 18 in the school gymnasium at 8 p.m.

Sometimes the theory of heredity does not seem to work out. It certainly doesn't in the case of the crack-brained Constance Oakshot, (Ginger Kudge), and her brilliant son, Oliver, (Jerry LaFavre). Of course we do not meet the father and that leaves room for speculation.

Oliver goes through life happily on his way to no place in particular. At least that is our impression. Perhaps we are too smug to understand his hair-trigger brain or to approve his happy philosophy. He allows his mother to do all the worrying and she seems to have an infinite capacity for just that. Strangely enough, she manages to blunder into a happy solution of the family problems.

These are two of the delightful characters who populate Paul Osborn's latest comedy, entitled "Oliver Oliver." This comedy ranks among the wittiest that have ever been presented on the American stage. It has romance intermingled with comedy — comedy of the hilarious kind, that will drive away all care and woe.

The cast of character is as follows:

Gertrude . Mardelle Stadtlander
Constance Oakshot .....Ginger Kudje
Carl Bridgewater ....Ron Beier
Williamson . Marlin Stadtlander
Judith Tiverton ... Cozette Lau
Phyllis, her daughter. Joyce Thiemann
Oliver, Constance's son Jerry LaFavre
Justin Stock .... Roger Meints

JOKES

The shoemaker was explaining to a complaining customer the reason for the poor quality of his soles. "All the good leather," he said, "Is going into steaks."

:—:

One night at the movies I overheard this exchange between a teenager and his date:

"Can you see all right?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Are you in a draft?"

"No."

"Does the man in back of you have his feet on your chair?"

"No."

"Mind trading places?" he asked.

:—:

The other girl, from the Deep South, replied, "Men are all ah like, too."

:—:

More in bewilderment than in anger, an Army sergeant wrote an acquaintance of his efforts to arouse a group of draftees after their first night in the barracks. The sergeant bellowed out the information that it was four o'clock, and one draftee raised himself on an elbow, "Four o'clock" the draftee gasped. "Man, you better get to bed. We got a big day tomorrow."

Senior Interview

Around 9:00 every morning, Monday through Friday, we find Joyce Andrea Lassahn in the baritone saxaphone section of the band having a fine time as this is her favorite pastime. She also sings in the mixed and girls' chorus.

Joyce belongs to the Klemme Methodist Church where she sings in the church choir in the soprano section and is in MYF. She also participated in the junior class play last year.

Bookkeeping is Joyce's favorite subject. If anyone would ever like to treat her, they could do so by treating her to a steak dinner with French apple pie afterwards take her to a show with the movie actress Kim Novak in the show "Picnic" and Jeff Chandler in any sort of a show. Joyce has no particular saying, but when asked her most embarrassing moment, her reply was, "Do I have to tell ya'?"

If you should ever happen to be looking for "Jo," which is Joyce's nickname, look for someone who is 5 feet 3 inches atll with brown hair and brown eyes. Her pet peeve is people who brag a lot and like to show off.

New Twists for Laughs

Officer testifying before Senate committee on national security: "No need to relocate the capitol, sir. No enemy would bomb Washington and deliberately end all this confusion."

:—:

Co-ed: My teacher asked me all about my family and did I have any brothers or sisters.

Mother: That was nice of her to take such an interest in you. What did you tell her?

Co-ed: I said I didn't have any brothers or sisters; I was the only one. Then she said, 'Thank goodness!'

:—:

A motorist was in court on a speeding charge. He was requested to take the oath. "Do you solemnly swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth?"

Reluctantly, he agreed.

"Now what have you to say for yourself?" asked the judge.

"Well, judge, with all them limitations on me, I haven't a thing to say."

:—:

Traffic officer (stopping motorist): Sir, your wife fell out of the car three blocks back.

Motorist: So that's it! I though I had gone stone deaf.

CLASS NEWS

Mrs Oberg has agreed to let us visit her senior English class this week. She has seventeen students in the class this year.

The last few weeks they have been studying Shakespeare's play, "Macbeth." This is really very interesting if you like that type of literature. They have also been studying the early Elizabethan playhouses, which Shakespeare wrote for, by writing reports about them.

Of course every Thursday they devote to the construction of the "Shamrock." They have found this to be a lot of work but interesting.

On Fridays the library books are brought out and the class has free reading for their book reports.

As most of the businessmen know, the annual is getting underway. The senior class elected Gordon Johnson as the editor, Richard Meyer as the co-editor, Douglas Roul as business manager and Charles Bacon as activities director. They hope to give you a better and more interesting annual this year by putting forth a lot of effort and hard work.—Barbary Avery.

Daffy Football Definitions

This is a "current events daffy dictionary." Don't take anything you see here too seriously.

HUT: An old Indian word meaning "one." Used in footblal for calling signals; as, "Hut, two three, etc."

TOUCHDOWN: A great play, a most wonderful run, a terrific thing if it is made by your team. A great tragedy, a sad event, a disaster if made by the other team.

BACKS: There are two and one quarter back. This is quite a problem for players who have trouble with fractions.

ENDS: They are usually tall players. Their main job is to catch the ball when it is passed in the end zone. The crowd moans "Oh, this is the end!"

EXTRA BASE HIT: This has nothing to do with football. It doesn't even belong here.

FUMBLE: This is a dropped ball. When a fumble occurs every player on the field jumps on the old pigskin. The pileup knocks the wind out of the ball and the man on the bottom. Both say, "Ooff!"

RUSHING: A running play. Backs sometimes rush through the center of the line. Sometimes they rush around their own left end. Rushing around your own end is also known as running in circles.

PIGSKIN: This is a term used by sports writers when they get tired of writing "ball." Pigskins by the way, are made of cowhide. (No foolin'.)

GUESS WHO

This week I found a pair of glasses lying on a study hall table, but I can't seem to find the owner. I was astonished when I heard the glasses describe their owner.

"My owner is 5 ft. 5 in. tall, has brown hair, and green eyes." "This person is secretary of her class." "She sings second soprano in Girls' Glee Club. This person is a member of Klemme Methodist Church."

"Her favorite pastimes are reading and writing."

"Will you please help me find my owner. I am sure my owner would apreciate knowing here I, her glasses, am."

We hope you will have guessed who the owner is. If you have not, the answer will appear in next week's Shamrock.

Last week the Guess Who interview was none other than Gordon Johnson.

Ode to The Typographical Error

The typographical error. A slippery thing and sly;
You can hunt it 'till you're dizzy,
But somehow it will get by
'Till the paper is all printed.
It is strange how still it keeps;
It shrinks down in a corner,
And it never stirs or peeps.
That typographical error is too small for human eyes
'Till the ink is on the paper when it grows to mountain size!
The editor stares with hororr,
Then he grabs his hair and groans;
The copyreader drops his head and moans.
The remainder of the issue may be clean as clean can be,
But the typographical error
Is the only thing you see!

Question of the Week

What was your impression of the Safe Driving Exhibition held last Monday morning?

Jerry L.: I think it was a good thing to have in the school.

Dorothy R: I thought that it was a very interesting project entirely worth having.

Daryl B: I thought it was worthwhile and very interesting.

Eugene Z: I thought it was very interesting and educational.

Douglas R: I thought it was very good. Too bad more drivers could not have seen it, besides us teenagers.

Howard A: I thought it was very good for some of the teachers.

Paul G. I thought it was very interesting and educational. It was too bad that adults as well as teenagers could not have seen it.

Dorothy K: It was very interesting and educational. It gave us an idea as to how long it would take us to stop of we ever had to very fast.

Karen C; I think it was very educational and really starts us thinking about how long it does take us to stop a car when go at a certain speed. It was a very interesting exhibition.

2,524 Iowans Denied Right to Drive This Year

The driver improvement section of the state safety department suspended, revoked or denied the drivers licenses of 2,524 Iowans during the first six months of this year, according to an announcement by Al Hudson, director of safety responsibility.

This was an increase of 854 over the number of licenses gathered in by the department during the same period last year, Hudson said.

In addition, 744 drivers were placed on probation compared to 481 last year, and 206 existing licenses were restricted compared to 59 last year. Nearly 1,400 drivers were called in for reexamination or for interviews with patrol officers.

The actions were taken as a result of the study of 20,000 driving records in the safety department during the six month period, Hudson said.

The safety department keeps a record of each driver's chargeable accidents and convictions of traffic law violations.

The driver improvement section is constantly examining the records to spot drivers who become involved in a number of accidents or violations.

The department has the authority to suspend, revoke or restrict licenses on the basis of a driver's record.

The department may also examine every new applicant for a license or any person holding a valid license when the department has reason to believe that such person may be physically or mentally incompetent to operate a motor vehicle, and may suspend the license of a person found to be incompetent to drive safely or deny issuance of a license to such an applicant.

Accident

Frank Theulen was injured in a logging accident at Spirit Lake recently. He was unloading logs when he lost his balance and fell down among them, receiving nine broken ribs and a brain injury.

Burned

Edwin Weishaar, Humboldt, was badly burned when he touched a 4700-volt highline. Fellow workmen revived him with artificial respiration and rushed him to a hospital at Fort Dodge.

Too Much Speed Is Greatest Cause of Crashes Says Edward S. Adams

Safe driving must be made a personal habit of every motorist if the slaughter on America's highways is to be curbed Edward S Adams, Safety Director of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation and Affilited Companies, declared today as he spoke prior to conducting driving tests at Klemme high school.

"Excessive speed is the greatest single cause of automobile acoidents," Mr Adams said. In the demonstration which followed he pointed out the conditions under which even 20 or 30 miles per hour can be excessive. Adams added:

"When drivers know the true facts and base their driving on those facts, highway accidents will drop sharply."

Students and teachers took part in the tests which were conducted in a specially equipped car. The test driver was signalled to stop by an electrically controlled Detonator. As the shell was fired, the street was marked with yellow paint. A second bullet was fired as brakes were applied and a third after the car came to a complete stop. Distances between the spots were carefully measured to determine in feet and inches how far the car traveled before the driver applied the brakes, or the reaction distance, and how far it traveled after the brakes were applied, or the braking distance.

Mr Adams emphasized that the fact that a driver who observes the speed laws carefully is not a safe driver if he neglects many other items such as proper signalling for turns, approaching an intersection in the proper lane for a turn, the proper way to turn around, and many other things which he demonstrated in the test car.

Monday's safety demonstration which was brought to Klemme under the sponsorship of the local Farm Bureau was a part of a long range program of traffic safety now being conducted by the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation and Affiliated Companies.

Those participating and their records for stopping the test car were:

Jarry Jansen, 20 mph, reaction distance 17 ft. 6 inches; braking distance 34 ft. 8 inches for a total stopping distance of 52 ft. 2 in.

Dorothy Kroehnke, 20 mph, reaction distance, 13 ft. 7 inches; braking distance, 31 ft. 8 inches for a total stopping distance of 45 ft. 3 inches.

Francis Johnsen: 30 miles per hour, reaction distance 33 ft., braking distance, 62 ft. 2 inches for a total stopping distance of 84 ft., 2 inches.

Sheriff "Dutch" Brower, 40 mph, 26 ft. 1 inch, reaction distance; 110 ft 3 inches braking distance, for a total of 136 ft. 4 inches stopping distance.

Mr and Mrs Bill Westberg and family visited at the parental Mrs Esther Westberg home at Boone Saturday.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, OCTOBER 9, 1957 | VOLUME 62 | NUMBER 47

Appoint Study Group For Quality Egg Association

At the October meeting of the Hancock County Farm Bureau Board held at the Hotel Allison in Britt, October 1, the board appointed a study committee consisting of: Gordon Upmeyer, Liberty, Laurence Radloff, Ell; Kermit Erlan, Amsterdam and Wayne Lawhorn, Concordia, to make a study of the possibilities of forming a Quality Egg Association in Hancock County. This comes as a result of the favorable response of the question asked in this years opinionaire which was sent to all Farm Bureau members before the annual meeting asking for action on such an association.

In view of what has happened to the turkey and broiler business and what is now going on through "Vertical integration" and "Egg factory" operations numbering 200,000 layers per owner, Iowa poultry farmers must organize to survive in the poultry business. This is a must if we are to keep our markets, otherwise our present markets will be lost in the next 5 years. It is the feeling this may be the last chance for the small individual producers to keep some control over their own marketing channels. A small producer alone has no bargaining power, but united with several hundred other small producers they have tremendous bargaining power in the market. The housewife, all over the U S, wants fine quality eggs, we must supply this quality egg or someone else will.

Community Chest Drive Starts Next Week

The annual fund drive for the East Hancock Community Chest begins on Monday, October 14.

In other words, you make nearly all of your donations at this one time, so figure out what you should give, treat the solicitors with courtesy and help the Chest to meet its quota.

Earl Erdman Named Special F B Agent

Your Hancock County Farm Bureau Board is happy to announce the appointment of Earl A. Erdman as Special Agent for the Farm Bureau Insurance Services in Bingham, Britt, Crystal, Garfield, Liberty and Madison Townships.

50 Percent of Traffic Deaths in One-Vehicle Accidents

The idea that "the other guy" is to blame in most fatal traffic accidents was shown to be dangerously incorrect thinking today by the Iowa department of public safety.

In slightly more than half the traffic deaths in Iowa during the first seven months of this year, there just wasn't any "other guy" involved, according to Clifford Swanson, chief of the department's research bureau.

He said 190 persons died in Iowa in one-vehicle accidents during the period—accidents in which only one driver was involved and responsible.

This is 50.8 percent of the traffic deaths during the period.

In comparison, 184 persons were killed during the period in accidents involving two or more vehicles—49.2 per cent of the total.

Frank Ulish, director of safety education, said he hoped the report would destroy the widely accepted idea that fatal accidents usually are caused by "the other driver."

"These figures prove that, at least half of the time, a driver is his own worst enemy when it comes to safety on the highway," Ulish said.

He said drivers must accept a sense of "personal responsibility," "Each driver must understand that he creates his own safety—or lack of it."

Wires

Someone cut the wires which enter St John's Lutheran Church at Dana recently, putting the organ out of commission. The damage was repaired in time for the Sunday services.

Scalped

A semi-trailer bound for California was literally scalped as it went through the Rock Island underpass east of Chariton. The cab cleared the 11½ foot underpass all right but the huge trailer top was stripped from front to back as it moved through.

Catfish

Vern Nims of Maquoketa caught a giant catfish recently in the Mississippi River at Bellevue, weighing 30 pounds and measuring almost 3½ feet long. Nims says he caught a 17 pounder a few days earlier—both with a fish pole.

TB Contact Program Concluded in Hancock County

Report of the 15th annual Contact x-ray program conducted in Hancock County has been announced by Mrs Herman Bode, president of the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

There were 44 persons who had large chest x-rays taken when the mobile x-ray unit was in the community recently. Pulmonary interpretation of the film indicated no probable cases of Tuberculosis. The program was directed by Marcia Mitchell, R N, Public health nurse, who interviewed persons who are known to have been in contact with an active case of tuberculosis. She made 59 calls to homes, taking case histories of 49 persons. These visits followed conferences with 25 physicians.

The Contact case-finding program is sponsored jointly by the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association, the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association and the State Department of Health. It has the approval of the Hancock County Medical Society. Local Christmas Seal funds have helped to defray the expense.

Besides the tuberculosis findings, there were 7 persons whose chest x-rays revealed non-tuberculous finding for which further study was recommended. The remaining 30 persons who had chest x-rays were notified they had healthy chests.

The Contact tuberculosis case-finding program is an effort to find unknown tuberculosis among those persons who have been in close contact with persons known to have active TB in a contagious stage. About 80 counties in Iowa have been searching for tuberculosis in this manner since 1937 when the program was started.

Predict Fall Color Peak About October 13

Park officials of the State Conservation Commission believe the peak of fall coloration may reach north and northeast Iowa woods about October 13 and are urging picnickers and sportsmen to take advantage of some of Jack Frosts' most deft and beautiful artistry.

Maples and oaks were turning color in northern Iowa during late September, and it is thought that they may reach their color peak in many areas on the weekend of October 13. Many multicolored "flags" of individual trees have burst forth in northeast Iowa in recent weeks as sort of a preview to the big October "spectacular."

With the difference between north and south Iowa weather, Conservation Commission officials predict the best of autumn color in southern Iowa should appear the weekend of October 20th.

All state parks will be open in October, and park officers state that smaller crowds, fall's vivid colors and the weather should all contribute to ideal park picnicking. Fisheries officials also add that some of the finest fishing is experienced during October but is sometimes neglected because of the hunting season, school activities and fall cleanup work around home.

Mrs O D Potter, Bobby and Betty of Mason City, and Sue Swearingen of Marshalltown were weekend guests in the home of Mrs D R Hummel.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Start Is Made

Iowa soon will have a "committee of 100" to make a thorough study and statewide report on the social and economic future of the state.

First appointees to the committee, 19 men, have just been named by the governor. This nucleous will serve as the executive committe of the to be officially known as Governor's Study committee on Social and Economic Trends.

Study will include the population shift from farms to cities and the migration of Iowans to other states.

SUI Land Buy

The Iowa executive council has authorized State Board of Regents purchase of two pieces of property in Iowa City for additions to the University of Iowa Campus.

One of the purchases involves 14,795 feet of land for $16,500 and the other 56,500 square feet for $7,500.

It is reported additional housing accomodations for students will be constructed in this new area west of the present campus.

Real Strain

Apparently a good many Iowans are finding it a real strain to drive autos on busy streets and highways these days.

An average of two motorists a month die of heart attacks while driving motor vehicles in the state.

The department of public safety, which keeps track of such information, reports that in such instances the victims crash into other vehicles or objects. They may take others to death with them.

School Plan Hurt

School reorganization in Iowa is being hurt and delayed by lack of adequate property tax equalization by the Iowa Tax Commission. Lack of an equalization program is prolonging the tax misunderstanding between rural and city folks.

That's the thinking of one of the three tax commissioners, Martin Lauterbach, the lone Republican of the trio.

He blames Governor Loveless, a Democrat, for what he describes as the refusal of the commission's Democratic majority "to equalize property tax values as between counties, towns and city assessing districts." Lauterbach contends a minimum of 78 adjustments in values should have been made this year. The commission voted certain property value changes in only 13 Iowa counties.

Political Funds

Iowa's secretary of state, Melvin Synhorst, keeper of such records, contends that the state needs tighter laws governing political campaign contributions and stiffer penalties for violating them.

Campaign contributions and expenses are, by law, filed with the secretary of state. In instances of violations he has no authority under the law to initiate action against violators. His office also administers election laws.

He condemned the present "apparently legal" method of permitting mas contribution to be lumped together and reported in the name of some club. He said a clearly defined "follow-up method of enforcement of laws" should be provided.

Fire Safety Laws

New state fire safety regulations for nursing homes now are officially and formally part of the Iowa law. Though not voted by the last legislative session, new rules have become part of the state laws due to a procedure that permits departments of state government to make such rules. They do not need the signature of the governor but must, in such cases, have the approval of the state attorney general.

The state fire marshall was authorized by the last legislature to pattern new regulations after the National Fire Protection Association standards.

By-Passes

Opposition to modern highway by-passes of cities and towns is fading and now has wide support.

This observation was made by W V. Buck, Kansas City, regional engineer of the federal bureau of Public Roads, at the annual convention of the Iowa Motor Truck Association.

Buck, also declared that some criticism and fear of multiple-lane, limited access highways still exists but are declining.

Truckers Elect

Otis Frette, Story City, is the new president of the Iowa Motor Truck Association. J J Brady, Sr., Fort Dodge, is vice-president. They were elected at the associations state convention.

At the meeting Peter Crowley, 41, Iowa City, recieved the Driver of the Year Award presented by the Association. He has driven 670,000 miles without an accident.

REA Elects

Herbert Moeller, Denison, has been reelected president of the Iowa Rural Electric Association. Alfred Schmillen, Marcus, was renamed vice-president. J T McGarry, Victor, is secretray treasurer, succeeding Albert G Olson of Osage.

Cooling Off

The number of Iowa divorces has declined noticeably in the last eight yeeks. A new "cooling off" law may be the reason.

Last legislature passed a law providing divorces cannot be granted for 60 days from the time of filing, except in emergencies.

Loren C Chancellor, director of state vital statistics, said 220 divorces were granted in July and 157 in August of this year. In 1956 the divorces in those months was 464 and 408 respectively. The decline is still apparent.

Beetles and Termites

The Iowa attorney general has ruled that an emergency exists and the state legislative budget committee could appropriate $10,000 for fighting a Japanese beetle infestation in the vicniity of Fort Madison.

Previously the attorney general had ruled that the legislative unit could not release funds unless emergency existed. The state comptroller asked a ruling on the beetle payment.

Reports are that the state board of regents may ask an appropriation, under the emergency clause, for repair of the superintendent's home at Iowa School of the Deaf, Council Bluffs, which has been extensively damaged by termites.

Hoffa Rule

State Rep Clark McNeal, Belmond Republican, at a GOP rally at Boone, charged that if Democratic Gov Loveless is reelected, national labor leader James Hoffa will be "running the state of Iowa."

McNeal is chairman of the state legislative committee now investigating improper political campaign expenditures in Iowa.

McNeal said Iowa has been "relatively clean of unsavory labor unions."

Crime Rate Up

The FBI reports that crime rates in Iowa, per 100,000 persons, last year, were higher in murder, robbery, larceny and burglary.

There were two categories, the FBI said, which showed a decrease in offenses; aggravated assault and auto theft.

Hunters

A C Hanson, Allen Hanson, Roger Hofstad and Pat Seuser all of Northwood recently bagged four buck antelope, three buck deer and a fawn on a hunting trip in Wyoming. The eight animals, field dressed, ranged from 100 to 175 pounds in weight.

Excuse Table Saves Time

To save teacher's time and your own valuable time, please give your excuses by number. This list covers most situations.

1. That's the way I've always done it.
2. I didn't know my homework was due today.
3. That's not how I was taught in the seventh grade.
4. You didn't tell me to do it.
5. I was waiting for you to check this, so I'll know if I'm doing it right.
6. Why didn't you give this question to a "brain?"
7. I copied Mary's paper and she had it wrong.
8. I forgot.
9. I didn't think we were supposed to read that page.
10. I had so much homework last night I just couldn't get to it.

CLASS NEWS

Sophomores, juniors and seniors are all mixed together in the first geometry class in Klemme High. Since it has become increasingly important for students who plan to continue their education in colleges and universities, Klemme High School has come to the aid of these students and helped them to meet the requirements of these institutions of higher learning.

At times angles, polygons and the unusual theorems and logic reasoning has all of the class stumped but Mr. Whitney comes to their rescue and straightens out the difficulties. The class is very interesting and challenging because it requires a great deal of reasoning power and patience.

55 Years

Linus and Frank Swanson were united in Chariton recently after not seeing one another for 55 years. The brothers became separated after their arrival in this country from Sweden and each believed the other had died. Linus is a Chariton resident and a retired coal miner from Monroe county.

Tips to Speed Your Reading

Try these tips for better and faster reading:

1. Pre-read everything. Glance over the whole selection to see how long it is, what the divisions are and more or less what it contains. Do this with everything except creative literature.
2. Try reading phrase by phrase instead of word by word. You only see when your eye is stopped. It makes a series of jerky movements to read word by word. Work smoother, more rapid movement when reading phrase by phrase.
3. When moving from one line to another, break away about ⅛ from the end and begin about ⅛ of the way in on the next line. You will find that the meaning is still quite clear.
4. Consciously speed up your reading. If you are reading anything particularly difficult, tell yourself you will read it twice. Read it as fast as you can the first time, then go back and read it again. You will be surprised at how little you have missed. By using this self-spacing technique you will continue to build self-confidence at faster rates.

GUESS WHO

This week we are looking for a junior girl who is about 5 feet, 2 inches tall, blonde hair and wears glasses over her blue eyes.

She is an active member of the Klemme band, sings in mixed chorus and girls chorus.

Our subject is a member of the Liberty Methodist Church, participates in Methodist Youth Fellowship and is secretary of Girls Society of Christian Service.

Last week the glasses found their owner, who was Sharon Bachman. Look for the answer to this week's "guess who" in next week's edition of The Shamrock.

Senior Interview

We have chosen our senior class vice-president, Larry Ulrich, for our senior inteview this week.

"Butch," as Larry is often called, stands 5' 10" tall, has blue eyes and brown hair.

Larry prefers June Alyson and Alan Ladd as his favorite actress and actor. However, when asked what his favorite show was, he replied "The D. I." starring Jack Webb.

An enjoyable evening for Larry would be to go out for a big hamburger steak dinner, then after dinner he would enjoy a good game of bowling.

In school, you will find Larry busily studying bookkeeping, which is his favorite subject.

His favorite saying is "For cryin' out loud!"

When asked what his most embarrassing moment was, Larry told us it was just too embarrassing to mention.

Larry's future plans are farming.

JOKES

Lady driver—"This is all your fault. I turned the way I signalled."

Sad citizen—"I know, That's what fooled me."

Clerk—"Yes, sir, we have winter underwear. How long do you want it?"

Customer—"What's it to you? I don't want to rent it, I want to buy it."

Music News

Mrs Whitney has started practice with two new musical groups. The Sextet and the Double Quartet. The Sextet is compoesd of six girls, Joyce Thiemann, Candace Carlson, Virginia Kudge, Maurine Johnson, Mardell Statlander, Jo Ann Jacobs and is accompanied by Margaret Pringnitz.

The Double Quartet consists of four boys and four girls. The members are Joyce Thiemann, Joanne Helps, Myrna Barz, Jane Renner, Eugene Zwald, Chuck Bacon, Gordon Johnson, Randall Langlitz, and is accompanied by Jo Ann Jacobs.

Manners are Your Label

The dictionary has a surprise for you if you look up the word "etiquette." We all know it is a "system of conventional forms required by good breeding," but the next word says "ticket." Now, could etiquette and ticket possibly be tied together?

Webster tells us further that etiquette is a ticket of admission or a label. Did you realize that your manners label you?

Check your own label. Do you enter the classroom in an orderly manner, or are you the loud, conspicuous type? In the halls or at a party, do you remember manners or do you just go "along with the gang?"

You make your own label. How does it read?

New 4-H Club Year Starts

The 1957-58 club year is just getting underway according to Edward Bruns, Youth Assistant. the clubs are electing new officers and are getting new leaders if there has been a change.

State wide enrollment week is from October 21 to 26. However, the enrollment for the new year has already started in Hancock County. 4-H is available to every boy and girl between the ages of 10 and 21. Not just those that live on a farm, but to everyone regardless of what city or town they may live in.

The 4-H clubs form the greatest youth organization of the world. These clubs are doing a lot to make this a better place to live. The clubs in the county have, contributed to the IFYE program and thus in part made it possible for Jacob Medina to visit our county.

They have initiated a fund drive among themselves with the cooperation of the Fair Board and others to make it possible for a skating rink that is now located at Britt. Through this effort the boys and girls now have a fine recreation center in our own county.

These, along with the project work, are just some of the visible accomplishments, but along with this each member is building his own stature, developing citizenship, gaining knowledge, etc.

If you as a 4-H member, parent, or friend help someone get started in 4-H club work you are doing that someone a favor. Or if you as a boy or girl is interested in joining 4-H, attend the club meeting of your choice or call at the Extension Office in Garner for help in getting started.

Junior Class Play

While Constance Oakshto (Ginger Kudje) is not overburdened with brains, she surely has a capacity of stirring our responsibilities, and that is a good and sufficient reason for anybody's existance. Her son, Oliver (Jerry LaFavre) may prove an enigma at first but in the end he shows a quality that is to be admired and approved. To be clever in the midst of ordinary-minded people has its penalties and we will all agree that Oliver carries his burden manfully.

This crackling entertainment will be produced by the Junior class of Klemme High, October 18, at eight o'clock in the evening.

ELL Midgets Elect

The regular meeting of the Ell Midgets 4-H club was held on September 30, 1957 at Center Schoolhouse. The club decided to have a Roller Skating Party later on in the fall. They decided to invite the East half of the county to it. The South Ell Tip Toppers invited the club to a Halloween Party on October 30. The record books were handed out. Members elected new officers. President, Don Anderson; Vice-President, Larry Hoffman; Secretary, Jerry Murray; Treasurer, Bill Renner and Reporter, Jim Goll. One leader is Don Grieman and associate leader is Bud Murray. Members decided that later in the fall they would have a pot luck supper instead of an oyster stew. The committee for this is Vernon Greiman, Chairman; Jane Renner, Ronnie Kubly and Donald Anderson.

Lunch was served by Donald and Robert Anderson. Reporter, Jim Goll.

Time Running Out for Some Deer Season Applications

With the deadline for shotgun applications for the 1957 deer season less than two weeks away, 4,525 shotgun and 368 bow and arrow applications had been received by the end of the business day September 23, a check of the Conservation Commission's licensing section has disclosed.

Of the totals, 3600 shotgun and all 368 bow and arrow licenses had been issued by the close of business hours on September 23.

Iowa deer hunters are reminded that October 14 is the deadline for receiving shotgun application forms. Applications for the bow and arrow season may be made up until the final day of the bow and arrow season November 25.

Shotgun and bow and arrow licenses are $10 each and are availble to Iowa hunters only. The license fee, in the form of a personal check or money order, must accompany the completed application form when it is returned to the office of the Conservation Commission, East Seventh and Court Ave., Des Moines. Application froms are available from Conservation Officers, county recorders or the Commission office.

Iowa's 1957 deer season for shotgun hunters is December 7 and 8; for bow and arrow hunters, October 26 through November 25.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Prices for eggs and turkeys shouldn't deteriorate from now on into winter, as egg supplies dwindle and the holiday turkey demand develops, says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist. The number of pullets under laying age on September 1, 1957, was 14 percent smaller than a year ago, which means fewer pullet eggs this fall. And Rackham expects farmers to react to the short pullet supply by holding older layers as long as they produce enough to show a profit.

By the end of 1957, the number of laying hens should be 5 percent smaller than a year ago. but because of increased egg output per hen, Rackham expects egg production to be only 2 or 3 percent below last year.

Egg prices will stay steadier this year than last, Rackham believes. Last year, wholesale egg prices sagged sharply in late September, but so far in 1957 they've stayed close to an early-September peak. Prices should stay near this peak for another month or so, and will probably remain above a year earlier into the spring of 1958. Rackham says declining egg supplies and increasing national population should keep egg prices up. And with relatively more large eggs than small this year, price spreads between large and small shouldn't be as great as usual.

On the turkey scene we find Iowa the fourth ranking state in the nation in turkey production. Estimates indicate that this year's Iowa output of the big birds will be about 6.3 million out of a national total of 80.6 million. This makes Iowa turkey output more than twice her production of carcass lamb and mutton.

The United States will produce about 5 percent more turkeys this year than in 1956, with a shift toward heavier breeds. This shift will mean greater turkey-meat poundage, says Rackham —5.8 pounds of oven-ready turkey per American as compared with 5.1 pounds in 1956.

Half of the year's turkey consumption normally occurs during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, and supplies of the festive birds could be scarce this year, if retail consumption holds its present fast pace. By September 1, early poult hatchings, year-around promotion and lower retail prices had combined to boost turkey sales more than 30 percent above the same period last year, Rackham notes.

Turkey prices for the first half of 1957 ran 15 percent below the first half of 1956, and storage stocks are double what they were a year ago. These factors, coupled with other less obvious market influences, would seem to indicate no immediate turkey-price advances. However, Rackham emphasizes, if consumers have eaten all the turkeys they've bought so far this year, and if red meat prices stay high, the Christmas turkey could bring a good price.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

HOSTILE

Yep, the chicken hawk pictured above was definitely hostile—and his disposition brought him nothing but trouble.

Anyway, a couple of weeks ago a group of neighbors were helping to put in baled hay at the Carol Brager farm northwest of town . . . and that's where Mr Hawk's troubles began.

The bales were being put into the barn via an outside elevator, and the man tending the elevator was Reuben Lemke. Reuben was minding the elevator and his own business when out of the corner of his eye he seemed to see a blur coming toward his head. He ducked and Mr Hawk whizzed by, just missing him.

Reuben, naturally was startled, but that was nothing compared to the thoughts that must have been going through the head of Mr Hawk.

He was in much the same position as a souped up fighter plane going after a low-flying cub. He was so intent on making his pass at Reuben, that he failed to notice all the things he should have noticed . . . and he failed to take some necessary precautions.

Anyway, when he leveled out of his dive he was going so fast and was so close to the barn that he was unable to pull up and clear the building. Consequently, he crashed! He flew into the side of the barn and clobbered himself with such force that he was put down for the count.

Reuben figured that this was all a little unusual and wanting some proof of his story about being attacked by a chicken hawk, he took advantage of the bird's stunned condition, tied wire around one leg of the feathered warrior . . . and there was his proof.

The moral of the story is that if normally you can't hit the side of a barn . . . don't depend on it!

Legion Discusses Plans For Feather Parties

The Adam-Schaefer Post No. 625 of the American Legion met at the post rooms in the Community Hall Thursday night for their regular October meeting.

Commander Robert Hartzell called the meeting to order and Adjutant Jim Thomas read the minutes of the September meeting. They were approved without change. Commander Hartzell read a thank you note from Mr and Mrs Robert Roths. There were no bills allowed at this meeting.

Plans for the Feather Parties to be held November 18 for the Thanksgiving holiday and December 19 before Christmas were discussed by the members present. L E "Pete" Kilgore was appointed a committee of one to handle funds for expenses of the parties and to pay other miscellaneous bills. Graydon, "Curly," Back was appointed to see about the poultry for the parties. Sam Swartz was appointed to handle the publicity.

Membership was discussed. Commander Hartzell stated the Post is still far behind its quota. Any eligible veteran is asked to contact Bob Hartzell, Post Commander, Jim Thomas, Adjutant, or any other member of the Legion and sign up.

Remember to remind the wife about the County Auxiliary meeting to be held in the Methodist church basement here on October 22.

The next regular meeting will be Thursday night, November 14 at 8:00 in the Community Hall. All members are urged to come and bring along another eligible veteran.

Laymen's Sunday at E and R Church

On Sunday, October 20, 1957, Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme will join other Evangelical and Reformed Churches in the observance of Layman's Sunday. Men from the Adult Bible Class will have part in conducting the worship service. Others will be part of a Men's Chorus to present the special music for the service. Leland Hummel, William Reinhart and Edwin Thiemann compose the committee to arrange the worship service. Allen Barz and Ewald Josten are in charge of the chorus. Verner Priebe, Eldon Hagen and Harlan Nuehring will assist in conducting the service. The pastor will deliver the sermon.

Men's Sunday is sponsored by the laymen of the Evangelical and Reformed Church through the Churchmen's Brotherhood. Since Immanuel Church has no Men's Brotherhood the Adult Bible Class is conducting the service. The purpose of Laymen's Sunday is to give laymen in the congregation an opportunity to witness to their Christian convictions within the church, thus setting an example for the younger generations.

This is the ninth year the Evangelical and Reformed laymen have chosen a special project of the church and given it emphasis on Men's Sunday. The men of the Evangelical and Reformed Church propose to raise $20,000 toward the establishment of the new Winnebago Benevolent Corporation at Neilsville, Wisconsin, on Laymen's Sunday this year.

Hancock County Farm Bureau Women's Workshop Held

1958 Goals Explained

The Hancock County Farm Bureau Women's Committee held their County Workshop for their 1958 program at the REA building in Garner, October 7, 1957.

Registration was held at 9:45 a.m. with 38 ladies signing up, according to Mrs Carl Johnson. The ladies then participated in a "Get-Acquainted" game explained by Mrs Ralph Johnson.

The meeting was called to order by the County Chairman, Mrs Milo Pitkin. Devotions were given by Mrs August Jotsen, County Vice Chairman. Mrs Carl Johnson gave the introductions. Mrs Ralph Johnson gave the entertainment number. Mrs Van Wert, District Committeewoman was present. She made a few remarks further emphasizing the day. Mrs Van Wert also gave a brief report on her recent trip to Ceylon where she attended the triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World.

Group discussions were held and check sheets used. This proved to be very successful as the ladies had an opportunity to express their thoughts and ideas.

A delicious luncheon was served by a group of the St Paul's Lutheran Church in Garner at noon. The ladies paid half the price of the meal and the Farm Bureau paid the remaining half.

Elsie Mae Van Wert, County Home Economist, explained the work of the Extension and the Farm Bureau. Planning session included methods for implementing the particular goals. The 1958 goals are: Know and Understand Our Farm Bureau; Legislation; Agriculture—Our Business; Music and Recreation; Education Needs for Children; Health and Safety; and Rural Mail.

The State Conference that is to be held next month in Des Moines was brought to the ladies attention. The meeting was adjourned.

Support Rate on 1957 Corn Raised 4 Cents

The government price-support or loan rate on 1957-crop corn produced in Hancock County in compliance with corn acreage allotments will be $1.32 per bushel, or four cents per bushel higher than previously announced, it was reported this week by Alfred V Josten, Manager of the Hancock County ASC.

The new rate for 1957 compliance corn in this county is only .10 cents less than the rate in effect last year for the 1956 crop compliance corn.

The support rate for non-compliance 1957 corn raised in this county will be $1.02 per bushel, or 30 cents per bushel less than the rate for compliance corn.

Increase support rates have also been fixed for 1957 barley, oats, rye and grain sorghum. The new rates on these commodities, in Hancock County are as follows:

Oats, .59 cents per bushel, an increase of one cent.

Grain sorghum, $1.78 per hundredweight, an increase of three cents.

Manager Josten said the new rates will apply to loans already made on oats but instructions on handling such cases have not yet been received by the county ASC office.

The increase in the support rate for compliance corn resulted from the fact that the parity figure was higher on October 1, the start of the corn marketing year, than it was when the minimum rate for the 1957-crop was computed at an earlier date. On the basis of the October 1 parity figure, the national average support rate for 1957-crop compliance corn is $1.40 per bushel or four cents higher than previously announced.

The increased rates on oats and grain sorghum resulted from a recomputation which was required because of the decision to make price-support available on non-compliance 1957 corn in the commercial producing area which includes all of Iowa.

Community Chest Drive Now Underway

In the next two weeks two ladies or men will call at your door, asking for donation to the Community Chest. These people are giving their time to solicit, and are getting no pay of any sort, so treat them nicely.

There is only this one drive a year, which includes many different things ,so you can give your gift of money to any one you most desire. Remember, give the United way, give to the Community Chest.

Funeral Services Held for Frank Edward Terhufen

Funeral services were held for Frank Terhufen at the Methodist Church Friday, October 11 with Rev Miller officiating.

Casket bearers were Henry Ward, Albert Etchen, Jake Hess, Elmer Jahnke, Verner Lewis and Fred Sobek.

Frank Edward Terhufen, a lifetime resident of the Klemme Community, died at his home Tuesday, October 8, 1957, age 76 years and 9 months.

He was born January 9th, 1881, on a farm in Liberty Township. The youngest of a family of four. His father was Henry Terhufen and his mother Wilhelmina Settee, both natives of Germany.

During his active years, Frank was a carpenter and builder. He was a capable fellow and was cheerful, optimistic and enjoyed his work. His services were always in demand. Thus he was never idle, until, one day he took a tumble which injured his hip.

Being 70 years old at the time of the mishap, he retired, and since then has been a familiar sight on our streets walking with a pair of crutches.

He was a bachelor and for these many years, lived alone in a two-room cabin located in the south east part of town.

Wednesday morning, a neighbor who called on him found him dead in his bed, where he had died of a stroke while asleep.

Frank will be missed because he was a friendly man and seldom if ever found fault with his neighbors or the world in general.

Preceeding him in death were his parents, two brothers, John and William and one sister, Mrs Emma Gibbs.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Less Than Likely

Any bag-packing by special-session minded Iowa legislators at this time would be mighty premature. In fact any thoughts of a special session seem less and less likely these days.

Democratic Gov Loveless, and Republicans who make up the majority in the legislature, are more and more convinced that little would be accomplished in an extra session.

Preliminary surveys and meetings have proven just one thing—neither the governor nor the Republican leaders are willing to compromise from the positions both adopted in the final days of the regular session last spring. The Republisans would either keep the two-and-a-half percent sales tax or up it to 3 percent; the governor is a standpatter for the present two percent rate.

Demo Differences

There are reports that the Democratic governor and the party's state chairman, Jake More, may not be the closest of political friends right now.

Insiders are whispering the Governor Loveless hasn't been very happy with the way some of the patronage matters in some state departments have been handled. He blames More for some personnel placements through Demo officials. They also point out that More's chumminess with Teamster Official Barney Baker, and his efforts to effect a meeting on highway matters between an Iowa commissioner and Virgil Smith of Indiana, now under indictment in that state for road scandals, has struck more than one sour note.

Others who belittle such talk are mindful, however, that Loveless after his unsuccessful 1952 gubernatorial campaign, was one of the leaders in the Active Iowa Democrats. Announced objective of that group four years ago was the ouster of Jake More as state chairman.

Battleship Ride

Lt Gov William Nicholas will pinch-hit for Governor Loveless in heading a group of Iowans who this weekend will take a last ride on the Battleship Iowa just before it is decommissioned at Norfolk, Va.

Loveless turned down the invitation saying he didn't have sufficient time to arrange state affairs prior to taking such a junket. The Lieutenant-governor, on the speaking tour these days, was ready however.

Linton Ludy, Jr., Davenport, member of the Iowa Development Commission, was in charge of arrangements.

New State Park

Iowa has a new state park. The latest in the list of 80-some parks and lakes was dedicated the first of this week at Stanton.

The new area is Viking Lake State Park, located four miles southeast of Stanton in southwest Iowa.

State and county officials, including Governor Loveless, participated in the dedication.

No Partiality

Bandits are showing little partiality in their sorties in one northeast Iowa county.

A gasoline station on highway 52 at Decorah has been robbed twice in recent weeks. The station is owned by Winnishiek County Sheriff Bob Hitesman.

Narrows Study

Political observers are closely watching the activities of two state committees, recently named, to study atomic energy. The two units were named within 24 hours of each other. The first was appointed by Chairman John Ropes of the state commerce commission: The other by Governor Loveless.

Now, Ropes announces, his group will avoid a head-on clash with the governor's committee. Ropes said "we will narrow the scope of our study."

Insiders think Ropes has been acting very much like a candidate for governor, and predict he'll seek the GOP nomination next spring. Loveless is expected to seek reelection.

County Officers Elect

The Iowa State Association of County Officers have elected new officers to serve for the ensuing year. They include:

Keith Gaston, Keosaqua, a Van Buren county supervisor, president; Ward Snyder, Spencer, Clay county clerk of court, vice-president; Paul T Eastland, Clinton, county treasurer, secretary-treasurer.

Other top officials elected include: Engineer, Ray Justen, Iowa City, president; Treasurer Blanche Adams, Monticello, president; auditor, Harold Meloy, Dubuque, president; supervisor, Harold Heying, New Hampton, president.

Old Timer

"It it be God's will," one of Iowa's real old-timers will celebrate his 106th birthday this week—Thursday.

James A Frazier, Bedford, will be 106 Oct 17. He was born at Menassa, Wis., in 1851. He moved to Taylor county as a young man and farmed near Gravity. His wife, whom he married soon after coming to Iowa, died in 1923. He has lived alone since then except the last two years spent in a nursing home.

He considers "the wireless" man's greatest invention he has seen.

Not Forgetting

The regular state primary and secondary road programs will not be forgotten by the Iowa Highway commission, despite the planning and programming for the modern new interstate system.

That's what the chairman of the commission, Chris Larsen, Sioux City, told the Iowa County Officers Association.

There are about 9,000 miles in the primary road network in this state. The interstate network includes 700 miles through Iowa east-west and north-south.

Informers Yet

Be careful what you tell your neighbor, fellows, especially about those unpaid income taxes.

Informers on Iowa's tax cheaters are reaping a good crop. A total of 64 Iowa "informers" have received a total of $28,943.00 in "rewards" for tipping the federal government on fellow Iowans who haven't paid federal income taxes and should have.

As a result of these whispers the government has recovered an estimated million dollars it otherwise would not have received if such undercover tips hadn't been made.

In case you're interested, tipsters may qualify for rewards only if they turn in some "original information" not previously made known or available to the audit division of the internal revenue service.

Gross Income Tax

Iowa legislators have recently gotten a written briefing on a tax new to most Iowans—adjusted gross income tax. It's used in Indiana and is based on personal incomes. If adopted here, proponents declare, it would require some 300,000 Iowans not now paying taxes, to pay a small amount.

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

When combining grain sorghum, the sickle bar should be set as high as possible and still get all the grain heads, says Larry Van Fossen, extension agricultural engineer at Iowa State College. When the bar is set too low, excess foliage going through the combine will add moisture to the grain — possibly to the extent that chances of spoilage in the bin are increased.

Feeding hens a high-protein concentrate with farm grains will produce a dozen eggs cheaper than a ration containing a low-protein concentrate. That's one of the facts brought out in the 1956-57 report on Iowa Poultry Demonstration Flocks, compiled by Iowa State College extension poultrymen. Demonstration flock cooperators who bought concentrates containing less than 20 percent protein paid an average of 16 percent more on their total bill than flock owners who fed a concentrate higher than 20 per cent protein.

How much extra nitrogen should be plowed down with a first-year legume crop? Amounts of extra nitrogen needed depend on requirements shown by a soil test, says Agronomist Joe Stritzel of Iowa State College. A legume green manure crop can be expected to supply from 30 to 50 pounds of nitrogen per acre. If a soil test shows a medium fertility level, no extra nitrogen will be needed. If low fertility is in indicated by the soil test, 20 to 40 pounds per acre of additional nitrogen may be needed. But wait until soil temperatures are down to around 50 degrees before applying the nitrogen, Stritzel advises.

Is it too late to clip new seedings? Legume or legume-grass seedings should be left undisturbed now until the end of the growing season. At that time, they may be clipped without harm, says Agronomist Ralph Krenzin of Iowa State College. During the last month of the growing season, however, plants should be allowed to build up root reserves for winter. Clipping them now would cause reserves to be used up as plants make further regrowth.

For a high-protein poultry feed concentrate—26 percent—here's the recommended ratio of grains to commrcial feed to get a 16 percent protein laying ration: 350 pounds of 26 percent protein concentrate to 650 pounds of farm grains. Grains used are corn and oats, mixed to equal volumes in winter and equal weights in summer.

Highway Story

What's called the first scientific study in driver fatigue has been completed by the De Soto division of Chrysler Corp., headed by Dr A S Church, medical director of St Joseph's Retreat Hospital, Dearborn, Michigan, the study tested reactions of men driving a 1929 car from Maine to Florida, and compared results against tests made on men driva modern car over the same route.

As you might guess, drivers of the modern car arrived considerably fresher than the pilots of the old car. That's not much of a surprise, but the reasons are interesting.

Dr Church says the main reasons found for driver fatigue are "insecurity and anxiety"— anxiety about reaching a set distination and insecurity resulting from worry about mechanical failures that might keep you from reaching that destination.

These are the factors that showed up most clearly in the cases of the men driving the 30-year-old machine during the test, according to Dr Church. He goes on to state that the degree of "insecurity and anxiety" was much less in the drivers of the modern automobile because of its greater mechanical reliability and comfort.

What's that? You still feel insecurity and anxiety on the highways? Well, maybe they forgot to include something in this study. Maybe they forgot the factor that many of our drivers still are about as primitive as the 30-year-old car used in the test. When are we going to bring out a new model man behind the wheel?

Highway Story

The night of the big dance was coming up. For nearly two weeks the affair had been publicized. Ticket sales had been brisk. Couples from as far away as 70 miles had made plans to attend. A big name band was playing. A big evening was in prospect.

Among the people who watched interest in the dance build up was a highway patrol officer. But his interest in the dance wasn't concerned with music and excitement.

To him the big dance meant hundreds of cars converging on a single point at the same time and, later, all dispersing from the same point at the same time.

While others turned to the problems of what to wear and what kind of a corsage to buy or expect, the patrol officer turned to his duty roster and did some juggling to increase the number of patrolmen who would be on duty on the night of the dance. They would be needed to move the traffic safely.

Then the patrol officer began to think beyond the expected traffic jam. He began to think of what could happen to some of the dancers as they drove home late at night. He decided on an experiment.

On the evening of the dance, the patrolmen set up road blocks on the approaches to the dance hall. Each car was stopped briefly and drivers licenses were checked. When it was over, the patrol officer sent his men walking back along the ditches of the roads. They found more than 200 bottles of liquor thrown from cars that had been waiting in line at the road blocks.

Highway Story

All summer long Ed had driven through that rural intersection just below his farm. There had never been an incident, never a close call. In fact, Ed could have traced back through more than 20 years of passage through that intersection and not recall a dangerous situation.

For the last several weeks, of course, the corn has stood high in the corners of the intersection. Ed—and no one else entering those cross-roads—could see very well. But the blinding of the intersection had come on so gradually through the summer, it was so much a part of the movement of the year, that Ed—and no one else—paid much attention.

Last week Ed was killed instantly in that intersection when his pickup truck collided with another. The vision of one or both drivers was obscured by the tall corn which [illegible] Ed's life.

About one bushel of corn!

That's about as close as we can figure it from a report from the agriculture [illegible] at Iowa [illegible] estimate that topping an entire acre of corn in the soft dough stage might reduce the acre yield about six to eight bushels.

If Ed had topped his corn 100 feet back from the corner of the intersection as recommended, his loss of yield might have been about one bushel of corn—and his gain might have been his life.

There's still time before harvest for several people to be killed at corn-blind intersections. There's even less reason for it now, though. Corn is reaching full maturity and cutting tops for clear vision of roads will not reduce yield But it could reduce the secondary road death toll

Sight Reading A New Piano Piece

Sight-reading may sound easy, but let's look in on a star pupil playing a piece for the first time.

The piece is "Sonata in C" by Mozart, the tempo is 132-d, and the dynamics very effective. The teacher is anxious and the pupil is interested.

"Now, let's take it from the beginning, nice and smooth, and very slowly. About 1 and 2 and 3 and 4 and."

The pupil, eager to please, starts out about the right speed, and the teacher thinks, "My she's doing just fine." Slowly and surely the tempo increases or decreases and slowly and surely the teacher gradually changes her mind. Sharps become flats, flats become naturals, treble becomes bass, loud becomes soft and the pupil stops, thinks for better or for worse. The teacher doesn't know what to think. (And this is a half-hour lesson.)

Quietly she says, "Let's try it again, and a little slower this time."

The star pupil realizes her mistakes—or does she?—and starts again.

1 and 2 and 3 and 4 and 1 and 2 and 3 and 4 and o-o-o-ops—do—da do do da do da do—goofed again— la la la la (singing always did add variety). F G B C, C A D B—should have been Bb. Again sharps turn to I don't know what and oh, was that sign a natural?

"You're doing just fine," the teacher chokes out. You should have it worked up by Christmah. I—I mean at least in a month."

"Thank you," says the star pupil. "I try to do my best."

"Now you practice real hard this week—and I'm sure by next week you'll have improved (I hope)."

Oh, I'm sure I can improve and don't worry I'll be here. I'm never late for a lesson, because I know you want me to have as long a lesson as possible."

The star pupil leaves. The teacher collapses into the nearest chair, thinking, "I thought the pupil was supposed to be the victim."

Students Hear Prison Chaplain Talk on Crime

Thursday, October 10, 1957, Mr Peter Tanis, criminologist, spoke to the school about crime and what causes crime.

Mr Tanis is a former prison chaplain in Cook County jail in Chicago, Ill. Now, Mr Tanis goes to high school and colleges lecturing on crime prevention. Mr tanis gave the school a vivid discription of a chaplain's duties in a jail and also elaborated on the causes of crime.

After the lecture the students were allowed to ask questions and Mr Tanis gave very interesting answers. I am sure the whole student body learned a great deal about crime which was unknown to them before.

Do You Know Who Said This?

Hey, kids! These are people you see every day. Do you know who said this?

1. "Who has my meter stick?"
2. "Run!"
3. "I think I'll go jump out the window!"
4. "Read the directions!"
5. "Oh, shut up!"
6. "This is a straight line."
7. 'Come on, now, Let's go!"
8. "Our time is limited, so let's work!"
9. "Hey, you!"

Answers—

1. This is said by Mr Neary when he finds his meter stick gone from where he put it. (Of course, no one took it, he just misplaced it!)
2. Isn't this saying familiar? It is if you take PT. Mr Westberg believes running keeps us in tip top shape.
3. Mr Johnson says this in bookkeeping, when after repeating something over and over, someone will pop up with, "what did you say?"
4. Miss Whitmire says this. She believes you should always "read the directions!" (It does help!)
5. This familiar saying is said by none other than George, our janitor.
6. This is said by Mr Whitney in geometry after drawing a somewhat crooked line on the blackboard. (You have to use your imagination.)
7. Mrs Oberg says this at play practice, while trying very hard to make the play cast quit fooling around and get down to work.
8. Mrs Whitney tells us this during chorus so that we will quit talking and start singing.
9. This is said by Mr Shafer when he sees someone he wants to talk to, but can't think of their name right away.

CLASS NEWS

If you entered the library at eleven-twenty, you would be sure to find the Senior Bookkeeping class in progress. If by chance you took a peek at our work, you may find lines drawn through certain items. This is the result of an error. It seems that we have an ability to get a liability in an asset column, or write the amount in the debit colmun instead of the credit.

Some of the students find it rather difficult to balance accounts, make closing entries, and make trial balances balance.

You will find most bookkeeping students carrying red pencils, ink, rulers and the like around the school halls. This is our equipment for bookkeeping.

A lot of credit goes to Mr Johnson for his patience he has with we beginners. I aff sure at times he would like to jump out of the window, when he hears our answers to his questions.

THANKS!!

During the past few weeks the business managers for the

1958 SHAMROCK

Dou Roul and Paul Gilpin, have been soliciting annual ads from the businessman in Klemme, Belmond, Garner and Goodell. The response has been very gratifying and the annual staff would like to take this opportunity to thank each of these people who have been so generous to cooperate with us.

Monosyllabic Expressions Preferable, Please!

In promulgating your esoteric cogitations and in articulating your superficial, amicable and philosophical observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your extemporaneous decantations and unpremiditated expiations have intelligibility and vercious vivacity, without rodomontade or bambost.

Avoid sedulously polysyllabiv profundity, pscittaceous verbosity. Shun double entendres, prurient jocosity, pestiferous produndity and asanine affectations.

In short, don't use big words.

GUESS WHO

Our "Guess Who" personality for this week is a brown haired, blue eyed Junior Boy. He stands around 5:7". This person's school activities consist of basketball and track. He is a member of the Klemme E and R Church, sings in the church choir and is active in the Youth Fellowship. To give a hint, he was seen in Garner quite often at the skating rink this summer as skating is one of his favorite pasttimes.

Last week's guess who personality was Margaret Pringnitz.

HELP

The Shamrock staff has just received an ouzel C. O. D.

Here's what some of the students answered when we asked them about our dilemma.

Mardell S—I'd save it and let the cheerleaders use it.

Doug R—Put it in the schoolhouse so it can fly around and give the students something to watch.

Donna C—The staff was probably real deserving and got a medal of hnoor, having to pay the C. O. D.

Jerry J—Mrs Oberg needs a pet to play with so give the ouzel to her.

Larry U—For Heaven's sake, don't accept it. Leave it in the post office and let them send it back where it came from.

Marlin S—I think you should put it on the back cover of the Shamrock.

Barbara Clayton — Have the teachers pay for it and then open it and find out what it is.

Howard Anderson—We should put it in a cage and set it upon Mrs Oberg's desk so we all could watch it.

Oh! By the way, an ouzel is an European Thrush.

Hurt

Pvt Gene Holm, Osage soldier, was hurt at Ft Lewis, Washington, recently when a truckload of bazooka rockets expolded. Two soldiers were killed.

JEANNE BARZ VISITS

Jeanne Barz, who is now going to school in Wisconsin, visited friends and former teachers when she visited school last Friday.

Being a senior at a school other than Klemme seems different to Jeanne, but she told this reporter she did like her new school.

I asked her how it felt to be back at KHS for a day. "It's wonderful," Jeanne replied.

We all wondered if her classes were any different from those here at KHS. Jeanne said she was taking about the same course that the seniors are here. "We have the same Chemistry book and are studying the same things in geometry as here," she told us.

It was nice to see you again, Jeanne!

By Paul Henderson

County Extension Director

This winter's hog marketings should be greater than last winter's, as the effects of the increase in summer farrowings appear, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Kutish says hog slaughter between now and December should run about the same as last year, with late winter and early spring hog kill somewhat larger than a year ago. He predicts the biggest increase over last year's kill will come in December and January.

The seasonal price low will probably come in early December instead of mid-November as it did in 1956. And the December price recovery probably won't be as sharp as it was last year, with this winter's hog prices averaging little lower than last winter.

The past September hog prices dropped sharply as slaughter shot up after Labor Day. In August, prices had climbed as packers scrambled for the smaller hog supplies.

The hog-killing margin, figured on a fresh-meat basis, for the week ending July 6, was $1.43 per 100 pounds at Chicago. By the first week in August it had narrowed to 89 cents, however.

When hog receipts increased in September, packers could get hogs without cutting severly into their killing margin. But pork products prices began dropping as the supply on the market increased. So, for the week ending September 21, killing margins had widened to $1.76.

A look at last spring's farrowing picture will give an idea what the hog situation will be for the rest of the fall. Last spring's pig crop was about the same size as the spring crop in 1956. But fewer hogs are reaching market now, Kutish points out, because farmers are holding gilts for breeding and also may be keeping some market hogs to use cheap feed. These hogs should hit market at heavier weights, but so far this fall, market hogs have averaged lighter than last last fall, Kutish observes.

From June through August, Corn Belt farrowings were up 4 percent over a year earlier. Most of this boost was in June pigs. This, plus the fact that on September 1, Corn Belt farmers planned to raise 4 percent more September-November litters than last fall, is responsible for the predicted increase in winter marketings, Kutish says.

Social Security Office Answers Questions

Klemme people who are receiving Social Security benefits have been calling at the Mason City Social Security office asking, "If we are allowed to earn $1200 per year, why must we limit our earnings to $80 each month as this does not add up to $1200?"

There seems to be considerable confusion about the work provisions of the Social Security law. In an effort to clarify this point, we are printing some of the questions which were recently asked at the Social Security office along with the answers.

Q. I was 65 in July, 1957. Since August I have been on sick leave and have drawn sick pay in the amount of $100 per month under a plan established by my employer. From January through July I earned $3000. Should I file an application for benefits?

A. Yes, you are entitled to benefits for any month in which you do not earn over $80. Sick payments made under a plan established by your employer are not considered as earned income.

Q. I am a school teacher over age 65. My salary is $3600 per school year. I receive this income in monthly payments of $300 for 12 months. During the vacation months of July and August the school is closed and I have no other employment. Could I be entitled to social security benefits for these two months?

A. Yes, generally payments in the non-school months are deferred compensation for services rendered during previous months of the school year and as such do not constitute earning for the months of July and August.

Q. I have worked from January through June and have earned $1800 and I am 67 years old. I have made arrangements with my employer to limit my earnings for the rest of the year to $80 each month. Can I receive any Social Security checks for this year?

A. Yes, even though you earn over $1200 in a year, you can still receive a check for every month in which your earnings are $80 or less.

Any questions which you may have in this regard should be directed to your nearest Social Security office. It is better to be safe than sorry.

Field Clinic For Children At Algona October 31

The State Services for Crippled Children (SSCC) will conduct and eight-county field clinic in the St Ann's Hospital at Algona on Thursday, October 31, for chronically ill or handicapped youngsters.

Counties served by the clinic will be Emmet, Palo-Alto, Pocahontas, Humboldt, Kossuth, Winnebago and Wright.

From its offices on the State University of Iowa campus, the service sends SUI medical teams into more than 30 communities each year at the invitation of county medical societies. Dr John D MacQueen, associate professor of pediatrics at the university, is director of the service.

Any child under 21 years of age who has a physically handicapping condition is eligible. Clinic officials emphasize the importance of an advance referral of each patient by a local physician.

The clinics provide consultations and diagnostic services in the fields of pediatrics, orthopedics, speech and hearing, psycology and physical therapy. X-ray and laboratory services also are provided.

After each clinic, the cases are reviewed at the SSCC offices and findings are forwarded with recommendations to the local physicians.

There is no charge for any of the clinic services.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

One of the things worrying many Iowa sheriffs—and state safety department officials—is teen-age driving antics on the secondary roads.

Some sheriffs have reported that teen-age groups are using blacktop farm-to-market roads for drag racing.

"You don't have to actually see it happening," one sheriff said. "You can just look at the road surface and see that it's going on from the tire marks."

Enforcement officers are finding it a little difficult to move in on the drag racers. The youngsters apparently carry on their operations with almost military security.

One sheriff reports that the drag racers post lookouts on the roads three and four miles away from the scene of action.

Some of the cars driven by teen-agers reportedly are equipped with shortwave radio and can pick up local police calls. The racers scatter when they hear police cars being directed toward them.

To combat this, at least one sheriff and local police group have adopted code names to identify favorite drag race locations on the radio.

On one blacktop road in the state a sheriff has found race lanes and distances neatly laid out in white paint.

This is only one of the secondary road problems discussed recently in a joint meeting of sheriffs and state safety department representatives.

Win Membership in Chick Raising Club

Mr and Mrs Glenn Wille, Mr and Mrs Merle Bertilson and Mrs LuVerne Stadtlander have won membership in a national chick-raising honor club sponsored by the Moorman Maufacturing Company, Quincy, Illinois.

They were among members of the feed company's third annual "Beat the Experts" Chick raising Club in 18 states announced this week.

Each winner raised chicks to 8 weeks of age with an average of not more than 2½ pounds of total feed feed per pound of body weight.

The national average is 4 lbs of feed. Poultry experts say that 3 pounds is very good and that 2½ pounds is outstanding.

Winners' superior care, feeding and management of their chicks enabled them to "beat the experts."

Blooming

Mrs Robert Hall's Easter lily is now blooming quite nicely, thank you. The Independence woman planted the flower last spring, but later found a dead stalk, and assumed the plant had died. It now has three nice blooms.

Retires

Hattie Turner has retired as the writer of Derby community news for neighboring papers She's been on the job steadily for the past 20 years with service dating back to days prior to World War I. She's 75.

Runaway

A truck owned by Serenus Eisbernd ran away recently when the brakes gave away as it was parked near the post office in Calmar. The truck ran across the street and crushed the front porch of the Robert Schlitter home.

Hurt

John Horn, four year old son of Mr and Mrs Lloyd Horn of Stuart, escaped serious injury recently when he fell from a wagon loaded with beans and the vehicle passed over him. He suffered a number of bad bruises.

Tractors on Roads at Night are Dangerous

If you see a single white light staring at you on a country road at night, get that foot off the gas and head for the brake—it may mean there's a slow-moving tractor dead ahead.

The safety department reports that most tractors are equipped with a white light to the rear of the tractor for use in field work at night.

Some farmers are reported to be using this same light as a rear warning light when moving their tractors over secondary roads after dark.

The practice is illegal and dangerous, the department warns, and has already led some drivers into serious accidents this year.

"Drivers seeing one white light ahead tend to think there is a motorcycle coming toward them. It's too late to slow down by the time they realize they are driving into the rear of a tractor," according to James Machholz, assistant patrol chief.

He warned all operators of farm machinery on the roads after dark that the last piece of equipment must show adequate red warning lights to the rear.

"A white light does not satisfy the law. It must be red," he said.

He warned all drivers using secondary roads that farm machinery will be appearing in increasing numbers as harvest nears.

Suggestion to Avoid Asian Flu

Over 1600 cases of influenza have been reported to the State Health Department last week. About 500 of these cases have been confirmed as Asian flu. Whether or not any of the other cases are of the Asian variety is not known.

Dr Edmund G Zimmerer, commissioner of health, asks everyone to remember that Asian flu is seldom fatal. The attack rate is high . . as much as 30 per cent of the population may be ill at the same time with this type of virus. However, very few people die as a result of Asian flu. Seldom is anyone hospitalized with this type of influenza unless complications develop. It is expected that complications will arise in one case in 50. Nearly every victim will recover in three to five days.

Dr Zimmerer explains that Asian flu is similar to other types of influenza and may be avoided by following the same general rules for good health which are recommended for daily living.

He suggests that you:

1. Keep up your resistance by getting enough sleep and rest.
2. Eat well-balanced meals.
3. Drink plenty of fluids, including fruit juices and milk.
4. Remain at home when ill to avoid spreading any infection.

BOOSTING FARM INCOME

Iowa farmers have a steady and dependable customer in the brewing industry.

Quality grain is a basic requirement in brewing . . . and as it happens, Iowa's No. 1 crop, corn, is also the No. 1 cereal adjunct used in making beer. In addition, the industry also requires large quantities of soybeans, wheat, barley, and other grains, adding further to our farm income. In the last year alone America's brewing companies spent over $250,000,000.00 for grains of this type. And our farmers benefit even further because many of these brewers' grains later become vitamin-enriched cattle feed.

In truth, Iowa prosperity gains in many ways from the brewing industry . . . and not the least of these is the steady boost given to our farm income.

Old School Building Nearly Completed

Work on the east wing of the ney building at the Klemme Community School is progressing rapidly. Favorable weather has allowed construction crews to work at top speed.

A talk with E B Christoffersen Osage, sub-contractor for the masonry work on the building, revealed the men are now laying the tile walls on the inside of the dressing rooms in the southwest corner of the wing. The tile is glazed ceramic for the walls, while the floors are to be terrazza tile. The masonry work on the walls in the classrooms is complete.

The steel roof joists were unloaded last week from a railroad car and trucked to the building site. The contractors will have them in place as soon as possible. It was hoped to have that work started by Monday of this week. The arrival of some structural steel for the roof was expected shortly. All things being equal, the plan is to have the building enclosed by the end of this month.

The cement footing for the building are all completed. Tunnels for the oil and steam lines are done and the pipes are in place. The big boiler is in place, as well as the fuel tank for the furnace.

Work on the old building is nearly complete As soon as the remainder of the aluminum window sills arrive, they will be put in place.

A trip around the old building gives a good feeling. Klemmeites have a right to be proud of the shiney new appearance of their old school house, and will be able to stick out their chests even farther when the new classroom and activity rooms are completed.

Work on Church "About Normal"

Work on the Educational Building and the parsonage for the Evangelical and Reformed church is progressing "about normal for this time of year," according to Donald Asmus of the Hattendorf Construction Company of Ocheydan, Friday morning.

Mr Asmus and his crew were pouring the concrete sidewalk west from the building to the street. Others of the crew were working on forms for the driveway for the garage on the west end of the parsonage.

House work inside, done only on days when weather prohibits outside work, is coming along nicely. They are putting lathing on the walls and pouring floors in the basement. The floor in the furnace room was completed at this writing.

Outside work is being done as rapidly as possible, so as to be completed before cold weather sets in. Stumps and other obstacles have been removed and the ground will be leveled in preparation for landscaping.

Mr Asmus said the work on the roof of the educational building is complete until the roofer puts on the finishing touches. As soon as the roof and windows are in place, the building will be completely closed in. The rest of the work will be carried on inside during the winter months.

Mrs Lewis and son of Belmond called on Mrs Hulda Wiles Monday afternoon.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

The month of October brings forth a special membership drive by a fine organization . . . 4-H. The 4-H clubs throughout the nation place special emphasis on enrollment durinf the month and do a good job of getting youngsters signed up in the organization.

From 4-H these youngsters begin to learn early many of the things that will add much to their homemaking and farming skills in years to come. Not only do they learn many things that will make easier their work in years to come, but they also learn the art of getting along with others by attendance at their club meetings, and by their entering of exhibits, animals, etc., at various contests, shows and fairs.

We think that 4-H has a place in our way of living and that it serves a good and worthwhile purpose, and we are glad to take part in giving it a boost during October, along with all the other businesses that have purchased space in this week's issue of The Times to help tell the story of 4-H.

It looks as though our nice fall weather has gone . . . and maybe for a long time. It's not too cold here, but it is nasty and wet, and the weather report sounds as though much colder weather is in store in the very near future . . . and maybe even the season's first snow. Br-r-r-!

Oh well, the directions say take it, and short of moving where winter just doesn't happen, we can see no way of avoiding it.

Recently, we were in on the windup of an experiment that began in 1938. During the year, the Kluckhohn Brothers put a tin of coffee on the shelf and decided that they would leave it there for a number of years and see what happened. The coffee was a well-known popular brand, vacuum sealed and marked at 30c for the pound.

A salesman, who calls at the store, heard the story of the coffee and expressed a desire to know how it would taste after all that time. As a result, Clarence Kluckhohn opened the tin, took it home and brewed a pot of coffee.

We happened into the store as the product was being sampled, and not until we had tasted and pronounced it good were we told about the age of the coffee.

S-R-T

Nineteen years on the shelf had produced a degree of rust on the outside of the can, but had brought no deterioration to the coffee inside.

Mrs Ewald Josten also drank a cup of the brew and pronounced it good. Just imagine, you could have stocked up on coffee in 1938 at 30c per pound and it would still have been good . . . and look at the money you would have saved.

When the Cub Scouts bring you that bag for Goodwill Industries, fill'er up good. The clothing you give will be put to a much better use than it serves hanging in your closet collecting dust.

200 4-H Boys Looking For Baby Beeves

About 200 Hancock county 4-H club members are looking now for the beef calves they will enroll as a project and show next summer at the county fair, according to County Extension Youth Assistant Edward Bruns of Garner.

There is a good selection now, Ed Bruns said, among calves being weaned in leading local beef herds. If the club member doesn't find the calf to suit him in local herds, now is the time when he has the best selection on the public markets. The big western cattle runs are beginning.

Besides, he says, Animal Husbandman Tom Wickersham of Iowa State College points out that it usually pays to get these calves in the fall at weights around 400 and 450 pounds. Boys who do this, Wickersham adds, have the advantage of getting the calves on feed before bad weather starts. They have a "head start" in getting their calves fat, besides the advantage of feeding on" the early gains rather than having to pay cash for them if they buy heavier calves later.

Be sure to buy them light, Ed Bruns warns, because they must not weigh more than 650 pounds at weigh-in time January 1.

Wickersham advises buying a choice to fancy feeder calf. A good grade feeder calf probably won't have the conformation or the quality to show well or sell well as finished baby beef. But, Wickersham adds, there's no reason to buy a "very, very fancy calf."

Figure on buying your calf for around 30 cents a pound or less. Wickersham advises. You endanger your prospect for profit if you pay more Better get help from an experienced cattleman, from your club leader or from the county extension staff when you select your calf.

These men should be able to show you how to select a 400-pound calf that has a chance to make a choice or prime fat steer finish at about 1,000 pounds weight next summer. That's about the ideal weight for baby beef showing.

Night Speeders

At total of 1,650 speeders were caught in 90 days for violating the state's new night-time speed limit of 60 miles an hour.

The Iowa highway patrol said most of the violators were driving 70 to 80 miles an hour. Speeders were halted in all parts of the state, they reported.

The new night speed limit was voted by the last legislature and did not become effective until July. The patrol, as a result of halting the violators, issued 942 summonses and 704 warning tickets.

There are no day-time speed limits on the open road in Iowa. Truck speeds are 50 miles an hour maximum day and night.

Audits Fall

Collections from sales and use tax audits, done by the state tax commission, have fallen in the last three months.

Compared with a year ago, audit revenues were down by $62,000 in the three month period —July through September.

Reason for the decline, officials report, has been a decrease in the number of auditors working in the field, new audit personnel, and lack of teamwork, to date, between supervisors and auditors.

The tax commission shifted from Republican to Democratic control on July 1. A dozen auditors and 20 inspectors have been dismissed since July 1st.

Tax Levies

About 60 Iowa counties will be authorized to make emergency levies this year for tax payments next year. The state comptroller reports this total is about 3 more than a year ago.

When a county, municipality, or county hospital cannot obtain sufficient funds through use of the maximum levy, it may request the comptroller to authorize an emergency levy of up to one mill. The maximum depends upon the property valuation.

The law also permits the comptroller to authorize an emergency levies for school districts, up to 35 percent above the maximum levy.

This year about 600 school districts will be permitted this extra levy, compared with about 583 last year.

New Corporations

Almost 1,000 new corporations have been formed in Iowa so far this year. Of these, 172 are out-of state corporations. For all of 1956 the total corporations authorized to do business in the state was 1,599.

League Leader

A move to curb the powers of Max Conrad, executive secretary of the League of Iowa Municipalities, has been warded off until nert year.

Amendments to the constitution of the LIM, discussed at the convention of the league, sought to take Conrad off the board of trustees, increase the elective membership of the board to eight, and increase the number of vice-presidents to two.

The amendments were defeated but then ordered to a study committee which will keep the proposals alive for possible consideration next year.

Parole Group

Reports are that Gov Loveless may name a special advisory committee to assist with the state's prisoner parole program. The parole board's policies have recently been under attack from the inmate-edited prison publication at Fort Madison, the Presidio.

Four years ago, Leo Elthon of Fertile, who was lieutenant governor at that time, named a special senate committee to study this same problem. For several years there has been disagreement between Warden Percy Lainson of the prison and the state board of parole.

Chandler Dies

Funeral services have been held for Lee C Chandlr, 53, state superintendent of banking, who died of a heart attack in a Des Moines hospital. He had been ill only two weeks.

Chandler, former president of the Iowa Savings Bank at Dike, took over the state banking position July 1 after appointment by Gov Loveless. He was the first Democrat to fill this position in many years.

Improper Passes

The Iowa highway patrol is cracking down on drivers who employ improper passing tactics in overtaking other vehicles. And they're even using airplanes in the battle.

In one week's period, using airplanes as spotters for patrol safety squads, a total of 40 drivers were caught for improper passing violations on the state's highways.

The war against such violations will continue, reports Chief David Herrick of the patrol.

Good Judges

The Iowa State College dairy judging team topped all comers for first place honors in the Chicago International Dairy Show and the Intercollegiate Students Products Judging Contest.

The Iowa collegiate team was composed of John Fabricus of Ladysmith, Ohio; Donald Baumann of Corning and Larry Groves of Des Moines.

Soil Bank

County ASC officers will now be taking farmers' applications after a series of four instruction meetings just completed this week.

Max M Soeth, state ASC chairman, predicts increased participation by Iowa farmers next year in the conservation reserve part of the Soil Bank. New incentives will help swell the active interest.

More than 1,200 conservation reserve contracts, covering 50,715 acres, already are in effect in Iowa for the years of 1956 and 1957.

About Face

State Safety Commissioner Russell Brown sent a notice of dismisal to Safety Education Fieldman Ed K Polson. 62, Indianola. Polson was to have left state employment Sept 30 after 11 years with the department.

Polson started action to appeal the case to the state executive council. He also claimed veterans' preference.

Now, Brown has relented, notified Polson he could stay on, though it may not be in the same job. Brown has said he wants men with college educations in those jobs, Polson didn't have one.

Polson will be elegible for a state pension in about 2 years.

Chiropractors

Chiropractors will be using public hospitals and other public health facilities in about 10 years. That's a prediction, made in Iowa the other day, by Dewey Anderson, executive director of the Public Affairs Institute, Washington, D. C.

Addressing the Iowa Chiropractors association, Anderson said today's trend in medicine is toward specialization and away from general practice. He feels this has created a gap which the qualified chiropractors can fill.

Jack O'lanterns to Frighten Ghosts

Surely you have never seen a witch or a goblin on Halloween night, but very likely you have seen some strange and weird sights; giant Jack O'lanterns with their flaming eyes, white robed ghosts and spectral figures of all kinds. Yes. our Halloween is filled with many strange and weird occurances and customs which are a mixture of ancient beliefs.

Many hundreds of years ago, long before Christianity began, men were pagan and worshipped strange and fearful gods, the most famous of these being the sun god. All through the summer the sun ruled the earth unchallenged.

But as the part of year now known as October neared its end, the nights grew longer and the days colder. The great sun god was losing its strength. It was believed that when the sun grew weaker the god of death came back to rule the land.

On the first night of the death god's reign the souls of all those dead who had been condemned to live in the bodies of animals came back to learn what forms they should inhabit for the next year.

Naturally, the living were not too happy at the idea of having all those unseen spirits flying around from house to house, so plans were devised for frightening them away.

The younger set used to hollow out pumpkins and turnips and cut grotesque faces in their surfaces.

Candles were placed in the hollow centers and the ghostly apparition was set in the window frame to discourage evil spirits. Others dressed up in the most horrible costumes they could find and walked back and forth between their homes to keep the spirits from entering.

As Christianity gradually spread throughout the world the date of Nov. 1 was set aside as All Souls Day, a time when people gathered in large centers to pray for the dead. This name developed into All Hallows Day, and the night of October 31 was All Hallows Eve, or Halloween.

These ancient customs and superstitions have continued to be popular although people no longer believe in them.

The Halloween of today has become a night of fun and mischief, rather than of fear and awe. The Jack O'lanterns still beam in the windows and mysteriously robed figures still roam the streets.

But it is a time of parties and games for both grownups and children. Such treats as bobbing for apples and the telling of fortunes and ghost stories are enjoyed.

While all this is going on, the spirits sleep peacfully on unaware (we hope!) of the great day of excitement and pleasure they have so innocently brought about.

MUSIC MOTHERS

All Music Mothers who have white shoes or shirts which their children have outgrown are asked to bring these articles to the next Music Mothers meeting.

Question of the Week

How long do you think Russia's Sputnik will stay up in outer space? When do you think the United States will send up an earth satelite?

Carrol P: Russia's Sputnik will stay up in space about six weeks and two days. The U S will send up an earth sateilte next year, October 2, 1958. (He is so sure.)

Marlin S: I think Russia's Sputnik won't stay in space too much longer because it is slowing down already. The U S will send theirs next year.

Beverly L: I haven't the slightest idea. Probably a year for all I know. I don't know when the U S will send up a satelite.

Sandra M: I heard it will drop out of space any time. The U S should be sending an earth satelite very soon.

Larry U: I really don't know too much about it, as to how long it will stay up, but I think it is about at the end of its journey. The U S is hoping to send up a satelite in the near future, I don't know when, though.

Bob T: Sputnik will stay in outer space for two or three weeks yet. The US will send a satelite into outer space in December of '57 or January of '58.

Dorothy R: It's hard to say how long Sputnik will stay up in space. The United States will probably send a satelite in a couple of years.

Mardell S: I think if old Sputnik stays up another month it'll be doing good! I don't doubt that the U S isn't far behind in the launching of our first satelite.

Gaylon B: How am I supposed to know when even the scientists don't know for sure?

Donna C: I'm not a scientist, so I really don't know too much about it, but I'm sure it will be dropping soon in Klemme. The U S is on the way of sending one up soon. (Donna, are you sure it will drop in Klemme?)

Senior Interview

One snowy morning a family was blessed with a little boy. This lucky day was December 27, 1940. The boy has light brown hair and green eyes. He stands 5', 11½" and has now reached the age of 16.

For his favorites, he chose chemistry. For his social life he likes Debbie Reynolds, favorite actress, James Stewart, actor, and as his favorite movie he chooses "Tammy and the Bachelor."

Gord's favorite food is shrimp and strawberry shortcake and his favorite pastime is athletics and reading novels is his hobby. The band he likes best is Lawrence Welk.

As for a saying he hasn't any. He is a man of many words. His embarrasing moment is too embarrassing to tell. (One way of getting out of telling us anyway.)

Gordon is a man of many activities, too. They include Boys Chorus, Mixed Chorus, Double Mixed Quartette and Band. For sports, he is in Track, Baseball and Basketball. Besides music and sports he has held the following class offices: Freshman, student council representative; Junior, vice-president; Senior, secretary, Shamrock and Annual Editor. He also has taken part in the junior class play.

He attends the E & R Church in Klemme. He takes part in the choir and is vice-president of the Youth Fellowship.

At present he is working in the Klemme Creamery.

When asked about his future plans, he wasn't sure. It will either be teaching or an engineer. This is the life of Gordon Johnson.

Old Halloween: Pagan Festival

Hallow, meaning holy, and e'en, ning. Although Halloween has become a night of rollicking fun, superstitions, spells and eerie games which people take only half seriously, its beginnings were quite otherwise.

In ancient time, an order of priests from Gaul and Britain, had an autumn festival celebration of summer's end. At the feast, all saints, either known or unknown, were honored. On some of the very first Halloween celebrations, human lives were offered as sacrifices to the saints and gods. The burning of people, usually criminals and degenerates, was widespread, being later outlawed. The feast was an occasion for partaking of all kinds of foods which had been grown during the summer.

The modern custom of decorating Halloween parties with pumpkins, leaves and cornstalks came from the Wruids. They also believed that on Halloween ghosts, fairies, witches and elves came out to harm people. Thus the origination of the great bonfire to keep them away!

The playing of pranks and 'trick-or-treat' was also of Druid origin. The prosperity of farmmers, or so they thought, was due to the goodness of the spirit Muck Olla, and if the farmer wished his good fortune to continue, he gave generously to the spirit.

And although you do not believe in spirits, ghosts and fairies. would YOU dare to walk alone through a graveyard on Halloween?

Hurry Home or Devil Gets You

If you've ever been to a Halloween party in the country on an especially dark night where the scene had been set for attracting ghosts and goblins, have walked along black corridors to an equally black room, felt that eerie fingers were reaching for you, that eerie sounds made chills go up and down your spine, perhaps against your better judgement you really began to believe that ghosts, spirits, elves and leprechauns were about. Superstitions and Halloween customs are closely tied together.

In Wales, people used to gather beside a huge bonfire, atop a high hill, and when it went out they ran madly for home—for the last man inside would surely be caught by the devil!

A young girl would eat a cake made of flour, salt and soot and go to bed. The man who came to her in her dreams offering her a drink of water was the man she would marry. To this day in Iceland, a special dish called cauleannon is eaten on Halloween. It is made of potatoes, parsnips and on it is placed a ring, designating marriage; a thimble, designating an old maid; and a coin for wealth.

Yes, Halloween is for the young and old alike. Whether a person is six or sixty, he just can't resist a good, spine tingling ghost story on Halloween!

CLASS NEWS

This week we take a journey to Mr Johnson's advanced typing class. Here we see ten students busily tapping the typewriter keys. They are taking a five minute writing. Well times up now! And the results? There are a few with smiles on their faces, but mostly there are frowns and comments such as, "If I only wouldn't get so many errors." (And, of course, something must be wrong with the typewriter!)

This week the advanced typing students have started on a practice set. This contains application forms for jobs, etc. These give them an idea of how to fill out application forms, which will be useful in the near future.

As we leave the room we see the students scratching their heads and wondering just what is supposed to be put in that certain blank. They can't figure it out so they ask Mr Johnson and the problem is solved immediately. It was quite simple now wasn't it?

JOKES

My bride of only a few months was at the airport to meet me when I returned from Naval duty in the Pacific. We were waiting for my lugage when I pointed out our good-looking stewardess from the plane, Miss Tracy.

"How do you happen to know her name?" she asked.

I explained that is was listed, along with the names of the pilot and co-pilot, on the door of the cockpit.

My wife's next question was a classic—which I could not answer. "Dear," she asked, "what was the pilot's name?"
—R L McSvoy (Torrance, Cal.)

One morning as I was doing my usual, commuting stint into San Francisco to work, a man sitting behind me on the train tapped my shoulder. "You're in an awful rut," he said. "Each morning you get in this train at the same place, same time, sit in the same seat and read the same paper. Don't you know this makes for a very boring existance?"

"How do you know I always sit in the same seat?" I asked indignantly.

"Because," he replied, "I always sit right behind you."

During the Christmas season the post commander of Fort Richardson, Alaska, sponsorel an exterior-decorating contest in the family-quarters area. One particularly disgruntled young lieutenant developed a display that was short-lived but unique. A large, brilliantly spotlighted sign, emblazoned with varicolored lights and propperly festooned with evergreen boughs, loudly proclaimed in Old English script:

"Hark! The herald angels shout Six more months and I'll be out!"
—Lt G W Tuckey (Ft Tilden NY)

:——:

On a narrow two-lane mountain road in the far west, I was sitting in the front seat of the car with the driver, who is a retired judge. After several torturous miles behind a slow lumber truck, his wife exclaimed from the back seat, "Fred, you've missed every chance to pass that truck!"

"My dear," he answered without taking his eyes from the road. "I'm not looking for a chance—I'm waiting for an opportunity."—Mark Gerstle (San Francisco, Calif.)

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The old sheet that draped from his thin shoulders was marked with small black blotches where his tears had touched the cheap dye of the mask he wore.

He was the smallest and youngest of the "older" boys in the block and sometimes the gang came to pick him up and sometimes it didn't. Tonight—Halloween night—the gang hadn't come.

Just then, a thunder of fists at the door made him leap up, his tears forgotten. "The gang's here, Ma," he screamed and raced out of the house.

When his mother came to close the door she knew her "Don't do anything mean" was lost on the small figure in the flopping sheet disappearing down the dark street.

For an hour the small boy worked hard to keep up with the gang that stormed around the neighborhood. He had gone out to scare the world but he was scared himself, sometimes, by the darkness and stories of this night.

He was standing a little to the rear, watching the gang creep up to the windows of a house, when he heard a step behind him. He turned to see the big, black shadow of a man. A gruff voice shouted, the gang yelled and started to run and he ran too, and he was afraid.

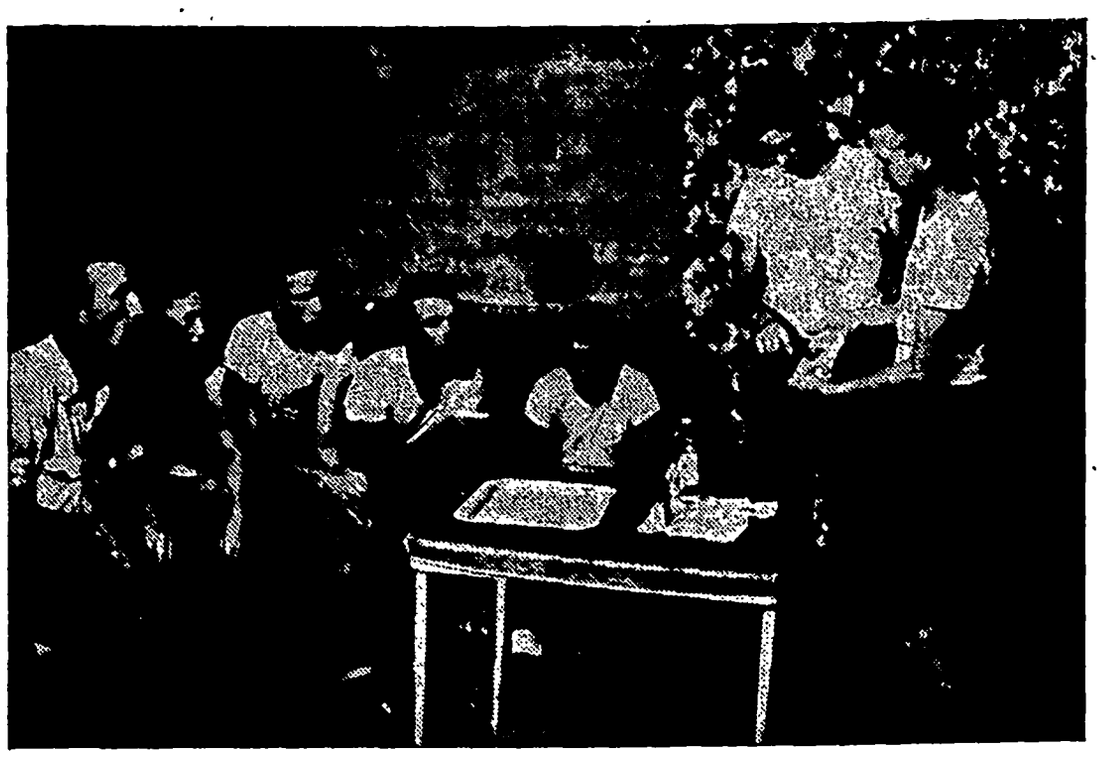
The small boy felt the hard street beneath him. He felt the violent tug of the sheet as it caught beneath his feet. A shattering light seemed to break in his head as he fell. He heard a scream that didn't come from the gang. He saw the headlights of the car.

Twins

Mr and Mrs Roy Hanson who live near Alta, own a milking shorthorn cow that has born her third set of twin calves. This makes three sets of twins in three years.

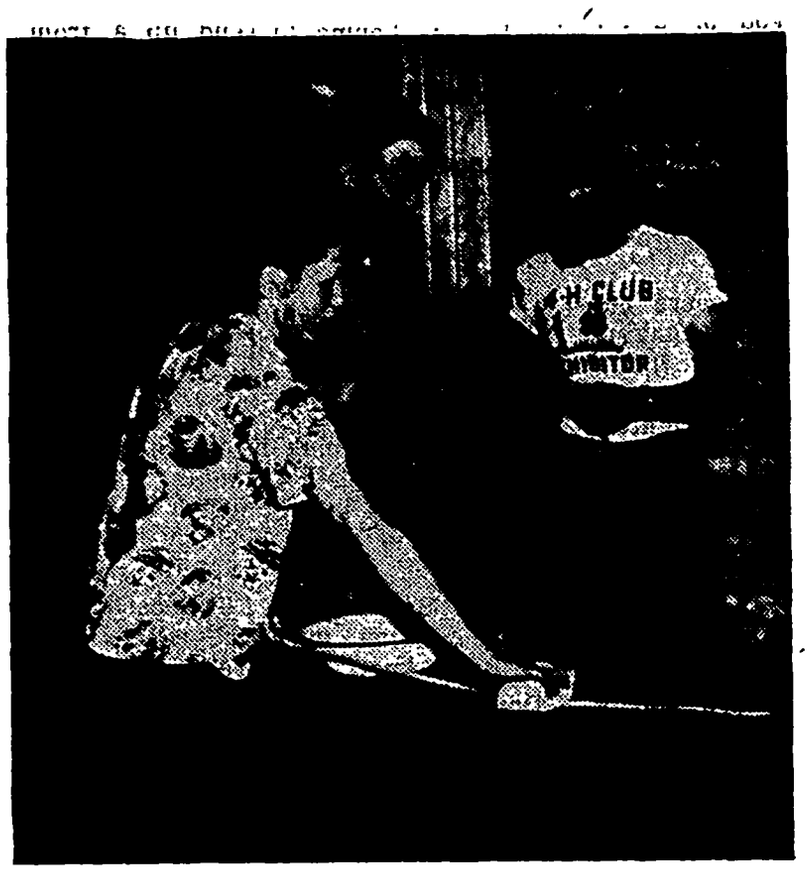
Your 4-H Clubs in Action . . .

These 4-H girls are learning a new skill as one of their group demonstrates a sewing technique at a local 4-H meeting.



At nearly every club meeting members are called upon to demonstrate a recommended practice. These boys are showing how to clip warts from an animal.

One of the popular activities is camping. These girls are settled for their stay at the State 4-H Center.



Most 4-H members like to work with crafts. These boys are learning how to make belts and other articles from leather.

The Hancock County 4-H club program offers many opportunities for fun and learning 4-H club work provides young people with knowledge, training, experience and practice. Give your children the chance to make the most of their capabilities. Let them cultivate their interests and talents the 4-H way. To learn how you children can become 4-H members see your local club leaders or contact your county extension office to day.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson

County Extension Director

A look at cattle slaughter for the past two months shows that August cattle and calf kill was slightly below last year, with September cattle slaughter running about the same as a year ago. September calf kill is still lagging, reports Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Fed-cattle slaughter ran higher than a year ago, he points out.

The fact that fewer calves were born this year, plus the fact that a smaller percentage is being killed, accounts for our lower calf kill, Kutish observes.

Fed-cattle slaughter has been higher than a year ago because of a boost in choice-grade marketings. Except for the first week in September, sale of prime steers has lagged behind last year at Chicago, Sioux City and Omaha.

Kutish says the main reason for the fewer prime steers is a narrower price spread between choice and prime grades. The spread was only $2.10 at Chicago for the week ending September 26 in contrast with $3.84 for the same week in 1956.

Right now large supplies of low-priced broilers and turkeys are competing with the bigger fed-cattle supply Kutish notes. Kutish believes the pressure to use up our large feed supply will keep the number of cattle fed high this year. But there might not be as many cattle headed for the 1958 market, he says. That will depend on the number of calves brought this fall and we haven't had our calf runs yet.

Right now, we're entering the period when western cattle runs are of their peak. The runs are later this year because of the good feed supply in the west. Ranchers have held their cattle to let them gain extra pounds and to "harden" them, Kutish says.

The average feeder cost is still substantially higher than a year ago, even though some price weakness has appeared in heavier and plainer kinds.

However, Kutish emphasizes that cheaper feed provides a strong urge for farmers to work out a cattle-feeding program this year. He points out that dollar corn and 15-dollar hay make quite a difference in the break-even killing price in spite of higher feeder cost.

Grain sorghum, the big feeding crop in the Southwest, is encouraging greater feeding of native cattle in that area, too. Grain sorghum has sold as low as $1.30 per 100 pounds in Oklahoma and that's equal to 80 cent a bushel corn for cattle feeding, Kutish notes.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

S-R-T

We were at Ames, Saturday, to see Iowa State tangle with Kansas State in a football game which was part of Iowa State's annual homecoming. The only bad part of the game was that the wrong team won.

It was a hard-fought, and we thought, well-played game, but even though Iowa State controled the game the largest share of the afternoon, they were unable to punch across the touchdown they needed to win and make their homecoming a success.

From the spectator standpoint, though, there was plenty of rock 'em sock 'em fooball, and we enjoyed ourselves immensely.

On the way down, we saw quite a few corn pickers in the field, but apparently most farmers are giving the crop plenty of time to dry out before they start cribbing it. Corn picking is way behind this time a year ago, but the crop as a whole should be much larger when it is finally harvested.

Also saw quite a few bean fields that hadn't been touched. In fact, there are more beans left for the combine south of here than there are right in this locality.

There were lots of geese in the air Saturday morning when we were on the way to Ames, and Sunday we took a ride which took us by Lake Cornelia, where there were a goodly number of geese.

We got a kick out of the deal at Lake Cornelia. Part of the lake was frozen, and there were lots of ducks and one nice flock of geese on the ice. Just at the edge of the ice there were several boat loads of hunters, but they were unable to get close enough to get any shots. The ducks and geese were sitting tight, and we can imagine the frustrated feeling that was with the hunters.

FLU BUG HITS!

The Legion Auxiliary held its county meeting in Klemme with Garner as Co-hostess October 22 with 58 members present. All eight towns in the county were represented.

The meeting was called to order by Unit president Mrs Robert Hartzell. Mrs David Schwichtenberg, county president, then took over the business meeting.

The Unit presidents of the county each gave reports on their work since the last meeting.

Mrs David Schwichtenberg gave a very interesting talk on her trip to Omaha, Nebraska to the polio center there. She wished that everyone could visit it and see the work being done. She urged all units to hold bake sales to help the polio foundation.

Mrs Betty LeGore, Eighth District President, was then asked to give a talk and that was most interesting. She told of her visit to New York where she attended the National Convention and her visit to the United Nations building and what an inspiring visit that was.

Mrs Marvin Lemke sang the song "I Believe" which is the theme of our state president this year, and Lynette Buseman, who is a junior, played two piano selections.

The door prize was won by Mrs Lew Weaver.

The meeting was adjourned. A very delicious lunch was served.

Faculty Meets with State Dep't. Representative

Local grade faculty members met Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 with Mr Arthur Carpenter, Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the curriculum evaluation study now in progress in this county. A steering committee was formed last year and has been meeting regularly at Britt with State Department personnel. This meeting was to acquaint all elementary teachers with the study. Mrs LaVohn Montgomery is the Klemme representative on the steering committee.

Roy Schaefer Awarded Drainage Contract

Roy Schaefer, local drainage contractor, was awarded the contract on Drainage District Number 166 Monday afternoon. The contract price was $5,993.32. Other bidders were Earl Stille of Garner with a bid of $6,141.95, and the Miles Construction Company of Auburn, Iowa with a bid of $6,520.

Drainage District Number 166 was formed on October 9 by action of the Board of Supervisors. It included the Klemme Community School property, a major portion of Barz Addition in the north part of town and a portion of the farm of Milvern Barz.

The drainage contract calls for a storm tile drain from an outlet in the Milvern Barz property to the new school building and for a lateral to serve residents in the Barz Addition.

NOTICE

The water bills are due on November 1st and will become delinquent December 1st. They are payable at the First National Bank.—V. A. Cook, Mayor.

Ione Rosendahl, Gordon Beier Wed

Saturday evening, October 12, 1957, at seven o'clock, Miss Ione Rosendahl, daughter of Mr and Mrs Walter Rosendahl and Gordon Beier, son of Mr and Mrs Elmer Beier, were united in marriage in the Evangelical and Reformed church. In the candlelight service the alter was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and yellow chrysanthemums. The Rev E. H Lauer officiated in the double ring ceremony. Nuptial organ music was played before the ceremony by Miss Joyce Thiemann. She also accompanied Miss Genevieve Renken, of Parkersburg, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of chantilly lare over white satin. Her finger tip veil was held in place by a crown of pearls. She carried a white orchid over a white Bible.

Attending the bride were Miss Ruth Pringitz, as maid of honor, and Mrs John Smith and Mrs Gary Lenz. The maid of honor wore a dress of deep gold satin, and the bridesmaids wore identical dresses of deep brown satin. Each carried a gold and brown colonial bouquet.

The bridegroom was attended by Robert Beier as bestman and Gene Culver of Des Moines, and Gary Lenz of Plymouth, Wis. The men wore dark suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

Debra Snyder, neice of the bride, was flower girl. Ushers were John Smith and Ronald Beier. Candlelighters were JoAnn and Janice Beier.

The brides mother wore navy with American beauty and black accessories and a pink rose corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore blue with pink and black accessories and a pink rose corsage.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. The dining room was decorated with maple and oak leaves bringing out the fall colors of the bride's color scheme.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Misses Carol Bridges and Lee Ann Snyder of Des Moines. Mrs Shirley Doolittle and Miss LaVohn Beier poured. Mrs Dick Snyder presided at the punch bowl and Mrs Karen Collins, Marshalltown, presided at the guest table. Mrs Beverly Thorson and Miss Beverly Christiance took care of the gifts. Waitresses were Myrna Barz and Jeanne Barz.

Dining room hostess was Mrs A H Dulmes and co-hostesses were Mrs George Lawhorn, Mrs Art Kudje, Mrs Glen Terhufen, Mrs Roy Swanson, Mrs Leonard Kaduce, Mrs Paul Thiemann, Mrs Donald Christiance, Mrs Merle Schoenwetter and Mrs Elmer Wessels.

The bride is a graduate of Klemme High School and Thompson's School of Beauty Culture and is now employed in the New Utica Beauty Salon in Des Moines.

The bridegroom is also a graduate of Klemme High School and since his graduation has been employed by the Bankerslife Insurance Company of Des Moines.

The couple is at home at 1503 5th Street in Des Moines.

During the past several town elections the ballots have had very few candidates from which voters could make their choice. However, this year's election, which will be held on Tuesday, November 5th, is different.

There are four who aspire to the mayor's office, and thirteen candidates for town councilman. Only one candidate for treasurer has filed. He is Martin Barz, who is presently holding that position.

The four candidates for mayor include Wayne Buseman, who is presently night marshall; W C Keraus, who has previously held the office of mayor for our town; W F Pavey, who has in the past served on the council and who has been a Justice of the Peace for many years; and Herman Paul, who at one time was night marshal.

Candidates for the town council include one incumbent, Frank Schulz, and the following: Clarence Bachman, Graydon Back, Dr J D Baker, John Eenhuis, Wallace Eichorn, Louis Griffen, Edmund Josten, Marvin Lemke, Clifford Montgomery, Gordon Sawtelle, Quentin Stille and Henry Wessels.

Mayor V A Cook, who has served several terms in the office, declined to again be a candidate as did councilmen Byrnes Lemke, Roy Schaefer, Edwin Josten, and Henry Buseman.

Next Tuesday, November 5th is the day, so go to the polls and vote for your favorite candidates, so be on hand and do your duty. This is your chance to say who will be at the reins and guide our town for the next few years.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

The Big "I"

The pride of Iowa, the battleship of that name, has now finished her last voyage, with some 35 Iowans aboard. She is now out of service as a battleship but might be called back in an emergency.

The trip had minor political implications.

Governor Herschel Loveless declined to go, intimating that his invitation had not been forwarded promptly enough to enable him to accept.

Nothing loath, Lt Governor Wm Nicholas. who will probably be a candidate for governor next year, accepted the invitation to head up an official Iowa delegation.

He expressed, for all Iowans, the state's pride in the "Big I" which was active in most of the Pacific campaigns of World War II.

Rates Up?

New fire and health regulations passed by the legislature will cost money out of the pocketbooks of the old folks who live in Iowa rest homes, it was predicted last week by R J Quackenbush, executive secretary of the Iowa Nursing Home association.

Nursing home owners and operators, in convention here last week, indicated general satisfaction with the new regulations.

But the cost will go up, they indicated.

Bigness

Bankers of Iowa had a busy three days in Des Moines last week, at annual convention of the Iowa Bankers Association.

Among others, they heard Eric Johnston, of Washington, D C, point out the dangers in the growth of big business. He is the chairman of the international development advisory board.

There'll be more government control as economic power tends to be concentrated in fewer and fewer hands, the bankers were told.

Freedom

Veteran Iowa newspaperman, W Earl Hall of Mason Ctiy, has been named as Iowa chairman of the 1958 Crusade for Freedom. He'll organize committees to raise funds for Radio Free Europe, the private American network which broadcasts from West Germany. He's a former member of the Iowa board of regents, and has been vice-president of the National Safety Council.

Flu

Iowa perhaps has a special interest in the Asiatic flu; one of the first major outbreaks of the ailment developed at a conference at Grinnell last summer.

No one appears to have run a total of the number of flu cases in the state this fall—but it's quite a few.

Many Iowa communities have reported up to 20 or 25 percent of pupils absent at a given time.

Considering the widespread extent of the epidemic, very few deaths have been reported. But it is recommended by physicians that the sickeness be treated with respect by those who become ill.

Building Aid

Federal grants for five Iowa hospital construction projects have been approved by the state hospital advisory board. Beneficiaries of the aid will be hospitals in Waterloo, Des Moines, Ottumwa and Cedar Rapids.

In the latter city, two hospitals will receive the grants.

Total amount of five grants is over $1,756,000. In each case, local funds must equal $2 for each $1 of federal aid.

Another application for aid was deferred. This grant involved the Davenport Osteopathic hospital. Plans for the building are not far enough along to be considered for a federal grant.

Election

Des Moines had one of its hottest primary election campaigns last week, with 20 candidates in the field for three seats on the capitol city's council.

Leading the field, when the 30,000 votes were tabulated, was a three-person "slate," of Reinhold Carlson, Mrs Florence T Myers and Wade Clark.

They'll compete in the finals next week, against Charles Iles, Jens Grothe and Newton Margulies, who were also among the six to survive the primary.

Interest in the election has been statewide; the bickering of the Des Moines council during the past year and a half has been regretted by most Iowans.

Biggest hassle during the period was the discharge of the first city manager, Leonard Howell, who was replaced by George Forester.

The change does not appear to be an issue in the present race. All candidates have approved both the city manager plan in general. and Mr Forester's administration in particular.

At any rate, the election will bring some change in the voting alignment of the council. Mayor Ray Mills, who generally teamed with Frank McGowan and Robert Conley, is not a candidate this time. Neither is Al Denny, a strong Howell supporter and major foe of the Mills, McGowan and Conley bloc.

A third incumbent, Charles Iles, was running fourth in the primary election. Thus, there will be at least two new council members, and possibly three, if the Carlson-Myers-Clarke team continues to run strong in the finals.

Yield

From 2 plants, Lorenz Baumbach of near Red Oak got three bushels of sweet potatoes this year.

Farm Housing Loans Are Avoiloble Now

The construction and repair of farm houses and other farm buildings may be financed by Farmers Home Administration loans, Irwin C Christiansen, the agency's local county supervisor, said this week.

He said the same kind of farm housing loan program is available as last year when American farm owners borrowed $21,300,000 to construct, improve, or repair farm houses and other essential farm buildings, or to provide water for farmstead or household use.

Farmers Home Administration loans are provided only when a bank or other lender cannot adequately serve the farm owner's credit needs, at the present time. The agency does not compete with conventional or cooperative lenders, Mr Christiansen said, but does supplement the credit services supplied by other sources. Borrowers agree to repay the housing loans within the shortest time consistent with their repayment abilities, but no loan schedule can go beyond 33 years. The interest rate is 4 percent.

Although housing loans go only to farm owners, an owner may borrow to repair or build a house or other farm buildings for his tenants, or farm laborers. A borrower must be an American citizen. Any farm involved must be big enough and operated in such a way as to be considered an actual farm, and it must porduce a substantial part of the operator's annual cash income. Farmers cannot use farm housing loans to buy land or refinance debts.

Mr Christiansen cautioned loan applicants against starting construction work or incurring debts for work or materials before their loans are closed, if they expect to obtain their financing through the Farmers Home Administration.

Farmers buy their building materials wherever they please, usually from local dealers. They obtain their building plans from any reliable source they choose. The Farmers Home Administration has a limited number of plans that applicants may use if they want to.

During construction the agency makes periodic inspections to make certain that sound construction standards are followed.

Have You Had Yours?

Between football, basketball and Asian flu who has time to think of poliomyelitis?

Dr Ralph Heeron, that's who! He's director of the Preventable Disease Division of the Iowa State Department of Health and he's concerned that there is so little interest in polio immunization now.

There is plenty of polio vaccine available. Your doctor has a good supply . . . or can get it quickly.

And . . . there's plenty of time between now and next polio season to start and complete immunization.

Dr Heeren says he is especially urging three groups of Iowans to be vaccinated right away. They are: (1) Those people who have had two shots. They should get their third injection before the end of the first year. (2) High school students, young adults and persons up to 45 years old who have not received any vaccine. They should start imumnization at once. (3) Children who were immunized two or more years ago. These youngsters should be given a booster injection to keep their immunization at a high level.

"We have plenty of evidence throughout the United States that people with three injections have protection against paraytic polio," Dr Heeron emphasized.

"As nearly as we can determine, senior high school students in Iowa are only about 50 per cent immunized against polio. As age increases beyond this group, the rate of those immunized decreases.

Think back to the time—only a few years ago, that you would have given ANYTHING to be protected against polio, and then RUN, don't walk to the nearest doctor for your injections!

Law Officers Patrolling Secondary Road System

The combined sheriff and highway patrol forces now operating intermittently on the state's farm to market roads are finding a substantial number of raffic violators, the state safety department reported today.

Patrol chief David Herrick gave as an example the results of sheriff and patrol operations on secondary roads in eight Iowa counties during a five day period recently.

He said the patrols issued tickets to a total of 288 drivers in the eight counties during the period. All the contact were made on secondary roads.

He said 70 of the drivers received summonses to appear in court, 23 received warning tickets, and 195 were handed faulty equipment tickets requiring safety repairs.

The most common violations were failure to stop at stop signs, excessive speed and improper passing, Herrick reported.

The eight counties in which the combined patrols made the arrests are Allamakee, Winneshiek, Delaware, Cerro Gordo, Hancock, Worth, Floyd and Winnebago.

Herrick warned that similar patrols are operating at unannounced times in some 60 counties in the state. Sheriffs and patrolmen have combined their operations in an attempt to cut the rising traffic accident and death toll on county and local roads.

"In many areas," Herrick said, "the traffic death toll on the secondary roads is more than 40 per cent of the total traffic death record."

The combined operation marks the first widespread enforcement on secondary roads in Iowa.

Ed Storey to Head Iowa Development Commission

Ed B Storey of Des Moines has been appointed Director of the Iowa Development Commission, according to Clyde H Hendrix of Clinton, Chairman of the Commission.

Storey's appointment will become effective on November 16, Hendrix said. He succeeds T E Davidson, who has headed up the commission since 1953 and who resigned to take a post with Viking Pump Company in Cedar Falls.

Storey has been a member of the Commission's staff since August 1, serving as Research Associate.

The Iowa Development Commission is the state's promotional agency, set up by the legislature to promote Iowa's industrial and agricultural resources. During recent years the industrial growth of Iowa has exceeded that of the nation.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The highway patrolman overheard two farmers talking. "I counted 17 up on the gravel around my place," said one. "Must have been last Thursday."

"They must not be worried about you," the other farmer laughed, "why, I must have seen 26 or 27 of 'em around my place one day this week."

The subject of conversation was sheriff, and highway partol cars, now appearing for the first time in joint patrol operations on the state's county and local roads.

The program's been in force for the last three weeks with sheriffs and patrolmen joining forces to try to cut the traffic accident and death rate on secondary roads.

The conversation overheard by the patrolman indicates the comment this campaign is receiving, though it should be admitted that no such numbers of cars as the farmers counted are being used in sweeps of the rural roads. But there are enough of them to make an impression and they do move around a lot.

One thing sheriffs and patrolmen are finding on the secondary roads is a surprising number of illegal drivers—drivers with expired licenses and registrations, suspended licenses and unsafe vehicles.

It appears that drivers who have wanted to avoid the law have been consistent users of the back roads. For example, five sheriffs and five highway patrolmen, working a local road together one night recently, arrested three unlicensed drivers and 10 persons for drinking on the highway.

Enforcement has come to the secondary roads.

JOLLY WORKERS CLUB MET

The Jolly Workers Club had their October meeting at the home of Mrs Virgil Waddingham. 12 members answered roll call on "What We Know About Columbus." Mrs Melvin Pearson gave the demonstration on "Flower Arrangement," and the flowers were furnished by the club members. Lunch was served by Mrs Waddingham and her co-hostess, Mrs Clarence Bachman.

Injured

Four were hurt at Dallas Center in a pep rally, when firecrackers exploded in a bonfire.

4-H Junior Cattle Feeders Project Started

A 4-H Junior Cattle Feeders project will be started in Hancock County this year. This is truly a practical project and one in which older Baby Beef Club members can put their experience to work and test it.

The Junior Cattle Feeders project is the feeding of a pen of 3, 5 or combinations of 3 or 5 in such a way that a member can make a profit on the open market. This means that it will be as close to the real thing of beef cattle feeding as we can get with the few rules which will be formulated by the 4-H Club Committee. Members must keep records. The calves are not broke to lead. They will not be shown at the fair as such, but a separate day later on will be set up at which time these pens will be brought in and graded. Animals will be sold on grade and yield to a packing plant and after they are slaughtered the members having these projects will tour the plant and see the carcasses in the cooler, according to Edward Bruns, youth assistant.

The members that are interested should start looking for their pens now. The calves should weigh between 300 and 450 pounds and should be choice to fancy feeder calves if a member plans on carrying them until next October.

ELL MIDGETS MEET

The regular meeting of the Ell Midgets was held October 28 at the Ell Center school house. Larry Hoffman, vice-president, called the meeting to order by saying the pledge. The secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved.

We discussed changing our meeting date of the pot-luck supper to November 18, at 6:30, at the Klemme Grade School Basement. Each family will be asked to bring two covered dishes and dishes.

Our skating party will be postponed for another month on account of the flu epidemic.

Our regular meeting night has been changed to the second Monday night of the month. This change was made because it interfered with the meeting date of the Junior Leadership.

A charter has been ordered for our club.

A tentative list of the 4-H projects for 1958 was taken.

The committee for the Christmas party for the Three Ell clubs are Lowell Griemann, Vernon Griemann, Ronald Kubly and Donald Anderson. — Substituting reporter, Elaine Jurgemeyer.

Gordon Johnson Took Merit Scholarship Test

Tuesday, Gordon Johnson took a scholarship test which was given to senior students in high schools all over the U S.

The examination is a two-hour, high level college aptitude test, yielding scores highly predictive of the relative abilities of students to benefit from college training.

A group of 7,500 seniors—the highest scorers in each state, pro-rated by population—are advanced to the Semifinals in December.

In January, the Semifinalists are given the supervised Scholastic Aptitude Test of the College Entrance Examination Board. Scores on this three-hour examination further substantiate the abilities of the competitors. In the previous years, over 95 per cent of the Semi-Finalists have been able to repeat their high scoring performances and thereby become finalists.

Each of the 7,200-odd Finalists is considered to be fully qualified to receive a Merit Scholarship. Further selection is necessary, however, in order to determine the actual winners of the available awards.

The final evaluations are performed by the Merit Scholar Selection Committee, a nationally-selected panel of experts in academic selection. The leadership, citizenship, grades and extra-curricular activities of each finalist are considered, as well as his test scores. Special teams from company sponsors make selections as well, applying special criteria such as residence, career intent, employment of parents, etc. Financial need is not a criterion, and no information is gathered on race or religion. From all of these evaluations, the final selections are made; and about May 1, the Merit Scholars are announced.

All other Finalists receive "Certificates of Merit." They are then identified to colleges, universities and other scholarship-granting agencies of rconsideration.

The Provisions of a Merit Scholarship

Each Merit Scholarship is a four-year award. Winners, having selected their accredited college and course of study when named Finalists, must seek college admission independently.

There are two financial provisions in each Merit Scholarship:

1. Each winner receives a stipend, based upon his individual need. The amounts range upward, as necessary, from a minimum of $100 annually. The maximum can be $2,200 per year or more. The average is about $650. Stipend determinations follow a highly developed procedure in use by colleges for many years. Family ability to provide support is evaluated, as is college cost, and the stipend provides the differential.

2. Each Merit Scholarship provides a supplemental "cost-of-education" grant to the college or university. In the case of privately supported institutions, these are unrestricted grants, designed to make up the difference between tuition and cost. The supplementary annual grants for private colleges vary between $300 and $740, depending upon tuition. At tax-supported institutions, the grant must be used for scholarship assistance for other students.

It is hoped that Gordon will be able to receive a scholarship on the basis of these tests.

Mr and Mrs Richard Bamman attended a reception in honor of Mr and Mrs Franklyn Pruisman at Sexton Sunday.

GUESS WHO

This week we have set out to find a person who is the height of 5'11" which benefits him in sports such as basketball, baseball and track. This sophomore boy sings in the boy's glee club, mixed chorus, plays in marching band and plays in the trombone quartet. He belongs to the Ell Twp Church, boys' 4-H club and is a class officers both this year and last. This person has brown hair and eyes. Will you please help us to find this boy?

Last week our guess who person was Gary Kothenbeutal.

Senior Interview

On February 1, 1940, a roly-poly baby girl was born to Mr and Mrs "Mike" Carolus.

Now it is 1957 and Donna is enrolled as a senior in Klemme high school. Donna stands 5' 4½" tall, has blue eyes and brown hair.

When asked who her favorite actress and actor were, she replied Jane Wyman and Rock Hudson. Donna's favorite show is "Written on the Wind."

An evening of enjoyment for Donna would be a big dinner of scalped potatoes with a good book or go dancing.

"Actually?" is Donna's favorite saying.

Her pet peeve is people who don't have much to say.

For her future plans, Donna is planning on being a receptionist.

Question of the Week

What would you do if you received a peruke C O D?

Donna C—If I received a peruke, I would consider it an insult and I would put it in the lost and found at school.

Donald A—I'd give it to Daryle B. I don't know but I think he would give it to Lowell G.

Lowell G.—Send it back where it came from.

JoAnne J—I'd send it to someone at Drake and let him dissect it.

Mr Shafer—I think I would refuse it.

Jerry L.—I'd turn it over to a crime detection lab.

Candace C.—I'd give it to Jo Ann Helps—then it's her worry.

Miss Whitmire—Refuse to accept it.

Harlan B—I would put it in a cage and let it talk to itself.

Mr Neary—Seek a dictionary for information.

Beverly L—I would give it to Sandra M for her birthday.

Roger M—I would send it back to where it came from.

Judy G—I would cook it for breakfast Friday in home ec.

Mr Whitford—I would not accept it.

Joann Beir—Send it back.

Elaine J—Since I know what it is I would give it to some boy to wear to a costume party.

A peruke is a wig. Men in the 17th and 18th centuries wore perukes.

Honored

The Martinsburg Methodist Church honored Mrs Mary Patience Speirs at its 98th anniversary celebration as the churches oldest member. She is 104 years old.

Gurl Up With A Good Book

Picture yourself on a hot summer day lying in a hammock in the cool shade of a monkey tree with a cool glass of string bean juice. Perhaps you're setting is a cozy chair, rain beating against the window pane, and instead of bean juice, a round red apple. What is lacking?

We'd like to recommend several of the new books that can soon be found in the high school library.

For those who enjoy a good mystery complete with a jury trial any of the Earl S Gardner books will fill the bill.

Comedy, an ever present favorite in H S, is supplied by MacDonald, the author of "The Egg and I." Also good for many a laugh are "Bears in My Kitchen." and "Rally Around the Flag Boys."

No, we didn't forget to scout out a few adventure stories for you fellows. There are many to give you pleasurable hours of reading.

Since Sputnik has arrived the field of science fiction is becoming more and more real to us. For a real adventure into another world, or could it be true? Try "Tomorrow" by Philip Wyle.

Many students are eager to read fiction stories about professions which they might choose as their own one day. "Edith Carvell" is one such book that will fill your thirst for such reading.

Sports stories, documentative books on Communism, several biographies and many others will soon be available for your reading pleasure.

These will all be one-week books, so don't let yours go overdue when you have them checked out.

GLASS NEWS

"We're all here except the band members, Mr Neary," is something said several mornings of the week. Now that class is cut a good five minutes, we start into American Government. So far we have studied different types of government, capitalism, communism, federalism, fascism; congress and its terms, the Senate and the House of Representatives. They are, at the present, studying the powers of Congress on, foreign, interstate, intrastate-commerce. A look ahead features Congress in Action, the standing, investigating, and other committees.

Soybeans

This year's soybean crop is at least 30 million bushels larger than last year. With the carry-over from 1956 greater than the holdover from 1955 to 1956, the nation has a surplus of soybeans, reports Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College Farm Economist.

This larger soybean crop is partly offset by a smaller supply of cottonseed, but our huge supply of lower-priced feed grains also will compete with soybean meal, Kutish says.

Unless we have a development like the Suez crisis of last year, or the Mediteranean situation of the year before, we shouldn't expect a substantial bulge in bean prices, Kutish believes. Local prices could rally, though, if a good part of the crop is stored. Such a rally may not be long-lived, however, Kutish says. So holders of beans will want to watch the market closely.

Barring an unexpected development, there probably won't be big money in storing soybeans this year. But at current local prices—in most cases they're below loan levels—there is little risk in storing beans on the farm. Kutish believes there should be some profit in storing beans. Prices will work up to loan levels, he says.

Hog-Corn Price Ratio

The price ratio between hogs and corn has been good this year, making the hog business look good, too, Kutish notes. But in planning 1958 hog production farmers must look beyond the current ratio and anticipate the average ratio when next year's hogs are sold, he points out.

It's hard to say for sure at this time what hogs will bring in 1958. But the price of this year's feed crop can be pretty closely estimated. Corn probably will average around $1 a bushel. Thus, to get an average hog-corn ration, hog prices mustn't fall below $12 or $13 next fall and winter, Kutish says. Otherwise farmers will find it more profitable to seal their corn.

KATHY BAMMAN HAS 7TH BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr and Mrs Roger Bamman entertained 21 classmates of their daughter, Kathy at a birthday party in honor of Kathy's seventh birthday. The children played games and a lunch of hot dogs, ice cream and cake was served. Also present were Kathy's grandparents, Mr and Mrs Walter A Wood of Clear Lake.

Big One

Ruth Scott of Leon recently caught a large channel catfish at a private lake west of Leon. The fish weighed 16½ pounds and measured 34 inches in length.

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

Chickens must adjust to a new social life when brought into winter laying quarters, says Iowa State College Extension Poultryman Leonard Eggleton. Newly housed birds set up their social scale, commonly called a "peck-order." After a fight, the winner has the right to peck the loser. Production may drop during the adjustment period, says Eggleton. To shorten the period, house all birds at the same time. Eggleton also suggests housing together birds from the same range area together.

Seed can be put on lawns between now and the time the ground freezes but the seed won't germinate until spring, says Horticulturist Ed Cott of Iowa State College. One advantage of seeding now is that seed in contact with the soil may be covered by frost action. Planting soaked seed now isn't advisable. There's not enough growing season left for the grass to become established, Cott says.

Fire hazards increase during fall and winter due to a greater number of heating devices being used in homes and other buildings, says Extension Safety Specialist Norval Wardle of Iowa State College. See that fire extinguishers are conveniently placed and in good working order, he advises. In many cases buckets of sand or dirt provide effective control against small fires. To protect water-filled extinguishers from a winter freeze-up, add salt. Every member of the family should know how to use whatever fire-control devices you keep in your home.

Extension Entomologist Harold Gunderson states there definitely is a danger of serious ear droppage if we should have strong winds. Corn borer damage is extensive this year. Farmers should check fields, examining about 25 plants at several spots. Look at ears to see if they're hanging on tight. The earlier corn is picked, of course, the fewer the number of ears that will be dropped.

Agronomist Joe Stritzel of Iowa State College says all nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium needed above that to be supplied with row fertilizer at planting time may be applied and plowed down from now to freeze-up. If anhydrous ammonia or 37 or 41 per cent nirtogen solutions are used to supply the nitrogen, however, plowing should be delayed 3 to 5 days after application. This is to make sure these materials have time to diffuse into the soil or become "attached" to the soil, so they won't be lost when soil is stirred by the plow.

Hard-Luck

Tom Greenawald of Anamosa has been having a streak of bad luck recently. It all started when he suffered burns on his face and hands when splattered by grease. Then he had to have six stitches taken in his leg after crashing through a barbed wire fence, then later he contacted pneumonia. Now he is sidelined again with a sprained thumb and ankle, suffered while playing touch football.

Pumpkin

Mr and Mrs Lyel Ealy of Belle Plaine have a cherry tree that grows pumpkins. One of the pumpkin vines, planted about 5 feet from the trunk of the cherry tree, found its way up the trunk and up through the tree. When it came time for the vines to bloom the whole cherry tree was covered with pumpkin blossoms.

THE KLEMME TIMES

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, NOVEMBER 6, 1957 | VOLUME 62 | NUMBER 51

Plans Being Made For 1958 ACP

The 1958 cost-sharing agricultural conservation program (ACP) will place special emphasis on practices which provide long-term benefits and which tie in with reduction adjustment, according to the Hancock County ASC Committe

The County Committee said the state program will be used as a guide in formulating the county cost-sharing conservation program for 1958, the same as in past years. This will be done as soon as possible after county ASC committeemen, county ASC office employees and local representatives of other federal and state farm agencies attend a district instruction meeting at Estherville on November 21, 1957.

The county program for 1958 and plans for acquainting farmers with it and taking applications for participation will be announced at the earliest possible time, the County Committee said.

The 1958 state program includes 18 practices capable of meeting all of the most common conservation problems found on Iowa farms. All but one of the 18 practices are the kind which give returns over a period of years. The single exception is a seeding practice to establish vegetation cover on cropland being taken out of production for one year. This practice is intended primarily for use on soil bank acreage reserve land.

The other practices in the 1958 program for Iowa provide for standard, level, basin and diversion terraces, sod waterways, ponds for livestock water, erosion control dams, tiling, open farm drainage ditches, application of limestone, establishment or improvement of permanent vegetative cover, establishment of contour strip cropping and contouring if intertilled crops and establishment or improvement of stands of forest trees.

Five practices in the 1957 program will not be offered in the state in 1958. The dropped practices provided for short-term grass and legume seeding, land leveling to improve surface drainage, brush clearing and wells for livestock water.

Iowa's apportionment of national ACP funds for making cost-sharing conservation payments in the 1958 program is $9,694,000, or about the same as for each of the past three years.

The Co. Committee explained that the state fund will be apportioned among the counties on the basis of over-all need, comparative erosion hazards, drainage needs and the amount of ACP work completed in 1955 and 1956. The County Committee said the Hancock county allocation will be announced as soon as notice of the amount is received in the county ASC office.

This is the biggest group that has been sent at one time from Iowa since the Reserve Forces Act of 1955 went into effect.

All had enlisted in the Army Reserve under provisions of the Reserve Forces Act of 1955, and are required to serve only six months of active duty. They will fulfill the remainder of their military obligation by attending weekly meetings and summer camp with their Iowa units.

The majority of these Reservists enlisted last year for eight years, and were deferred from active duty until they had completed high school.

All will return to Iowa on May 1, 1958.

The roster includes James M Karsjens and Marvin D Sandrey of Klemme.

Liquor Listings

For the first time in 15 years, Iowa state liquor stores will soon sell ale and malt liquors at retail. The commission has voted to return to its boards a five and a half percent malt liquor and an 8 percent ale.

It will be several weeks before the new items can be delivered for sale through the stores.

The rommінsion will also expand its Vodka listings. For several years the commission has sold only one brand of Vodka, a Russian drink that has become popular here in the last three years. A wider selection of Vodka will soon be offered.

Any Significance?

Political observers, being what they are, are trying to attach some significance to the group of Iowans who participated in the recent Navy activities which put the Battleship Iowa in mothballs.

The party was headed by Lt Gov W H Nicholas of Mason City, who is expected to be a leading GOP candidate for governor. Some of the others in the party included Highway Commissioner Russell Lundy; former GOP state chairman, Don Pierson; Harold (Lum) Nelson, Soiux City; Richard Everds, Estherville. These men were close advisors to former governor Leo Hoegh defeated last year by Governor Loveless.

The presence of Nicholas with the former Hoegh stratigists has raised the question of policial support from that wing of the GOP in Iowa for Nicholas. The North Iowan was one of those defeated by Hoegh in the party primary two years ago.

Absentee Voting

An Iowa county auditor feels the absentee voting law is "one of the loosest laws we have in the state."

Chet Hansen, Shelby county auditor, made this report to the legislative investigating committee.

Hansen feels the legislature should provide for a non-partisan absentee ballot commission for each county to supervise all absentee voting.

Dean Resigns

M S Coover will be acting dean of engineering at Iowa State College effective Jan 1. He will succeed Dean J F Downie Smith who has resigned after 10 years as dean of engineering, to accept a position in private industry.

The Smith resignation leaves two vacancies for permanent appointments in the engineering divisions at state schools. Dean F M Dawson is retiring as dean of engineering at the University of Iowa.

Truck Taxes

Some interstate trucking companies operating in and through Iowa soon will be asked to assist in a review of truck licensing practices and vehicle taxes. Iowa is conducting a study to determine if there is a better system for truck tax payments for use of this state's roads.

Each firm will be asked o list the number of tractors, trailers and semi-trailers it operates, their gross loaded weights, and the total miles compared with Iowa miles traveled last year.

The Iowa Commerce Commission will then determine the amount each firm would have to pay to license all its vehicles in Iowa. Then each will likely be assessed a percentage of the total, the percentage being the ratio of Iowa to total miles traveled.

Good Year

More Iowa farmers paricipated in the government's 1956 agricultural conservation program than in any other year since 1946. There were 53,000 farms in the ACP last year in Iowa. Under it, the government helps defray the cost of establishing approved soil and water conservation practices on farmland.

Campaign Funds

Top man of Iowa's labor unions, Ray Mills of Des Moines, president of the Iowa AFL-CIO, feels corporations should be barred from donating funds to political campaigns.

Mills bases his belief on the theory that a "corporation's stockholders won't know where their money is being spent."

He made his report to the special Iowa legislative investigation committee looking into political donations. He said that labor's committee on political education, (COPE) is made up of Iowa members who represent the thinking of their union. COPE contributions, he said, are voluntary.

All Year School

Governor Loveless the other day said, that Iowa's state colleges eventually will be forced either to have year-around curriculum or limit the enrollment. He likes a year-around plan underway at the University of Pittsburg. A student's vacation time is cut in half there.

All three colleges have offered summer school programs but the chief executives would step up the summer classroom offerings apparently.

Highway Harmony

Iowa sheriffs and state highway patrolmen in 57 counties have set up joint secondary road patrols in an effort to curb traffic violations. The move marks the first widespread joint effort for law enforcement on the secondary roads and the results "appear to be excellent" sheriffs report.

Seed Dealers Elect

Robert Wolfe, Des Moines, is the new president of the Iowa Seed Dealers associatino. Other officers include Allan Pfander, Clarinda, first vice-president; John Hofler, Nora Springs, second vice-president; and Mark Thornburg, Des Moines, secretary treasurer.

Hospital Projects

In the first 10 years of the federal aid program. nearly $56 million in new hospitals or additions have been built or programmed in Iowa.

The federal government has put up $18,593,923 for nonprofit or governmental hospitals since 1947. It gives $1 for every $2 provided locally. Thus the total provide dis $55,781,769.

As a result of the program there are about 3,000 more hospital beds in Iowa than previously.

Longtime Service

Two Iowa churches recently noted "old" birthdays. The First Baptist Church of Denison just observed its 100th anniversary and the St Paul Lutheran Church at Ida Grove has just celebrated its 75th birthday.

Soft Assignment

At least one Iowan has what sounds like a soft job in the military. Capt Harold Williams of Shenandoah, an army psychologist, has just completed an experiment on sleep for the U S forces. We know a lot of guys who conducted such experiments but only one who ever "listened" to them were their captive tentmates.

Bus Service Cuts

City bus routes aren't the only one feeling the financial pinch these days. The Iowa Commerce commission reports inter-city bus travel is feeling a passenger reduction. Diversion of traffic to autos is one of the major reasons for the reduced passenger traffic officials report. Small out-of-the way towns may soon feel the pinch by being squeezed off the bus routes unless other methods are found to maintain the revenue for this service.

Farm Tips

Extension Director

Right after corn harvest is a good time to apply limestone needed for next year's legume seedings. Applying lime before the ground freezes gives you a chance to disk it in. Disking insures more uniform distribution and may prevent runoff losses on sloping fields, says Agronomist Joe Stritzel of Iowa State College. You can check lime needs by getting your soil tested, but request a quick lime test. You'll iet a report back on lime requirements within a week to 10 days. Other fertilizer recommendations will be returned to you on the regular time schedule, about 4 weeks.

No one kind of fire extinguisher is recommended for every type of fire, warns Extension Safety Specialist Norval Wardle at Iowa State College. Water on an oil fire will only spread the flames. Also water or other conductive solutions can relay a severe shock if you direct them on an electrical fire. Make sure your extinguishers are recommended for several flammable materials.

If your laying house is overcrowded. it should pay you to sell some pullets. Iowa State College Extension Poultryman W R Whitfield says crowding chickens doesn't pay. Each bird should have 3 square feet of floor space. He suggests that before you offer the pullets on a public market, you might inquire in the neighborhood. You may have a neighbor who would buy extra pullets for $2 or $2.50 per bird.

Grinding or cracking of sorghum grains is necessary in dairy rations, according to Dairyman Don Voelker of Iowa State College. In dairy nutrition trials about half the buck-shot like grain sorghum seeds passed through the animal undigested, when they were not cracked. Because of the slightly higher protein content in grain sorghum as compared to corn, when large quantities of sorghum grain are used in the ration slightly smaller percentage of high-protein supplement is needed to balance the ration.

Extension Agricultural Engineer Larry Van Fossen of Iowa State College says ear corn may be cribbed at 18 to 20 percent moisture, if the crib is well-ventilated. Shelled corn should be down to 13 percent. Grain sorghum should be reduced to 12 percent moisture for safe storage.

Extension Veterinarian Dr Maynard Speak of Iowa State College states vitamin A probably would not be needed in a sorghum ration just for the fattening period, in answer to the question "Can hogs be fattened on grain sorghum without adding Vitamin A to the ration?"

A dozen Wolfe River apples from the Calhoun county farm were weighed recently. The 12 apples weighed 11¾ pounds with the largest weighing 1¼ pounds.

October Cooler, Drier Than Year Ago

The month of October 1957 was considerably cooler and a little drier than the same month in 1956 according to weather records kept by Earl Henschen, custodian at the Hancock County courthouse. The average temperature for the month was a cool 47.40 as compared with 57.34 in 1956. The minimum average was 37.09 and the maximum average was 57.71.

The warmest day of the month was on October 1st when the mercury reached 77 and the coolest for the month was a chilly 22 recorded on four successive days. October 25-28 inclusive. October 1957 was the coldest October since 1952 when the average temperature for the month was a chilly 44.88

Precipitation during the month was 1.45 inches which fell as rain with only a few snow flurries. The heaviest amount recorded during a twenty four hour period was .86 of an inch recorded during the twenty four hour period ending at 7 a.m. on October 23. The rainfall for the month brought the year's total for the first ten months to 24.98 inches as compared with 24.64 inches for the first ten months in 1956. The normal for the year for this area is approximately 30 inches. Rainfall in October of 1956 totaled 1.83 inches. 14 days were listed as cloudy or partly cloudy and 17 days were listed as fair.

While the month was below normal in temperature, killing frosts did not come until late in the month and corn was very slow drying because of life in the stalk. Sunny days the last week of the month conditioned corn for cribbing and moisture content at the end of the month was still running 22 percent or more.

High humidity also delayed the combining of late soybeans and considerably more corn and soybeans remained to be harvested at the end of the month than a year earlier.

Nothing to It

The sophomores were working on their short stories in class. Mrs Oberg asked Randall Langlitz how his work was progeshing.

Randall—"I have two lines: 'Once upon a time,' and 'They lived happily ever after.' If I can just think of something for the middle, I'll get this assignment done on time."

"Twerp Season"

Klemme High School students have turned tables on all dating and etiquette rules and have declared "Twerp Season" for the week of November 11-15. Twerp Season will come to a close with a high school Sadie Hawkin's dance on Friday, November 15. at 7:30 p.m .

The rules for Twerp Season are:

1. Girls ask boys for dates.
2. Girls provide finances and transportation (they will pay for gas if boys drive.)
3. Girls carry books, open doors and extend other courtesies normally given to them.
4. Remember, fellows don't like it when girls refuse them dates, so please cooperate when you're asked for a date. Make Twerp Season a real success.

Friday's Sadie Hawkin's dance will continue in the theme of Twerp Season with boy's choice dances instead of ladies choice. For the whole evening the boys will be asked to dance by the girls. An added feature will be the costumes worn by the partygoers, all in Dog-Patch style. Girls must wear skirts, however. The incentives to wear a costume are to add to the fun, also a discount on admission to the dance.

Twerp Season is being sponsored by the junior class. Joyce Thiemann. class president, assured this reporter that the whole week, plus the special decorations and surprises planned for the dance, points up to a great success.

'Pride Goeth Before A Fall'

There are time in our lives when each of us thinks he has life all figured out. Then before we realize what is happening, we fall flat on our faces.

It is a fine thing to be modestly aware of your blessings, to be confident and to be happy and thankful. But it may be disasterous to believe that you can't be knocked down. A wise thing for all of us to do is to keep a check on ourselves.

Don't think that life is all rosy or beautiful, or you are sure to be disappointed. At the same time. don't become the cynic who is always unhappy.

This little bit of adaice applies not only to school affairs, but to life as well. —Tiger Rag, Demopolis, Ala., High.

GUESS WHO

One of the students that run around this Klemme High School is wanted on the telephone, no name was given, but this description was given. So please help us locate her.

She is 5' 3", has brown hair and green eyes. You could take a peek in Girl's and Mixed Chorus. you may find her there. During basketball season you may find her jumping and yelling her lungs out. Last summer you may have seen her twirling a stick or whatever you call it in front of the marching band.

They tell us that she attends the E and R church in Klemme and sings in choir. She plays the for Sunday School and is a member of the Youth Fellowship.

We do hope you can help us find her before the party on the phone hangs up.

Last week's "Guess Who?" interview was none other than Lowell Griemann.

ANNUALS ARE NOW ON SALE. NOV. 1 - NOV. 15.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

Five foot two, eyes of blue, she's very active in school. Her birthday is January 2, and her hair is brown.

She belongs in many school activities such as singing alto in mixed chorus and girls glee club and helps the marching band along by being a twirler. When basketball season arrives, Karen Clabaugh will help by being a cheerleader. She has been on the student council in her high school days and is now on the annual and shamrock staff.

Her church activities include singing in the Methodist choir. president of the G S C S. and a member of the MYF.

When we asked Karen her favorite food she said a steak dinner would interest her with the movie "The Ten Commandments" after that or a movie starring Rock Hudson or Elizabeth Taylor.

"Carry" as Karen is sometimes called works in Kluckhohn's Grocery store for a pastime. You often find her taking a test in her favorite subject bookkeeping. Her pet peeve is the person who is always talking while she is taking a test.

When asked about her embarrassing moment she said "It is too embarrassing to put on paper." Her favorite saying is "Oh, golly."

Karen's future plans are not definite but she may go on to Business School.

Typos Tell Tales

Sometimes in newspapers and other printed media, because of carelessness or an inadvertent arrangement of words, people say things they never intended. Here are a few examples:

From a note to parents: "Please examine. sigh, and have your child return report card promptly."

A sign in a store window read: "Evening Gowns cut ridiculously low."

A newspaper account told: "Mrs Shirley Baxter, who went deer hunting with her husband, is very proud that she was able to shoot a fine buck as well as her husband."

Another news story told of a festival: "The Lodi Queen, officials said, will be selected without benefit of bathing suits."

A "filler" seen in one paper read: "It is difficult to determine whether millionaires are more interested in stocks or in blonds."

Night Before Tests

Twas the night before tests
And all thru my head,
I searched for some answers
But my brain wires were dead.
Not even a thought—
My memory had left me.
In vain I had sought.
Backward, turn backward—
Oh time in my sorrow,
And make it last week
Just for tomorrow!

A TEACHER IS . . .

Take one of those Hollywood combinations of a playwright, director and composer.

Add a traffic cop, a detective and bring to a boil. Stir in a salesman, a statistician and a bill collector. Top off with an evangelist, a spiritual orator and Caesar's wife—and you have a teacher, perhaps a little tired from all this.—Student Echo, Topeka, Iind., High.

Moonlit Terror

"See you in a couple of days," yelled dad as he climbed into the car. "I hate to leave you here alone but I must get some business cleared up." With a wave of his hand he was off. Nancy slowly walked out onto the veranda.

The sun was setting behind the clouds and the desert had a misty look. Here and there a giant cactus loomed up in the dusk and the yellow desert flowers were beginning to drop their heads for their evenings sleep. Off in the distance dad's black car was slowly disappearing over the vast dunes of sand. Suddenly Nancy felt very alone and desolate.

As she stood there, a gentle breeze began blowing her fine blond hair into short curly wisps. Her mind began to wander over the past week's events. Monday her father had changed offices and moved the firm to Los Angeles. A lawyer's life is not one spent in leisure time and it was Wednesday before Nancy realized that he had forgotten about a place to live.

The doctor, knowing her father had been working too hard, suggested a nice, quiet place where he could relax. Nancy insisted on coming here to a Spanish hascienda on the Mojave desert. She knew it was far from the firm and she had planned things carefully. They had no contact at all with the outside world for Nancy had convinced her father they wouldn't need a phone for a few weeks.

The hascienda was indeed a beautiful place. It was an exact replica of an old Spanish home but the inside was completely modern.

Now, when everything had looked fine, dad had insisted on returning to Los Angeles to clear up some important business leaving her here alone!

Well, she had other things to think about except herself. Dad was bringing the servants back with him so she would have plenty of preparation to do. Nancy picked up the lemonade pitcher and some papers and went back into the house.

The fireplace was lit and the shadows of the flames were dancing an Indian pattern on the wall. How weird everything seemed! A little music would brighten things and she turned on the radio. Soon soft music flooded the room and Nancy went about closing windows, shutting off fans and putting on lights. She sat down and was about to read a new novel when her hand froze to the book! With a gasp of breath she raced across the room and turned the radio up full blast!

FLASH BULLETIN!

"John Dillian has escaped from the death chamber only minutes before his scheduled execution! This man is five feet, eleven inches tall, black hair and brown eyes. He weighs about 180 pounds. Dillion has a mental condition which makes him extremely dangerous. He has threatened to get even with the criminal lawyer, Matt Griffen, who provided the evidence convicting him. Police are looking for Matt Griffen and anyone knowing his whereabouts please notify police immediately.

With a shudder Nancy turned down the radio. "Dad, poor Dad!" And here she was isolated, without a phone or any means of contact. She was still pacing up and down the floor when a special announcement informed her that her father had been located and was under police protection.

With a sigh of relief, Nancy sank down on the couch and realized how tired she really was. Well, up to bed for her. She went upstairs, put on her pajamas and stepped out onto the balcony for a few finutes.

The desert was dark and silent and the huge cactus looked like ranks of men standing in uneven ranks.

Nancy slowly walked back into the room and crawled into bed. She was facing the open doors of the balcony but the moonlight shining in her face made her turn over and face the wall. For some reason, she couldn't sleep so she devoted her attention to the room. The moonlight had formed a screen on the wall and the curtains and the open doors furnished a stage. Now and then some object would block some of the light creating the scene. Soon Nancy began to imagine in her own mind her own scene. Suddenly she froze! Had she heard a sound? Oh how silly, a girl of seventeen years old should know better than to jump at every little noise. She tried to forget it but some gnawing fear kept reminding her of it. She closed her eyes for a while but soon she had the feeling she was being watched. Slowly, ever so slowly she opened her eyes. Now the scene on the wall portrayed that of a figure standing in the balcony slowly advancing toward the doors.

Her scream froze in her throat as the tall figure moved forward. Panic seized her and she leaped from the bed grabbing her flashlight as she moved. She had taken the intruder by surprise, she might have a chance of escape!

A strong arm clasped around her neck as she tried to reach the door. Her arm flew up and a dull thud echoed through the room. The flashlight had found its mark.

Nancy flashed the light on the man's face. It was John Dillian. But why? Suddenly everything became clear, her dad, being under police protection, was probably so carefully guarded that Dillian couldn't reach him. Now was no time to think. She ran and got the curtain cords but as she stooped to tie him the man began to come to. Why, oh why, hadn't she bashed his head in?

She flew through the door as escape hammered in her mind! When she reached the kitchen pounding footsteps on the stairs told her he was in fast pursuit! Her frenzied mind didn't take time to think and in panic she dashed out into the orchard. Escape was inaccesible and as the rough hands closed around her throat, the desert was darker than it had ever been before.

Struggling reduced to tension, tension to limpness and again, night and stillness were the universe.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

S-R-T

Don't forget that you can have an evening of fun and possibly take home some Thanksgiving poultry if you attend the American Legion's Feather Party at the grade school basement next Monday night, November 18. The party gets underway at 8 o'clock and the Legion Auxiliary will be on hand to serve coffee, doughnuts, and sandwiches.

And the local Lions Club is presenting their annual Lions Varieties next Wednesday night, November 20th. The show begins at 8 o'clock in the high school gymnasium, and if past performances are indicative, there will be a rollicking good time as local club members step out of character and into their parts in the show.

The Lions put the money from these shows to good use locally, and your attendance will help them to promote some community betterment program.

Recently Mrs L W Butler of Livermore and her daughter, Mrs Bob Barr of Humboldt were visiting at the Charles Butler home southeast of town. The experience they had on their way home was a dilly.

They had only been underway for about a mile and a half when a jackrabbit on the road jumped high in the air and smashed into the windshield of their car. The impact knocked a hole in the windshield and Mrs Barr received some minor cuts from flying glass.

Otherwise, no serious damage was done . . . not even to the jack rabbit. He was knocked to the ground, but after a stunned moment, he got to his feet and took off across the field. Tough old critter.

Weather is still against the completion of corn and soybean harvest, but this area of the state is much better off than are some other localities. Most of the harvesting is done here, but as of yesterday, two-thirds of the state's corn crop was still in the field.

LIONS MET WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 6TH

The Klemme Lions Club met on Wednesday, November 6th.

LaVerne Schroeder and Lawrence Moritz have been recently admitted as new members.

Bertha Dean Named to Head Hancock County Memorial Hospital

Announcement was made this week of the hiring of a new administrator for the Hancock Co. Memorial Hospital to succeed H A Porter.

Miss Bertha A Dean, 50, a former major in the Army Nurse Corps, became administrator effective Monday, Nov 8. She is a native of Highland, N Y, and graduated as a registered nurse from Vassar Hospital at Poughkeepsie, N Y.

She served in the army nurse corps during World War II and more recently as administrator of the 37-bed McCray Memorial Hospital at Kendallville, Ind. The past few months she has been temporarily employed as nursing supervisor at a Keokuk, Iowa hospital. Other experience includes supervisor at Baldwin House, the hospital at Vassar College.

Miss Dean met with the board of trustees of the Hancock county Memorial Hospital on Oct. 28 and the board voted approval that night, Chairman Erwin Buck said.

The board has been searching for a new administrator since Porter submitted his resignation this summer to devote full time to the investment business. About 20-25 persons indicated interest in the position and the board interviewed 10 including one man who came here from Dallas, Texas. Another called from California to inquire about the job.

Buck said that those persons who visited here, were much impressed by the local hospital, its structure, equipment and cleanliness.

Miss Dean will come to Hancock County at a time when occupancy of the local hospital is at an all time high. During the week of Oct 22-29, a total of 30 patients were admitted, and one day last week there was room for only one more person in the regular facilities which would be an occupancy of 31.

Miss Dean will become the third administrator in the five year history of the hospital and the first woman in the position. Porter has served for three years, following Gene Soncrant, who was here two years before going to the Webster City hospital.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Auto Accidents

Safety officials warned Iowa motorists this week of a big threat on the highways these days—the movement of farm equipment on the roads. With corn harvesting underway, and with the movement of tractors, trucks and wagons of picked corn plus the added problem of early darkness, highway patrolmen are asking drivers to be more alert.

"The biggest threat now is the movement of farm equipment on the highways," said the partol, "plus the fact it gets darker earlier and it is harder for the motorist to see the machinery."

Farmers too are urged to use added precautions in their use of the main traveled highways and roads not only for their own protection but that of the motoring public.

Iowa highway deaths so far this year have topped the 600 mark. Last year's record total was 728 fatalities.

Dam Nearly Done

The work on construction of the hugh Coralville dam in Johnson and Linn counties is almost completed. Col John L Wilson, Jr, district engineer of the army corps of engineers, said work is nearing completion.

Initial contracts for construction were started in 1949 and continued until May 1953. Work was halted in August 1954 because of the Korean War. Three construction contracts remain active and one of these is final stage construction on the dam proper.

The project is about 95 per cent complete now.

Home Inspections

Only minor corrections have been recommended as a result of the first month's inspections of nursing homes and other places for compliance with new state fire safety regulations.

Fire Marshall Ed Herron reports that after completion of inspection in about a dozen scattered counties noted flaws were "only minor." He said there "is a spirit of cooperation by most operators of the nursing homes, custodial homes, county homes and state institutions."

New state regulations went into effect last Sept 20.

Educators Warn

Iowa educators are sounding the alert to many high school students who plan to attend college in the years ahead.

Students are warned to buckle down now or they may find they have prepared too little too late.

They may not get into college. The high school report card will be the key to college entrance.

Treasurer Short

The state auditor's office reports accounts of Anton Dahlgren, former Cherokee county treasurer, were about $19,140 short for a two year period 1954-56. Dahlgren is now under indictment for embezzelment. He resigned last May, was indicted in July.

Employment Up

September unemployment rolls in Iowa showed an increase of 7,600 workers over the month before as nonfarm employment rose to 663,800. The above normal gains were due largely to season activities in trade. service and governmental hiring.

Hospital Projects

Nearly $56 millions worth of new hospitals or additions have been built or programmed in Iowa in the last 10 years—the first ten years of a national aid program in which the government cooperates with municipal or state governments in financing such building costs.

Probation Charges

A citizen's committee at Fort Dodge blames Webster County officials for short-comings in the county juvenile home. The board has been given until next August to complete "drastic changes in the institution."

The state department of social welfare has threatened to revoke the license for the institution.

Wrong Bird

Three young Cass county hunters took a shot at the wrong kind of a "bird" the other day.

One of the trio blasted away with a shotgun but he directed his fire at a low flying airplane. The airplane, it turns out, was piloted by an Iowa conservation commission officer and pilot.

End result? After a chase the plane trapped the young hunters and the pilot landed to apprehend the trio.

Younger Trend

John Ashbrook of Ohio, national chairman of the Young Republicans, thinks politics is growing younger. He told an Iowa Young Republicans group "we will see presidential candidates who are considered top possibilities when they are in their 40's."

Political progress of younger men is bipartisan, he said.

Signs of Future

"Loveless in 58" campaign buttons have already made their appearance in Iowa. They were issued by Iowa Democratic headquarters and made their first public appearance at the state labor convention.

Cromwell Appointment

Governor Loveless said he has approved board of control plans to name Dr James Cromwell, superintendent of the state mental hospital at Independence, to the additional post of state mental health director. When the appointment becomes official Cromwell will assume a dual role.

OTTO LEMKE OBITUARY

Otto W Lemke was born March 11, 1880, in Cacen, Germany, the second of eleven children born to his parents, Henry and Albertena Lemke.

The family migrated to America in 1883 when Otto was three year old. They lived in Garner, Iowa, for a few years, then moved to a farm in Liberty Township located a half mile south of the Liberty Methodist Church, where they resided for many years.

The Liberty Methodist used the German language at that time. The Lemke family made this their church home and attended regularly. Here Otto grew to manhood. He held various offices in his community and in his church and was always helpful. He was best known in later years for his work as Sunday School Superintendent in the Klemme Methodist Church.

On January 4, 1905, Otto W Lemke, 24, and Mary Busch, 19, were married at the farm home of the bride's parents. The officiating minister was the Rev Albert Muehlmeier, who was the first resident pastor of the Klemme Reformed Church. The marriage vows were spoken in German, and the ceremony was witnessed by forty relatives and friends.

Otto and Mary Lemke commenced housekeeping on the J J Stille farm in Liberty Township. Three years later they moved to the Will Beier farm. Here their two sons were born. After eight years they bought the Ernest Lenz farm, just west of Klemme. Here they lived thirty years. Since then they have lived in Klemme in a nice small home on east main street.

They celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1955, and now after 52 years of married life the family circle is broken by the death of the husband. Otto W Lemke died Monday, November 4, 1957. His age, 77 years, 7 months and 24 days.

He leaves besides his wife Mary; two sons; Wayne, of Huston, Texas and Clarence of Klemme, Iowa. Also three grandchildren. Sharon, Larry and Pamela; two sisters; Bertha (Mrs Will Beier), Fort Dodge, Iowa: Anna (Mrs Eric Clark), Clear Lake, Iowa; and two brothers; William and John Lemke, Garner, Iowa; and a host of more distant relatives and friends.

Mr and Mrs Ben Reimer of Garner, Ruth Yohn of Clear Lake, and Mrs Henry Johnson of Minneapolis visited in the home of Clarence Waterman and Mrs Hulda Wiles, Sunday evening.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Care to know what your chances of getting killed may be if you're involved in a traffic accident? Clifford Swanson, chief of the safety department's research pureau, has just come forth with some grim statistics that point right at each one of us.

The chance of death in an accident happening at 25 miles per hour in an urban area is 1 in 300, according to Swanson. However, the chance drops to 1 in 125 if the accident happens at the same speed in a rural area.

The statistics start to cut a little closer to the coffin as the speed goes up. For example, there is one chance in 30 that you will be killed if your involved in an accident at 55 miles per hour in a rural area.

But look what happens if you add just 10 more miles of speed: Your chance for death is one in 15 if your are in a rural accident at 65 miles per hour, according to the research bureau statistics.

And, of course, this doesn't mean you've got 14 chances of coming off safe and sound in an accident at this speed. The statistics do not include your chances of surviving in a mangled state.

Also, the statistical study does not tell us what the chance of death may be at 75 or 85 miles per hour. Is there any need?

We know statistics seldom make an impression. but it should be worth remembering that you cut your chance of survival in an accident in half when you increase speed from 55 to 65. Is it worth it?

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

By Henderson

Tulips can be planted late—up until late November. But it's likely to be hard digging then. If you won't get tulips planted until after freezeup, this suggestion from Horticulturist Ben Vance of Iowa State College may save you some work. He advises mulching planting sites now with 6 to 8 inches of straw. This will slow freezing of the soil.

Production records are "a must" if you expect maximum profits from your dairy herd, says Extension Dairyman Bob Fincham of Iowa State College. If you aren't using a record system now, check with your county extension director to see which program would best fit your herd —Dairy Herd Improvement Association, Owner-Sampler, or Weigh a Day a Month. All of these plans will help you determine what feeding levels to use for each cow and when to cull unprofitable cows from the herd.

Fall applied fertilizer is O K. Fall applications plowed down have given as good results as spring applications that are disked into plowed ground, says Agronomist Joe Stritzel of Iowa State College. There are several advantages to fall applications, he adds. Ground is usually firmer during the fall. Soil structure isn't as likely to be harmed by passage of equipment. There may be some saving in price by fall purchase of fertilizer, and time may be less of a problem in the fall than in the spring.

Fall Rat clean up. Extension Entomologist Earl Raun advises cleaning up all breeding places in and around cribs first. Then "rat-proof" the cribs. Follow up with a poisoning program using warfarin or one of the warfarin type poisons, Raun says. Mix the poison with a bait material such as a mixture of corn meal and oatmeal. Place bait in bait stations that will allow rats to enter, but will keep pets and children out. Keep fresh bait in stations at all times.

Your strawberry bed needs a cover to protect the plants against damage this winter. Ed Cott, Iowa State College Extension Horticulturist, says to mulch with three or four inches of clean straw. Don't use tree leaves. They can mat down and smother plants.

Agronomist Harvey Thompson of Iowa State College says volunteer oats could be pastured, made into silage or made into hay. Pasturing or ensiling would be preferable, because it's difficult to dry hay at this season. Where there's a seeding under the oats, taking the crop off in some way is advisable. If the growth is left on the field, it will provide a harbor for mice this winter, and for plant disease in the spring.

Taxable Valuation Up $454,363 in County

The Iowa State Tax Commission recently approved the taxable valuations a compiled by the Hancock County Assessors Office for 1957 as approved by the County Board of Review.

Total taxable valuation in Hancock County on which 1957 taxes are being levied totals $38,543,363.44 an increase of $454,363.00 over 1956.

Increase of utility values and new buildings added to real estate account for most of the increase. Utility values increased by $279,601.00 in 1957. Farm building values were increased by $139,534.00 by addition of new buildings. Urban residential building values increased by $69,252.00 and new commercial buildings added another $204,954 to the tax rolls. Most of the latter values were added by huge storage facilities built by the county's Coop and Elevators.

Total value of rural area in Hancock County for 1957 is $30,921,426 and the urban taxable value is listed at $7,621,453.

Real Estate accounts for $22,986,453 of the total valuation and was increased by some $133,999 in 1957.

In the urban areas real estate accounts for $5,438,472 and this is up $63,159 from 1956.

Farm machinery values decreased $140,230 in 1957 from a total of $2,134,002 in 1956 to $1,993,772 in 1957 in spite of the fact that machinery prices are higher on new equipment. Lower farm prices has slowed the purchase of new equipment and depreciation allowances on old equipment considerably more than offset the addition of new equipment.

Home freezers in Hancock County accounted for $108,320 in taxable value in 1957 as compared to $97,406 in 1956, an increase of $10,914 over the previous year.

Moneys and credits valuations for taxation increased from $2,397,320 in 1956 to $2,575,480 in 1957 an increase of $178,160.

IFYE Delegates Available For Speaking Dates

Groups and organizations that are looking for speakers might consider inviting former International Farm Youth Exchange delegates to their meeting, said Edward Bruns, Hancock County extension youth assistant.

Six IFYE's who have returned from trips to foreign countries are now available for speaking engagements, Ed Bruns reports. They have colored slides and other materials to go with their talks. The six are: Rollie Henkes, delegate to Chili, now a student at Iowa State College, Ames; Tracy Remy, delegate to France, now a student at Iowa State College; Paul Knode, delegate to El Salvador, now farming in Howard County; Marilyn Wachtel, delegate to Australia, now teaching at Primghar; Ronald Paasch, delegate to Argentina, now farming in East Pottawattamie County; and Paul Sywassink, delegate to Italy, now farming in Muscatine County.

The delegates will try to meet the needs of the group as far as speaking time goes. However, Ed Bruns said, they would like to have at least 40 minutes. They have their own projectors, but the local group must furnish a projection screen.

Interested organizations should contact the Hancock County Extension office. Youth Assistant, Ed Bruns will contact the desired speaker and make any necessary arrangements. Travel expenses of the speakers are paid by the Cooperative Extension Service of Iowa State College.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson

County Extension Director

There's a good chance slaughter cattle prices will continue to strengthen, reports Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist. He says that 11 per cent fewer cattle were on feed in the 13 main feeding states October 1 this year than on the same date in 1956.

However, this doesn't necessarily mean an immediate, sharp price rise, Rackham warns. Farmers are not advised to rush into the market to buy feeders at excessive margins.

Back on July 1, there were 9 percent more cattle on feed than a year before. 8 percent more fed cattle were marketed during the July-through-September period this year than last. The October 1 drop in numbers of cattle on feed can be partly blamed on this year's better range and feed conditions. More cattle are on pasture this year, and runs from the West will be later because of good range.

Rackham expects fewer feeder cattle to be marketed this year, since more cattle are ready for slaughter immediately upon leaving pasture this year than last. Also, some animals are being held back for herd restocking.

Cattle and calf slaughter has run below a year ago thus far in 1957, Rackham observes. But feef supplies have held up fairly well since heavier long-fed cattle have reached market.. There are also good supplies of attractively priced poultry and turkeys on the retail market to help ease pressure on the shorter beef supplies. Rackham notes, too, that this fall's heavier hog marketings mean beef will face increasing pork competition.

Teacher Interview

As we entered the doors of Klemme High School in 1956, we were met by a tall, smiling gentleman, our new principal, Mr Wayne Whitney.

Mr Whitney attended high school at Britt, Iowa. He took his undergraduate course at Upper Iowa in Fayette, Iowa. After that, he took his graduate course at the State University of Iowa.

During hunting seasons you may find him out hunting before school starts. This is his favorite pastime and hobby. His favorite actor is Red Skelton, as far as actresses are concerned, he has no particular one.

If you happen to be in one of his classes, you will probably hear him say, "Do you understand it?" or "Fair enough."

His favorite movie is one with plenty of action (one that will keep him awake). Lawrence Welk is his favorite band.

Mr Whitney drives a "Chevi" which is also his favorite car.

His future plans are to continue teaching school and work on the farm in the summer. (Between fishing trips, that is.)

CLASS NEWS

At 1:45 of every school day we see 12 seniors going to Business Arithmetic class. Wondering who their teacher is, we found out by asking one of the students and the answer was Mr Whitney.

Now the question was "What are you learning?" and the reply was, we have been learning how to find a per cent of a number and how to invoice articles, also the different things we would have to know if we would start a business, such as how to find margin, overhead, net sales, net loss and the profit which we all like to have coming our way. They also said that they had a nine week test which contained the per cent and other things they had been taught the first nine weeks. The next question was "What are you working on now?" They said mostly discounts and more percents of sales.

JOKES

While I was an army nurse serving overseas in World War II, my mail sometimes went astray. One letter from home finally reached me in Australia after having been mis-sent to an isolated post in Alaska. On the envelope was the penciled notation: "Not here—Darnit!"

A bride-to-be had just shown a friend the list of wedding guests.

"Isn't is strange," asked the friend, "that you've included only married couples?"

"Oh, that was Jack's idea," she replied. "He says that if we invite only married people, the presents will be all clear profit."

Hollywood actor to pretty girl at a party: "You look like the outdoor type—let's go out on the patio."

Shaggy Dog (Turkey?) Story: Thanksgiving Turnip Talks

There was a small boy in the city of New York who went to the garden one pleasant Thanksgiving morning to dig turnips. While he was digging, one turnip said, "You have never weeded me, but now you come around with a spade all ready to eat me—get away and leave me alone."

The boy looked around. "Who said that?" he asked. No one answered. He began to dig again, but just then the spade spoke up, "The turnip said to leave him alone, and you'd better listen!"

The boy was very angry because his spade had never spoken before, so he lifted it high above his head and was going to break it against a stone.

Just then the stone said, "Take it easy, now, man, easy."

The boy was now frieghtened. Never had such things happened to him before! He dropped the spade and ran to the governor's mansion. On the way he saw an old lady making a pumpkin pie by the kitchen window.

"Little boy, what's the hurry?" she asked.

"Well," said the boy, "I went to my garden to dig turnips when the turnip said to leave it alone, and my spade said to listen to the turnip, and the stone said to take it easy."

"Oh, is that all?" said the lady.

"Well, you'd run, too, if your spade spoke up," said her pie.

With a shriek, the woman ran out of the house and joined the boy on the way to the governor's mansion.

Now, the governer was preparing to have his Thanksgiving dinner when the woman and the boy ran in. His table was covered with all kinds of delicacies, and in the midst was a huge, golden-brown turkey. He was rather annoyed at the interruption.

The boy recounted his unusual adventure. And the woman backed him up, saying "And my pie said I'd run, too, if my spade had talked."

"Oh, go home," said the governor. "It's people like you that disturb the peace."

"Fantastic," said the turkey, "Imagine a talking turnip!"—West Word, West High, Wichita. Kansas.

Early Settlers Thankful For Good Harvest

We Americans now observe Thanksgiving as a time for family gatherings, feasting and long weekend vacations, not stopping to realize the true meaning and background of this day.

During the first winter the Plymouth Colony spent in Massachusetts, they lost nearly half the members of their colony due to extreme cold, the lack of food and the unfriendliness of the Indians. However, by the next fall they had regained their confidence.

After their first harvest, the governor of the colony, William Bradford, set aside a day for the colonists to show their gratitude. They offered prayers of Thanksgiving for surviving the winter, for their battered homes and the first successful harvest.

The women and children in the colony spent many hours preparing food for the feast. According to old records, colonists went hunting and brought back a plentiful supply of wild turkeys which developed the tradition of eating turkey that we observe today.

A band of friendly Indians cam eto the feast, bringing more wild turkey and venison. During the celebration which lasted three days, the Indians joined the colonists in prayers and in church services.—The Hi-Lite, Prophetstown, Ill., High.

Nation Honored Veterans Nov. 11th

Originally intended to celebrate the end of World War I in 1918, and called "Armistice Day," Nov 11 was changed in 1945 to "Veterans Day," in honor of all our soldiers who have fought in all our wars.

While Americans may sometimes lack, even dislike, patriotism of the "flag-waving" kind, whenever the call has been sent out to her young men to give up their freedom, their lives if need be, they have valiently answered the call.

What can we say of these heroes? How can we know of their pain, their hardships, privations, their deaths? How can we adequately honor their sacrifice, their valor?

We can only firmly resolve that we, in our generation, shall not be found wanting. We can only promise them that, if the call of duty comes to us, we will not do less.—SP Special.

Will Adults Give Youth A Chance?

What does the term, "juvenile delinquent" mean to you? To many people, it means teenage Al Capones, murderers, thieves and vandals. What does this mean to teenagers? Do they approve those comments? For once, let's give the teenagers the floor.

Because 10 percent of today's youth are juvenile delinquents, the remaining 90 percent are faced with problems that have no solution. Take a look at the headlines. Is it any wonder that people look at teenagers as the generation of criminals? But in the same paper on Page 6, Column 8, there is a paragrahph or two on "Key Club International Promotes World Peace" or "7 Young People Become Missionaries."

Another problem we teenagers face is the eternal "He's too young." Adults seem to expect us to act like adults, while treating us like children.

Adults don't seem to realize that the youth of today faces a different world—with undreamed of problems to be solved. Youth will make the best of it, do what they can. But they ought to have a chance to solve some problems on their own.

Why can't adults "give youth a chance?"—Viking Log, Petersburg, W. Va., High.

Driver Types

On a date a guy's car can be a place to have fun or a torture chamber, depending on the guy behind the wheel. When some guys drive a girl can relax and be comfortable, while with others she sits on the edge of the seat, mentally putting on the brakes at every stop sign.

Here are some of the stupid stunts fellows pull that makes a date with them an ordeal:

JOE HOTROD: He is out to prove his heap can beat every car on the road. He'll drag anything from a motor scooter to a Mac truck. He's so engrossed in his little speed bings he just doesn't notice red lights, stop signs or speed limit signs. Until it's too late.

COP TEASER: This mast head has dedicated his life to trying to outsmart the whole police force—a sort of one man war against the fuzz. He obeys traffic laws at his convenience. When he gets busted he insults and argues with cops. He's begging to have his license revoked—and John Law will be happy to oblige.

JOE LOVER: This lad wants to neck in transit. So what if he has arms on the chick instead of the wheel, after all, kissing isn't any fun unless your eyes are closed! If he keeps this up he'll close them permanently.

THE JUICER: He tempts fate by drinking while driving. He claims it relaxes him. Unless he wises up, he will be relaxed permanently—six feet under.

THE DAREDEVIL: Never leaves a stop signal without laying a strip of rubber. Likewise he never turns a corner in the rain without making a fishtail. He doesn't stop to think of how his stunts tear up his transmission and tires—or how little control over the car he would have in an emergency.

I GET MAD TYPE: This dad swears at all the other drivers on the road. He thinks that his license is a gift certificate from the state giving him all the roads and hiways. No one else has any right on them.

These are just a few of the idiotic tricks some guys pull in cars. If they would wise up, they'd realize that by driving safely, they not only save gas, the car and our nerves, but they save lives as well.—Cat's Meow, Montague, Mich., High.

Social Security Facts

"Many people in Klemme are like Orville," stated Iske, manager of the Mason City Social Security Office. Orville was almost too late in learning the full meaning of social security. Like some of his co-workers, Orville had never looked into this part in social security. Somehow he had assumed over the years that social security payments would just about take care of his family when he died. He figured, too, that social security retirement benefits in his old age probably would be enough for himself and his wife.

Orville nearly missed the Union meeting that turned out to be so important to him. There he heard a social security representative from Mason City office tell of facts that were completely new to him. For one thing it was pointed out that monthly death benefits could not be paid to widows after children became age 18, unless at least one child is disabled or the widow is over 62 years of age. He also learned that monthly retirement payments for a man and wife could not exceed $162.00—a substantial amount, but possibly not enough to take care of everything.

Orville had guessed that social security benefits would be paid each month to his wife regardless of her age when he died, and he never knew the amounts of retirement payments. Also, he had heard that social security pays a worker's burial expenses at time of death—he learned for the first time that the maximum lump-sum death payment was $255. The reason seemed clear to Orville when the social security official explained: "Social Security benefits were not planned to amount to full replacement of lost earnings due to death, retirement or disability. They are a foundation upon which greater financial security can be provided through savings or other types of insurance."

Now 45, Orville figured he could still supplement his future social security benefits with some savings and perhaps a little more commercial insurance. Yes, he thought, it was a very important meeting he had attended—what if he had been much older at the time?

District 4-H Officers Training School Held

Hancock County was the host County for the District County 4-H Officers Training School that was held in Britt on October 30. 4-H officers and extension personnel from Kossuth, Winnebago, Wright and Hancock Counties attended the training school.

According to Edward Bruns, youth assistant, the purpose of the training school is to give the county 4-H officers concentrated training on their duties as a 4-H officer. They are expected to take this material back to their own county and use it in their own County Officers Training School.

The Garner FFA Chapter under the direction of Bill Brady gave a demonstration on Parlimentary Procedure for the officers. This is an important part of the training.

Ed Bruns said that a date for the County Training School in Hancock County has not been set as yet, but it will be in the near future.

Laura Christie was born on a farm near Goodell, Iowa, June 3, 1891, the daughter of James and Elizabeth Christie. She was baptized in the Methodist faith. She attended Goodell public schools and following graduation taught in rural schools near Corwith, Goodell and Meservey, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson lived on farms near Goodell until 12 years ago when they retired and moved to town.

Mrs. Peterson was always a person doing kind deeds for folks, was a good wife, mother, and neighbor and numbered her friends by acquaintances. They will remember her for her love and care of flowers which she gave away generously for many occasions.

November 17-28 is National Retarded Children's Week

Of the 11,400 babies born each day in this country, 340 will be mentally retarded. This statement is based on the generally accepted estimate that 3 percent of our total population is retarded to some substantially handicapping degree.

While the exact number of children who are mentally retarded is not known, most studies to date indicate that 30 out of every 1,000 of the total population are retarded.

Of this 30, 25 are described as "educable." This means that with proper schooling, vocational and social guidance, the child will be able to make his living when he becomes an adult.

Four of the 30 are known as "trainable." "Trainable" means that a child can be trained to take care of his personal needs, although he may not be able to learn to read and write. Under special conditions he may be able to work away from home when he is grown.

One of the 30 is described as "totally dependent" and will need all time care throughout life.

A retarded child, or for that matter, an extremely bright child, can be born to almost any parents. No mother or father should feel guilty or blame himself—and certainly not each other—because a child of theirs is retarded.

November 17 to 28 is National Retarded Children's Week.

Mr and Mrs George Lawhorn spent the weekend at St Paul, Minnesota, visiting relatives.

4-H Enrollment Climbing

Boys and girls 4-H enrollment in Hancock County will probably reach a new high for the County according to the November 4 report, says Edward Bruns, youth assistant .The prospective enrollment for both boys and girls is 654 which is about 40 above last year's enrollment.

According to the reports made by the 4-H club leaders, there are 261 girls that are present active club members. There are also 50 prospective members, many of which may be members now, which would bring the total to 311. The Ellington experts have the most new members with 10 and also the most members with 29 enrolled.

Reports indicate that there are presently 325 members enrolled in the boys clubs with 18 prospective members. This total could then be 343 members. The Liberty Go Getters had the most new members with 8, but the 7 new members in the Orthel Eagles is close behind. The Ell Midgets have the largest club with 33 members enrolled and a couple more prospects.

It is hoped that all interested members have been contacted, but in case they haven't, Edward Bruns reports they should see a local leader or stop at the Extension Office to get in a 4-H club of their choice.

November 24-30 Is "Know America Week"

Perhaps one of the most important national observances this fall is "Know Your America Week," sponsored annually by the All-American Conference to Combat Communism. Dates are Sunday, November 24 through Saturday, November 30, which appropriately embraces the Thanksgiving Day period.

Unit president, Mrs Bob Hartzell, states the purpose of Know Your America Week is to re-activate an interest and knowledge of American history and the minds and hearts of our citizens. "Each of us should know the history of our land, and the part he is expected, by tradition, to take in the impartial administration of justice; in the functions of government on local, state and national levels; and in the broad destiny of our nation," says President Eisenhower.

The committee has set forth the following program, which can be used by organizations, and civic groups in the week's observance. Sunday, November 24, in churches: Religion — "The Faiths by Which We Live." Monday, November 25, Government—"The Nation We Honor 'and "The Laws Under Which We Live." Tuesday, November 26, Citizenship—"Our Rights and Responsibilities." Wednesday, November 27—"The Schools Our Children Attend." Thursday, November 28, Thanksgiving Day—"Consider the Blessings of Freedom." Friday, November 29—Labor-Management—"The Jobs at Which We Work." Saturday, November 20, In synagogues: Religion—"The Faiths by Which We Live," and for community use,—"The Lands from Which We Come" and "The Organizations to Which We Belong." (Appropriate programs can be arranged by church and civic groups from these topics.)

Whereas, in these time of world upheaval, it is necessary for Americans to fully appreciate their heritage of freedom and rededicate themselves to its preservation, the American Legion Auxiliary suggests than all citizens cooperate in making this "Know Your America Week" a truly successful observance, as a means of combating communism and arousing national interest in true "Americanism."

First Snow Of Season Is A Humdinger

Nine Inches and Wind for Drifts

The first snow storm of the season hit here Sunday night and before it was through putting down the white stuff sometime Monday night, an accumulation of approximately nine inches was on the ground Tuesday morning.

Highways about the state were blocked for a time, schools, including the Klemme School, were closed Tuesday, meeting and public gatherings were cancelled, farmers were caught with many acres of corn still in the field and some soybeans and grain sorghum.

It was a record breaking effort for November in the state and was reminiscent of the 1940 Armistice Day storm. However, this storm produced more snow and not nearly as cold weather as did that storm of 17 years ago.

In addition to the local school being closed on Tuesday, other changes were made necessary by the storm. The Legoin Feather Party, which was to have been held Monday evening, was postponed until next Monday, November 25th, and the annual Lion's Varieties, which were to have been held this evening (Wednesday) have been postponed until Wednesday, December 4th.

The poor visibility and the wet snow at the height of the storm, caused many accidents about the state and put many cars in the ditch in this area. Also ditched was the town's maintainer, and one of the county snow plows.

The good feature about the snowstorm is that the ground was not frozen when the storm hit, and nearly all of the moisture will go into the soil.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

He'll Run

Anytime a politician reports his job agrees with him you can bet he's eyeing another term. Most of 'em eye another term even if the job doesn't agree with them.

Herschel Loveless, Iowa's first Democratic governor in 20 years, reports he has gained 15 pounds on the ham and chicken circuit in his first year in office. Well, it has been almost a year. He was sworn in as governor in January, 1957.

Tipping the scales now at 175, the chief executive told reporters, however, he doesn't know for sure whether he'll seek another term. Nearly all governors seeking reelection have held up their official announcements until after the first of the year in campaign years.

Expected to too

Lt Gov W H Nicholas, Mason City, is definitely expected to seek the Republican nomination for governor. Nicholas, however, hasn't made any official announcement on his plans. His activities along the banquet circuit are those of a candidate running hard.

Nicholas is expected to have company in the GOP ranks, although no definite candidates have come forth as yet.

Friends of W L Mooty, Grundy Center, speaker of the Iowa house, reports he's about set to run for lt-governor, though they point out that a last minute change might occur in which event Mooty likely would seek the top spot of nomination for governor.

Robert Beck of Centerville, Republican highway commissioner, has been getting lots of "pressure" to run and has about decided this is not the year, friends report.

Yours Maybe?

The Iowa internal revenue service says it has about $38,560 for 863 Iowans who have federal income tax refunds due them.

Part of this may be yours. If you think you have cash coming write the Iowa federal officials. They report the money hasn't been paid because they've been unable to locate taxpayers who have refunds due them. The refunds are due as overpayments on 1956 income and in most cases represent excess amounts withheld from paychecks in 1956.

The refunds range from 32 cents to $676 but the average will be about $44.00.

Biggest Yet

The 103rd Iowa teachers convention was the biggest ever held.

The Iowa State Education Association, which stages the annual event in Des Moines, said the 1957 meeting was the biggest and the best of all.

Conservation Emphasis

Two years ago the state legislature passed a law permitting Iowa counties to establish their own conservation boards. Purpose was to promote interest in local recreation areas.

To date 14 counties have set up their own units.

Iowan to Parley

Charles Wittenmeyer, Iowa GOP national committeeman, will attend a Dec. 6 meeting of the national committee in Washington. National defense, civil rights and the federal budget are tabbed for discussion at this parley, he reports.

Federal Funds

Iowa has been allotted $9,649,000 for payments under the federal soil and water conservation practices program. Under the Agricultural Conservation Program the government shares with farmers and operators the cost of certain approved conservation practices. The funds available are about the same as last year.

Tree Bank

The state of Iowa has a tree bank. Established under the federal soil bank program its purpose is to supply low-cost forest type evergreens for farmers to plant on marginal land now in cultivation. The evergreens thus grown would be a type not produced previously by commercial nurseries here.

The seeding for 9,400,00 trees is now underway at Iowa State College. Distribution will begin in 1960.

Plantings consist of white pine, Austria Pine, red pine, ponderosa pine, jack pine and Virginia pine.

Almost $100,00 has been invested already in the program by the federal government.

Gas Tax Refunds

Iowa farmers have received an estimated $5,835,959 in federal gas tax refunds for the year ended June 30. Payments covered 115,200 claims. The refunds cover 3 cents of the federal tax on gasoline used on farms for non-highway purposes.

Long Hours Yet

Despite an increase in the number of Iowa highway patrolmen there still hasn't been a shortened work week for them.

The 1957 legislature authorized expanding the patrol by 50 men to a 275 complement. But 23 driver's license examiners were taken into the patrol thus leaving a net gain of 27 patrolmen.

The increase isn't enough to put the patrol on an 8-hour work day. Schedules are set up for a 10-hour six-day week but chief Herrick reports the work week is closer to "72-hours."

Highway Interchanges

John Butter. chief engineer of the Iowa highway commission, says that "on the average" there will be an interchange every four miles over the 730-mile interstate network of super roads through the state. In urban areas they may be more frequent.

On the toll road plans for Iowa, which have since gone by the boards, an interchange was planned every 25-miles.

Fair Sales Off

Sales tax collections at the Iowa State Fair were off this year compared with 1956. Collections this year totaled $10.145 compared with $12,320 a year ago. A smaller gate and the return to the 2 percent tax rate down a half from a year ago, resulted in the decline.

Flu Shots

Dr Ralph Heeren, state department of health, reports that while the peak of the Asian flu outbreak has been reached in Iowa citizens should act now in getting flu shots. He said that while folks will not need them for the current crisis the shots will be helpful in warding off the illness for the expected second wave expected to hit Iowa in February or March.

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

By Henderson

Iowa's laying hens produce over seven and a half million dollars worth of fertilizer in the form of manure every year, says Iowa State College Extension poultryman Paul Walther. A farmer's small flock of 100 hens produces annually the equivalent of 1,000 pounds of 13-16-7 commercial fertilizer costing about $33. To balance poultry manure's high nitrogen content, potash, phosphate, or both, should be added according to soil and crop needs as indicated by a soil test.

Vibriosis is one of the most destructive of all the principal sheep diseases and it has been reported recently in Iowa, according to Extension Veterinarian John Herrick of Iowa State College. It causes abortions. Herrick says your veterinarian should be called to make a laboratory diagnosis of any stillborn or aborted fetus. There are other causes of abortions, and the diagnosis is important. Herrick says purebred breeders should be especially watchful to avoid stock replacements which may have been exposed to the disease.

Animal husbandman William Zmolek, Iowa State College, says experimental trials show that, as a source of protein, any one of the various oil meals—or even urea—is able to provide protein for cattle efficeintly. Ruminant animals such as cattle build their own proteins by bacterial action. Therefore it is not necessary to supply them all the different essential amino acids as it is for single-stomach animals—like pigs—which have an enzyme digestive system.

Percent moisture in order to make silage out of grain sorghum heads. Iowa State College agronomists answer: It seems probable that good quality grain silage can be made when the heads contain 35 to 40 percent moisture.

What can be done when corn is picked and cribbed at too high a moisture content? Agricultural Engineer Dale Hull. Iowa State College answers: The only thing you can do is adapt your crib for mechanical drying with heated, or unheated, air. That means, paper the ends of the crib. Along one side build a duct for forced air, about 3 feet by 4 feet. Paper the rest of that side of the crib. Leave the other side and top unpapered (open). Consult your county extension director about the minimum rate of air flow and maximum number of bushels per fan horsepower. The figures are in the Midwest Farm Handbook (beginning page 129 in the 1957 edition). Bear in mind you'll have a problem of irregular air flow because of cross braces in a crib that was not equipped for drying before filling.

Cabbage

Mrs Peter Enockson of Ottosen harvested a giant cabbage from her garden recently. After the outer leaves had been trimmed, it weighed 10 pounds.

Killed

Mrs Clarence Goodman was injured fataly recently when a corn elevator fell on her at her farm home two miles west of Haverhill. She died instantly of a broken neck and other multiple fractures and injuries.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson

County Extension Director

Fall hog prices are probably about as low as they're going to be, according to Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College Farm Economist. Kutish points out that this year's summer price peak was much higher than last year's and was followed by a rapid, sharp early-fall decline.

Last year's market was remarkebly stable all fall, except for one price dip in November, which was followed by a brisk December recovery.

This September, hog slaughter was slightly ahead of last year, while August and October kill lagged a little behind a year before.

The biggest difference in 1957 hog slaughter is expected to appear this December. Kutish notes that hog weights have crept above last year's marks during recent weeks. There may also be some accumulation of hogs into December as farmers let hogs grow heavier on cheap corn. But, more important, says Kutish, June farrowings were up considerably, according to the September pig survey. This means more hogs going to market early this winter.

In view of these factors. Kutish says farmers shouldn't expect hog prices to recover as fast this winter as last. Late winter slaughter isn't expected to be much different from a year ago, but prices will likely be a little lower than late last winter.

The big difference between 1957 and 1958 hog-price patterns should show up during the last half of 1958, Kutish believes. The seasonal price-peak should arrive earlier, probably in late spring or early summer.

Right now there's no good measure of the size of the 1958 late-spring farrow. But such factors as corn prices, the hog-corn ration, etc, indicate the late-spring farrow will be up quite a bit. Hog prices as low as 12 cents are definitely possible, Kutish says.

Material Participation By Land Owners

Farm landlords over the age of 65 have started filing claims for their social security benefits, according to Iske, manager of the local social security office. The number of such claims will reach a peak early in 1958, after farmers have filed their 1957 tax returns.

The 1954 law which covered self-employed farmers beginning with 1955, did not provide coverage for any landlord receiving rental income from his farm land, according to Iske. This meant that many landlords whose sole business was farming and who actually took part in the farming operations were denied the protection of the Social Security Act. To remedy this, Congress in 1956, changed the law so that a landlord who by arangement with the tenant or share-farmer takes part in producing a crop and whose acitvities significantly affect the amount of the crop, will have his net income from this activity credited to his social security account.

This means that the farm landlord over the age of 65 who has been helping his tenant in the production of a crop by helping with the work, contributing machinery or money and actively managing some of the operations, during 1956 and 1957, may be qualified for a social security benefit.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

This is the Person to Person program with a very important message this afternoon. We have selected for our interview a Senior girl who was born on December 23, 1940 and is 5 feet, 5 inches tall with dark brown hair and brown eyes.

As we continued into the program she happened to mention "that people who think they are too good for someone else" is her pet peeve, she also mentioned that when she had nothing else to do she liked to ride horse back and go roller skating. When not doing these she said you may find her watching the movie "Jailhouse Rock" or some movie starring Rock Hudson or Debbie Reynolds. She said her favorite subject was advanced typing and also mentioned that she was on the annual staff. If you haven't already guessed, we are talking to Beverly Kay Lemke this afternoon.

Now we asked Beverly what she would like for dinner and the reply was "a good California hamburger with a chocolate malt afterward." She said she had to hurry along because she couldn't miss her church activities that evening. We asked what church she went to and what activities she belonged to and her reply was that she belonged to the Methodist church and MYF was her evening's activity.

IN-LAWS

Men who marry sisters, but are otherwise unrelated are considered brothers-in-law in the US but nowhere else in the world.

Sputnik First Step To Space Travel

The geophysicist now speaks of the "crud" that fills the universe beyond our atmosphere—particles, radiation, dust, magnetic forces and other forces not yet known. It is to study these phenomena of "empty" space that the tiny, instrument-packed artificial moon is being sent up. The notion of an immense, black, cold emptiness beyond the earth is now true.

Speeding around the earth at 18,000 miles an hour, the satellite marks only the first step in the exploration of outer space. The second step is already on the drafting boards of ballistics engineers in Washington. This is the attempt to send a satellite around the moon, which many scientists think can be done within five or ten years. In our lifetime, perhaps, we may enter the age of human flight into space. Man is taking his first steps to tre new frontier—space!
—Trojan Echo, Osawatomie, Kansas, High.

Teacher Interview

As we come to school in the morning, we are greeted by a friendly "Hi," that of Mrs Oberg our English teacher.

Other than teaching English, Mrs Oberg is the annual advisor and advisor of the Shamrock. a Junior Class sponsor, and she teaches dramatics and declam.

Mrs Oberg received her education at St Olaf College in Northfield, Minnesota and at I S T C in Cedar Falls. She began her teaching career in Brighton, Colorado.

As a pastime, Mrs Oberg enjoys reading. Her favorite author is Lloyd C Douglas.

She has no particular favorite actor and actress but enjoys musical comedies, suspense T V programs and the legitimate theater.

On picnics or when eating out her favorite food is charcoal-broiled fillet with tossed salad and roquefort dressing.

How Time Flies!

Many people use the expression, "How time flies," but when a teenager becomes a senior he realizes it more than ever.

The basketball season is very near and it seems that when basketball starts, time goes so fast that before you know it. the school year is over.

After these few short months end, the seniors must begin a whole new life. Sometimes it seems very frightening. The world of responsibilities, competition and decision is waiting. We have all been exposed to these things in one way or another, but not in such large doses.

A lot of seniors are not even sure which vocation they would like to enter—but soon must decide.

The close companionship a teenager has with his friends probably won't dissolve. But it won't be the same, either. Sure, there will be new friends, but they won't be as close.

On the other hand, life probably will be very rewarding in some ways, after we are out of high school. The satisfaction of having a job and doing it well, and of course, the paycheck.

Yes, graduation, soon to come. means the end of an old way of living and the beginning of another.

How time flies!
—Tiger Rag, LeMars, Ia, High.

A man may write any time he sets himself doggedly to it.
—Samuel Johnson.

Geometry Miracle

It seems that geometry will be
The cause of the death of me.
Parallels & perpendiculars and angles,
My thoughts are absolutely in tangles.
An axiom, a corollary, a theirem,
How they confuse me!
How I fear them!
They say that miracles do come true
Oh—How I hope and pray they do.
And that some day Mr Whitney will confess
That through a Miracle
I've passed a test!

Legal Oddities

St Louis—A judge sentenced a three time speeding offender to 20 days in jail or 10 days working for the street department. He chose work, began painting "SLOW" signs.

Linwood, Pa—Said the judge to 5 boys who had deflated 40 auto tires: "Pump up all of those tires —by hand." They did.

Detroit—A horse and buggy driver was fined $5. In traffic court it was explained that too many motorists stopped to gawk at him, causing a dangerous traffic tie-up.

Muskegon, Mich—A 1949 car was impounded. It had no hood, no windshield, no tail lights, a defective muffler, doors that were tied shut with ropes and many other defects too numerous to mention. Charge taken against the driver—improper registration papers!

London—A detective struggled with a pickpocket. Suddenly the culprit yelled: "Help! I'm a policeman." A passerby held the detective with a half nelson while the pickpocket disappeared. —Student Prints, Concordia, Mo., High.

CLASS NEWS

Have you met Herkimer. the sophomore's new class member? He may be a decendent of the Herchheimer of New York. Although Herkimer is only going to be a member of the class for about a month, they have grown fond of him already.

They have been learning from Herkimer, with the help of Mr Neary, the parts of the digestive system.

Ever held a stomach in your hand? From Herkimer they are able to see what a stomach looks like, and with Mr Neary's knowledge, they should come from Biology with some knowledge of human bodies.

In the next week or so they will begin studying the circulatory system. They are in hope that Herkimer won't be too bashful to let them have his heart for a week or so.

Oh, didn't we tell you, Herkimer is a statue of a torso for the study of Human Biology.

Beware of Carbon Monoxide Poisoning

Do you know what carbon monoxide is? It's a poisonous gas which can kill in a few minutes. Produced when any burning fuel containing carbon (such as oil. gasoline, kerosene, coal, coke or wood) does not have enough air It has no odor or taste to warn of its presence.

Last year 9 Iowans were killed accidentally by carbon monoxide poisoning . . . when the good, free air would have saved them.

It is impossible to be overcome by carbon monoxide when there is a sufficient amount of oxygen (air) in a closed space. So should the presence of carbon monoxide be suspected, open the door or window AT ONCE!

Some people believe they can smell carbon monoxide and the absence of odor means there is no gas escaping. It isn't so. You may NEVER be aware of its presence.

These cold winter days when automobiles are given a chance to "warm-up" before being driven it is especially important to be aware of the danger of carbon monoxide. Killing quantities of carbon monoxide can be built up in 2 or 3 minutes when car engines are allowed to run in a closed garage. This is especially true when the choke is used to start the motor.

Always remember to open the garage doors BEFORE starting the car if it is to be given a warm-up.

And—if you become sleepy or notice a headache while driving open a window AT ONCE. Carbon monoxile may be seeping into the car through a leaky exhaust connection and without fresh air you could be overcome quickly.

It's been said that "the best things in life are free." Whether or not you believe that statement. believe this: Free air can save your life!

Obituary of Julius Priebe

Julius Karl Herman Priebe, one of three boys and six girls in the family of Julius and Wilhemina Baller Priebe, was born September 13, 1867, at Redlin, Hinterpommern, Germany. He was educated in the public school in Redlin where much religious instruction was given since the school was under the supervision of the church. In 1881 the family came to the United States, arriving in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, May 13th. During the fall of that same year the family came to Hancock County, Iowa, and settled on a farm. Young Julius worked about a year for various families in the neighborhood and near Belmond and then stayed home to join his father in operating the farm.

June 8, 1897, he was united in marriage to Bertha Stromer. They established their home on a farm southwest of Klemme which he had purchased in 1893. Four children, Esther, Erwin, Irma and Edna, were born to their union. In 1930, after 33 years on the farm, they retired to Klemme where they had purchased a home. This union was terminated with the death of Mrs. Priebe, October 23, 1953.

Mr. Priebe was a lifelong member of the church. He was baptized September 22, 1867, when only nine days of age. He was confirmed April 10, 1881, just prior to sailing for the United States. He united with Peace Reformed Church south of Garner after coming to Iowa. When the Immanuel Congregation was organized in Klemme, both he and his wife became charter members. Over the years he was loyal and faithful to the church and the Lord whom he loved. He served terms on the Consistory both as elder and deacon. When a church was to be erected in 1930, he was made chairman of the Building Committee and did a commendable job. He never lost interest in the church. As long as health permitted, he attended services faithfully. He recognized the Lord as the source of his blessings. In writing of his life he said: "We must confess, as we look back into the past, that the dear Lord has blessed us abundantly. By His grace the labor of our hands was not in vain . . . God is the source of all our blessings."

Having known and served the Lord, there was no fear or reluctance when he departed this life early on the morning of November 14, 1957. "Thanks be to God who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." (1 Cor. 15:57)

The last member of a large family to depart this life, Mr. Priebe attained the age of 90 years, 2 months, 1 day. He leaves as survivors his four children, Mrs. Fred (Esther) Schmidt, Erwin Priebe, Mrs Paul (Irma) Goll, and Mrs. Herman (Edna) Schmidt. Six grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren, many other relatives and a host of friends also survive.

Sermon text: 2 Timothy 4:7-8, "I have fought a good fight; I have finished my course. I have kept the faith: Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them that love his appearing."

All-County Band Festival At Britt Gym December 2nd

An all-county band festival has been scheduled for Dec 2 at the Britt High School gym.

The seven schools in the county will send their best players for an all-day session of rehearsal and an evening concert. In all there should be about 170 musicians participating.

Paul Behm, the Mason City High School director, and widely known musician, will conduct the massed band in rehearsal and concert. The music to be played was selected partly by him and in part by the band directors of the county.

The whole idea of the festival is to learn and acquire new music for the band libraries, as well as give the kids a chance to work with others from the neighboring schools and acquaint themselves with ideas from sources other than their own directors.

The music selected covers a wide range of interest and technique. There will be two stirring new marches, two chorales, a medley of tunes from "My Fair Lady," a recent release of music from Walt Disney's "Pinocchio" and others selected for their appeal to old and young alike.

An intermission program is being set up in which each school presents a small group or soloist. It will be an hour and a half of good music played by the best high school musicians in the county; an event you cannot afford to miss.

The band will begin rehearsing at 10 a.m. The noon lunch will be served in the high school lunch room. The afternoon rehearsal will begin at 1:00.

At 2:30 there will be a break with the Britt Band Mothers providing drinks and candy for refreshment. The rehearsal will end at 4. The Band Mothers will serve an evening meal in the school lunch room of chicken and noodles with the trimmings at a cost of only 35c to each of the students.

Recreation will be provided: dancing, checkers, chess, table tennis, etc., to fill in the hours until concert time at 8 p.m.

In all it will be a very colorful event. Each band member will wear his school band uniform and will be playing the best he can to provide you with the best band music of the year.

Schools participating are: Woden-Crystal Lake, Hayfield, Garner, Klemme, Kanawha, Corwith and Britt.

The locals trailed 47-42 at the end of the third period but came on strong in the final quarter to edge ahead by a point. Then both Johnson and Bacon fouled out of the game, and Manly was able to pull away to finish with their 11-point margin.

The Little Shamrocks took it on the chin 43-31 after trailing 28-15 at the half.

From the Days of the Mayflower...

As in the days of our Pilgrim Fathers, beer will be a favorite beverage for thousands of Americans on Thanksgiving tables again this year.

And, as we celebrate Thanksgiving, it is interesting to look back and note the unique circumstance by which beer played a role in the actual landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock. An account of the times states that "beer was all but the universal beverage." And the diary of one of the passengers on the Mayflower reveals that they landed at Plymouth Rock instead of pressing on further because of "our victuals being much spent, especially our Beere."

In the American tradition, beer—the light, bright beverage of moderation—has been enjoyed in our homes since the earliest foundings of our nation.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

You may be in for something of a thrill one of these nights. It will happen something like this: You'll be driving smoothly along an Iowa highway, a little lost, perhaps, in that private feeling that comes with driving through the darkness.

Your speed may be somewhere around 68 or 70 or 72 miles an hour, but probably you won't really notice. The modern automobile is built to achieve these speeds so effortlessly that we are seldom aware of it.

And, certainly, you aren't aware that, at this speed, your headlights are not showing enough of the road ahead for you to stop in time to avoid an accident.

But your thrill is coming. Perhaps you first notice it in the lights of a car that seems to be gaining on you too rapidly from the rear. Some fool for speed, you think. Well, let him go around and have the road.

Then, the car is right behind you and he does start to pass. But, when the other car pulls even with yours, it suddenly blossoms with red light. A red light is blinking "stop" at you.

You pull to the shoulder and, shortly, a highway patrolman is examining your license and informing you that you were traveling 70 miles an hour—and reminding you that Iowa's nighttime speed limit is 60. You learn, maybe with some surprise, that you passed over a patrol speed tap on the highway a couple of miles back.

Over 800 drivers have experienced that thrill in the last few months.

Egg

Mr E E Shellabarger of Fredonia has a hen that laid a double egg recently. The egg measured 6¾ inches in circumference one way and 7 inches the other way. It had a tough pliable shell and inside this shell there was another perfectly formed white hard-shelled egg.

Dirt

While working in a ditch at Manchester, Gordon Koeppel received a fractured hip when he was struck by a hard piece of dirt which became dislodged.

Prejudice Seen As Bondage

Beware of prejudices. They are like rats, and men's minds are the traps. Prejudices get in easily, but rarely do they get out.

"Prejudice" means to "prejudge." To make or hold an opinion before learning, or without considering, the facts.

Such pre-judgements are hard to erase from the heart lacking in sympathy and understanding. Here they take root and grow firm and wild, like weeds among rocks.

Every generation has its own pet prejudices. Every oldster speaks glowingly of the "good old days," and most condemn the present generation.

If you are sincere in wanting to earn a place in the sun, it will profit you much to examine the facts and reason them out before forming an opinion.

For you cannot be prejudiced without attracting prejudice against yourself. It places you in bondage; it limits your opportunities for success and happiness.

Cut these bonds and enjoy the freedom that calm reason and an understanding heart can bring.

TEACHER INTERVIEW

"O. K.—you guys, run 10 more laps around the gym!" No other teacher in Klemme High School would make that statement but Coach Bill Westberg.

Mr Westberg is the cause of more aching muscles and bruises as he is physical education instructor and coach. His latest instrument of torture is a rope that every student must learn to climb.

In addition to Phy. Ed. and coaching, Mr Westberg also teaches driver's training. He insists he isn't responsible for your driving habits outside his supervision.

Mr Westberg hails from Boone, Iowa, where he graduated from high school. He received his B A from Iowa State Teachers College and he also attended the State University of Iowa.

Rating high on his list of favorites are sports, naturally, shrimp, the song. "Wake Up, Little Suzie" and the TV program "Climax."

Just to make you figure, Mr Westberg was born December 4 1925.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

If while looking around Klemme High School you happen to find a brown haired, green eyed girl, it is Barbara Jane Avery. She is 5' 4½" tall and she was born March 6, 1941.

"Barb's," as she is often called, favorite subject is American Government. Unusual, huh? She spends her free time reading a good book.

During her high school days, Barb was Freshman, Secretary-Treasurer; and Sophomore, president. This year she is on the Annual staff and helps with The Shamrock.

Barbara is a member of the Methodist Church.

When asked what her favorties were, Barb said her favorite actress and actor were Elizabeth Taylor and Rock Hudson, however, her favorite show was "Hat Full of Rain." An evening enjoyment for Barbara is eating steak and watching an Alfred Hitchcock Presents. "Oh, Gosh!" is Barbara's favorite saying.

She is undecided as to what her future plans are.

GUESS WHO

From the missing persons bureau of Klemme High School we have a Freshman girl whom we can't find. She is about 5 feet, 2 inches tall, wears glasses, dark brown hair, blue green eyes, and is very good looking. This missing person is in girl's glee club, plays a flute in the Klemme Band. She goes to the E and R Church in Klemme. If you would be in the school at a certain time, you might find her conducting a class meeting, or attending a student council meeting.

If you already haven't guessed the GUESS WHO? last week, see if Chuck Bacon will fit the description.

Homework

Home work—
Oh! Gee!
Better get it.
Sad me.
Got books.
Sat down.
Really thought
I'd go to town.
Telephone!
Get it quick!
Did you say party?
Say, that's slick.
Homework—well—
There's study hall.
Tonight I think
I'll have a ball.
Study hall.
Pass a note.
Teacher finds out
What I wrote.
Sent to office.
Just to sit.
Did I get homework?
Not a bit!
Went to class.
No home work.
Bad report card—
What a jerk!

Dentist: You needn't open your mouth any farther. When I pull your tooth I expect to stand outside.

JOKES

Tug: How did Ed hurt his hand?

Lug: Reckless driving.

Tug: Smashed his car, eh?

Lug: No, just his finger. He missed the nail.

Teacher: When you have a garden, how can you tell the flowers from the weeds?

Joe: Pull everything out. The ones that are weeds grow back.

Two men were playing golf when a bird flew over. One of the men said. "Look at the duck."

"Goose," the other said.

"Duck"

"Goose"

And so the argument went. A man behind them who was playing the hole velled. "Fore" and hit the ball: The first man saw the ball coming and shouted, "Duck!" The other man said, "Goose." "Boing" it hit him.

How Rural Electric Co-ops changed life on Iowa farms

Let's imagine that you're living on a farm without electricity.

You need water. Go outside to the pump, fill the pails and carry them back to the house. That's how you get water for cooking, drinking, washing.

It's time to prepare a meal. Go to the woodpile, get an armload of wood, carry it back to the house and start your fire in the big iron stove, And when the woodpile dwindles, you take an axe and cut some more.

Now it's chore time. You milk by hand, struggle with heavy loads of feed and clean the barn with a pitchfork and shovel. Then you pump and carry more water to the livestock and chickens.

You want to relax. You read the evening paper by the sputtering light of a kerosene lamp. All you can get on the battery-powered crystal set is static. But you're so tired you don't really care much anyway.

Sound unrealistic? Not at all. This was the picture before RECs brought electricity to the farm. You probably remember those days. Your parents do for sure.

Today, electricity pumps water, cooks your meals, lights your home. It milks the cows, feeds the livestock and cleans the barn. Electricity brings entertainment and world events into your living room.

All these things are possible because you have electricity. And most farmers have electricity because there are Rural Electric Co-ops. It's this source of low-cost, dependable power which has enabled the farmer to raise his standard of living.

Electricity on the farm is not a luxury. It is a necessity. And as the farmer's need for more electricity power grows, Rural Electric Co-ops will continue to supply that power at a cost the farmer can afford.

Farmers Tax Guide Available at Extension Office

The 1958 edition of "The Farmers Tax Guide," a Treasury Department publication, will soon be available to Hancock County farmers at the extension office in Garner, says extension director Paul Henderson.

The "Guide" is written especially for farmers, Henderson says. It explains in non-technical language most of the income tax rules that concern farmers. It's intended for use in preparing federal income tax returns for the calendar year 1957 and fiscal years ending in 1958.

Some sample records and a sample return form included in the publication illustrate where income and deductions should be listed, Henderson adds.

He says the publication isn't designed to replace instructions received with federal tax return forms, but to supplement them.

Post Office to Be Open Saturday Afternoons

Postmaster Franklin Kluckhohn said today that the Klemme post office service windows will remain open on Saturday afternoon, December 14 and December 21 in order the facilitate the Christmas mailing. The service windows will aslo remain open over the noon-hour during the rush period, December 14 through December 21.

Patrons are reminded to mail early in order that their cards and gifts may be delivered before Christmas. Greetings and parcels destined for distant states should be mailed well in advance of December 12 to assure early delivery.

To expidite the handling of the holiday mail through the local post office, patrons with large mailings are again urged to tie their greeting cards in separate packages for "local" and "out of town" delivery. Labels for these separations will be distributed to boxholders within a day or two.

As last year, unsealed greeting cards containing no written messages may be mailed for 2 cents each. Holiday greeting cards prepaid at the first class rate of 3c per ounce, however, may be sealed, contain writing and will be forwarded or returned without additional charge.

Eight Injured in Head-on Automobile Crash

Eight persons were in hospitals Tuesday as the result of a head-on collision of two cars on a county road five miles southwest of Garner Monday night.

Mr and Mrs Alfred Stadtlander, 42 and 40, respectively, Belmond, and their five children, Robert, 14; Janet, 10; Richard 8; Jerry, 5; and Marilyn Jane, 3, were in a Belmond Hospital where their condition is reported good. They have a variety of cuts, bruises and broken ribs, but none was seriously injured.

Terry Weaver, 11, Klemme, was in a Mason City hospital where his condition was fair. Maynard Weisbrod, 17, Klemme, was taken to the Belmond Hospital for treatment following the accident, but was released.

According to Highway Patrolman Elmer Angle, Garner, the cars driven by Stadtlander and Weisbrod met at the crest of a hill on the county road. Neither car turned over in the crash, but both had extensive front-end damage.

The Stadtlander family had spent the evening at the home of Mr and Mrs George Legge, ¼ mile from the scene of the accident. All the victims were taken there until two doctors arrived.

Some of them were taken to the hospital by ambulance while the others were transported in the cars of the doctors.

Hallway and Bath Require Special Touch

Every house has a hallway and at least one bathroom.

In the hall the wiring devices needed depend upon its length. The long hall needs ceiling lights with 3-way switches at each end. The small hallway may be efficiently equipped with only one switch. Check your needs and plan accordingly.

The bathroom lighting is important. Many parents of young and growing children like a dim ceiling night light controlled by a wall switch with another switch controlling the bright fluorescent mirror light. One duplex wall outlet is most useful for electric shavers, hair driers and other modern appliances. The type of outlet that provides a ground is best for this purpose.

Tuesday night, December 3rd, the Shamrocks were host to the Garner Cardinals and again were defeated. This time the final score was 67-60 with the Shamrocks trailing 33-24 at the half.

One bright point in the game was the extremely accruate free throw shooting displayed by the Shamrocks. They hit 24 out of 32 for a 75 percent average.

CLASS NEWS

After the ringing of the fourth period bell all of the junior students rush eagerly into American History cass. They quickly find their seats and remain quiet until Mr Neary opens the class. They turn to page 178 and discuss the Louisiana Purchase, President Jefferson, the Federalist and Republican Parties, also current events. After a great deal of discussion over the questions from the previous day the bell again rings and the students pass regretfully out of the room in single file. However, they are inspired by the knowledge just received in Mr Neary's American History class.

TEACHER INTERVIEW

This week we are interviewing someone everybody knows. That is Harlan Shafer, our superintendent. Mr Shafer received his education at I S T C and Colorado State College of Education. Before Mr Shafer came to Klemme, he was superintendent at Kensett.

Actress, June Lockhart and Actor, Bryan Donlevy are his favorites. His favorite food is steak. If you ever hear a strange expression such as "Horse-feathers," you know Mr Shafer is here because this is his favorite saying. When he is home with his wife and two children, a boy and a girl, you will find him watching "Studio One" his favorite TV program. His favorite band is Guy Lumbardo. His pastime is reading and sleeping. Mr Shafer's pet peeve is people that misspell his name. (I did learn how to spell it correctly.) If you are ambitious and want to know how old Mr Shafer is, I will tell you this much, he was born March 22, 1923.

The Christmas Angel

I'm trying hard to do the things I should.
I hang my coat, (the red one with a hood.)
I wash my dolls and dress 'em.
I say "please" and "thanks" and "yes'm."
You would think I wasn't healthy, I'm so good.

I expect the world is very glad to see
How obedient and pleasant I can be.
I'm so helpful to my mother,
And so patient with my brother,
It surprises everybody—even me!

I am sweeter than a box of sugar-plums.
I'm polite and nice to all my little chums.
The strain is very taxing.
But I soon will be relaxing,
If the days that follows Christmas ever comes!

GUESS WHO

This week we are going in search of a boy who is about 6 feet tall, has blonde hair, blue green eyes and for an added attraction, girls, he has his own car.

Usually this boy is seen "earnestly" (?) studying in 3rd period study hall unless it is his turn to go out to the band room for a lesson. Our mystery personality is also active in the vocal groups in high school.

Incidentally, this eligible bachelor has a love of fun and is quite often pulling a trick on some unsuspecting person or is teasing.

Surely you can "Guess Who" by now!

Last week's "Guess Who" was Melva Johnson.

Mistletoe Hanging is Ancient Custom

Most everyone knows what a sprig of mistletoe means at Christmas time, especially when there is a pretty girl standing beneath it! But few realize that this very pleasant custom has its roots in age old superstitoins.

The lore of primitive days contains many references to mistletoe.

According to an ancient Norse legend, the sun god was slain by an arrow fashioned from a mistletoe plant.

He was resurrected by his mother's tears, which, falling on the plant, were crystallized into pearly berries. Because of this magical healing, it was ordained that mistletoe should grow neither in heaven or in earth, but suspended in between. That, the legend says, is the reason it grows hanging from trees!

Mistletoe was of special significance to the Druids, ancient pagan priests of England, who cut it off trees with a golden knife used only for that purpose. They believed it possessed wonderful powers of healing and acted as a protection from witchcraft. During their December religious rites, it was bestowed upon individuals as a special mark of honor.

Because of its supposed salutary properties, mistletoe was often put over the doors of primitive houses as a sign of good will.

Belief in its magical powers has gone, but the custom still remains, and a kiss under the mistletoe still has beneficial effects. Try it and see for yourselves, fellows!

Christmas Traditions Around the World

Christmas is one of the few holidays that is celebrated by people all over the world. Every country has its own ways of celebrating, and the length of the festive time varies from one day to several weeks.

In England, festivities begin December 24 and last until January 12. On Christmas Eve the yule log is lit with a charred piece of wood saved from the last year's fire, and gifts are exchanged. Special services are held in the brightly decorated churches on Christmas day. The day after Christmas, called Boxing Day, is devoted to giving gifts to employees and public servants.

Preparations for Christmas in Norway, Sweden and Denmark are begun several weeks in advance.

In Denmark, gifts are distributed followed by a huge dinner, usually either duck or goose. The best part of the dinner is the dessert. The Danish people have rice pudding with just one little almond in it. The person who gets the almond receives an extra present.

In Sweden the animals have a special treat, too. The cows get extra hay and the children put big sheaths of grain out for the birds. At five o'clock on Christmas morning in these Scandinavian countries, flaming torches light the way for churchgoers. The festivities last for three weeks during which candles are lit in the window.

Christmas in Holland is heralded by troops of men parading down streets singing carols. In expectation of St. Nicholas (Santa Claus) the children set their wooden shoes by the chimney to be filled with gifts.

Belgian children fill several plates with oats and set them before the fireplace for Santa's reindeer before going to bed on Christmas eve. In the morning, there are toys where the oats were!

In Italy, flowers are used instead of evergreens for Christmas decorations. On Christmas Eve there is a special supper of unusual kinds of fish and pork with mustard sauce. At midnight everyone goes to church. Italian children pull their gifts out of a large urn.

Families living in Greece have another custom similar to the almond of Denmark. Each Greek family has a big cake with a coin in it. The child who gets the coin gives it to his father in exchange for an equal amount of money. The coin is saved, and used over and over for many years.

Our neighbors to the south, the Mexicans, do not have Christmas trees as we do. Instead they fill an earthen jar with candy and gifts and hang it from the ceiling. All the children have three chances to break the jar with a club, while blindfolded. The one who breaks the jar wins, and of course there's a mad scramble for the candy and other packages once the jar is broken!

Underlying the merry making and feasting of Christmas all around the world is a spirit of brotherliness and generous giving.

ELCON INDIANS MET

The regular meeting of the Elcon Indians 4-H club was held Novemger 20 at the home of Larry Greiman. Nine members answered roll call. President Bill Haan presided during the meeting. The program of work for the coming year was planned. Plans were made to have a Christmas sledding party the evening of December 7. Following adjournment, lunch was served.

Obituary of Oscar Swanson

Oscar P. Swanson, son of Sven P. and Mary-Sophia Svenson, was born on January 29, 1866 in Kalmar Lane, Sweden and passed away at 11:30 p.m., November 25, 1957 at the age of 91 years. The oldest in a family of three sons and two daughters, Oscar outlived his entire family; all his brothers and sisters having preceded him in death.

Mr. Swanson attended the public schools, was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran Church, and grew to young manhood in Sweden, where he also spent one year in military training. He decided to leave his native land and came to America in 1888. His first employment here was in the lumber camps in Wexford County, Michigan, where he earned but a few cents a day. He not only experienced many hardships but also many interesting adventures.

In 1895, Oscar Swanson and Miss Hulda Johnson of Morris, Illinois, were married, and they established their home on a farm near Morris. To this union, five children were born— Mary, Albert, Carl, Esther and a son who passed away in infancy. Death again entered the home and took the young wife, Hulda in 1904. Thus leaving the father with four small, motherless children.

On October 5, 1905, Mr. Swanson was married to Miss Anna Dahlgren of Chicago. They continued the housekeeping and the family life already established on the farm near Morris. To this union, seven children were born— Ruth and Roy (twins), Dora, Leonard, Edith, Ethel and Phyllis. In 1911, the Swanson family left Illinois and moved to their newly acquired farm two miles east of Klemme, Iowa, where the family lived until the children were grown. In 1937, Roy took over the management, and the parents retired from active farming. For several years Mr. and Mrs. Swanson resided on the adjoining farm in the summers and enjoyed traveling to warmer climates in the winters. The past six years they have made their home in Clear Lake, Iowa.

This family circle was broken on July 12, 1954, when their youngest son, Leonard, suffered an acute attack of coronary thrombosis and passed away while fishing at Clear Lake.

On October 5, 1955, Mr and Mrs Swanson observed their Golden Wedding Anniversary. Although Mr. Swanson had been failing gradually with the infirmities of old age, his health was good until this past summer when he began failing more noticeably.

He suffered a heart attack on October 10, and was taken to a hospital at Mason City, where all possible medical aid was administered, but to avail.

Mr. Swanson has always been an honest, Christian man of upright character and integrity. He was blessed with the faith, courage and fortitude to carry on when facing misfortune and adverse conditions. Until his final illness, one of his favorite pastimes was to listen to church services on the radio and television.

Surviving and left to mourn his passing are his wife, Anna, who has been his faithful companion and helper; three sons and seven daughters; Mary, Albert and Roy Swanson, Mrs. John Etchen (Esther), Mrs Orville Bridges (Ruth) and Mrs. Reuben Lemke (Edith) all of Klemme; Carl Swanson of Britt; Mrs Karl Loeffler (Phyllis) of Nora Springs; Mrs. William Dossinger (Ethel) of Long Beach, California; and Mrs. Francis Lawhorn (Dora) of Lynwood, California. Surviving also are 20 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Mr. Swanson will be greatly missed by his family and friends.

Bacon led the scoring for both games, collecting 22 points at Kanawha and 17 at Crystal Lake. Johnson hit for 17 in the Kanawha game and he and Langlitz each hit for 8 in the Crystal Lake game.

The Little Shamrocks had better going as they downed the Kanawha reserves 28-24 and whipped the Crystal Lake reserves 46-14. Jerry Stokesbary scored 11 points to lead the local reserves in the Kanawha game, while Langlitz and Anderson scored 12 and 10 respectively in the Crystal Lake game.

Sharpshooter Disrupts Telephone Service

Local manager Stanley Garman, Corwith, of the Central Iowa Telephone Company's Klemme office Friday brought in a length of telephone cable showing how service to some Klemme patrons had been disrupted.

An overhead cable west of town on the county road, had been shot with a shotgun. The shot pushed the wires inside the cable together, shorting them, and one punctured the covering, allowing moisture to enter and further damage the intricate lines.

Manager Garman pointed out that the disruption of service could have been very unfortunate if an emergency had arisen, making it necessary for one of the patrons to call a doctor or perhaps the fire truck.

Hunters are urged to use extreme cauiton when shooting near wires and other telephone and electric installations, as a careless shot might easily cause a tragedy.

JoAnn Helps spent Sunday night with her aunt, Mrs Ed Becker.

Farm Bureau Board Met With Rep. Coad

On Tuesday morning the Hancock County Farm Bureau Board of Directors had the interesting experience of meeting and vsiiting with the Honorable United States Congressman from the 6th District, Coad, as a group for an hour at the courthouse in Garner and then lunch at Hull's Cafe .

At this time they had the opportunity to visit with him about the problems of agriculture and to hear his view points on law and coming legislation affecting the Iowa farmers. This meeting gave the Farm Bureau a chance to present the opinions to him of the Farm Bureau members in Hancock County with information taken from the opinionaires which were sent to every Farm Bureau member this fall in which they were asked to give their opinions on different issues. It is through meetings of this sort that these opinionaires can be very effective. A copy of this opinionaire with the results of the members returned them has been given to Congressman Coad and other legislators.

A meeting of this sort held by the Farm Bureau Board with their congressman is very important. It not only gives the board a chance to represent their Farm Bureau members in their township but also gives the congressmen a chance to become better ecquainted with the people of his district and to hear first hand what their problems are. This too, gives the board a chance to learn more of the complex works of our government.

A Few Necessities For Garages

Whether your garage is part of the house or a thing apart, there are certain definite needs to comfort and convenience in lighting and wiring.

If attached, you will find two 3-way switches connected with the overhead light a great convenience: one, equipped with a warning light inside the house at the door leading to the garage; the other close by the garage door. It helps to if you have at least one duplex convenience outlet in the garage for trouble light and power tools.

The unattached garage gives you a chance to use a "pathway of light." By the use of 3-way switches that control lights in the garage and on the back porch you can get from garage to house without falling over those toys the children always seem to leave in strategic spots. The switches are located in the house and in the garage and turn the lights on or off from either point. A duplex convenience outlet in the garage again gives you an opportunity to use your trouble light and power tools when needed.

The back porch needs a good light that illuminates the steps as well. A wall switch just inside the door is used to turn it on or off.

"The Meaning of Christmas"

Last week the Seniors wrote themes on "The Meaning of Christmas." Here are two of the themes:

"The Meaning of Christmas"
Written by Barbara Avery

Christmas is a very important season, for many reasons, but most of all it is the celebration of the birth of Christ. The different countries of the world all celebrate this day in many different ways but the reason is the same.

It is traditional in America for people to decorate their homes with various signs of Christmas, such as brightly decorated trees, wreathes, holly, and many other things. Usually on Christmas eve the church holds a very meaningful service. Everyone is in a gracious mood. Peace, good-will toward all.

Gifts are exchanged on Christmas day and a big dinner is served. It is a joyful time for the children and adults alike.

Everywhere one goes, he hears the wonderful Christmas carols and sees the beautiful decorations in honor of the birth of Christ.

:———:

"The Meaning of Christmas"
Written by Charles Bacon

The meaning of Christmas to most people should mean a great deal. To the people of the United States, and many other religious countries, Christmas means the birthday of Christ. It should be a period of the year for the exchanging of gifts and celebrating the birth of Christ with your whole heart. There also should be people rejoicing by singing songs and carols.

I think the Christmas, as celebrated in the 20th century, should have more of a meaning to the people.

Erverywhere, when Christmas rolls around, all people think of is holiday or the presents that he or she might receive or all the candy and peppermints they will get to eat.

Probably most school children think just of the holiday that is coming up or all the fun they will have. Any normal child would think just of the vacation, I know that I do most of the time. But we must stop and think about what the word Christmas really means.

When the Christmas vacation comes and you go to Mason City, for example, to shop. To stop and see all the people hustling around in such a hurry, it makes a person wonder if all those people really know what Christmas really means or if thev actually stop to realize that Christ was born on Christmas. to really give some thought to it, and to be thankful.

GUESS WHO

As we walk into the freshman home room we find our Guess who for the week busily studying general science. (Or perhaps some other subject.)

Guess Who is 5' 4½" tall, has blue eyes, dark brown hair and is active in many school activities. He is a class officer of the freshman class.

During baseball season, you will find Guess Who busy practicing baseball. Then when basketball season begins Guess Who will be kept quite busy keeping his training rules.

On Sunday nights Guess Who attends the Methodist Youth Fellowship as he is a member of the Methodist Church.

With these few hints given can you guess who our Guess Who for this week is?

Last week's Guess Who was Jerry LaFever!

SENIOR INTERVIEW

In our sixth grade year a special delivery package came to us from Perryville, Missouri. This package contained a dark-brown haired girl with blue eyes. She now has reached the height of 5 ft, 4 in and is a member of our senior class.

"Bets" was born August 10, 1940 at Poplar Bluff, Missouri. During her high school years in Klemme, she was treasurer of the student council in her sophomore year. This year she is on the annual and Shamrock staff.

This girl is a member of the E & R Church in Klemme, where she sings in the choir. She is also a member of the Youth Fellowship.

Some of her favorites are: a ham dinner, movies, such as "Tammy and the Bachelor," with Debbie Reynolds. Another movie would do if it had Rock Hudson starring. You might hear her listening very attentively to a song such as "My Special Angel" while trying to do her special subject, bookkeeping.

"Bets" pet peeve is people who try to tell her what to do.

She is employed at Josten's Hardware and Appliance Store in Klemme.

"Undecided" was her answer when asked what her future plans were.

If, bv now, you haven't guessed who this southern girl is—her name is Betty Ruth Clayton.

JOKES

An egotist is a man who thinks that if he hadn't been born, people would have wanted to know why not.

:———:

Student: "Why? I've always thought this was a respectable place."

:———:

The eager relatives gathered for the reading of the will. It contained one sentence: "Being of sound mind, I spent every cent I had."

Stocking Story Told By Survey

A recent survey of the KHS student body asked the question, "What would you most like to find in your stocking Christmas morning?" Here are some of the replies:

Ginger: 4 skirts, 3 sweaters, 1 jacket, radio, books, desk, and 1958 Buick. Think it will all fit?

Audrey L: I don't especially want anything, but just hope everyone will have a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Mr Johnson: I would like to find a nice shiney new car in my stocking Christmas morning, preferably, a new Chevy! Seriously, though, anything that Santa leaves will be appreciated.

Roger M: I wouldn't expect to find anything because I don't go around hanging stockings up.

Gary K: I would probably find a three legged marble eater.

Velma B: A portable radio or phonograph and of course, new clothes.

Jerry L: I wish we had a stocking to hang up. If we did have a stocking, I sure would like to find a new typewriter in it.

Sandra M: I would like some clothes, a typewriter, and a stack of new records.

Larry H: A new Mark II.

Myrna B: I wouldn't mind having some clothes, also some animals to add to my collection. P. S. Merry Christmas everyone. (How about a new house to have parties in?)

Joyce T: What makes you so sure there will be anything there?

Beverly L: I really don't know what I want. I'd like a typewriter and some clothes. Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Judith G: Anything. But most of all a radio. Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year.

Larry U: I'm not too particular, but I would take a blonde, 5 ft., 2 in., with eyes of blue. (Donna)

Donna C: I'm well satisfied, but just in case someone gets real generous, I want a portable typewriter.

The Student's Psalm

Mrs Oberg is my instructor, I shall not pass.
She maketh me to exhibit mine ignorance before the whole class,
She telleth me more than I can write,
She lowereth my grade.
Yea, though I walk through the corridors of Knowledge,
I do not learn.
She tries to teach me;
She reads "J. Caesar" for me in hope I will understand it.
She bombardeth my head with spelling words,
My ink pen freezeth up,
Surely Shakespeare and themes shall follow me all the days of my life,
And I shall dwell in English class forever.

TEACHER INTERVIEW

The teacher we are interviewing this week is one who teaches American Government, American History, chemistry and biology. His name is Clerk Neary, whose home is in Mason City, Iowa.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, DECEMBER 18, 1957 | VOLUME 63 | NUMBER 5

Change Schedule of Visits by Social Security Representative

Elmer L Iske, district manager of the Social Security office at Mason City, Iowa, announced today that in order to provide better service to the people of Hancock County a social security representative will now visit Garner, Iowa the 1st Friday of each month, unless a holiday intervenes.

Mr Iske stated that this new schedule becomes effective in January of 1958. The representative formerly was available from 9-10:30 a.m. in the Court Room of the Court House on the first Monday of each month.

The new schedulte beginning in January, 1958, provides that a social security representative will be available at the supervisor's room on the First Floor of the County Courthouse on the First Friday of each month from 9:00 to 10:30 a.m.

This change in social security service, according to Mr Iske, was made to provide better service to the residents of Hancock County. He said that prior to the change is was necessary for the senior citizens of this county to climb a rather difficult flight of stairs to inquire about social security. This problem has been eliminated now since a representative will be on the first floor. Mr Iske also stated that the dates of the social security representative's visits for the months of January 1958 through June, 1958 are as follows:

January 10; February 7; March 7; April 4; May 9 and June 6.

He suggests that you save this schedule for future reference or pass it on to a friend.

What Is Soil Erosion

The word "erosion" is defined as "The act of wearing away; gradual destruction or eating away; as, for instance, the action of water on rock or soil." Most everyone, of course, understands in a general way what erosion is, but a moment's reflection on this definition may help us grasp the full import of the word when it is referred to the soil—"gradual destruction or eating away."

Here we are dealing with a treacherous, ceaseless force, which, unless controlled, relentlessly wears away our priceless topsoil when we are awake and when we are asleep. We see signs of this erosion all about us every day and to such an extent that probably most of us have long ago been lulled into a state where we no longer connect cause and result.

A little trickle of muddy water running down a raw bank represents erosion. The muddy creek down in the bottomland represents erosion. The tons of mud moving forever away in our great rivers—even at low water levels—is largely topsoil from your land and mine. The dust that sweeps across the fields and roads is topsoil except in cases where it comes from denuded areas where nothing is left for the winds to attack, but the sterile, parched subsoil. Wind and water erosion are the two types which we are speaking of and are happening in Hancock County every day. The more serious form of erosion is known as "sheet erosion." Hancock County's terrain of level to moderately rolling land is very much in this class of erosion. The soil in this case is removed from the surface in thin sheets by the action of wind or rain, or both. It is impossible to be able to witness the action in some cases. It is more serious because we are not easily able to see these thin layers being removed, and therefore do not realize what is taking place. Thousands of what were once fertile farms have lost heavily in yields and dollar income with hardly a hint of what was going on. We cannot just throw erosion fo the past and present aside and let time pass on. We must start immediately, and many already have, to fight and cure this dreadful disease of our land. Corrective measures are at hand at the present ,to apply to the land to stop "erosion."

Soil Conservation farming is man's remedy for the results of his extravagance. Perhaps the most gripping point of interest about conservation is that long ago it passed through the various "book" and laboratory stages, and is, today, actively followed by practical profit-making farmers who have forged their salvation from its application. Soil Conservation Districts furnish farmers with assistance in setting up conservation programs. There are, at present, in the neighborhood of 2721 districts in the United States. These districts are local units of government operating under state laws, and are set up and run by farmers to protect farm and ranch land from erosion, conserve soil, and improve productivity.

The district enables a community to tackle cooperatively, problems that affect several farms—problems which farmers could not solve individually. This is important since wind and water do not know farm boundary lines. By this cooperation, a farmer who has changed to soil Conservation farming knows that his work will not be offset by the negligence of others.

Helicopter Pilot Gets Medal for Daring Rescue

A Fort Riley, Kansas, helcopter pilot received the Air Medal recently for a daring air rescue flight he performed earlier this year in Korea.

Chief Warrant Officer Argyle E Hays of the Army Aviation Unit Training Command was presented the medal by Brigadier General Forrest Caraway, comander of Headquarters Special Troops, for his action on the night of February 22 at the Han River Estuary near Seoul.

Hays was pilot of one of a group of helicopters from the 13th Light Helicopter Trans. Co., assigned to rescue survivors of an air crash who were stranded on a sand bar in the Han River. The young officer from Goodell, Iowa,, made four trips to the site which was continually exposed to winter elements.

Landing in 30 inches of water, with no illumination, he rescued a number of the crash victims.

General Caraway lauded the pilot for his courage after which the decoration was read which commended Hays for his "unhesitating and courageous action in the face of danger."

Mrs Hays lived in Klemme until last July when CWO Hays returned from overseas duty.

Unhurt

Mr and Mrs Eddie J Miller of Kalona, escaped injury recently when the buggy in which they were riding was completely smashed in a collision with a large truck. The horse pulling the buggy also escaped unhurt.

Asian Flu Is Expected Again; Are You Prepared

Another Asian flu outbreak can be expected in Iowa next January or February.

Are you prepared for it? Have you been vaccinated against it?

There is plenty of vaccine available now. Doctors generally have a good supply.

"We are urging everyone to be immunized now before the epidemic gets going next January. It takes at least two weeks after the injection to gain enough immunity to the disease to withstand an attack," Dr Ralph Heeren explained. Dr Heeren is Director of the Preventable Disease Division of the Iowa State Department of Health.

"If you have already been vaccinated against Asian flu you should have a booster injection in January or February to be protected from an attack of the disease that may strike in late winter or early spring.

The vaccine may be given in a single injection or in two injections about two weeks apart. The vaccine does not give full protection until two weeks after the last injection.

Asian flu is not often fatal but the patient is ill and loses time from work and other activities. High fever and aching muscles characterize the disease which orlinarily lasts from three to five days.

"Although you might have been one of the 234,842 Iowans who reportedly had Asian flu this fall you will not necessarily be protected from any subsequent epidemic," Dr Heeron warned. "You will need the vaccine just the same."

TEACHER INTERVIEW

Algebra, General Science and Industrial Arts are the subjects which Mr Donald Butler teaches in the Klemme school.

Mr Butler was born and raised in Charles City where he also attended high school. After he graduated from high school, he received his college education at Iowa State Teachers College.

It seems that Donald's hobby is working with wood. In his pastime he likes to watch television or work with his hobby. Lawrence Welk is his favorite band while Doris Day and Allen Todd are his best liked actress and actor. Mr Butler's pet peeve is a student who doesn't work.

Mr Butler is planning to take an extension course in the future.

Art Linkletter, interviewed a ten-year old on television once. When asked what her first act would be if she were elected President of the United States, the youngster gazed at him in stunned horror for a split second then replied, "Have the voters' heads examined!"

SENIOR INTERVIEW

It is intermission at the movie "Ten Commandments." I am standing in the lobby and looking at a girl who has blue eyes, brown hair and stands five feet seven inches. After inquiring some more I learned that she was born to Mr and Mrs Fred Wessels at a farm near Meservey on April 6, 1941. After 16 years of life she has been nicknamed "Lucy" and her favorite saying is "Good Heavens." She is now a member of the E and R church in Klemme, sings in the choir, and a member of the Youth Fellowship.

After a ham dinner, Lucy would enjoy taking in the afternoon at any kind of sport.

When she isn't doing her bookkeeping, you would probably find her watching television or listening to her favorite song "Round and Round." Lucy hasn't decided what her future plans are.

Now that we are well informed about the person shall we ask someone her name. Lavonne Carol Wessels was the name given by a person from the lobby.

Shall we return to the movie. Intermission is now over.

Farm Romance

ALFALFA fell in love with MUSH MELLON and asked her to marry him. MUSH said she would have to get POP CORN's consent.

But, POP said, "No, ALF, you can't support her, so BEET it."

ALF's face got kind of RADDISH and he hit CORN in the ear, and POP fell SQUASH into the BEAN and right away—SUCCOTASH!

MUSHMELLON ran into the MUSHROOM and fainted on the CUCUMBER bed.

"Water, water!" yelled WATERMELLON, and the PUMPKIN ran to the pump. The CAULIFLOWER called the RHUBARB a rube, and the MILKWEED got tangled up in the eyes of the POTATO and couldn't see where the SAGE was dressing.

The OATS said, "HAY, TIMOTHY, what's the matter with RYE"? And TIM said, "Bedad, I think it's sprung a LEEK."

About this time, ALFALFA whispered to MUSH MELLON, "I'll get a horse from the HORSE RADISH and a cab from the CABBAGE and we'll run awap to PARSNIP and get married."

But MUSH said, "No, ALF, we CANTELOUPE, POP won't LETTUCE!"

JOKES

As the dentist was about to stuff my mouth with cotton, saliva drain and instruments. I told him I always enjoyed his conversation while he worked on me, but I was embarrased when I had to answer with grunts. He laughed and handed me a box with tabs on it, explaining that it had been invented by a nine year old patient.

It worked fine. One tab read "yes" another read "no" and the third read "ouch!"

Woman handing package to postal clerk: "It's fragile, so throw it underhand, please."

Husband to wife trying on fur coat, "For heaven's sake, Ruth, there are other ways to fight a cold."

SICK-CHICK "Hows the wife?" asked a neighbor of a husband puttering in his yard. "Not so good." "Sorry. Is that her coughin'?" "Naw—this here's a chicken coop."

Mr and Mrs Cecil Bruhl entertained the following to a pre-Christmas supper on Saturday: Mr and Mrs Virgil Hart and family of Osage, Mr and Mrs Don Falyer and boys of Waterloo, Mr and Mrs Glen Bruhl and family and Mr and Mrs Merle Bruhl and family.

Mr and Mrs Paul Halfpop of Goodell were Saturday evening visitors in the Clifford Montgomery home.

Hancock County taxpayers are faced with a total ad valorem tax bill for the year 1957 payable in 1958 in the sum of $2,066,015.35, according to a report released this week by Hancock County Auditor, Gus Pappas. This is $231,262.32 higher than the 1956 tax bill paid this year which was $1,834,753.03.

The increases are reflected in additional school levies, a slight increase in corporation levies and in State, County and road funds. The various school districts in the county will collect approximately $111,187.00 more than last year and corporation $907.00 more.

The state levy for Bangs and T. B. eradication is up approximately $13,000 over last year. County levies for Poor, State Institution and Court Expense are up approximately $32,000 and road funds account for most of the balance of the increase.

Twelve school districts had increases and two districts showed decreases. They were Wesley Independent and Meservey Consolidated. Five towns recorded increases and three towns reduced levies. The two largest decreases listed were a $3,260.00 reduction in the Garner Corporation levy and a $5,954.00 decrease in the Hancock County Memorial Hospital fund. Murray Running

A second Iowa Republican has announced his candidacy for governor of Iowa. He is Dr. William G. Murray, 57, of Iowa State College.

This is Murray's first political campaign of any sort. It is also the first time in many years, if ever, that an Iowa college professor has sought the governorship.

A professor of agricultural economics, Murray became interested in the chief exective's role during the last two years when he served as a staffer on the Iowa taxation study committee.

Murray, for the last several weeks, has been touring Iowa sounding out interest in his possible candidacy. He's on leave from Iowa State College.

John Knudson of Albion, Marshall county, was the first candidate in the race. The former state representative announced his plans to seek the GOP nomination at state day at the Iowa State Fair last fall.

Must Like It

As one economics professor to another—

An SUI economics prof, now on leave from the University, could probably give some advice on politics now to another economics professor just getting into politics.

Dr. Robert Johnson, administrative assistant for Governor Herschel Loveless, is on leave from the University of Iowa economics department to serve in the governer's office.

Dr William Murray, Iowa State College economist, would like to see Johnson and his present boss displaced; politically, that is. Murray is seeking the post now held by Loveless.

This strange twist doesn't stop here. Both Johnson and Murray served on the Iowa taxation study committee together for nearly two years. From the looks of it they were not seeing eye to eye on things.

January Pronouncement

Friends of Lt Gov W H Nicholas, Mason Ctiy Republican, report he will announce his candidacy for governor "late in January."

Nicholas has sought the nomination before in the primary ranks, lost out, along with four others, to Leo A Hoegh.

He's now staging a political "comeback" as his election in the lieutenant governor's race last campaign would seem to indicate.

Eyeing Congress

There's lots of political palaver about who is going to run for what Iowa congressional seats.

Latest off the griddle is the report from the 8th Iowa district that Chris Larson, chairman of the highway commission, is seriously considering a congressional bid. He's a Republican. Charles Hoeven is the incumbent.

Mrs Enid Robinson, Hampton, vice-chairman of the Republican state central committee, is being urged to run for the GOP nomination for congress in the third district. H R Gross is the incumbent.

For Speaker?

State Rep Scott Swisher, Iowa City Democrat, was honored by friends at a testimonial $5-a-plate dinner the other night. Tickets were sold statewide to Republicans as well as Democrats.

The event caused wonderment at Swisher's political plans. Some interpreted the occasion as the first move to promote the Johnson county lawyer for speaker of the Iowa house during the next legislative session.

One of First

Probably one of the very first Iowans to publicly announce plans to seek a state senate post is Editor Bill Ferguson of the Glidden Graphic. After Sen Alan Vest announced plans to seek the GOP lieutenant governor nomination, Ferguson said he'd seek Vest's senate seat.

Carroll Lane of Carroll, former secretary of the Iowa senate, and a member of the Iowa house before that, may also seek to succeed Vest. Lane and Ferguson are Republicans.

Science Problem

While schools will no doubt emphasize science more than ever in classwork in the next few years, and all because of Russia's Sputnik, ther's another angle that needs some study in Iowa.

One survey shows that Iowa colleges produced 237 science teachers for public schools in the last two years. But the same survey said that only about half of the 237 are teaching in Iowa schools today.

The problem is one of recruitment of teachers for our future scientists.

Uniforms After All

Eight state truck fuel inspectors are now in uniform. George Marchi, director of the division of motor fuel tax, said the men have bought their uniforms.

The Iowa attorney general ruled recently that the division had no authority to buy uniforms for them.

Night Toll Down

Traffic deaths during night hours have been reduced markedly in the first 11 months of this year.

The Iowa highway patrol reports deaths during nighttime traffic accidents were down 14.6 percent but daytime fatalities were up 6 percent.

A night highway speed limit of 60 miles an hour went into effect July 4 this year. Enforcement officials say this is helping reduce the death toll on the highways.

Legion Plans

Next year's Iowa State Legion convention may be a two-day affair.

The executive committee of the Iowa department of the American Legion has approved plans for a two-day parley in August.

Previous conventions have been three-day affairs. The 1958 convention will be August 4-5 in Des Moines.

Heads Fair Group

Claude Appleby, Monticello, is the newly elected president of the Iowa Fair Managers Association. He was elected at the annual state convention in Des Moines. He succeeds Eugene R. Moore Tipton.

Jean M Kleve, Humboldt, was named vice-president.

Appleby is secretary of the Jones County Fair.

Pari-Mutuel Bets

Two Iowa groups, the Fair Managers Association and the Standard Bred Horsemen's Association, will draw up proposed legislation in an attempt to legalize pari-mutuel betting in Iowa.

The proposed bill will be prepared by December of 1958 and, if approved by the associations, will be presented to the 1959 legislative session.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson

County Extension Director

Large numbers of hogs should hit the market in January, and marketing should be generally bunched up during late winter, of all the 4 percent increase in farrowing of the past June come to market, says Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State Farm Economist.

Kutish believes weight price discounts will widen as heavier hogs reach market later this winter. He points out that if farmers have been feeding their hogs to heavy weights on corn that could be sold, they could suffer from a market reaction when hogs start moving more freely.

In the long run, says Kutish, this past fall's marketing pattern has increased the hog-corn price ratio at breeding time, and this will encourage increased farrowing next spring. This also weakens the hog price outlook for next winter, he says.

Looking back, Kutish notes that spring farrowings were about the same as a year earlier. Marketings during early fall were a little ahead of a year before, but have recently fallen far behind. He says this is the time when more pigs should be reaching market.

Part of the reason for small marketings is that gilts are being held back for breeding and to use up high-moisture corn surpluses. The mid-November hog-corn price ratio was 17.9 to 1. A year before it was 11.6 to 1, and the average for the years 1951 to 1955 is 12.4 to 1, Kutish notes.

Such ratios, plus the combination of cheap, nonstorable corn and a steady to rising hog market, offers farmers strong encouragement to feed their hogs on their nonsalable corn. Kutish points out that farmers figure it is better to get some good from their corn this way, even if their hogs do run into weight discounts.

Besides this, says Kutish, current narrow market discounts for weight also encourage farmers to corn-feed their hogs a while longer.

But even in spite of lighter marketings than a year ago, the wholesale pork market hasn't shown strength. In fact it has dropped off. Hog prices have risen, Kutish observes, because packers haven't trimmed their killing gangs yet and are forced to bid strongly for animals to maintain their kill. But there just aren't enough hogs coming in to keep prices down.

Former Superintendent Dies at Keosaqua

Mrs Glen Bridges received word of the sudden death of Mr Penrod, former superintendent of schools here. He taught here for about eight years in the late 1920's, ending his teaching term here in 1931. After leaving, he was married and has been living in Keosaqua, Iowa. He died on December 6th.

Ice-Free Water Can Boost Livestock Profits

Ice-free water in livestock lots can boost livestock income and cut costs on many farms in Hancock County this winter, says County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

He says Animal Husbandman Duane Acker of Iowa State College reports that researchers have found it's not enough to water livestock twice a day. And water at a distance from the feed doesn't result in highest feeding efficiency, either.

All kinds of stock feed at lower cost and produce better when they have water close by and can drink it whenever they want it. It pays to keep livestock water heated enough to prevent freezing.

Acker says the importance of water along with the feed of pregnant animals in winter is clear when you realize that the body of a new calf, pig or lamb is three-fourths water. When the young animal nurses it gets milk that is 87 percent water.

A pregnant sow in winter needs a gallon of water a day. An English experiment shows that when it's nursing pigs it may need up to 5 gallons a day.

Calves in the feedlot in winter and a nursing cow will need 12½ to 15 gallons. Cows will drink water an average of 10 times every 24 hours if it's available. Acker says you can't trust twice-a-day watering to keep them producing at their most efficient level.

Breeding cows or 2-year-old steers on wintering rations take at least 10 gallons per head daily. Even feeder lambs need 1 to 2 quarts of water a day to gain most efficiently. Pregnant ewes need a gallon a day and nursing ewes need 1½ gallons.

Livestock receiving silage instead of dry hay don't need quite so much water, because silage is about two-thirds water. That means a cow eating 30 pounds of silage a day might need 2½ gallons less than a cow getting only dry roughage.

Arker says research shows it doesn't pay to heat water more than just enough to keep it from freezing. But it is important that the water be close to the feed and shelter. In a South Dakota experiment weight gains on hogs were cut when the hogs had to go more than 300 feet to water.

Hunters

Four hunters from LeMars and Brunsville recently brought back from a hunting trip in Montana and Wyoming nine deer, totaling some 1,000 pounds of venison.

Form Loon Ass'n. to Hold Annual Meeting

Directors of the United National Farm Loan Association of Forest City, have set Thursday night, February 13, as the date for the Association's 1958 annual meeting of its members according to Art Buffington, Secretary-Treasurer.

The local association is one of more than a thousand farmer owned National Farm Loan Associations throughout the nation which will be holding annual meetings during the next few months. Buffington said the purpose for the annual meeting is to keep the members well informed of their Association's progress and to permit the members to elect the local board of directors.

The meeting will be held in the Immanual Lutheran Church and will begin at 6:45 p.m. Plans for the meeting include dinner, and entertainment as well as a business session. The speaker for the meeting will be announced at a later date when final arrangements have been made.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The winter sweepstakes for drivers is just entering its first round, and this may be a good time to review the records of previous "winners."

An easy winner in the silly explanation division last year was the Iowa 18-year-old who said, in an accident report, that he had cracked up his car and broken an arm because "I couldn't see the corner for fog. But that didn't make any difference because the road was so icy and I was going so fast I couldn't stop anyhow."

The top prize for team effort once went to three Iowa brothers who ended up in the same jail on the same night on three different driving charges. One brother was hailed for allowing an unauthorized person to drive his car, the second brother was hauled in for being the unauthorized person.

In the jail they met the third brother who had just been arrested for the second time that night for driving while under license suspension.

Another winner in the "everybody but me" division was the school bus driver who sailed past another school bus stopped on the highway discharging children. A nearby highway patrolman grabbed the passing bus driver for violating the school bus stop law.

Judges were unanimous in awarding a Florida trucker first prize in the "most sensible" competition. Here's his story:

An Iowa highway patrolman found him stopped in his semi-trailer outfit smack on top of an ice-covered hill. His engine was switched off and he sat there staring with horror at the icy road ahead, ignoring the hornblasts from cars and trucks stacked up behind him.

He told the highway patrolman he had never seen such ice in his life and just got so scared that he was going to sit there 'till it melted.

Trapped

Victor Erdahl of Rake escaped serious injury recently after being trapped for two hours by a corn slide in a 20 ft. cement silo type crib. About 6 ft more of corn in the silo would have covered him, had it broken loose. Two men working with him held this corn back until he was released.

Scholarship Qualifying Test Results Received

The results of the Scholarship The results of the Siholarship by Gordon Johnson of the Klemme High School was recently received. Gordon's rating was not high enough so he was eligible for the semi-finals but was high enough to deserve recognition. The test was divided into two parts, one of which was verbal learning and the other quantitive types of material. In the verbal part of the test Gordon ranked at the 31 percentile and in the latter part the 91 percentile. This really means that in the verbal part there were 30 students out of a 100 poorer than he and in the latter part 90 out of 100 were poorer or 9 out of 100 were better.

There were 255,817 of the best high school senior students in the United States participating in the test and those whose rank was high enough go on to the semi-finals and from those are selected students who are eligible for the various scholarships.

What to Say About Exams

Here are some tips about what to say as to why you didn't pass that exam:

If it's an objective test, say it didn't let you express yourself.

If an essay type test, say it's so vague, you didn't know that was expected of you.

If you are given many minor tests, say why not have a few big ones? This keeps you on edge all the time.

If you get a few major tests, say too much depends on each one.

When you are given no tests, say it's not fair. How can the teacher possibly judge what you know?

When every part of a subject is taken up in class, say, Oh, he just follows the book.

When you are asked to study part of the subject yourself, say, Why, we never even discussed it.

When the course is in lecture form, say we never get a chance to say anything.

If the course consists of informal lecture and discussion, say, He just sits there. Who wants to hear the students? They don't know how to teach the course.

When detailed material is presented, say, What's the use? You forget it all after the exams anyway.

When general principles are presented, say, What did we learn? We knew all that before we took the course.

This way, the pore ole teacher ain't got a chanct!

CLASS NEWS

Well, it is that time again. The halls are buzzing with excited voices and many questions. "Who has your name?" "What did Mary get John?" "What time is the party?" "Do we really get two weeks vacation?" and many other questions fill the air.

Christmas decorations can be found in several windows and many doors. An especially novel bulletin board decoration was done by the Sophomore girls. It featured Santa arriving in a guided missile.

The music groups can be heard practicing the age-old Christmas carols and other Christmas tunes.

The four skits to be presented by each class on Friday are ready and well-planned. A swell party is also planned by the Student Council for Friday afternoon.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year is wished to all.

Space Speculation

Since the successful launching of Sputnik 1 and 11, space travel has appeared more immediate. People have realized that the scientists and science fiction boys aren't entirely talking through their hats.

One of the first places a space ship may head for is the moon and for this reason the Glen Cove Interplanetory Development of New York is offering acre lots at $1.00 each in the crater of Copercius on the moon. Further investigation may prove this is a real bargain. Here are some things to consider:

IS LIFE LONGER ON THE MOON?

The gravity of the moon is one-sixth as great as on earth. Therefore, an earth man would weigh only 30 pounds on the moon, if he weighed 180 pounds on earth. This would result in less strain on his heart, and he would probably live longer.

HOW LONG DOES IT TAKE TO SEND A RADIO SIGNAL FROM THE MOON TO EARTH?

This depends on the time of the month, because the moon varies in its orbit from 221,000 miles to 253,000 miles. Radio waves travel at 186,000 miles a second, so at the average distance of 240,000 miles, it would take 1½ seconds.

WHAT ARE DAY AND NIGHT TEMPERATURES ON THE MOON?

Because there is no blanket of air and clouds to hold the heat in or out, the daytime temperature is a little higher than that of boiling water and at night it gets as cold as 200 or 300 below zero, Farenheit.

ARE THE DAYS LONGER OR SHORTER ON THE MOON?

It takes the moon 28 days to rotate on its axis, where the earth takes only 24 hours. So a moon day would be equal to 14 earth days, and the night the same length. See you on the moon!

GUESS WHO

For this week's Guess Who? column, we have chosen a senior girl.

Miss Guess Who? stands 5 ft., 3½ inches tall and has blue eyes. She is an active member in band, sings in girls chorus and mixed chorus, and is on the Shamrock and Annual Staff. Miss Guess Who? has been class president of her class in previous years.

She is an active member of the St Paul Lutheran church in Garner where she plays the organ on Sunday morning. Also she is a member of the Walther League, a young peoples group.

BIG HINT: Miss Guess Who has received the honor of winning a 4-H trip to Chicago. This was received on her 4H- record book.

The last Guess Who that appeared in our Guess Who column was Jerry Stokesbary.

Visitor: I never saw so many flies. Don't you ever shoo them?

Farmer: No, we just let them go barefoot.

Daffynishion: Hookey—When a small boy lets his mind wander and then follows it!

What Is A Teacher—At Christmas?

A teacher at Christmas is—

A red-crayon Rembrandt, making Christmas masterpieces out of construction paper, cotton and "snow."

A classroom Katherine Corning up new diaolgue for the Christmas play.

A schoolroom Schiaparelli, concocting glamour costumes from knit pajamas and glitter

A desk set Dinah Shore, leading parents and children in the beloved old carols.

A classromm Katherine Cornell, showing freckle-faced thespians how to "feel" their roles in the Cnristmas pageant.

A merry young Mrs Claus, with green poster paint on her fingers and a sprig of holly in her hair. Her cheeks pink from helping the second graders decorate the playground tree. Her generous spirit of giving does not end on December 26th. Like evergreens, or a good fruit cake, it lasts the whole year through.

Question of the Week

This week'h Question of the Week is: Do you consider yourself a dotteral person?

Mrs Oberg—No, but at times I know many people who fit the term exactly.

Duane K.—Yes, a wild guess is better than none.

Linda M.—No, I don't believe so.

Joanne Trampel—No, because I don't know what it means.

Marlin S.—No, I don't think I am a dotteral person, but I don't know why.

Darryl N.—No, because when you are able to have the family car then I think you should be considered as as a dotteral.

Jerry J.—Yes, I am a dotteral person. Do you want me to prove it?

Larry U.—I'm afraid to commit myself, I'd hate to embarras myself.

Jon W.—No I don't consider myself a dotteral person because I don't even know what it means.

Ronald B.—I wish people would not use such big words but I hope I am not whatever that word means.

Barbara A.—No, I don't think I am.

Janet L.—Yes, I suppose I am, they never said I wasn't.

Susan W.—No, I wouldn't get caught doing it. But I don't know what it is.

Roxanne—No, I wouldn't be caught dead doing it.

Miss Whitmeyer—I am if Doug Roul is.

A dotteral person is a person that is easily fooled.

TEACHER INTERVIEW

This week we have a very well liked person who teaches the subjects bookkeeping and Typing I and II in Klemme high school. His name is Mr Johnson who was born at Forest City, Iowa, on January 1, 1928. Mr Johnson received his education from Fertile and Forest City high schools where he went to each school two years. He also attended Waldorf Junior College two years and Luther College two years.

French fried shrimp, French fried onions, French fried potatoes and a good lettuce salad would suit Mr Johnson just fine after he has seen a show, none in particular, with Kim Novak and Farley Granger starring. When asked his favorite song, he replied, "I like this 'Rock and Roll' that is so popular." Some of his hobbies and pastimes are hunting, fishing, watching different sporting events on television and also attending some.

Mr Johnson plans to continue in the teaching profession and eventually go back to college and work on a Masters degree.

JOKES

One day an old white-haired man was walking down the street when he saw a little boy standing on tiptoes trying to ring a doorbell. The old man walked up to the boy and rang the bell for him. Then asked the boy "What next?"

"Well," the little fellow said, "I don't know about you but I'm going to start running."

Disappearing

One of Sheldon's familiar land marks, the downtown water tower which was built 63 years ago, is being torn down.

Appliances Suffer "Electrical Abuse" From Low Voltage

Electrical appliances in most homes today are getting such "electrical abuse" from being operated at low voltage and insufficient current that most such equipment is losing the householder money every day in performance value, according to the National Adequate Wiring Bureau.

But most householders probably never get a mental picture of the thermostat inside the new electric toaster ringing its hands tragically and calling for higher voltage, because they honestly don't know how it operates, or what it needs in the way of home wiring.

Yet, it's a fact that this is the state to which such devices are frequently reduced, the Bureau claims, when the electrical plant in the home works at such a low level of efficiency that neither enough working energy in watts nor enough voltage reaches electrical equipment through the branch circuits.

"Much of the home wiring in this country is still like the old telephone party line system," an engineer in the National Adequate Wiring Bureau states, "full of interrupted conversations. poor quality signals, parties clamoring to use the line, and everybody getting mad. Nobody's satisfied, and nobody's getting his money's worth of his appliance performance. There's just one solution—getting a modern system that can't be 'cut in on.' If people would do something about getting adequate wiring into their houses, one appliance wouldn't be fighting another one for current."

A house without enough circuits —and 80 percent of all older homes in the country are in this category — usually overburdens the few circuits it has by making them serve so many lights and portable appliances that none gets the power it needs to function well.

As each piece of equipment competes for the scant electrical fuel at hand, and more current is drawn than the safe rating of the circuit permits, wires overheat, voltage drops. Correspondingly, timers and thermostats in appliances so equipped function unevenly. Timers and thermostats are touchy about turning out an efficient performance if the electrical pressure, or voltage behind the current is not to their liking.

When the normal 115-125 volt circuit loses voltage to below the 100 mark, erratic operation results. This is a signal that the home wiring ought to be resurveyed.

"Keep Litter Dry"

Some Hancock County poultry producers are correcting the trouble with laying house litter this winter by four effective management practices, Hancock County Extension Director Paul Henderson reports.

He says these practices were suggested by Iowa State College Extension Poultryman W R Whitfield.

1. Keep the house warm by stopping drafts and excess ventilation. If the poultry house temperature drops below freezing, litter will dry slowly. Very little ventilation is needed, especially in uninsulated houses.

2. You can maintain temperature at 45 to 50 degrees in your poultry house this winter by installing a straw loft. Cover woven wire with building paper. Then pack in two feet of straw or a foot of sawdust.

3. Use at least 8 inches of litter. Deeper litter will absorb more moisture. It will be easier to clean later because it won't pack and cling to the floor.

4. Add fresh litter when the old litter becomes wet, instead of cleaning the house. This is easier and the chickens will scratch through the fresh bedding to the older litter, keeping the old and new litter mixed to prevent matting at the surface.

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

By Henderson

Feeding ratios are likley to be favorable for most classes of livestock this winter, says Farm Economist Francis Kutish of Iowa State College. About the only way we could expect a sizeable rise in corn prices would be for the USDA to shut off sales of CCC corn. Last year CCC sold over 300 million bushels. The year before it drove up corn prices in the winter by holding down sales to about half of this.

What is the poultry outlook? Extension marketing specialist Leonard Eggleton, Iowa State College, answers: The United States Department of Agriculture reports the outlook is for moderate expansion of the poultry business and continued favorable prices for eggs. For the person who has the equipment for expansion, and who believes he needs an expanded poultry enterprise to increase his efficiency over a period of years, this should be his year to expand. It's no time for everybody to expand in the hope of making big money in one year.

Wheat bran a good substitute for oats in a dairy cow ration. Extension Dairyman Bob Fincham says it's a very good substitute. Use wheat bran about pound-for-pound as an oats substitute until it makes up 25 percent of the grain mixture. It's laxative to use at a higher percentage than this. Also, its price may be higher, a factor that would limit its use to a certain extent. For further details on rations, refer to "Suggested Grain Mixtures for Dairy Cows," DH-A78, in the Animal Industry reference Manual. Your county extension director has the manual and will help you use it.

You can still plant tulip bulbs and other bulbs at the present time. Extension Horticulturist Ben Vance replies—Yes, it's perfectly safe to plant bulbs even after there is frost in the ground. It is better to plant in October or early November, as this allows the bulbs more time to make root growth. They have to have this to bloom next spring. They may not bloom as well as bulbs planted earlier, but it is far better to have them in the ground than in storage. If you have to order tulip bulbs late, better pile straw or leaves on the place you plan to plant, to keep frost out. Remove this mulch to plant, and then put it back after planting. This will keep the ground from freezing to soon.

The big question—What should I do with corn in the crib that tested 22 percent when picked and now tests 26 percent moisture or better? Agricultural Engineer Larry Van Fossen, Iowa State College, answers: This probably indicates there was an error in one or both moisture tests or that one or both or the tests were taken from poor samples. Cribbed corn doesn't normally pick up that much moisture. However, at either moisture level, you can dry the corn by sealing the ends and upper part of one side of the crib with building paper, building a temporary canvas air duct on the lower part of the partly sealed side and blowing air through the corn. This late in the season, it would probably pay to use at least some supplemental heat in the air duct.

Another question—Will it pay to artificially dry corn and seal under government support rather than sell on the open market as is. Van Fossen answers: Drying should not cost more than 4 or 5 cents a bushel even if you use supplemental heat. The margin between the price being paid for moist corn and the support levels is generally several times that amount. In practically any part of Iowa it should pay now to dry and seal the corn. See U. S. Department of Agriculture leaflets No. 333 and 334 at your county extension office for recommended plans for drying ear corn.

Feeding value in high-moisture corn after it is dried—Animal Husbandman William Zmolek, Iowa State College, says Properly dried, the dry matter in this corn has all the feeding value it had before drying.
